Many boxing enthusiasts were looking forward to a six or ten-round bill to legalize boxing in this State, but if they were aware of the difficulty experienced in having the four-round boxing bill pass the Senate they would be thankful that the measure passed both houses. It was due to the efforts of Senators Egan and Colgate and Assemblyman Singer, who convinced their colleagues that it was possible to have the measure put through.

THOUSANDS OF SPORTSMEN AT MACFARLAND'S FUNERAL

Thousands of bicycle fans were at the home of Champion Frank Kramer, on North Maple avenue, East Orange, yesterday afternoon, when the funeral services of Floyd MacFarland, the former bicycle rider and manager of the Newark Velodrome, who was well-known in Plainfield, were held. Rev. Edward Quirk, assistant rector of St. Joseph's Catholic church, officiated.

The body was later taken to Rosedale cemetery, Orange, pending the decision of the family of MacFarland whether burial shall be in Buffalo, the home of his wife, or at his birthplace, Santiago, Cal. MacFarland died Saturday night, several hours after a vendor at the Newark Velodrome drove a screw driver into the former's brain during an argument. Prominent bicycle riders attended the services.

IT'S TOUGH WHEN A PLAYER HAS TO LABOR FOR 30 DAYS

Washington, April 22—Eddie Ainsmith, catcher of the Washington baseball team, was sentenced in the police court, yesterday, to thirty days in the workhouse, and Joseph Engel, one of the team's pitchers, was fined $50 for an assault on Douglas C. Edwards, a street car motorman, on April 14. Engel paid the fine and Ainsmith's attorneys noted an appeal.

Edwards said that he was nearly run down, while standing beside his car, by an automobile driven by Ainsmith, in which Engel was riding. Edwards remonstrated with the baseball players, and the testimony showed that they followed him into the street car barn, where the assault occurred. In sentencing Ainsmith and Engel, Judge Pugh said that the assault was due to the hot-headedness of the two ball players. "It is the character of their calling to be hot-headed," the court remarked.

BOXING TOO ROUGH.

Stanhope, April 22—A wallop delivered to the solar plexus of Carl Woodburn by Russell Batson, in the first round of a scheduled four-round bout at the Young Men's Forum, Tuesday night, was the death blow to boxing in Stanhope. Mayor John Wills was an interested spectator, and thirty seconds after the bell announced the start of the bout Batson struck Woodburn amidships. Carl wabbled a little bit, his hands dropped to his side, his eyes rolled, and he was reeling when some one assisted him out of the ring. The Mayor jumped into the ring and said to Batson: "I told you not to be too rough. There will be no more boxing bouts allowed in Stanhope."

"POTPURRI" WILL LINE UP AGAINST BORO SLUGGERS

Coach Mullin, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, has picked a squad of fast performers to play against the schoolboys this afternoon. The cancellation yesterday left the boroughites without a midweek game, and Mullin wants a regular practice before the game with Battin Saturday.

"Dunc" Patterson, of the First Baptist team, will pitch, and Harry Moulton will catch. Among the other players will be Jack Garretson, Bill Taylor, Mullin and Hymie Abrams.

REALIZE $57 FROM NOVEL AUCTION SALE

Poultry Enthusiasts Hold Affair in Connection With Monthly Meeting.

Members of the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement engaged in a bidding contest in the Exempt Firemen's Hall last night when the annual meeting of the organization was held. The leading event of the evening included a novel auction sale of setting eggs and chickens, the salables having been donated by interested members of the Association and the proceeds used to swell the treasury. More than $57 was realized from the auction. Among the donors were Charles J. Fisk, Thomas Lindsey, C. V. Smith, Frank McInerney, Rufus Delafield and Mr. Armstrong.

President Fisk presided at the meeting and two new committees were appointed, one for poultry supplies and the other to look after market prices. Concluding the evening's program were two interesting lectures, one on "Incubation" and the other on the advantages of feeding beefscrap to poultry. Both were highly appreciated. Three new members were admitted last night.

INSTALL SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFICERS

Diplomas Also Given to Graduates of Teacher Training Class.

Installation of the Bible School officers together with the presentation of diplomas to the members of the Teacher Training Class who had successfully passed the required examinations combined to make the midweek meeting at the First Baptist church last night one of unusual interest to the large number of worshippers present.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the pastor, first installed the Bible School officers, giving an impressive address. The officers are as follows: Superintendent, Arthur M. Harris; associates, James E. Church, Frank W. Jones, Mrs. George H. Robins; secretary, George Church; treasurer, Fred Bach; superintendent Home department, Miss Mary White; superintendent primary department Mrs. J. W. Powlison; superintendent junior department, Mrs. Frank W. Jones; superintendent intermediate department, Mrs. Fred Bach; superintendent beginners' department, Miss Florence Manning.

Mr. Harris then presented the diplomas to the Teacher Training class. Those who received diplomas are as follows: Mrs. Robert Love, the Misses Emma Heideloff, Elsie Organ, Flora Krausse, Corinne Tennyson, Louise Bennett, Lois Peck, Mabel Douglas, Lizzie Trewin, Matilda Coddington, Harriet Mattison and Jessie Clawson.

REV. J. Y. BROEK ELECTED DELEGATE

Will Represent Classis at General Synod in Asbury Park in June.

Routine business occupied the greater portion of the time at the meeting of the Classis of Newark in the Hyde Park Reformed church, East Orange, yesterday. Rev. Edward S. Ralston and Horace J. Martin were delegates from the Netherwood Reformed church and the Rev. J. Y. Broek and T. R. VanZant represented Trinity Reformed church.

In his religious report for the year Mr. Broek spoke in an optimistic way of the accomplishments of the various churches and told of the progress that had been made along several lines of endeavor.

The classis nominated Mr. Broek as a delegate to the General Synod to meet in Asbury Park the week following the first Thursday in June. The portion of the religious report referring to the four local churches indicated that 108 professions of faith had been received here during the year as follows: Netherwood, thirty-one; Trinity, fifty; German Reformed, fourteen, and Marconnier, thirteen. The four local churches have a combined membership of 1,200.

The report of Mr. Broek was devoid of reference to Christ Reformed church of Newark. A suggestion that the classis extend the right hand of fellowship to this church was declared out of order. It was held by Dr. Charles H. Stewart, of Newark, who was elected president, that the classis was in the position simply of not having acceded to the request of synod to receive Christ church again into fellowship.

REPRESENTS LOCAL CHURCH IN NATIONAL CONVENTION

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, secretary of the Congregational Conference of New Jersey, in session in the First Congregational church in Washington, D. C., made his annual report at he meeting yesterday. It was thoroughly satisfying one and full of optimism. This conference embraces the sixty-three churches in New Jersey, Maryland, the District of Columbia and Virginia, each being entitled to representation by its pastor and two delegates. The closing session takes place today.

The selection of delegates for the national convention in New Haven next October, recommendations for providing the missionary budget and discussion of policies to be folowed by the church in Sunday-school education, in social and labor legislation and in the general work of church extension, are the main purposes of the forty-seventh annual meeting.

SUSTAIN UTILITY BOARD.

Trenton, April 22—The Court of Errors and Appeals today sustained the Board of Public Utility Commissioners in denying the application of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad Company to lease its property to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for 999 years. Chief Justice Gummere wrote the opinion.

Dr. Ellis Campus has recently been appointed on the auxiliary staff of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Swat the Mosquito!

Come, mobilize, ye public,
Against the common foe
And join the deadly warfare
To strike and lay him low.
Prepare your deadly oil can,
Take all the force you've got
And with your trusty weapons
Swat, swat, swat!

'Tis true he is elusive,
Likewise his cousin fly,
But this is fight to finish.
Prepare to do or die.
To both give never quarter,
Exterminate the lot,
And with a vow to conquer
Swat, swat, swat!

Oh, weary not of effort,
For sore will be the strain.
Though they be exterminated
They always come again.
So vigilance eternal

That tangles up their nuisance—

THIEF TAKES TO JAIL STOLEN $10,000 GEM.

Swallowed Diamond Still In His Body, Surgeons May Operate.

James Williams, aged nineteen, who has just been sentenced to two years' imprisonment at Dallas, Tex., for robbing a jeweler's store, is the only prisoner who has ever been known to take his booty to jail with him. He swallowed a $10,000 diamond, and it is still in his body.

The jewelers offered a reward of $1,000 for the recovery of the stone. Williams is willing to be operated on, but thinks that if he submits to this ordeal he should receive the reward.

Surgeons say the operation would require practical eviseration, with an incision twelve to fourteen inches long and an examination that would probably take an hour, covering every inch of the intestinal system. They fear that the shock from surgery of that character might prove fatal.

The grand jury and the youth's parents are to be consulted. Meanwhile the lad is under close watch.

The suggestion of an X ray photograph was said by experts to offer little hope, as the diamond is unmounted and perfectly clear, and it would not show in an examination of that kind. It is also stated that the juices of the body will have no effect upon the stone except perhaps to give it a coating if it remains inside him any great length of time. So far the boy has experienced no ill effects.

BOY INHERITS BRAVERY.

Grandson of War Governor Andrew Captures Two Robbers.

Twelve-year-old John Andrew, son of Colonel H. H. Andrew, a New York lawyer, and grandson of John Alden Andrew, the war governor of Massachusetts, has arrested two robbers in a week.

The latest of them was a big fellow, six feet tall, who was robbing a trunk store man, whom he had beaten unconscious when the lad entered with a suit case needing repair. The boy, shouting, went for the holdup man with his suit case, chased him on to a trolley car and finally arrested him. But before he succeeded he had been knocked off the car and badly kicked, and the robber had been fired at by a policeman.

He held on to the coattails of the other and couldn't be shaken off.

OLD GOOSE LAYS BIG EGGS.

But Outdoes Record to Celebrate Thirteenth Birthday.

George Motter of Nova, O., wants to exhibit Weyler, his thirteen-year-old goose. Weyler, he declares, lays an egg weighing three-quarters of a pound every Thursday afternoon and has been doing so for years.

Weyler, as sensible a goose as one would wish to associate with, invariably lays eggs of unusual size and weight, but last Thursday eclipsed all of her previous performances. She laid an egg three inches in diameter and weighing seven-eighths of a pound. In considering the matter and trying to account for this gala performance Mr. Motter suddenly recollected that it was the thirteenth anniversary of Weyler's birthday.

"COURTESY FIRST" WORD NOW

Railroads Adopt New Slogan After Men Get Jail Term.

"Courtesy First" is now being added to the slogans of the railroad companies. The Pennsylvania has already placed it next after its "Safety First." Courtesy meetings are to be held and will form a sort of school of good manners.

The Interborough, which runs the subway in New York city, is also showing anxiety since two railroad men were sent to jail for a year for abusing passengers. True, one of the pair used a coupling pin to enforce his side of the argument. But now the shoving of passengers, to pack them into already overcrowded cars, has to be done—with smiles, apologies and gentle words!

Kansas Now Wealthiest State.

Kansas is now the wealthiest state in the Union, according to an abstract of special bulletins of wealth, debt and taxation for 1913, just issued by the federal census bureau. The per capita wealth as indicated by the asset valuation is nearly $300 greater than in the next wealthiest state. The Kansas figures are $1,629.61, whereas Massachusetts, the next state, has $1,353.47.

TWO HOMES VISITED BY SNEAK THIEVES

Make a $150 Haul at One Place and Get Nothing at the Other.

Sneak thieves, probably the same gang, entered two houses in the southern portion of the city early last evening, getting a haul that amounted to about $150 in one instance. Sometime before 8 o'clock burglars entered the home of W. W. Coriell, at Randolph road and Madison avenue. Entrance was gained by means of "jimmying" the front door and the place was ransacked from cellar to garret. Thirty dollars in cash and a number of articles of jewelry, valued at more than $100, were included in the "swag." The family was visiting at a neighbor's home in the immediate vicinity and upon their return discovered the fact that the place had been burglarized.

The home of Mrs. F. O. Herring, situated at 811 Third place, was entered last night and although the first floor was ransacked thoroughly the police are of the opinion that the thieves got little, if any, loot. Entrance was secured through a window. Mrs. Herring, who is at present stopping in Asbury Park, was communicated with by Chief of Police Kiely this morning and in a statement she satisfied the department head that there was nothing of value to thieves in the section of the house visited.

The gang evidently was frightened away from the Herring house inasmuch as their perations appear to have extended no further than the second floor. Everything was turned topsy-turvy in that part of the house. Mrs. Herring stated that all of her valuables were in a safe deposit vault at a local banking institution.

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON,

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," Etc.

Copyright, 1915, by George Barr McCutcheon.

CHAPTER XXVII.

She Proposes.

As a rule, the poorer the player the louder his execrations. Jasper Titus was one of the worst players I've ever seen, but he was the personification of gentility even under the most provoking circumstances. For instance, at the famous "Crater" it was my good fortune to pitch a ball fairly on the green from the tee. His mashie shot landed his ball about twenty feet up the steep hill which guards the green. It rolled halfway back. Without a word of disgust or so much as a scowl he climbed up and blazed away at it again, not once but fourteen times by actual count. On the seventeenth stroke he triumphantly laid his ball on the green. Most men would have lifted and conceded the hole to me. He played it out.

"A man never gets anywhere, Mr. Smart," said he, unruffled by his miserable exhibition, "unless he keeps plugging away at a thing. That's my principle in life. Keep at it. There is satisfaction in putting the blamed ball in the hole, even if it does require twenty strokes. You did it in three, but you'll soon forget the feat. I'm not likely to forget the troubles I had going down in twenty, and there lies the secret of success. If success comes easy we pass it off with a laugh; if it comes hard we grit our teeth and remember the ways and means. You may not believe it, but I took thirty-three strokes for that hole one day last week. Day before yesterday I did it in four. Perhaps it wouldn't occur to you to think that it's a darned sight easier to do it in four than it is in thirty-three. Get the idea?"

"I think I do, Mr. Titus," said I. "The things that 'come easy' are never appreciated."

"Right, my boy. It's what we have to work for like nailers that we lie awake thinking about."

We came out upon the eminence overlooking the next hole, which lay far below us. As I stooped to tee up my ball a gleeful shout came up the hillside.

"Hello, John Bellamy!"

Glancing down, I saw Jasper junior at the edge of the wagon road. He was waving his cap, and even at that distance I could see the radiance in his good looking young face. A young and attractively dressed woman stood beside him. I waved my hand and shouted a greeting.

"I thought you said he'd gone to Covington to see her off," I said, turning to the young man's father, with a grin.

"Not the same girl," said he succinctly, squinting his eyes. "That's the little Parsons girl from Richmond. He was to meet her at Covington. Jasper is a scientific butterfly. He makes both ends meet—nearly always. Now, no one but a genius could have fixed it up to see one girl off and meet another on the same train."

Later on Jasper junior and I strolled over to the casino veranda, the chatty Miss Parsons between us, but leaning a shade nearer to young Titus than to me, although she appeared to be somewhat overwhelmed at meeting a real live author. Mr. Titus, as was his habit, hurried on ahead of us. I afterward discovered he had a dread of pneumonia.

"Aline never said a word about your coming, John," said Jasper junior. He called me John with considerable gusto. "She's learning how to hold her tongue."

"It happens that she didn't know I was coming," said I dryly. He whistled.

"She's off somewhere with Amberdale. Ever meet him? He's one of the finest chaps I know. You'll like him, Miss Parsons. He's not at all like a Britisher."

"But I like the British," said she.

"Then I'll tell him to spread it on a bit," said Jappy obligingly. "Great horseman he is. Got some ripping nags in the New York show next week, and he rides like a dream. Watch him pull down a few ribbons and rosettes. Sure thing."

"Your father told me that the countess was off riding with him and another chap—off to Fassifern, I believe."

"For luncheon. They do it three or four times a week. Not for me. I like waiters with shirt fronts and nickle tags."

Alone with me in the casino half an hour later, he announced that it really looked serious, this affair between Aline and his lordship.

I tried to appear indifferent—a rather pale effort, I fear.

"I think I am in on the secret, Jappy," said I soberly.

He stared. "Has she ever said anything to you, old chap, that would lead you to believe she's keen about him?"

I temporized. "She's keen about somebody, my son. That's as far as I will go."

"Then it must be Amberdale. I'm on to her all right, all right. I know women. She's in love, hang it all! If you know a thing about 'em you can spot the symptoms without the X-rays. I've been hoping against hope, old man. I don't want her to marry again."

I have visited the popular and almost historic Fassifern farm a great many times in my short career, but for the life of me I cannot understand what attraction it possesses that could induce people to go there for luncheon and then spend a whole afternoon lolling about the place. But that seems to have been precisely what the countess and his lordship did on the day of my arrival at the Homestead. The "other chap," Skelly, came riding home alone at 3 o'clock. She did not return until nearly 6. By that time I was in a state of suppressed fury that almost drove me to the railway station with a single and you might say childish object in view.

I had a pleasant visit with Mrs. Titus, who seemed overjoyed to see me. In fact, I had luncheon with her. Mr. Titus, it appeared, never ate luncheon. He had a dread of typhoid, I believe, and as he already possessed gout and insomnia and an intermittent tendency to pain in his abdomen and couldn't drink anything alcoholic or eat anything starchy I found myself wondering what he really did for a living.

Mrs. Titus talked a great deal about Lord Amberdale. She was most tiresome after the first half hour, but I must say that the luncheon was admirable. I happened to be hungry. Having quite made up my mind that Aline was going to marry Amberdale, I proceeded to upset the theory that a man in love is a creature without gastronomical aspirations by vulgarly stuffing myself with half a lamb chop, a slice of buttered bread and nine pickles.

Along about 5 o'clock I went to my room. I daresay I was sulking. A polite bellboy tapped on my door at half past 6. He presented a small envelope to me, thanked me three or four times and as an after thought announced that there was to be an answer, whereupon I read the countess' note with a magnificently unreadable face.

I cleared my throat and (I think) squared my shoulders somewhat as a soldier does when he is being commended for valor and said:

"Present my compliments to the countess and say that Mr. Smart will be down in five minutes."

The boy stared. "The—the what, sir?"

"The what?" I demanded.

"I mean the who, sir."

"The countess, the lady who sent you up with this note."

"Wasn't no countess sent me up lyer, boss. It was Miss Tarsney."

Somehow staggered, I managed to wave my hand comprehensively.

"Never mind. Just say that I'll be down in two minutes."

"I do not expect to be married for at least a year."

He grinned. "I reckon I'd better hustle or you'll beat me down, boss."

* * * * * * *

She was still in her riding habit when I found her alone in the parlor of the Titus suit.

I give you my word my heart almost stopped beating. I've never seen any one so lovely as she was at that moment—never, I repeat. Her hair, blown by the kind November winds, strayed—but no! I cannot begin to define the loveliness of her. There was a warm, rich glow in her cheeks and a light in her eyes that actually bewildered me, and more than that I am not competent to utter.

"You have come at last," she said, and her voice sounded very far off, although I was lifting her ungloved hand to my lips. She clinched my fingers tightly. I remember that and also that my hand shook violently and that my face felt pale.

I think I said that I had come at last. She took my other hand in hers and, drawing dangerously close to me, said:

"I do not expect to be married for at least a year, John."

"I—I congratulate you," I stammered foolishly.

"I have a feeling that it isn't decent for one to marry inside of two years after one has been divorced."

"How is Rosemary?" I murmured.

"You are in love with me, aren't you, John, dear?"

"Goo—good heaven!" I gasped.

"I know you are. That's why I am so sure of myself. Is it asking too much of you to marry me in a year from"—

I haven't the faintest notion how long afterward it was that I asked her what was to become of that poor, unlucky Lord Amberdale.

"He's a dear, and he is going to marry a bred-in-the-bone countess next January. You will like him, because he is every bit as much in love with his real countess as you are with a sham one. He is a bird of your feather. And now don't you want to come with me to see Rosemary?"

"Rosemary," I murmured, as in a dream—a luxurious, lotos born dream.

She took my arm and advanced with me into a room adjoining the parlor. As we passed through the door she suddenly squeezed my arm very tightly and laid her head against my shoulder.

We were in a small sitting room, confronting Jasper Titus, his wife and his tiny granddaughter, who was ready for bed.

"You won't have to worry about me any longer, daddy, dear," said Aline, her voice suddenly breaking.

"Well, I'll be—well, well, well!" cried my late victim of the links. "Is this the way the wind blows?"

I was perfectly dumb. My face was scarlet. My dazzled eyes saw nothing but the fine, aristocratic features of Aline's mother. She was leaning slightly forward in her chair, and a slow but unmistakably joyous smile was creeping into her face.

"Aline!" she cried, and Aline went to her.

Jasper Titus led Rosemary up to me.

"Kiss the gentleman, kiddie," said he huskily, lifting the little one up to me.

She gave a sudden shriek of recognition, and I took her in my arms.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed I, without the slightest idea of what I was doing or why I did it. Sometimes I wonder if there has ever been any insanity in our family. I know there have been fools, for I have my Uncle Rilas' word for it.

Mr. Titus picked up the newspaper he had been reading.

"Listen to this, Allie. It will interest you. It says here that our friend Tarnowsy is going to marry that fool of a Cincinnati girl we were talking about the other day. I know her father, but I've never met her mother. Old Bob Thackery has got millions, but he's only got one daughter. What a blamed shame!"

* * * * * * *

It must be perfectly obvious to you, kind reader, that I am going to marry Aline Tarnowsy, in spite of all my professed opposition to marrying a divorcee. I argued the whole matter out with myself, but not until I was irrevocably committed. She says she needs me. Well, isn't that enough? In fact, I am now trying my best to get her to shorten the probationary period. She has taken off three months, God bless her, but I still hope for a further and more generous reduction—for good behavior!

THE END.

Runaway June

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER and LILLIAN CHESTER

CHAPTER III.

There was a gay supper party at the New York cafe that night. The Blye Stock company entertained their departing star and her friends. Ned Warner sat beside his happy June. There seemed an extra affection tonight between Father and Mother Moore and Bobbie and Iris Blethering, and Tommy Thomas was the gayest of the gay. The eyes of the white mustached Orin Cunningham twinkled incessantly, and heavy T. J. Edwards sat with a smile of intense satisfaction on his thick lips. The feature was finished without an accident, and the first of the films was fine. Bobbie Blethering and Blye took an instant liking to one another. The old feud was entirely forgotten.

"They're good people, Ned," whispered the happy June. "And they were so good to me!"

Ned beamed down at June with delight in every inflection of her voice, in every turn of her beautiful head, in every fleeting expression of her lovely countenance, in every glance of her lustrous eyes. Quite forgotten was all the tearing strain of these past days; quite gone were all his bitterness and hate.

In her wedding gown, which she had donned once again, June was a vision of beauty.

Up rose Gilbert Blye at the head of the table. In his hand he held a small shining object. He made a wonderful speech about it, a speech full of wit and sentiment and good will and things which made everybody happy, and with an extraordinary flourish of words he presented that watch to the little runaway bride.

Amid whacking applause the little runaway bride made a blushing speech of acceptance; then there was a whispered consultation between herself and the deserted groom, begun by a suggestion from the latter. Then up rose the beaming Ned Warner and made a manly speech, a generous speech, a speech full of heart bursting happiness, and amid great applause he presented that tiny watch to the dark, handsome, black Vandyked Gilbert Blye.

Then up rose Bobbie Blethering and looked at the clock and motioned to the head waiter.

"Well, it's train time," he proudly announced.

Two of the party looked up in perplexity. Every one else was grinning.

"Goodby, Junie, dear!" And Iris Blethering, jumping from her chair, threw her arms around June's neck and sobbed happily.

"Here are your tickets, Ned," called smiling eyed Father Moore, tossing over an envelope, and at that moment the doors of the private dining room opened, and in marched Aunt Debby and Marie laden with white ribboned honeymoon luggage. June's mother was at the farewell dinner, and she smiled with Father Moore at the thought that the happy couple did not know that on the back of the Moore car which was to take them to the railroad station to finish their uncompleted honeymoon was this legend: "JUST MARRIED."

Aunt Debby led the way with the bride and groom as they started to leave.

Bouncer leaped up as the rice began to shower upon the embarrassed bride, and Mother Moore leaned far across and whispered:

"Junie, dear, don't forget your purse."

North Plainfield.

Forty-four candidates have entered the cooking contest which has been inaugurated by the P. T. A. as an incentive to the pupils to learn to cook. A number of boys have entered, specializing mostly in bread. Eight first prizes and eight second prizes have been offered. The testing will take place on Saturday afternoon, April 24th, in the Somerset School, after which the articles will be placed on sale with cakes and candy. The proceeds of the sale will be used to pay for the prizes.

Plainfield High School.

On Monday evening next the High School P. T. A. will hold its last meeting of the scholastic year. There will be a demonstration of the Commercial Department of the school which every parent of pupils entering the school next year should hear. Regular programs have been prepared and distributed. There will be demonstrations in stenography and blind-fold typewriting and an adding machine contest. A prize of ten dollars has been offered by C. C. Prest, of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company. Mr. Evans, who is in charge of the Commercial Department, will have charge of the demonstration, which promises to be interesting as well as instructive. The meeting will begin promptly at eight.

Cranford.

Cranford has two large School Associations numbering nearly 400 people and Kenilworth has recently organized a Home and School League of its own with an enthusiastic membership.

These organizations are springing up in such numbers throughout our State that it is impossible almost to keep track of them. Truly, as a prominent educator has said: "The time has past when American parents can be prevented from taking an intelligent part in school affairs."

Colorado.

Judge Ben Lindsey's own story of the fight that has recently ended in Colorado appears in this week's issue of Harper's Weekly. In it he says: "My friends insist that I have been 'saved again' by my 'luck.' It is the work of the juvenile court, however, that has been saved, nor do I like to ascribe to blind chance the remarkable and startling happenings that have combined to defeat the schemes of my enemies.

"There is a great sadness in the whole sordid story, and its one note of gratification to me is the complete exposure of the so-called 'Woman's Protective League.' Thank God, Dr. Mary Bates has never been allied with, or expressive of the voting women of Denver. They have shunned her, defeated her and discredited her, and today the woman stands revealed as the agent of men who hate democracy.

"The enemies of the people assume impudently that they are the people, and that to attack their crookedness is to attack the city itself. They proceed boldly upon the claim that it is not their own thefts and corruptions that hurt the town, but only the exposure of these thefts and corruptions by some officer trying to do his duty. Denver believes in the juvenile court, but more than all, it believes in the abolition of privilege, and the securement of equal and exact justice. That is the fight that is being made in Colorado, just as it is the fight in every city and every State in the nation."

Of Interest to Women and the Home

PINK SATIN AND WHITE TULLE.

The exquisite daintiness of this airy gown can better be imagined than pictured or described. It is made of white tulle over pink satin, a bit of fluff, a drapery purloined from some fairy who weaves her frocks of webs and rose petals. Narrow pink ribbon crosses the bodice of tulle held at the breast by a cluster of satin roses. Two fan-shaped ruffles of tulle rise from the uncrushed ribbon girdle, the ruffles picot-edged as is all the tulle. The skirt consists of a tunic and underskirt, both very wide; the one cut finished with a narrow tulle ruffle, the other scalloped widely. From the girdle on both tunic and underskirt are hung inch wide satin ribbons finished with satin roses. These are placed alternately on skirt and tunic and the latter being, of course, transparent, form a continuous series about the waist. Little circles of shirred pink baby ribbon trim both skirt and tunic.

SMART TOGS FOR THE BEACH.

No. 8862.

Sport is never so delightful as when one is dressed for the part. The girl who goes in for golf, tennis or bathing should have clothes as well appointed as her clubs and tennis recquet.

A more invigorating or tonic sport could not be indulged in than swimming and with the simple and effective bathing suits of the coming season, the sport will be more than ever delightful.

One of the prettiest of the new suits is Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8862, as this is cut with the smart raised waistline. The blouse is slightly eased to the yoke and the pattern includes the cap illustrated on the figure. Pattern cuts in sizes 30 to 44 inches bust measure, requiring in size 36, 5¾ yards 36 inch striped material, with ⅝ yard 36-inch contrasting goods.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

While the rain poured down on the thirsty earth and the delicious coolness pervaded the air, Nell, utterly spent with the fierce emotions of the day, sank into a quieting sleep. The old man came softly to the door to call them to dinner, but Dick held up a warning finger and he tiptoed away. It was 3 o'clock when she opened her eyes.

"Why, I've been asleep," she said in surprise, looking at the clock.

"I should say you had; you have slept nearly two hours. It has done you a world of good. Are you strong enough to listen to me, dear?" he asked.

She began to tremble in his arms. "Now we'll not talk if you are going to get excited. It would make you sick again, and we can't afford that, you know." Her arms stole around his neck.

"There is no need to talk if it is all a lie. I'm so sorry I doubted you, but I was carried right off my feet."

"There's not a word of apology that would do any good after all I've made you suffer on account of Miss Rudolph. There's just this to say: I'm going to ask Parsons to take her out of my office. If he objects, I'll tell him just what she did and then he'll surely make some other arrangement." Dick was rocking her again.

"I hope she will know why the change was made." Nell nestled close in his arms and listened to the rain.

"She will know that, all right. I intend to send her letter to her and tell her how I came by it. I hope in the same letter I can tell her that Parsons has given her another place for her desk."

"That will be good, and Mrs. Ellson can take a nap, being able to go off duty for a while."

"Yes, a cat nap," laughed Dick, "with one eye open, but Pussy will not need to watch me any more. I have had my lesson."

"I'm glad you have waked up, Nell," said Mrs. Morton, pushing open the door. "I heard voices. Aren't you almost starved? I have saved your chicken and mashed potato warm in the oven and I've blackberry pie for dinner; canned berries, of course, for there will not be any fresh ones this year. You'll never get strong eating irregularly like this. Come, I'm going to put things on the table."

"That sounds good to me," said Dick, setting Nell gently on her feet and kissing her as if reluctant to let her go.

Dick gripped his father's hand as they passed through the sitting room.

"The kettle is boiling, and I'll make fresh tea," said the old lady, bustling about. "My, I'm glad to see it raining. I feel like going out and standing in it. It's six weeks yesterday since we had our last shower, but the corn is saved. See how it has brightened up already."

"Yes, everything is bright now," said Nell, smiling up into Dick's face.

Household Hints

ECONOMY MEAT DISHES.

French Pot Au Feu—Put two pounds lean beef, a good-sized and well-cracked beef bone and, if possible, some chicken giblets, into an earthen vessel. Moiston with two quarts of water and set on a slow fire. When the scum rises remove it and add gill of cold water to aid remainder of scum to rise. When soup boils and after it is well cleared add the following: two medium carrots, one small turnip, two leeks and half stalk celery onion together in a bunch, one medium onion stuck with one clove and thre or four parboiled cabbage leaves tied together. Let soup simmer gently until beef is done. Remove meat and vegetables from pot, slice vegetables in suitable pieces, remove all fat from broth, season to taste, add vegetables and pinch of coarsely cut chervil or parsley before serving. On a separate dish have thin slices of French bread or rolls toasted in oven. The boiled beef may be served as a course and garnished with the vegetables. In this case the soup may be garnished with vermicelli, Italian paste, rice, etc., previously cooked in salted water. With the boiled beef serve tomato sauce or piquant sauce.

Hot Pot—Two pounds beef steak, one pound kidney, three pounds potatoes, three onions, seasoning to taste. Ge a stew jar. Cut beef into pieces about an inch square. Cut kidneys into pieces. Peel potatoes. Place layer of steak and kidney in stew jar, then a layer of potatoes cut in rather thin slices; also onions cut thin. Add pepper and salt to taste, sprinkle with flour. Then start the layers again same way, until all ingredients are used, finishing off with a layer of potatoes at top. Then pour in sufficient water just to cover. Cover with lid of jar. Cook in slow oven five hours. Serve in stew jar with napkin around.

Boiled Mutton With Capersauce—Have ready a pot of boiling water and throw in a handful of salt. Wash a leg of mutton and rub salt through it. If it is to be rare, cook about two hours; if well done, three hours or longer, according to size. Boil a pint, thicken with flour well blended, add butter, salt, pepper and two tablespoons of capers. Or use mint sauce if preferred.

Mock Turkey—Ask your butcher to cut pork chops one inch thick and make a pocket in them. Make a dressing of one egg, milk, onions, bread crumbs, salt and pepper, stuff pork chops, place in a pan with a little water and bake one hour.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Finger Marks From Furniture—Put a few drops of olive oil on flannel cloth, and rub it over marks. Leaves furniture clean and glossy.

To prevent clothes poles from slipping and allowing clothes to sag onto ground, bore a hole through pole about two inches from end; through this pass piece of strong wrapping twine about one foot in length, tying its ends together to form a loop. To use, throw loop over clothesline and push end of pole up through it. The twine will encircle clothesline and grip it tightly; no matter how hard the wind blows, the pole cannot slip.

To Sew on Hooks and Eyes—To mark the correct place for hooks and eyes or snap fasteners so they will match and close right, lay edges of closing on table with the eye side one-fourth inch back from the edge of the hook side (wrong side of the garment up) and mark across both edges with tailor's chalk. Try this next time you have hooks and eyes to sew on.

FROZEN DESSERTS

Brown Bread Ice—Two cups fresh brown bread crumbs, two cups cream or milk, ten tablespoons fruit syrup, stewed fruit. Mix bread crumbs with syrup, add milk or cream and freeze dry. Serve in dainty glasses with stewed fruit.

Ice Cream—Two pints granulated sugar, three tablespoons cornstarch, three eggs, one quart cream; flavor with vanilla. Put in double boiler one quart milk and the sugar; when hot, add eggs well beaten and cornstarch dissolved in a little milk. When cooked add cream, flavoring and enough milk to make six quarts; strain through [illegible] and freeze. This makes [illegible]

Animal Jingles FOR LITTLE FOLKS

BY ALICE CREW GALL

How the Animals Made Garden.

Said Gracie Goose, "I rather think
That for my garden bed
I'll try to find something that is Unusual," she said.

"The things you other children chose
Were common as could be;
I mean to be original,
And plant baked beans," quoth she.

Her friends said, "No one plants baked beans,
Of course they will not grow."
"If no one ever planted them,"
Said she, "how do you know?

"At any rate I mean to try,"
And sure enough she got
Some baked beans from the pantry shelf
In a big brown bean-pot.

But when her friends had gone to play
She ate them every one,
And planted un-baked beans instead;
Said she, "I'll have some fun."

The children all made fun of her,
Until one morning, lo!
What they supposed were her baked beans
Had started in to grow!

They gazed upon those growing beans
In wonder and surprise;
Said they, "Perhaps it is a dream;
We can't believe our eyes!"

Then Gracie Goose said, "I don't know
A lot, by any means,
But since I've started gardening,
At least I do know beans!"

"'Twas a pretty good joke, and I'm sure you were fooled,"
Said kindly old Mother McGrew;
"So don't be too ready to call people 'Goose,'
Or you may find they're wiser than you."

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THEY OUGHT TO GIVE THE CHIEF AN IRON CROSS — BY "HOP"

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Boston, April 22—Miss Emma M. Nutt, of Chelsea, Mass., the first woman telephone operator in the world, is still in the employ of the New England Telephone Company. Long before the days when numbers were applied to telephones, she operated the first switchboard ever installed. It was back in 1878 that she took charge of the first telephone switchboard. In those days the subscribers, and there were very few, gave the name of the party wanted. Miss Nutt says she could handle about 1,000 calls a week, but they were not in such a rush as business people of today.

San Francisco—Miss Zelia Nuttall, who has distinguished herself in archaeology, and is one of the three most noted American women, according to the Exposition committee appointed to select, arrives at the Exposition today as the guest of honor for a week. Miss Katherine Davis, the prison reformer of New York, and Miss Jane Addams, now in Europe, will later be entertained as the others in the group of three most famous American women. Miss Nuttall is a native of this city. She was educated in Europe, and has spent many years in travel. Her most important work has been done in Mexico, where she discovered many prizes in archaeology, especially in picture writing, for the Peabody Museum at Harvard.

Cincinnati—The romance of two sisters, Irma B. Weil and Hazel H. Weil, of this city, form two pretty stories of Europe and America. Miss Irma will wed Lieutenant Otto Skobe of the German army, whom she nursed back to health in a hospital in Bavaria. He is now director of customs at Dantzig, and the wedding is set after the end of the war. Miss Hazel is soon to wed Morris Fantle, a business man of Clinton, Ill., whom she met while singing at a public concert. She is prominent in local musical circles, and will sing for the benefit of the German-Austrian-Hungarian war fund tomorrow night.

Philadelphia—Mrs. Walter C. Hancock is chairman of the Horse Show Committee, which has charge of the big indoor society features of the spring. There are many lady exhibitors, especially in the ladies' pairs, which will bring out ten pairs of the finest show horses before the public.

Wellesley, Mass.—The Ty Cobbs, Walter Johnsons and Tris Speakers that fill the sport pages with their heroism each day, have no longer a monopoly on baseball. To show that the great American sport has no firmer friends than the girls at Wellesley College, the entire college will turn out Saturday to see the Seniors and Juniors fight it out on the diamond.

La Grange, Ill.—When the million-dollar submarine tender Bushnell plunged into the water and was christened at Seattle last February, George T. Thirsk, an electrical engineer and clubman of Seattle, plunged in love with Miss Esculine Warwick Bushnell, who broke the champagne and christened the ship. The romance was brought about by the Navy Department. Miss Bushnell was selected to christen the ship as the descendant of David Bushnell, famed as the inventor of the submarine. Young Mr. Thirsk first met her while she was journeying westward from La Grange to Seattle. They had been born in the same neighborhood in Chicago, but never before met. The engagement was sealed on the bridge of the Bushnell after she had plunged into the water at Seattle. The wedding is expected to take place here at the home of the bride, in June.

Boston—Miss Elizabeth M. Taylor, conveyancer in Boston's law department, has had her salary increased fo $3,000 a year. She is now the second highest salaried woman in the city employ. Mrs. Ellor C. Ripley, assistant superintendent of schools, receives $5,496 a year.

Under the head "New Novels Worth Reading," the Boston Transcript enumerates the following: Brunel's Tower, by Eden Philpotts; The Harbor, by Ernest Poole; Mrs. Martin's Man, by St. John G. Ervine; Red Fleece, by Will L. Comfort; A. Reluctant Adam, by Sidney Williams; The Second Blooming, by W. L. George; Sinister Street, by Compton Mackenzie; Sleeping Waters, by John Travena; The Turmoil, by Booth Tarkington; Victory, by Joseph Conrad.

JAMES MOSELY TO SPEAK.

James Mosely, the young Englishman, from London, who spoke and sang at the Christian and Missionary Alliance meeting, last Friday night, is expected to speak again this Friday at the German Reformed church, corner Duer street and Craig place, at 3:30 in the afternoon and 7:45 in the evening. All interested are cordially invited to hear him.

Mrs. Mabrey Bell, of Baltimore, has returned home after a pleasant visit with Mrs. A. E. Smith, of West Seventh street.

PLAN PAGEANT AS PART OF BENEFIT

Recreation Committee Will Arrange Spectacle as Part of Charity Circus.

MAY 7 IS THE DATE

Big Posters Placed About Town Today as First Announcement of Show for Anti-Tuberculosis League, Visiting Nurse Association

Since the first announcement was made that a circus was to be given here on Friday, May 7, for the combined benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis League and the Visiting Nurse Association, plans have been rapidly completed, and now the Recreation Committee will participate in the proceeds. It is planned to have this active local body put on a pageant by 100 or more children, and rehearsals will be put under way at once. The pageant will be the first feature of the show at both the afternoon and evening performances.

The first real evidence that the circus is to be here two weeks from today was the placing about town of monster bills, telling of the wonders that are to come by the crew of men who arrived in town on the advertising car of the show. The car arrived this morning, and there was soon a busy crew of men in blue overalls placing the big colored lithographs about town.

The Robbins circus, which gives the professional performance, has been greatly improved since last year, and will take the road next Thursday night after giving a benefit similar to the local one, at Trenton, for the benefit of the New Jersey Children's Home Society. While the rehearsals, prior to the opening of the season are in progress, the Universal Moving Picture Company will have a cast of star actors, headed by Mary Fuller, at work around the show on a big feature picture. In preparation for this, things have been put in the most attractive condition they have been placed in years, and when the circus outfit arrives here everything will be neat and new. Since the show was in Plainfield last year under the same auspices, it has been much enlarged.

A large committee of well known local men is being formed, some of them to take active part in the running of the performance, and others to be an advisory board. This list will be announced early next week.

Over a dozen of the forty-eight boxes which will be for sale, twenty-four for each performance, have already been sold, and the reserved seat sale will begin next Monday morning at the Daily Press office. Boxes and exchange tickets for the reserved seats can be procured from Mrs. Edward S. Krans, Mrs. B. VanD. Hedges, Mrs. David H. Rowland, Mrs. William S. Tyler, Mrs. E. W. Bulkley, Mrs. Allan Cowperthwait, Miss Mabelle Phillips, Mrs. Frank V. Lawrence, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. W. E. Kinney, Mrs. George M. E. Morse, Mrs. H. V. Borden and Miss Sarah Van Boskerck

DANCE INTERPRETATIONS BY MISS MILDRED BROWNLEE

At the entertainment to be given on April 30 in the Plainfield High School Auditorium, under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, Miss Mildred Brownlee is to interpret "Voices of Spring," by Strauss, as one of a series of classical dances. Here the freedom of movement and abandonment of spirit give expression of joy and gladness at the coming of spring. Miss Brownlee will also present a Spanish costume dance, introducing the use of the tamborine and the characteristic movements of the Spanish dancing girls. The entire stage of the High School Auditorium will be used for these dances, special attention being given to the stage setting. All who attend are promised a rare treat.

The other part of the program consists of a dramatic recital of "The Fortune Hunter," by Miss Lillian Leighton Lamson. Miss Lamson has given her imitative recitals of popular plays in nearly all the large cities of the East. "The Fortune Hunter" is one of her most successful recitals. She impersonates each character of the play, presenting the entire comedy as vividly almost as when acted out by a company of actors.

It is the aim of the Public Recreation Committee to offer enjoyable evenings to the public of Plainfield at a nominal cost, and the fifteen cents which is charged for this entertainment in no way expresses its real value. The desire is merely to cover expenses, and the low fee will no doubt insure a large crowd.

LURE OF LIGHTS LED TO DIVORCE

Former Residents of This City Now Separated Through Chancellor's Decree.

Special Master John E. Lanning, of Asbury Park, has advised an absolute divorce in favor of Alvah H. Waldron against his wife, Emma Waldron. Waldron is employed by the New York Telephone Company, and for a time was stationed in Asbury Park, later going to Freehold, and from thence to Dunellen, where he now resides. The wife resides at Scranton. The desertion took place in this city, both parties having formerly lived here, and from which place, it is claimed, the wife deserted her husband, taking with her their infant child. Disinclination to perform her household duties, and love for the glitter of the white lights, were the alleged causes of the desertion. Mr. Waldron was represented by Charles E. Cook, of Asbury Park. He is a son of George Waldron, of Dunellen, and lived for many years on West Fourth street, this city.

JUDGES PICKED FOR COOKING CONTEST

Sixteen Men and Women of the Borough Will Select Prize Winners.

Sixteen judges have been selected to award the prizes in the cooking contest to be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the North Plainfield kindergarten, corner Duer street and Lincoln place, under the auspices of the economic committee of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association. This feature, which is an entirely new one, has created much interest, and fourty-four entries have been received. After the judging is over a sale of home-made cake, candy, pie and bread will be held. The proceeds will go for the prizes which have been offered to the winners of the contest.

The first prize is $1.50 cash and the second is $1. Both boys and girls have entered the contest, and there are many creditable products. The following persons will act as judges: Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. Alexander Milne, Mrs. S. B. Joseph, Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Mrs. D. Fred August, Mrs. T. S. Armstrong, Mrs. R. W. Hart and Miss Marian Armstrong, domestic science instructor in the borough school, and Principal Albert Early, Edmund Rushmore, Dr. Charles M. Anderson, F. O. Dunning, W. O. Taylor, F. N. Avery, C. NORMAN FINCH HURT WHEN AUTO AND CYCLE COLLIDE

Norman Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Finch, of Park avenue; and William A. James, of San Antonio, Tex., were slightly injured in a crash between a motorcycle on which they were riding and an automobile, in Boston last night. The local young man is a student in Yale University and James is his room-mate.

Finch is the owner of an Indian motorcycle, and last night, with his room-mate as companion, set out on a trip from New Haven to Boston. While passing through the latter place his lighter vehicle collided with a touring car and both cyclists were hurled to the roadbed. They were removed to the Yale Infirmary at New Haven and it was reported that neither had been seriously hurt. Finch sustained a foot injury.

'ELIJAH' ENJOYED BY MUSIC LOVERS

Fine Rendition Given by the Plainfield Choral Society and Orchestra.

ASSISTING ARTISTS

Chorus of 125 Under the Direction of S. Frederick Smith Sing the Well Known Work in a Pleasing Manner Before a Large Audience

The oratorio "Elijah," given by the Plainfield Choral Society, under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, was well received by a capacious audience of music lovers in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School last night. The success of the affair is due to the untiring efforts of S. Frederick Smith, who was conductor, and the splendid manner in which every number was rendered last night revealed the careful rehearsing and time that he had given to the affair.

The soloists were in excellent voice, and each selection rendered was received with much applause. Miss Margaret Harrison, soprano soloist in the Old First Presbyterian church, New York city, took her part in a remarkable manner, her voice being clear and of unusual beauty of tone. Miss Grace Carroll, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, sang contralto, while John Young was tenor. A. E. Betteridge, of New York, sang the bass. Axel Oberg gave a delightful rendition of the youth in the oratorio, singing in

The Commercial Club of Plainfield High School students is planning an exhibits to be held in the school auditorium Monday night. During the course of the evening the bank clerks of Plainfield will have an adding machine contest. J. C. Evans, the head of the commercial department, will have charge of the exhibition, and the public is invited to attend.

COURT HAS NO MERCY FOR GUILTY SPEEDERS

Two Are Fined $25 Each by Judge DeMeza When Arraigned on Charges.

Fifty dollars more were added to the accumulation of fine money in the city court this morning, when Judge DeMeza inflicted $25 penalties on James DeGraff, of 996 Central avenue, and Gresham Sharpe, of Evergreen avenue. Determination on the part of the city magistrate to curb the auto speeding practice is much in evidence, and it was for violations of the speed laws that both defendants were brought into court. Knowledge of the fact that the court is putting it on "good and thick" to guilty individuals has become generally known among those who are afflicted with the speed mania, and there has been a noticeable decrease in the violations during the past few days. Both of those fined this morning paid the money, Sharpe having the twenty-five long greens all counted out when the judge passed sentence.

Mr. De Graff was arrested by Patrolman James Saunders, who said that he was traveling thirty miles an hour. Sharpe was taken into custody yesterday afternoon by Motorcycle Patrolman Marvin Welsh, who followed his man along West Front street, near Grant avenue, and testified that his speedometer registered Sharpe's speed at thirty-two miles an hour. Sharpe admitted that he was hitting it up pretty fast, but said that it was impossible to estimate his speed in such a big car.

It is evident that Judge DeMeza's action in dealing with guilty parties has caused autoists to "sit up and take notice," and there has been a general "cut-down" in speed rates around town.

FRIENDS ENDORSE PEACE MEMORIAL

Urge the President and Congress to Prevent Extension of Military Instruction.

At the monthly meeting of the Religious Society of Friends last night, there was read a copy of a memorial to the President of the United States and his advisers and to Congress from the monthly meeting of the society of Swarthmore, Pa., and the same was endorsed.

The memorial requests that all possible influence be exerted against the movement to extend military instruction throughout the educational institutions from the university to the recreation camp, that the society is opposed to any increase of armaments at sea, an land or in the air, and insists on the exclusive use of peaceful measures of settling international disputes, good offices of mediation, international commission of inquiry, international arbitration.

Attention is called to the danger of thoughtless utterances concerning the present European conflict and urge upon Congressmen not to allow any consideration of business or political interest to interfere with the country's position of peace and neutrality and that no action of any nation, overstrained by the great war, should be allowed to draw this country into the conflict.

DEATH SUMMONS JOSEPH B. BETTS

Assistant State Commissioner of Education Passes Away at Home in the Boro.

ILL BUT A FEW DAYS

Deceased Was a Native of Jersey City and for Thirty-nine Years Had Been Identified With Educational Affairs of New Jersey.

Joseph Brognard Betts, aged sixty-four years, Assistant State Commissioner of Education, which position he held for thirty-nine years, died at 11 o'clock last night at his residence, The Homestead, 29 Washington avenue, North Plainfield. The news of his death was a shock to many friends and acquaintances, who did not realize the seriousness of his illness. Mr. Betts had been detained at home about ten days with complications, and during the past few days his condition became serious. For sixty hours prior to his death he was in an unconscious condition.

Mr. Betts, during his thirteen years' residence in the borough, made many friends. He was active in the Church of the Holy Cross, being a vestryman and church treasurer. He gave liberally of his means to the parish. He was also prominent as a member of the Park Club. He never held any local public office, but was generally interested in the welfare of the borough.

Mr. Betts was born in Jersey City, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freder-

NIMBLE FINGERS PREPARE SUPPLIES

Local Branch of Relief Fund Adds 2,829 More Hospital Articles to Grand Total.

Another very successful meeting of the New Jersey branch of the Prince of Wales Relief Fund for Soldiers and Sailors was held this morning in Grace church Parish House, resulting in a further splendid supply of hospital necessities being prepared. A total of 2,829 articles of all sorts were made and placed in packages ready for shipment to St. George's Society through which they are forwarded to the distributing stations in Europe. Today's contribution brings the grand total the local branch has supplied up to more than 7,000, a record of which the members are justifiably proud.

While the workers plied their fingers this morning preparing bandages, compresses, sponges, and the like and then wrapping them up, they were entertained by Mrs. Joseph Edgar. She rendered several delightful solos in excellent voice. Mrs. Noel G. Evans accompanied on the piano. The introduction of the informal program such as this was an innovation at the meeting and will be repeated in the future, something new being provided each time.

While the response to Mrs. N. Pendleton Roger's appeal for the necessary articles to prepare kit bags has been quite generous, a request is again made to the men of Plainfield for donations. Twenty-one of these bags were filled and sent away today but the branch would like to more than double this number each week. Contributions of money, are much desired, but those who hesitate for financial reasons can aid the work by sending articles that an invalid soldier would appreciate. Tobacco, pipes, safety razors, writing paper, pencils, shoe laces, and other seemingly trifling gifts can be used to good advantage. Magazines, paper covered novels, and the pictorial supplements of newspapers are also desired. It is hoped that the men of Plainfield will appreciate the appeal made by the members of the New Jersey branch and in so doing provide comfort for at least one poor fellow struggling to regain his health in a crowded hospital, where only necessities and absolutely nothing in the way of comforts are furnished by the government.

FREEDOM CASTLE PAID VISIT.

A large delegation from Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, of this city, paid a visit to Golden Castle, of Somerville. A special trolley was chartered to carry the local delegation. A meeting of the past chief's was held. There was also a delegation from New Brunswick present.

LOCOMOTIVE SPARKS CAUSED $5,000 FIRE

South Plainfield Residence Destroyed by Flames Yesterday Afternoon.

Insufficient water pressure was responsible for a $5,000 fire loss in South Plainfield yesterday afternoon when the handsome residence of J. B. Lawrence, along the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad tracks, was badly damaged. Mr. Lawrence, who is employed nights in the office of the Western Union Telegraph, was awakened about 2:30 o'clock by the crackling of flames and found the house in the throes of fire.

He summoned neighbors and the South Plainfield Fire Department, but little could be done by the department owing to the lack of water pressure. Bucket brigades were formed and neighbors succeeded in getting a large part of the furniture out of the house. Other buildings on the place were threatened by flames but the firemen exerted their efforts to save these outbuildings and the fire was confined to the house. Mr. Lawrence carries insurance amounting to $3,000. Sparks from a passing coal train are thought to have caused the blaze.

UNIQUE SHOWER FOR MISS SMITH

Prospective Bride Given a Surprise by Young Women's Mission Band.

In connection with its final sew meeting for the season, the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, gave a miscellenous shower, yesterday afternoon to one of its members, Miss Helen Smith, whose marriage to Leslie Bond takes place in the near future. The affair was held at the home of Mrs. Winifred Rapalje, of Carlton avenue, and proved to be as unique as it was enjoyable.

After the members had assembled, they spent the afternoon making bows for the girls at the Annville, Ky., school, which is supported by the Reformed church. When the completed work had been gathered Mrs. Rapalje announced that she would give a little souvenir bow to each one in attendance, but when all had been distributed it was found that a shortage had occurred, and there was none left for Miss Smith. She was told to never mind, however, as another one would be quickly procured and the next moment an immense bow was brought in on a tray. In its folds were enveloped a large quantity of useful articles, mostly of linen. The presentation was a complete surprise to Miss Smith.

A general social time concluded the program for the afternoon, during which refreshments were served. Miss Mabel Wilson poured, and Mrs. Rapalje was assisted by Mrs. Fred Cutter and Mrs. Frank Woodruff. The decorations for the occasion were pink and blue. Mrs. Rapalje was ably aided by the sewing committee of the Young Women's Mission Band in making the arrangements.

BUSINESS MEN TO GIVE A BEEFSTEAK DINNER

Arrangements are being made by the Plainfield Business Men's Association for a beefsteak dinner to be held on Monday, May 3, at the Ritz. As the feature of the evening Harry B. Salter, secretary of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, will come here and give a talk on what the business men of the State capital are doing to increase business. The merchants' section of the Trenton civic body is one of the liveliest organizations in the country, and it has worked wonders for the retail houses there, most of the plans having been carried out under Mr. Salter's direction.

This will probably be the last dinner of the present season, and it is expected that there will be a big turn out of business men. Tickets will be on sale tomorrow by the officers of the organization.

MR. PHELPS REAPPOINTED.

AGAIN FIRE ON DARDANELLES

British Warships Penetrated Straits and Shelled Forts Yesterday.

ENGLISH HOLD HILL 60

Trawler Torpedoed by Submarine, But Another Boat Escapes—British Airman Performs Daring Exploit in France and Escapes.

Athens, April 23.—British and French warships are bombarding the forts of Smyrna and the Dardanelles simultaneously, according to a despatch from Mitylene. It states that four British warships penetrated the straits yesterday and shelled the forts on both sides, while others bombarded the European fortifications from the Gulf of Sards.

London, April 23 (Central News cable).—Despite severe attacks by the Germans the British continue to hold the entire crest of Hill No. 60, which commands the railway line between Ypres and Comines, says a report from Field Marshall Sir John French, given out today by the officials' news bureau. The Germans bombarded Ypres with 17-inch guns and exploded two mines on the British right on Wednesday, but did no damage.

A British airman on last Monday attacked single-handed a German airship shed at Ghent. He ran the gauntlet of fire directed at him from a captive balloon and descended with in 200 feet of the ground to drop a bomb which caused a large explosion in the shed.

London, April 23.—The trawlers St. Lawrence was torpedoed by a German submarine on Thursday in the North Sea, two of her crew being killed. Seven survivors were landed at Grimsby today. According to the sailors, the German submarine also attacked the Queenstown which escaped.

Paris, April 23.—Minister of Marine Augagneur, after his meeting with Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the British Admiralty, in an unnamed town in northern France, yesterday afternoon, announced that the Dardanelles operations have not been suspended. "It was never anticipated that the forts

Two on Motorcycle Hit James Martin on a Bicycle in the Borough.

Albert Hohenstein, of this city, was badly injured last night when his motorcycle hit James Martin, of Maple place, the borough, who was riding on his bicycle near the corner of Watchung and Fairview avenues abou t10 o'clock. Hohenstein, who was said to be riding at a fast rate toward Front street, had John H. Stultz, of Brookside place, Cranford, on the tandem seat, but the latter escaped without injury.

Martin was on his way to the Plainfield pumping station, where he is employed as a fireman, when struck. He was lucky to get away with a few scratches, but his bicycle was damaged to the extent of $12. Hohenstein was taken into the home of Daniel Denny, of Fairview avenue, and was attended by Dr. D. C. Adams. He was later removed to his home. Neither of the men on the motorcycle were arrested, but will probably be called to appear for a settlement.

I have a lot of old lobsters here that I have been feeding and have asked them to read that writing, but they can't do it. They make me tired. HOW LONDON SCOTTISH WON LAUREL IN WAR.

Had to Be Rescued After "Grand Stand" Rush, Officer Asserts.

No little concern is being caused in England by whispers of what is said to be the true story of the charge of the London Scottish on the German trenches at Ypres in Belgium.

This corps, which wears kilts, is the pride of London. It is the richest and most exclusive regiment of the old volunteers that were formed into the territorials after the Boer war, and it was given the distinction of being the first of the civilian units of the British army to be sent into action.

Sir John French spoke of their "gallant conduct" in his dispatches. An officer who assisted in their rescue tells the following story:

"The London Scottish received orders to take a trench facing the position which they were occupying.

"The charge was made. A few of the London Scottish fell, but the regiment swept victoriously on to the German trench and put the Germans there to rout.

"Instead of holding the trench they captured, as ordered to do, they went for the next one, not realizing that they had taken only one end of the first trench. As soon as they rushed on the Germans in the other section of this trench moved into the captured part and opened a murderous fire from behind. The territorials were thus caught between two fires. Their 'grandstand' play brought them face to face with annihilation.

"At this juncture the Camerons and the Argyll and Sutherland highlanders were ordered to the rescue, and a bloody fight took place. The Camerons lost more men in that one action than in any other in the war. If you ask a member of that regiment what he thinks of the London Scottish you will be lucky if you escape with a drubbing."

MUSIC RESCUES LOST MIND.

Simple Experiment Saves Bandsman Insane Through Shell.

Bandsman A. G. Reynolds of the British Second Wiltshire regiment was buried in a trench at Ypres by the bursting of a shell. After thirteen hours his comrades dug him out, but his mind was gone.

After many medical experiments had failed a sheet of music was placed on his bed. After a few days Reynolds could read the notes quite correctly.

He read the music some days before he could understand the ordinary printing of the title page, but at last his mind was completely restored.

MAY COLLEGE GIRLS SMOKE?

English University Is Stunned by Startling Demand.

Should college girls smoke? That is the question which is agitating members of the upper classes in the women's colleges attached to Cambridge university, England.

A number of the girls who are accustomed to smoke at home have asked for a faculty ruling as to smoking in their dormitory rooms. The faculty, hard put to it for an answer, has decided upon a referendum, not of pupils, but of parents, and the principal has just dispatched a letter to each home asking for a reply for or against smoking.

LAD SMOKES; CRIES, "HELP!"

Has to Have Ambulance After His First Cigarette.

A drooping figure of a big, tall lad fell into the arms of a traffic policeman in Chicago the other day and whispered, "Help me!" An ambulance hurried the youth to the hospital.

In the accident book at central police station this report was entered:

"Joseph Drych, seventeen years old, 3718 South Lockwood avenue, errand boy; at Clark and Randolph streets became ill from smoking his first cigarette."

DOPPLER'S LAW OF LIGHT.

It Proves That Our Solar System Is Whirling Northward.

The fact that our solar system is traveling northward at a rate of twelve miles per second has been determined by means of one of the most remarkable laws in the entire history of science, Doppler's law of light. Stand by a railway track and listen to a rapid train approaching. As it approaches the bell or whistle will increase the pitch of its sound and instantly lower the pitch of tone after it passes and recedes. When coming more waves enter the ear and less when it is departing.

Light consists of the action of waves on the retina of the eye. Our earth and sun, all bodies in the solar system, are moving to a point in the celestial vault not far from the star Vega, in the constellation Lyra, and, of course, receding from the opposite point of the sky. Waves entering the slit of the spectroscope from the northern stars are compressed—namely, more enter per second and are dispersed toward the violet end of the spectrum, less enter from the southern stars and are dispersed toward the red.

Now, exalted mathematics, based on the laws of light, determine the extent of dispersion of waves toward the red or violet for each decrease or increase of motion of light emitting bodies, and the amount actually found by experiment confirmed the mathematical formulas—a proof that modern mind is expressing at a very exalted rate.—Edgar Lucien Larkin, in New York American.

Searing the Conscience.

Of all her curious customs London cannot boast of a more singular one that that formerly so strictly adhered to at Holland House, one of the most historic old mansions in the British capital. The last of the Lords Holland shot himself during a fit of despondency. Everything pointed to a clear case of self murder, yet the Holland family could never be dissuaded from the notion that the old man had been murdered by some unknown assasin. Accordingly every night for years it was the custom for one of the family to go to the rear of the house punctually at 11 o'clock and fire a gun for the purpose, it is said, of "scaring the conscience" of the murderer. This curious practice is a relic of medieval days in continental Europe, and the case in point is probably the only instance where it has been noticed since the days of the crusades.

When Men Powdered Their Faces.

The use of powders for the hair and face, which began in the sixteenth century, infected the men. Henry III. had the habit of parading the streets of Paris, his face covered with white and red paste, like a faded coquette, and his hair filled with violet powder and scented with musk. Powders were made of all colors, and the infatuation was such that servant girls were afraid to be seen in public with their hair of the natural color and, not being able to buy that used by their employers, employed sawdust as a substitute.—London Mirror.

DEATH SUMMONS J. B. BETTS

ick B. Betts. He secured his early education in public and private schools of the State. He never went to college, but Rutgers College a few years ago conferred upon him the honorary degree of master of arts. He moved to Trenton to accept an appointment as secretary to Governor Bedle, 1875, and served in that capacity until 1878. He then went into the Department of Public Recreation as assistant to Superintendent Elliff A. Apgar. He served successively in that capacity under State Superintendents Chatham, Fuller, Poland and Baxter. At the reorganization of this department in 1911, Mr. Betts was made Assistant Commissioner of Education by State Commissioner Kendall. Dr. Kendall will have the appointment of a successor to Mr. Betts. The position carries an annual salary of $4,000. Mr. Betts was the last member of his family. His wife died six years ago.

The funeral will be held at the Church of the Holy Cross Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery, this city.

State Commissioner of Education Kendall today gave out the following statement concerning Mr. Betts: "The death of Mr. Betts is a great loss to the public schools of the State. He has been intimately connected in this capacity as assistant to the State Superintendent or Commissioner, with the schools for the past thirty-nine years. In my last talk with him he expressed what seemed to him a vain hope that his health might be restored so that he could complete his fortieth year of service.

"Mr. Betts was generally recognized as the foremost authority in the State on State school laws. He was deeply interested in the progress of the schools of the State. He had been so much a part of them that he had a positive pride in their welfare. The school officials in every district in the State had an unusual confidence in him.

"The public little realizes the number or the complexities of the questions relating to school laws of the State that come to the department at Trenton. It was a part of the work of Mr. Betts to make decisions and interpretations of school laws. Much of this work was perplexing. Nevertheless Mr. Betts carried into his work a spirit that was uncomplaining and also a sound judgment. He was possessed of unfailing tact, and yet was positive in his convictions or decisions.

"Mr. Betts was a man of attractive and forceful personality. It is needless to say that his charcter was of the highest. It is not the language of exaggeration to say that his qualities were such that he would have been a successful lawyer had he diverted himself to law rather than to educational interests.

"The Commissioner wishes to express his own sense of obligation to Mr. Betts for his fine spirit of cooperation in the work of the department. The State has been fortunate—greatly fortunate—to have had the benefits of his services during so long a period."

WAR NEWS

would be forced without long preparations," he said, "but there is every reason to think that the allied fleet will soon be successful."

The French War Office gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"Last evening there were very sharp engagements in Belgium. At the bend of the Yser to the north of Dixmude, Belgian troops repulsed an attack directed upon Chateau de Vicogne, and inflicted heavy losses upon the enemy.

"To the north of Ypres the Germans, employing a great quantity of asphyxiating gas, the effect of which was felt as far as two kilometres (more than a mile) in the rear of our lines, forced us to fall back in the direction of the Yser canal toward the west, and in the direction of Ypres toward the south. The enemy's attack was checked. A vigorous counter attack permitted us to regain the ground, taking a number of prisoners.

In the forest of Ailly, near St. Mihiel, by an attack to the east and to the west of the positions previously captured by us we took 700 yards of trenches and captured 100 prisoners of whom three were officers."

Petrograd, April 23.—Emperor Nicholas, it was announced today, has arrived at Lemberg.

Basle, April 23.—French aviators dropped bombs upon the Strassburg Railway Thursday, destroying tracks at several points.

Geneva, April 23.—Officers of Austrian-Hungarian regiments on the Italian frontier now in Switzerland on furlough have been ordered to rejoin their regiments within forty-eight hours. Hundreds of German families are leaving Italy.

Berlin, April 23 (By Wireless).—Marked gains by the Germans in Flanders are announced in today's report from the German general staff. It states that the villages of Langermack, Steenstraade, Hetsas and Pilken were captured Thursday by the Kaiser's troops. At the same time the general staff's report announces important gains for the Germans on the western end of the great battle front. It admits a French gain near St. Mihiel, stating that troops of the republic penetrated a section of the German front trenches between Ailly forest and the forest of Apremont, part of these forces were later driven out, but some managed to maintain a foothold. In the recent operations, German troops have taken 1,630 prisoners and 30 cannon from French and English, the general staff's report adds.

THAT FIRE ENGINE.

Probably no local topic of discussion has been more before the public for the last few months than the new Nott automobile fire engine which was ordered for the Netherwood section, and has been here for weeks pending acceptance by the Council. Talk first started when there was a delay in getting the apparatus to Plainfield. Then a few days after it finally did arrive, something broke in the pump, and a new one had to be shipped from Minneapolis, causing another delay of weeks. This finally arrived, and the engine was put to a test, with the result that the magneto went wrong. That was fixed, and at a second test the engine did not pump to the capacity of 700 gallons per minute, which was required by the specifications.

As a result the engine has been here some months, and has yet to be put into service, although the men in the department are thoroughly familiar with it, and in case of a big fire it could be used to materially assist the department. It is said by automobile experts to be one of the finest pieces of motorized apparatus that money can buy, except for the inability to deliver quite as much water as was called for in the specifications.

For over a year the city has had an engine of 600 gallons capacity, made by the same firm. That engine has done splendid service, has never failed in emergencies, and has been generally satisfactory for the character of work which is needed in Plainfield. The great success of this smaller engine in meeting every situation in the city, shows that the 700 gallons capacity is not the most important thing that is needed.

Under the circumstances, the Council have an excellent opportunity to drive a bargain which will make the city the gainer, and at the same time give all the required protection. Why not tell the manufacturers that this business of making tests and striving to get another fifteen or twenty gallons capacity is getting tiresome, and the apparatus will be accepted if a substantial reduction is made in the price? It is conceded on all sides that the engine is better than the one now in use here, which has proven entirely satisfactory. Suppose the new piece of apparatus is accepted at a saving of $1,000, for example, certainly the city will be the gainer. It will avoid the expense and delay of readvertising and awaiting the manufacture of another machine, provided, of course, that the Nott Company makes a reasonable allowance.

Certainly the matter has hung fire long enough, and should be settled either one way or the other at once. If the Nott Company will make a substantial reduction in the price of the machine, why not take it?

FEDERAL THRIFT AND CHARITY.

Many government documents make dry and uninteresting reading, but occasionally one is issued which, while apparently true to type, is thought-provoking. A few months ago The Journal of the American Medical Association called attention to a somewhat remarkable action on the part of the government courts in a case concerning a fake patent medicine sold under false and fraudulent claims. Analyzed by the federal chemists, it was found, according to the government report, to possess "no medicinal properties whatever." No one appeared to defend the product, and the court entered judgment for condemnation and forfeiture, and then ordered that the product should be sold by the United States marshal! What it was sold for, or as what, the record did not state; neither was the ethical and moral status of the problem discussed.

An equally remarkable instance of court action is reported in a recent dealing with the adulteration and misbranding of a so-called sherry wine. Three barrels of this product were declared misbranded on the ground that the stuff was an imitation prepared from pomace and glucose, and preserved with sodium benzoate. The officials declared that the stuff was liable to confiscation. All of the charges made by the federal officials were sustained, and no one appeared to claim the property. The court, therefore, entered judgment of condemnation and forfeiture, and ordered the United States marshal to remove the misleading labels, marking the stuff "Imitation Wine Preserved with 1-10 of 1 per cent. benzoate soda," and then distribute it "to certain charitable institutions."

Most people will agree with the Trenton Times when it criticizes the Governor and Legislature for authorizing nearly a hundred "outlaw" osteopaths to practice as physicians, after the State Board of Medical Examiners has refused to license them because the "college" that graduated them was not regarded as efficient. One is inclined to wonder what use the Medical Examiners can be to the State, when they, as experts, are overruled by a lot of laymen who were influenced by political reasons, if by nothing worse. Incidentally it is a pleasure to note that William N. Runyon, the Plainfield Assemblyman, voted against the bill.

Dogs as pets are mighty fine things, but as midnight "entertainers" it's an entirely different story. There has been a lot of complaint from various parts of town about the midnight concerts which have made life miserable for Plainfielders. Now that summer is approaching it might be well to put the dog catcher on the job, and pick up any stray canines there may be in town.

Alfred Estes, the new secretary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., has written the contributed editorial for tomorrow's Daily Press. His subject will be "The Y. M. C. A. as a Community Asset."

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

"Time's glory is to unmask falsehood and bring truth to light." Never has the pregnancy of this statement from the immortal bard been so evident to the writer as in the perusal today of your editorial "Undesirable Neighbors." As a Southerner and ex-Confederate living here among the great people of the North for thirty-five years, it is indeed a great satisfaction to me to see such a vindication of the South as an editorial of this character in a paper published in so strong a Republican center as the city of Plainfield. Mr. Editor, permit me to congratulate you upon the manliness and courage which has enabled you to express these sentiments, and in defense of the land where the Negro outnumbers the whites in many sections and doubles them in others, let me impress upon you that if "birds of a feather should flock together" in the city of Plainfield where the blacks are in very small minority, surely you and your readers must see the necessity and wisdom of those State laws passed in the different Southern States, protecting the white people from the flocking together of whites and blacks, by providing special cars for blacks. It is a curious characteristic of the Negro as a mass to try to force himself into the social environments of the whites. If you have ever taken a train on the Pennsylvania Railroad from Cape Charles, Va., to Wilmington, Del., or Philadelphia you can see an evidence of this characteristic as soon as the train reaches Delmar. Up to that point there is a special distinctive car for the Negro and it is against the Maryland law for the Negro to ride in the car for the whites. As soon as the train is leaving Delmar they come pouring into the white coaches then open to them by the laws of Delaware and Pennsylvania. If you are not by personal experience acquainted with this condition in the South where the Negro predominates, or at least equals the whites, let me assure you that if such ostracism is justifiable in a city like Plainfield where there are so few, it is more than justifiable in the South where the question is still unsolved, and God in His infinite wisdom only knows when and what will be the solution.

Twenty-five years ago Senator Butler, of South Carolina, introduced a resolution in the United States Senate, providing that the government should set aside land for the purpose of making a black State to which the surplus population of the blacks could be removed, and given all the rights under the Constitution. It was cried down but the wisdom and foresight of this gallant man is being indicated each year. The rights given them under the Constitution cannot be conceded. The law of the land is through this brought into contempt as is also the purity and inviolability of the ballot. The prejudice against this unfortunate race is not confined to any land and I must say that it is one of the providential dispensations in this life, the justice of which is hard to see. I pity them beyond expression. But as a mass they are better off in the South, as there are many vocations open to them there which are denied them here in the North. The best gentlemen in Richmond, Charleston, Savannah and other Southern cities shave in Negro barber shops, a thing now unknown in New York. The trade unions in the North deny them membership, which is an embargo against them, while in the South a large, if not the largest part of the carpentry, bricklaying, plumbing, etc., is done by the Negro.

"Not all that Heralds rake
From coffined clay,
Nor honied lines of rhyme
Can blazon evil deeds,
Or consecrate a crime."

The bestowal of an indiscriminate franchise was a crime. Time is proving it each year.

Yours very truly,
WM. F. TURNER.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I wish to call your attention to an article under "Kenney Appeals to State Board," published in yesterday's issue. The first question which I asked was, "I wish to ask the State Board of Equalization of Taxes if they would consider comparisons between values in Elizabeth and values in Plainfield?" The answer was: "The only way that we can consider questions is on direct complaint as to the undervaluation in any taxing district. The court limits us in this respect."

MRS. TRAIN'S FUNERAL HELD THIS AFTERNOON

The funeral of Mrs. Francena A. Train, widow of Charles N. Train, who died yesterday morning, was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William J. Dodd, of 1132 East Second street, this afternoon. The service was in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. There were many handsome floral tributes. The body will be taken to West Brookfield, Mass., tomorrow for interment.

Mrs. Train was sixty-nine years old and had been a resident of Plainfield for twenty-seven years. Her husband was employed by the Pond Machine Tool Company when it was located in Worcester, Mass., and came to this city with the concern in 1888. He remained with the company until the time of his death five years ago. TROOP 11 WAS THERE IN TORCHLIGHT PARADE

Owing to an accident to one of the wheels on the wagon supporting its float in the torchlight procession of the Boy Scouts on behalf of the Baby Show Monday night, Troop No. 11's float was delayed in arriving at the place of assembly, where the awards were made, until after the full list of entrants had been noted, although it came up in time to be viewed and passed upon by the judges. For this reason the Grace P. E. church troop did not appear among the list of entrants in the reports of the procession published Tuesday evening. This troop was in charge of Assistant Scoutmaster Clinton Berrian, with twenty boys in line, making the total representation in line 320. The scoutmaster of Troop No. 11 is A. E. Sprowl, and the first assistant, Raymond Manley.

CONVULSIONS FATAL TO MRS. HARRY PHILLIPS

Mrs. Emma L. Phillips, wife of Harry W. Phillips, of South Plainfield, died in Muhlenberg Hospital at midnight last night, after having been brought to the institution yesterday afternoon. It was thought her condition might be bettered by removal to Muhlenberg but the efforts of the physicians were unavailing.

Mrs. Phillips was a native of Bloomsbury, Warren county, where she was born thirty-five years ago. The family removed to South Plainfield in 1910. Mr. Phillips at that time being employed in the signal department of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Three years ago he purchased the grocery business of Frank Miller in South Plainfield and has so ably conducted it that he is now one of the leading merchants of the village. Mrs. Phillips was prominent in church and social work and will be mourned by a host of friends by all of whom she was highly esteemed.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Phillips is survived by one daughter, Dorothy, aged eight years. The funeral services have not yet been arranged.

WILL HOLD MEETING IN INTEREST OF SUFFRAGE

There will be an interesting Suffrage meeting at the Friends' meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Thursday evening, April 27, at 8 o'clock, under the care of the philanthropic committee. Miss Louise Connolly, of Newark, and D. Fred Aungst, supervising principal of the borough public schools, will be the speakers. Mr. Aungst has lived in one of the Western States, where women have the ballot and he thoroughly believes in the value of "votes for women," and will give an account of that phase of the subject.

Suffragists are urged to attend and bring those who are opposed to "votes for women" or any who may be "on the fence." No admission fee will be charged.

RAY-WILSON NUPTIALS.

Miss Lena Wilson, of this city, became the bride of James Ray, of Brooklyn, New York, at the Calvary Baptist church, last night. Rev. D. Y. Campbell, pastor of the church afficiated. The bride wore a gown of cream lace and a veil. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Walter Johnson was best man, and the Misses L. Smith, E. Wilson, Cary Steward and W. Taylor were the bridesmaids. A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of Mrs. Hunt, 654 South Second street, and was attended by a large gathering of guests. The couple were showered with congratulations, and the bride was the recipient of numerous handsome and useful gifts.

FAVOR FOOD SHIPMENT.

Washington, April 23.—Sir Arthur S. Spring Rice, the British Ambassador, called at the State Department today to make clear that his government instead of seeking to prevent the shipment of food supplies to Switzerland was highly desirious of expediting all such, because of the number of French and Belgian refugees there. The protest was caused by the charge that British warships had intercepted a shipload of American cotton intended for Swiss manufacturers, and were holding it at Gibraltar. The Ambassador told Counsellor Lansing that the cotton had been intercepted by Italian war vessels and that inquiry wuold establish that fact.

HELD SPRING BAZAAR.

The singing section of the Plainfield Turn Verein Society entertained at the spring bazaar given in the Swedish Lutheran church, on East Seventh street, last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The proceeds will be used for church expenses. The affair will be repeated tomorrow night.

BOXING BILL FAILS.

Trenton, April 23—Although the boxing bill, which would have permitted boxing in New Jersey in a modified way, passed the Legislature, it will not become a law, because the House failed to return it to the Senate, which should have sent it to the Governor. It cannot be received by him now.

PLAYERS ARE RELEASED.

New York, April 23.—The Brooklyn Nationals today announced the release of Pitchers Brown, Chabeck and Schmutz and Catcher Snow to the Newark Internationals.

A TURK AND A TELEPHONE.

The Grand Vizier Looked on the New Scheme as an Evil One.

Long years ago, before the Young Turk party was born or thought of, the present writer was intrusted with negotiations for the issue of a "firman" (concession) permitting the installation of the public telephone in Constantinople, says a contributor to the London Chronicle. Said the then grand vizier, "This talking machine of which you speak, can it be placed anywhere?"

"Anywhere, highness."

Then followed an exhaustive explanation of the conveniences of the system and the advantages certain to attend establishment of telephone communication between his highness' private residence and the imperial palace.

"I think I understand; correct me if I am wrong," said his highness. "It is night. I am fast asleep. Suddenly my slumbers are disturbed by the ringing of a bell within a few inches of my head. Is that so?"

"That is so, your highness."

"I rouse myself. I take a part of the machine in my hand and hold it to my ear. I recognize a voice from Yildiz."

"Exactly, your highness."

"Exactly. The voice tells me to proceed at once to the palace, as his majesty wishes to see me immediately."

"Your highness' grasp of the proedure is wonderful!"

"That would happen every night. I should never have a moment's sleep. I suffer quite enough from the palace as it is. Take the thing away. It is an invention of the evil one, and I will have nothing to do with it."

They have a telephone system now in Constantinople. But it took over twenty years to establish it, and it is more than probable that the view entertained by the average Turk with regard to its merit does not materially differ from that expressed by his highness, the grand vizier.

DEEP SEA LIFE.

Why It Cannot Exist Much Below the Four Mile Level.

In the American Magazine Cleveland Moffett describes the discoveries made by scientists who aboard the steamer Albatross fish all over the globe at a depth of three or four miles and bring up specimens for museums. Dr. Austin H. Clark of the Washington National museum, was the scientist in charge of this interesting vessel during one of her recent cruises in the Pacific. In the following extract taken from his article Mr. Moffett reports a conversation that he had with Dr. Clark:

"I inquired how far down in the ocean life is found, and the scientist replied that while soundings have been taken to a depth of six miles no traces of life have been found much below the four mile level, and oceanographers believe that at the bottom of the great ocean abyss, say at the five or six mile levels, no life exists or can exist.

"Because of the immense pressure?"

"No, because of the lack of food. You might think that food would sink to the bottom, since some of the deepest areas are near the shores, notably north of the West Indies, east of Japan, south of Newfoundland and, deepest of all, east of the island of Guam. Undoubtedly there is an abundant food supply on the surface of the ocean at these points, yet none of it in sinking will reach the bottom for the reason that whatever is not devoured on its way down by creatures of the sea will be dissolved in the lower levels, where the solubility of water is greatly increased, owing to the increased pressure. Not only is it believed that practically all animal and vegetable matter is dissolved at a depth of five or six miles, but the softer bones of animals are probably dissolved, leaving only the very hardest ones to reach the bottom. Thus the trawl nets bring up from great depth sharks' teeth and the ear bones of whales, which are extremely hard, but very rarely other bones."

A Brief Introduction.

Mark Twain said the only introduction to a literary audience that seemed to him the right word in the right place, a real inspiration, was as follows:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I shall not waste any unnecessary time in the introduction. I don't know anything about this man—at least I only know two things about him. One is that he has never been in prison, and the other is I can't see why he hasn't."

Approval.

"You approve of your wife's public speaking?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "I'd rather she told her views about economics and sociology to the throng than have her handing them out to me as little bedtime stories."—Washington Star.

A Bird.

Peggie—Why do you say he is a bird? Polly—Well, he is chicken hearted and pigeon toed, has the habits of an owl, likes to wear a swallow tail coat and collars with wings, he is always acting the goose and he is a perfect jay.—Judge.

He Wanted to Know.

"Ma, what's that big round thing on wheels?"

"The water wagon, my dear."

"Is that the one Uncle Tom said pa fell off of?"—Boston Transcript.

He's Been Dead, Disgraced and Insane Several Times.

If the Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm has kept a diary of the various things th have "happened" to him since the war began parts of it must be amusing reading to him.

As gathered from the dispatches his diary must run something like this:

Sept. 15.—Leads another attack on the outer fortifications of Verdun.

Sept. 16.—Dangerously wounded in East Prussia by Russian shrapnel while he is watching the battle.

Sept. 28.—His army loses 100,000 men in France.

Sept. 28.—"Authoritative report" that he had been seriously wounded in action on Sept. 6.

Oct. 24.—Berlin mourns at his funeral.

Nov. 2.—His funeral procession again passes through the streets of Berlin.

Nov. 4.—Killed in a battle near the Franco-German border.

Nov. 6.—Worry of the campaign has brought on insanity and he is sent to one of the royal family's remote estates.

Nov. 11.—Commands the German center army in an advance against the Russians.

Nov. 12.—Appointed commander in chief of the allied German-Austrian armies operating against the Russians.

Nov. 17.—He is lying seriously wounded in the Strassburg palace.

NORTH HOLLAND IN WINTER.

Skating Is Business There, and the Skaters Wear No Shoes.

In the north of Holland, writes Temple Manning in the Indianapolis Star, I saw the serious side of skating, the side that is not an idle art, but a practical business.

The very first thing the tiny Frisian learns after he acquires the ability to toddle around is how to skate. If he wasn't an expert he would be seriously handicapped all the rest of his life, for the country is a netwrok of waterways, and when they freeze over all business is done on their slippery bosoms. To the Frisian it is second nature to skate. To him it is a delight as well as a necessity, and he is more at home on skates than he is on a good earth road.

If you ask a Frisian which season he likes best, summer or winter, he will answer "winter." In summer he finds it harder to pole or pull his boat through the waters of the canals than in winter to push a sledge along while he follows on his skates. To him the canal is his road.

The first oddity that struck me when I came into this land of skating delights was that the skaters did not wear shoes. They strapped their skates to their feet over very heavy socks that kept out the cold. They laughed at me when I went skating with my skates clamped to leather boots. They could not understand how on earth I could skate freely and gracefully. As a matter of fact I am far from being a graceful skater, but the Frisians were too polite to laugh at my clumsiness, attributing it entirely to my shoes.

Of course I went to Friesland with preconceived notions of what the country would look like, but the charm of the reality was far beyond my imagination. It seemed to be a land of ice and snow that was not unhappily cold—rather the frigid element seemed to be a completing touch of perfection. I have never seen Friesland in summer, but I cannot imagine it separated from its frozen waterways and its picturesque skaters.

Were I to epitomize Friesland in a single description I would picture it as a sheet of ice flowing between two banks that glitter with snow, and in the center I would place a milkman pushing a sledge filled with cans before him, as he skated whistling merrily behind. And behind him I would draw a bevy of boys and girls skylarking on skates.

HUMAN CREDULITY.

Millions Are Taken Every Year From the Gullible by Sharpers.

Human credulity passes all limitations. Before me lies a newspaper story from Chicago: A man was on the way to a savings bank to deposit $145. Two smiling strangers met him, fooled him with the story that they had "a magic handkerchief" which would double the stranger's money if he would fold his bank bills within it. After the operation the strangers told him to watch the handkerchief and see his money grow. They disappeared. They had his money and the handkerchief contained waste paper. Does this sound impossible?

Here is another story, even more improbable, but true. In New York a company appropriating the name of a well known corporation advertised to sell its shares at a bargain, and fixed a price that was just twice the stock market price. A circular was sent to the Italian quarter intimating that a great opportunity was presented for workingmen to secure an interest in a wonderfully prosperous railway, that only a few shares could be had and that they must be bought at once. A rush was made for the stock, although every daily paper printed the quotation of the same security at half the price at which the swindlers were offering it. The police put an end to the game.

If people are so credulous is it surprising that the postoffice authorities report that $150,000,000 a year is taken from the gullible by dealers in fake securities? If Wall street did this kind of wretched business it would deserve reprobation.—Leslie's Weekly.

On the Safe Side.

McTavish and a brither Scot, McPherson, entered the tram and took their seats near the door. Sitting up in the corner was a nice young Hielan' lassie, and McTavish was always nudging his friend.

"Hoots, man," said McPherson, "I ken her fine."

"Hoo are ye no gaun up aside her then?" asked McTavish.

"Och," said McPherson, "she hasna peyed her fare yet."—London Tit-Bits.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

THE NATIONAL PASTIME MIGHT BE ENLIVENED THIS SUMMER WITH A FLAVOR OF WAR, SO FANS CAN TALK WAR AT GAMES

It has been seen that a great many ball fans who spend their idle moments talking dope are now talking war instead. Discussions of the affair in Europe have become almost as engrossing as baseball fanning bees, and this may seriously threaten the national interest in what is agreed to be the most charming of outdoor diversions. Some fear that baseball this summer may suffer.

To meet this crisis baseball moguls, owners and their ilk shall perforce, race their wits and think up something clever. The war-talking fan must be brought to the park. Why not give the game a flavor of war somewhat in the following manner:

Umpires who offend with their unpopular decision might be treated as spies and brought before a firing squad. The firing squad to be made up of pitchers with lots of smoke in their delivery. This should occur at the close of the game or between games when it's a double-header. It would almost make a good Sunday attraction.

The general scheme of this could be carried out in other ways. Batting from trenches would be interesting and thrilling. Pitchers could be provided with a small-sized cannon, except Walter Johnson, who doesn't seem to need any. Shelling the outfield during a batting rally would present so vivid and gripping a picture of war's horrors that the game's close would send the fans home in a delightful state of prostration.

NEW TRACK MANAGER.

Newark, April 23.—Frank Mihlon and Inglis M. Uppercu, of the Cycle Racing Association, yesterday announced the appointment of John M. Chapman as manager of the Newark Velodrome to succeed the late Floyd A. MacFarland. Chapman was formerly interested with Mihlon in the Newark Velodrome venture, and was manager of the track until July, 1913, when he sold out his shares following the end of the "outlaw" movement in the game started by Uppercu and P. T. Powers. Chapman, who is a native of Atlanta, was to return to the managerial fold this summer, having been signed as manager of the new Toronto track. A resident manager will be appointed in Toronto under the supervision of Chapman. Cycle racing will be resumed at the Newark Velodrome next Sunday with the card which, but for MacFarland's death, would have been held last Sunday.

WILLARD GOT $13,000.

Chicago, April 23.—Thirteen thousand dollars was the sum Jess Willard received for defeating Jack Johnson at Havana, the heavyweight champion told here yesterday:

"Johnson received $30,000, and when I defend my title I am going to get the same amount of money he did," Willard said. The champion handed Charles Cutler, the wrestler, who first attempted to develop him as a heavyweight boxer, a check for $1,250 as compensation for the Chicagoan's services. Cutler obtained a judgment against Willard in Milwaukee for $2,500, but when they met Wednesday a compromise was reached and Cutler cut the judgment in half.

NEW RULES MADE BY EXECUTIVES OF U. S. G. A.

The executive committee of the Unied States Golf Association announced yesterday in New York the adoption of the following amendment of the association bylaws referring to open championship prizes:

"Strike out 'In the event of an amateur winning any of the above prizes, he shall be given an equivalent in plate,' and substitute therefor, 'If the score made by an amateur should entitle him to any of the above prizes, he shall be given a suitable trophy in plate.'

"The entire amount of money prizes shall be divided among professional contestants, and in determining the award thereof the amateurs shall be eliminated."

The committee also voted to add to the "Etiquette of Golf" the following new section:

"Players who do not continue in the match play rounds of a tournament should be considered to have forfeited any prize that they may have won in the qualifying rounds."

GOLFERS TIE AT 79.

Only three golfers out of a field of nearly a hundred succeeded in getting below eighty in the qualifying round of the spring invitation tournament at the Lakewood Country Club yesterday, and it so happened that they all tied for the medal at seventy-nine. These were Walter J. Travis, the Garden City veteran; H. M. Forrest, representing the home club, and Hamilton K. Kerr, of Ekwanok. In the play-off, Travis won with 79, Forrest taking 85 and Kerr 89.

GETS $2,000 VERDICT.

Chicago, April 23—Jack Pfiester, formerly pitcher for the Chicago National League team, was awarded a verdict for $2,000 against the Western Union Telegraph Company here today. Pfiester claimed $2,500, alleging that he was deprived of that sum by the failure of the telegraph company to deliver to him a message from Hugh Duffy, manager of the Milwaukees, in 1912, in which Duffy said, "Will pay you $300 a month."

PAID BOXING COMMISSIOON.

Albany, April 23.—By a vote of 27 to 21 the Senate yesterday passed the Malone bill, providing for the reorganization of the State Athletic Commission. The bill now goes to the Governor, who has intimated that he will sign it. Under the bill the present Commissioners, serving without a salary, will give way to a commission of three members with salaries of $3,000. The salary of the secretary, who is the only paid member of the present commission, is cut from $3,500 to $3,000.

NEWARK WANTS MEET.

Newark, April 23.—A movement has been started here to bring the national track and field championships to this city in 1916. The city will then celebrate its 250th anniversary and will mark the occasion with a big carnival.

BLOWUP IN NINTH SHIFTED THE TIDE

All Stars Ceased to Shine in the Final Round of Play.

The borough ball tossers bucked up against a swift infield yesterday on Hyde Oval, when they squeezed out ahead of the All-Star aggregation by a score of 7 to 6. Ralph Smalley, as first baseman of the All-Stars, was a revelation, trapping a lot of bad ones from across the diamond, and playing fast ball all around.

Moulton Got in the Way of a 42 Centimeter Bullet in the Ninth.

Smalley got to first in the initial inning, but was left on by "Rus" Conroy's strike-out, and the first scoring was done by Tommy Mullen and MacDonough in the second inning, who crossed the plate on a hit and an error by Dilts. In the last half of the second, the score was tied when VanDeventer stole home, and Van Mater crossed on a sacrifice by Townley. Mullen and "Rus" Conroy scored in the fourth on errors.

The ninth inning started with the score of 6 to 4 in favor of the All-Stars, but a base on balls and a long hit by Townley brought two runs in and tied the score. Conroy stole third and came home on Moulton's error, winning the game, and leaving two men on base.

PRINCETON'S FIRST VISIT.

The Plainfield High School baseball team will play Princeton High School tomorrow afternoon at Parker Field. This will be the first time that the "Jungletown" nine has ever played here, but if basketball issues count for anything as far as material is concerned, tomorrow's game ought to be a close one. Brick will pitch for the locals and Apgar will do the receiving.

SAURER'S READY.

Brit Martin's Saurer team will open its season Sunday afternoon at Bound Brook. The first home game will be played on Parker Field next Saturday afternoon with the Elizabeth A. A. and at that time Warry McLaughlin will be on the mound for the city "champs." He will not pitch the game at Bound Brook this week.

RANDOLPH TO PITCH.

Cliff Randolph will be in action for the Perth Amboy's Sunday afternoon at the Perth Amboy Amusement Park. He will work against Art Romer, who has pitched several times in this city, and as both men are in excellent condition a pitchers' battle is expected.

HOPE'S FIRST GAME.

The members of the Hope baseball team play a practice game tomorrow afternoon with the Netherwood A. C. team on the South Second street grounds.

MAGEE A DISCIPLINARIAN.

Tiptop Leader Unbending In Enforcing His Rules.

Artie Hofman was the first member of the Brookfed team to feel the force of Lee Magee's discipline, and the example set in his case will probably cause any other member of the club who considers setting the manager's rule at nought to stop and think awhile. Hofman is now waiting at his home for word from the club's owners to return to the team, as a result of having smoked a cigarette in direct disobedience of the manager's wishes. Magee says that Hofman will have to report of his own volition and pay the fine imposed upon him for his offense or he will not play this season.

As the Wards have given Magee carte blanche in the guidance of the team's destinies, it is likely that Magee's action in the Hofman case will be upheld. Magee predicts a great season for the Tiptops, and he is supremely confident that they will carry off the pennant with little or no opposition.

ST. JOSEPH'S VS. MARIONS.

The St. Joseph baseball team will go to Lincoln tomorrow afternoon and play the Marion Field Club team, of that place. The members of the local team will meet at the trolley station for the 1:45 car. Otto Frederickson will twirl for the local team. No game has yet been scheduled for next Saturday, and Manager McDonough would be glad to hear from managers of this city.

BATTIN AT HYDE OVAL.

Battin will appear on Hyde Oval tomorrow afternoon for a game with the North Plainfield High School team. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock. Stahl, who has had a good week's rest, will start the game in the box, making his fourth in succession. Conroy may fill second base position, again re-placing Dawe.

ST. JOSEPH'S TRAVEL.

The St. Joseph's baseball team will play its second game of the season at Lincoln tomorrow afternoon when it will lineup against the strong Marion Field Club aggregation. "Dan" Denny will probably do the twirling for the borough team.

CURTIS DALL, CAPTAIN.

At the first practice of the Plainfield High School tennis team yesterday afternoon, Curtis Dall was elected to lead the squad this season. Daily practices are being held, and the team is rounding into fine shape.

Oscar Wassenbruger, the boy violinist, who created such a sensation here last year, will be heard again in a program of excellent selections, and Miss di Abrua, a contralto singer from the Institution of Musical Art of New York, and Hugh Allan, of the Drucelles Obera Haus, Berlin, will also be heard. Many local society women have consented to act as patronesses.

A MINUTE WITH NEW LEADERS

Five Placed at Helms of Big Teams Since 1914.

EYES CENTERED ON ROWLAND

Manager of Chicago White Sox Has Never Played In Major Organization. He Was Howling Success In Minors. Bresnahan, Moran and Magee.

Two new leaders in each league will be on the job when the season begins, but only one lone lad, Lee Magee of the Brooklyn Federals, will be taking his first dive into the seas of managerial troubles.

Bresnahan of the Chicago Cubs is a tried and successful leader, his experience with the Cardinals effectually proving his mettle. If the stuff is in the Cubs the club will be in the hunt, rest assured. A slave driver and a fighter, Roger's known ability to get values out of men will make his team formidable.

Pat Moran of the Philadelphia Nationals, the other National leaguer, has had experience under Dooin, to whom he acted as first lieutenant for some time. Moran has a good pitcher or two to work with, but the worst looking bunch of relics ever inherited by an unfortunate manager.

Bill Donovan of the New York Americans leads another forlorn hope, although it is believed he will do better than Frank Chance. Wild Bill has the brains, the baseball education and the leadership experience. Moreover, he is constituted right in many ways. He ought to get by.

Clarence Rowland is the "mystery man" of the game. What Clarence will do is guesswork, for he never was a major league player, nor was he a major league manager or even close to that. He headed a Class B outfit last season in the Peoria club. Perhaps he feels right at home with his Chicago players.

In the Federal league we have the greatest and possibly the worst of all the new leaders—Fielder Jones of the St. Louis Terriers and Lee Magee of the Brookfeds.

Jones is a man tried and not found wanting. Jones' reputation is built on his success with the old White Sox team of 1906, which defeated the Cubs for the world's championship.

As for Magee, he's the youngest of all managers, and he has a good club in the Brookfeds. How well he can keep it in hand and how much of the "deep stuff" he can teach some of his more experienced subordinates it is impossible to conjecture.

—RECRUITS TO THE RANKS of classified advertisers are coming all the time. And they are winning "the victories of peace" every day.

THIS "UMP" WANTED FAN TO RID ROOM OF HOT AIR.

Frank Newhouse, who formerly umpired in the Pacific Coast league, is the only judge of diamond plays that ever made a league purchase an electric fan.

Newhouse was offered a berth in the Texas league. President Allen of the circuit was anxious to get him. Newhouse refused to sign up with the league unless they purchased a fan for him.

In explaining to Allen why he wanted the fan Newhouse said he would set it going at nighttime, so as to keep the air in the room cool in order that he could get enough sleep.

To get Newhouse the league directors finally had to purchase the electric fan.

GEORGE GIBSON'S START FAR FROM IMPRESSIVE

George Gibson, now in his tenth year as a Pittsburgh Pirate, has taken Bobby Schang under his tutelage, and the speedy backstop should benefit greatly from the teachings of the veteran Canadian. During a fanning bee Clarke recently grew reminiscent and recalled the day in 1905 when Gibby joined the Buccaneers. Pittsburgh was in a bad way for a backstop, and there were flashier performers than Gibby under the eyes of Dreyfuss' scouts. But Scout Billy Murray figured that "Hack" had the more lasting qualities and instructed Dreyfuss to get him from Montreal.

"Do you remember your first game in Cincinnati?" asked Clarke.

"Indeed I do!" laughed Gibson. "How did I look?"

"Well," pondered Clarke, "you could throw the ball in the dirt at second base better than any man I ever saw. It traveled like a sharp pointed projectile every time you pegged, and it dug up about as much ground."

FINES 'EM, BUT GIVES IT BACK.

Rowland Has Always Been Ready to Pay For Good Efforts.

Boss Rowland of the Chicago White Sox is a stickler for discipline. Yet he is strongly opposed to fines.

"When I have felt compelled to fine a player," says Rowland, "I have plastered the fine on him, but as soon as he showed me he was trying to act all right he got his money back again.

"Vincent Campbell, who starred with the Feds last season, was one of the players I once fined. It was for loafing on the bases. I fined him $50. That season he stole ninety-seven bases, when the best he ever had done previously was seventeen. Of course I remitted the fine."

SAVING THE DINNER.

B. C. McCusker, in The New York Telephone Review, tells this amusing story of what may be done with the telephone in an emergency:

A friend of mine and his wife, who reside in Kingsbridge, were on their way to church one Sunday when they suddenly remembered that a chicken had been left in the oven. Knowing that there was a telephone in the church, my friend hastily wrote a note which he handed to an usher as he passed into the church. The note read as follows:

Please call Kingsbridge — and tell Mary, the housemaid, to remove chicken from oven at once.

Shortly before the service was over the usher handed my friend a note which read:

Mary notified. Chicken saved.

LIBERTY BELL RINGS ACROSS A CONTINENT.

The ringing of the old Liberty Bell in Philadelphia at the opening of the transcontinental telephone line, when the tones were heard in San Francisco, is commented upon in an editorial in The New York Telephone Review, which calls to the attention of its readers the fact that the liberty proclaimed by the ringing of the Liberty Bell in 1776, has been the fundamental condition which has made possible the phenomenal development of the telephone in this country where it has attained a perfection unknown elsewhere.

"Although the voice of the Liberty Bell never was heard beyond earshot of Independence Hall, the country has reached an apex of prosperity undreamed of by the colonists and equaled in no other country, since equal liberty exists nowhere else.

"One hundred years after these first peals of true liberty were sounded from its throat, the world was given the telephone, and less than forty years following, the freedom and opportunity of the Land of Liberty have made it possible for the old Bell of Liberty to ring its message across the continent.

"The old worn-out Liberty Bell and the Transcontinental Telephone Line! The emblem of American liberty and a product of its inspiration!

"What must have been the emotions of the patriotic hearts in Philadelphia and San Francisco who heard the sounds?"

LINER RAIDER HAS AMAZING CAREER

Kronprinz Wilhelm Rests After Sinking Fourteen Ships.

LIVES 255 DAYS ON ENEMY.

Even Outdoes Record of Eitel Friedrich In Escaping Perils and Inflicting Damage on Foes From Whose Vessels She Obtains Coal, Food, New Clothes and Also Big Guns.

In her more than eight months of adventurous cruising, between the night of August 3, when she quietly slipped out of New York harbor, and that of April 11, when she even more quietly slipped into Newport News, Va., to avoid capture by British warships that had chased her for hours, the German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, formerly a North German Lloyd liner, had sunk fourteen vessels, nine British, four French and one Norwegian, a total tonnage of 58,201, and had captured and released one other British ship.

During the whole of the 255 days at sea she had never been heard of, except in rumors, and had never touched land except at some quiet spot to get rid of prisoners. She coaled, provisioned and even armed herself, her officers say, from her foes. Her record surpasses even the amazing record of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

"Since leaving New York," said Captain A. L. Thierfelder, "we have not touched at a port longer than to land prisoners in small boats. We have been forced to eat rice to live, and this has caused numerous cases of beri-beri on board. No less than sixty prisoners and men of the crew are now suffering with that disease. On Feb. 23 we captured and sank the French passenger steamship Guadeloupe. From this steamship we got 10,000 bags of coffee, much foodstuffs and stores.

Was Repeatedly Chased.

"We have been chased repeatedly by British warships, and only the speed of the Kronprinz has saved her from being sent to the bottom. The ship at one time during a chase made a speed of twenty-six knots, though her ordinary speed is only twenty-two knots.

"Some of the escapes were too narrow for comfort. Four times we communicated with British warships by wireless, each time leading them to believe we were a friend. It was hazardous off the Canary islands, dangerous off the Azores and exciting off the Brazilian and Atlantic coasts, but interesting and thrilling at all times.

"Nearly 300 prisoners taken from the first ships sunk by us were landed at Buenos Aires in small boats under cover of darkness. Secrecy was necessary, for hostile ships were lurking in that vicinity.

"Coal gave out later and again we were in a serious predicament, but fortune again favored us. A steamer hove in sight. We took her coal and again were ready for work."

"We were not a warship when we left New York, Aug. 3," said Lieutenant A. L. B. Warneke, "but three days out, off the Bermudas, we met the cruiser Karlsruhe. We took from her two three-inch guns, which we mounted on the bow of the ship, and took Lieutenant Captain Thierfelder, her navigating officer, to command our ship. We also took seventeen of the Karlsruhe's junior officers and men, took on more coal and provisions and put to sea.

Seized Four Inch Guns at Sea.

"We made for the south Atlantic, and the first ship we encountered was the British ship Indian Prince, which we sank on Sept. 4. From that time on we remained on the ocean, destroying the enemy where we might find her.

"If Great Britain had been organized as well as we were we never could have remained alive these many months. Sir Edward Grey sent us the two big guns on our afterdeck. He sent them to us on board the British steamship Correntina on Oct. 7. When we got those four-inch guns we felt pretty safe. La Correntina couldn't use her guns because she didn't have ammunition. We didn't give battle to her because she was helpless, but after we took her guns and what of her cargo we wanted we put some bombs into her and down she went. We made ammunition for her guns on board ship. Some of the merchant ships we sank without our guns, some we blew up with bombs and in some cases we were compelled to ram the ships.

"Sir Edward Grey also was kind to us in sending coal, for we took on board from enemy ships during our voyage more than 20,000 tons.

"We were a peculiar looking crowd until France came to our rescue with the uniforms we wear. We made the uniforms for all our merchant crew from cloth captured from the French steamship Guadeloupe Feb. 23. The color is not exactly German, but the cloth is good. We wanted dark blue, but could find only gray blue, and it made us strange looking German sailormen. From the Guadeloupe we also got shoes, leather and thousands of dollars' worth of things which were on their way for the French army."

"WHEN you start out for the office in the morning, there's a great big feeling of satisfaction in the knowledge that there's a telephone in the home to keep things going straight throughout the day.

"While you are at work in your office, you don't have to think over how things are going at home. You know that just as soon as anything does go wrong your telephone bell is going to ring and you're going to hear all about it.

DIVORCE ENDS FAMOUS ROMANCE

Widow Forfeited Millions for New Love Which Failed.

Boston, April 23—Just three years ago yesterday, Mrs. Marie Tudor Garland, the famed society widow who was left the income from $10,000,000, left by her husband, gave up her millions to wed. At the Garland home at Buzzard's Bay she married Francis C. Green, her financial adviser and caretaker of her estate. The love for which she gave up her millions is shattered, and she is again free.

Love has played a severe game with pretty Marie Louise Tudor, who comes of one of the leading families of aristocratic Boston. Great joy and great sorrow have come alternately into her love affairs. She was married, divorced and re-married to James A. Garland, sportsman and yachtsman. Her first wedding, at the age of 23, was one of the brilliant social events of its season in Brookline. After a year's tour of Europe, a baby came to smooth away differences that were said to have arisen in Europe. Everything was happiness in the Garland home for six long years. In the summer of 1900, society heard that all was not well with them. Soon followed a separation, Mrs. Garland taking her four children to live with her. Then again came reconciliation, and the Garlands were said to be extremely happy when suddenly Mrs. Garland entered suit for divorce. The case was bitterly contested but she won her decree.

A year elapsed, and then society heard that the Garland yacht had put into Hyannisport with its owner aboard, and that Mrs. Garland and the children had gone aboard. Love again rose from its ashes, and the reunited family landed at Bristol, R. I., where the Garlands were remarried. They then went to New York to live, but their happiness was again broken in September, 1906, when Garland died, his wife nursing him to the end.

The widow returned to Boston and lived quietly with her children. She was given the income from the $10,000,000 fortune of her husband, on condition that she never marry. After six years of widowhood, she suddenly announced her engagement to Green, who had been caretaker of her estate and adviser in financial matters. He is the son of the late Commander Francis M. Green, U. S. N., and a descendant of James Otis.

The wedding took place at Buzzard's Bay on April 22, 1912, in the presence of the Garland children and a few friends. The couple toured Europe, and were said to be happy, although society continueed to talk of the big forfeit which the widow paid for her new-found happiness. Within two years the romance was shattered, and divorce was sought by Mrs. Green, her husband not contesting.

An Early Crop of Grass Calls for Lawn Mowers

You will be surprised to find how litle energy is required to push the

Wanamaker-Townsend Lawn Mower

In its easy action it does not shirk its work. It has a peculiar tendency of "hugging" the ground, no matter how difficult its course may be.

It has 11-inch wheels, 6½-inch standard reel and a lower blade or oil tempered crucible steel.

Sizes 14-inch, $10.75; 16-inch, $12; 18-inch, $13; 20-inch, $14; 22-inch, $15; 24-inch, $16.

Wanamaker Lawn Mower

Its special feature is cutting grass under tension by means of four revolving spirals which draw the grass across a sharp stationary blade. This enables it to cut thick grass where the ordinary mower often fails.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The re-engagement of Hardeen, the Handcuff King, drew large audiences to Proctor's Theatre yesterday afternoon and last night, and the performances of this marvelous man proved as sensational as when he made his local debut. His big feature last night was the escape from a heavily built packing box, made especially for the occasion by the shipping department of the A. E. Force Co. Despite the strength of the receptacle and its heavy fastenings, Hardeen liberated himself in less than a minute. The escape from a water-filled milk can, which was seen on the first day of the engagement, will be repeated at the performance this afternoon and tonight, in addition to a number of other specialties not yet presented. The other vaudeville acts on the program which opened the bill for the last half of the week yesterday were all up to the Proctor standard and made instantaneous hits with the audiences. These include Reidy and Currier, in smart musical numbers; Gardner and Leonard, singing and talking comedians; the two Silverton Girls, tight wire walkers; Maurice and Rich, comedy skit. Photoplays from the highest priced agencies in New York are always in evidence at Proctor's, and something new is offered everyday. The announcement for tomorrow will be a Charles Chaplin two-reel comedy, and the pictures depicting the opening of the Federal League baseball season in Newark. The latter were shown yesterday and made a great impression, especially with the baseball fans. The succeeding episode of "The Exploits of Elaine" will be shown this afternoon and tonight.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The Cohan & Harris production of "Stop Thief" is the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre today and tomorrow, the film being in five parts. This offering is one of the best that has come to Plainfield this season, and is sure to prove immensely popular with the movie devotees. Miss Mary Ryan is seen in the leading role, and she is supported by an especially selected company, many of which were in the original stage version shown at the Gaiety Theatre, New York. The Plainfield Theatre has the exclusive contract for the first run of Paramount pictures, and several high class photoplays that are now being shown on Broadway at prices from 25c cents to one dollar will be seen at the Second street playhouse within the next few weeks. In addition to these productions, Manager Shannon has engaged Edward Harding, Jr., to render illustrated songs at stated intervals, a novelty that has proved immensely popular with the audiences. Low prices are one of the Plainfield Theatre's largest assets, and the fact that it is the most roomy and comfortable house in the city explains why it always gets the crowds. The Plainfield Theatre's serial picture, "The Black Box," is shown every Tuesday, and is being followed by thousands of patrons.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney troubles, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

STANDARD MOTOR GASOLINE SERVICE STATION

LOOK FOR THIS SIGN

QUALITY FUEL WHEREVER YOU GO

THE best garages and supply stations display this Sign, because Standard Motor Gasoline is the best fuel. The "Standard" Sign identifies the responsible dealer, who sells the dependable product.

Buying Standard Motor Gasoline means getting not only good fuel, but the same fuel, wherever you go. It means freedom from carburetor adjustments, and more miles per gallon.

Garages and supply stations displaying this Sign are authorized distributors of Standard Motor Gasoline and Polarine Oil and Greases. Look for the Sign. It is a Quality Sign in motordom.

"SPECIFIED"

THE man who owns a fleet of trucks and buys gasoline by the tank carload specifies "Standard Motor Gasoline" when he makes out his order. The motorist who buys gasoline by the gallon from the garage man on the highway specifies "Standard Motor Gasoline." Each protects himself from the irresponsible seller and the uncertain product by insisting on "Standard Motor Gasoline."

Likewise he specifies "Polarine," the standard oil for all motors, when he wants a lubricating oil that he can be sure of.

The big buyer, if he wants to, can learn as much about gasoline and lubricants as the refiner who makes them. Usually he does not bother. It is cheaper and easier just to order "Standard Motor Gasoline" and "Polarine." And it is just as safe.

The small buyers—you and your neighbors who own cars—want quality too.

Say "Standard Motor Gasoline" to the garage man, and you are just as sure of getting high grade fuel as the big consumer who buys gasoline by specification and test.

Standard Motor Gasoline is a pledge of quality. It is backed by the name and reputation of the world's largest oil refiners. It is a permanent pledge, because "Standard Motor Gasoline" means the same thing tomorrow as it does today, wherever you make your purchase.

Standard Motor Gasoline costs no more by the gallon than other kinds. And it is so much better than variable, unpedigreed "blends" and "mixtures" that it is worth while to be particular.

Standard Motor Gasoline is a straight-distilled, homogeneous product, every drop like every other drop.

It is quick-starting, because the boiling point is right.

It is powerful, because it contains the maximum of heat units.

It is uniform wherever and whenever you buy it—that saves carburetor adjustments.

Specify "Standard Motor Gasoline" and "Polarine" Oil and Greases.

This is the surest way of getting one hundred per cent. pleasure and service from your car at minimum expense.

Library Notes.

Furnished by the Directors of Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room.

Published Every Friday.

In a recent article on "The Books That I Read," Colonel Roosevelt confesses to a prejudice in favor of novels with happy endings. He says:

"There are enough horror and grimness and sordid squalor in real life with which an active man has to grapple; and when I turn to the world of literature—of books considered as books, and as instruments of my profession—I do not care to study suffering unless for some sufficient purpose. It is only a very exceptional novel which I will read if He does not marry Her; and even in exceptional novels I much prefer this consummation. I am not defending my attitude. I am merely stating it."

He admits that he is unable to decide for other readers the proper course to pursue in regard to current books, or to define the line between not knowing anything regarding new books, and swamping oneself in the sea of useless literature with which readers are now overwhelmed. He very sensibly says that instead of the heading used by some reviewers, "Books of the Week," he would much rather read an article by a competent reviewer on "Books of the Year Before Last," as the books treated in the last article would probably be worth reading, while one had better not waste his time on a book only entitled to be called a book of the week.

Some new novels:

"The Winning of Lucia," by Amelia E. Barr. The public seems to expect about a book a year from Mrs. Barr, who at the age of eighty-four has more ambition, more faith in human nature and more optimism than most writers of half her age. It is perhaps for this reason that her stories make such a general appeal to readers. Her men and women are very human, hot tempered, unreasonable, selfish and yet generally likeable. This is the sixty-fifth novel Mrs. Barr has written, and is no exception to the run of most of Mrs. Barr's books. It is a Scotch story.

"The Valley of Fear," by Conan Doyle. Sherlock Holmes is back on the job again with the faithful Watson, who is fully as stupid as ever, but as Watson probably represents a majority of the readers, it is a good thing that we have someone of moderate mental capacity to put to Holmes the questions which are necessary to bring his discoveries within the capacity of the reader. It is ten years since we have had a Sherlock Holmes story, and this is well up to the average of the old ones. Like one of his earlier stories, "The Sign of the Four," (or was it "A Study in Scarlet?"), the scenes are laid both in England and the United States.

"The Taming of Amorette," by Anne Warner. A gay little comedy of modern life and manners. Very light indeed and with a very slender plot. It agrees with Colonel Roosevelt's preference of books that end well, but we also fear that it comes well within his condemnation of books of a week. The story first appeared serially in the Saturday Evening Post.

The library of Congress as it now exists, was one hundred years old on January 30th last. It was begun by the purchase by Congress of the library of Thomas Jefferson, which was then the largest and best selected in the country, and was a fitting nucleus of the present library of Congress. The original library of Congress was destroyed by the British when they burned the Capitol in 1814. Only about 2,000 of the original volumes owned by Mr. Jefferson are now in existence. They are carefully preserved and may be consulted but not taken from the library. The total number of volumes purchased was 6,487 and the price paid was $23,950. The purchase was bitterly opposed by some members of Congress, led by Silas King, of New York.

The original manuscript of America, written by Rev. S. F. Smith, has now been placed in Harvard University as a gift from the son of the author. It was of him that Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote:

"And here's a young fellow of excellent pith, Nature tried to conceal him by naming him Smith."

Marvelous Night Illumination at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition

THE LOFTY TOWER OF JEWELS BY NIGHT, FROM THE SOUTH GARDENS OF THE EXPOSITION.

THIS photograph shows the lofty Tower of Jewels and the main exhibit section of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition as seen by night. The most recent devices in the art and the science of illumination have been employed at the Exposition, the vast buildings illuminated in a way that would have been impossible five or six years ago. On the left of the tower may be seen the rays of colored lights that spread far into the heavens, breaking out into a great aurora and visible on clear nights at a distance of forty to fifty miles. The rays proceed from a battery of the most powerful searchlights made, located on a jetty on San Francisco bay before the Exposition grounds. It requires seventy-five men to operate this battery of lights. Marvelous effects are produced through the intersection of light rays against huge clouds of smoke liberated high in the heavens. Great rings of light, dissolving like the smoke rings of a giant cigar, are seen far in the heavens and strange and fantastic shapes appear and fade away. Through the use of explosive bombs and flashes of light thunder and lightning are simulated at the Exposition, so that they can scarcely be detected from the original. Don't fail to see the Exposition.

NEW ORGANIZATION FOR SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Everett Colby, Chairman of Committee of One Hundred, to Help Campaign.

Mrs. Everett Colby, who was instrumental in carrying the suffrage amendment through its legislative stages, is chairman of a new co-operative organization known as the Committee of One Hundred which is being formed to assist the New Jersey suffrage campaign now that the question is before the voters of the state. Mrs. Colby was for two years the able and successful chairman of the legislative committee formed by the woman suffrage organizations of New Jersey, a position she resigned only in order to devote the necessary time to the most recent addition to her growing family, a small son.

Her husband is associated with her in the work undertaken by the Committee of One Hundred, as are men and women of all political affiliations or none, including society women, lawyers, manufacturers, suffrage leaders and the daughter-in-law of a banker, who are all pushing together to force an opening wedge for the other three eastern states in which suffrage amendments will be submitted to the people during the coming year. William Fellowes Morgan has consented to act as treasurer.

Mrs. Colby is an especially attentive mother, deeply engrossed in her little brood, and she was asked recently, with a good deal of curiosity, why she had allied herself with a cause as absorbing as suffrage.

"In my opinion, voting is more incompatible with motherhood than it is with any of the ordinary masculine occupations," she smiled in reply. "Moreover, it has been proved that where women have the vote domestic life is not harmed in any way."

The Committee of One Hundred has come into a field already organized by the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, of which Mrs. E. F. Feickert of Dunnellen is president; the Women's

MRS. EVERETT COLBY AND eLDEST CHILD.

Political Union of New Jersey, under the direction of Mrs. Abraham Van Winkle of Newark; the Equal Franchise Society, with Mrs. George Vickers of Jersey City as president, and the Men's League For Woman Suffrage, in which writers are associated with railroad men, bankers with manufacturers, lawyers with artists and the whole leavened by the presence of a retired captain of the United States navy, not to mention the president, Champlain L. Riley, who is a consulting engineer. Besides these state organizations, there are also local organizations in all the towns of any importance.

"The purpose of the Committee of One Hundred," as defined by Mrs. Colby, "is both intensive and extensive. On the one hand, it is to act as a 'clearing house' for campaign information. On the other, it is consecrated, through co-operation with the existing suffrage agencies, to education in its broadest sense, the awakening of an alert and intelligent public opinion."

The committee already boasts of as vice chairmen Mrs. Otto Wittpenn, Mrs. Francis de L. Hyde, Mrs. George Gould, Mrs. Ogden Hammond, Dr. William L. Saunders and Richard Stevens. In addition, Mrs. Charles Hyde, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, Mrs. Abraham Van Winkle, Champlain L. Riley, George Vickers, ex-Governor J. Franklin Fort, Mrs. George La Monte, Mrs. Emanuel Einstein, Howard A. Colby, George W. Perkins, Mrs. James A. Stillman, Mrs. Henry Phipps, Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer, Mrs. E. Tiffany Dyer, Mrs. J. Magee Ellsworth, Mrs. Seymour Cromwell, Mrs. Joseph LaRocque, Everett Colby and Mrs. David Guggenheim have offered their services.

In her appeal for the committee's cause Mrs. Colby says in part:

"To those interested in the movement to secure the franchise for women this election is of peculiar significance and importance. While full suffrage is exercised by the women of eleven western states, no eastern state has as yet granted them the ballot.

"New Jersey will be the first state to vote this year, and the outcome will have a marked effect on the elections to settle the same issue, which will be held in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts in November. * * * We must not only win, but we must win by an overwhelming and emphatic majority."

It is hoped and expected that every public spirited man and woman in the east will come forward to help in this final struggle for suffrage. Anyone interested can be of greatest help by getting in touch with Mrs. Colby, Orange, N. J.

Points for Mothers

Children's Friendships.

The friendships that children form have a far deeper influence over their lives than many parents realize.

It is not an easy matter to influence children in the formation of friendships, for even at the beginning that seems to be a matter of personal selection. There never yet was a child who did not hate the children whom his parents talked about as particularly desirable for companions. If let alone he might have chosen them of his own accord for playmates, but not after hearing too much about their virtues.

Friendship, like love, can never be created by talking too much about it. There are other ways, however, of influencing both boys and girls, and a little tact on the mother's part will accomplish wonders. It is not always pleasant or convenient to entertain a horde of children when only one playmate would be more desirable, but the old saying that there is safety in numbers is never better exemplified than in the bringing up of children. There are more quarrels, to be sure, but sensitive edges are rubbed off when exposed to the good natured but quite honest criticism of many playmates.

It is the guiding hand on the reins, the light touch that controls the most spirited horses. They respond quickly to firmness, but resent being pulled in with a jerk. A word here, a suggestion there, little plans for children's happiness that may cause many a sacrifice of comfort on the parents' part, have often nipped in the bud undesirable associations and ended, before they were really well started, friendships that would bring no lasting happiness.

The Model Nursemaid.

The children's nursemaid should be neat and have a good disposition. Irritable manners and harshness have no place in the nursery, for they soon make the little ones sullen and bad tempered. By her influence as well as by their play and games she should make them feel the value of good manners, unselfishness and perseverance.

She should insist on obedience from even the smallest child. This once learned will give the nursery an air of sunshine and contentment it cannot otherwise have. Still she must realize that good discipline does not mean tyranny and hard discipline. Punishment should only be used as a means of last resource. Then it should be to deprive the child of some simple pleasure. Any severe punishment should be left to the parents.

It is nurse's business to see that the nursery is supplied with toys to amuse the children so there may be toys for all, but it is equally important to let the children feel that the toys are owned in common. She should direct their play and games, but let all the children pick up their toys and put them away after they have finished with them.

In her personal habits and appearance she should be neat and clean. Her work is clean, so there is no excuse for dirty hands and soiled aprons.

When Lessons Tire the Child.

"The child does not pay attention," the teacher says of the little boy or girl in the kindergarten, whose mind seems to be upon the thing that is being done and yet cannot accomplish it. But it very often happens that the child is not capable of concentrating attention for very long upon one thing. He watches the play or the drawing very carefully for a certain length of time; then he wearies through no fault of his own, but because of brain fatigue, and his eyes wander to the shape of the pencil he is holding or possibly to the waving leaves of the tree outside the window.

Mothers who study their children carefully can tell just how long they can hold the attention of the child without wearying it, but the teacher, having so many to think about, may not realize that she is tiring the child with the lesson.

Many children that are voted stupid by parents or children are only slow in their mental processes and require great patience and care in the first years in the nursery or school. Let the lesson be a little longer each day, and as soon as the child seems tired change to something else.

A Blackboard For the Children.

Many mothers want something to entertain the young child so well and so long that they may read or sew or attend to household duties undisturbed for an hour at a time.

One good suggestion is a blackboard and a package of colored chalks.

It has been found that children work longest over blackboards, probably owing to the ease and the fun of erasing, an act of destruction which delights them and yet in some way is passed unchided by the superior powers. Next to this they like crayons and chalk on paper, and least of all paint.

They enjoy the water and the messing for a time, but the spreading of the paint, while they imagine it to be an ocean, seems to detract from the clarity of the image which the child had in view when he started.

Amusing sketches and actual school work may be undertaken on the blackboard. As to the board itself, a small, light, unbreakable easel shaped board worth a dollar or less is the one best liked and best suited to the children.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Dick came out at the end of the next week, prepared to spend his two weeks' vacation on the farm. The drought being broken, the weather was cooler and the young folks spent happy, restful days picnicking and fishing in what an easterner would have called a poor excuse for woods along the banks of a shallow stream.

"Well, I had my talk with Parsons, Nell," said Dick one day as he lay prone on his back under a tree, looking up at the patches of blue between the leaves, "and it's all arranged. The stenographer is to have a little room that has been vacated in the small building. It isn't quite so handy for Parsons, but he made no objections when I told him how deep I was in. He's a fine fellow. As soon as I get back he is going east for his vacation, and will bring back Mrs. Parsons and the children when he returns."

"My! how glad I am. She is all there is to Fairport for me outside my own home. Then soon after her return mother will be here. How can I ever wait to see her?" Nell leaned back against a tree, a happy smile on her face as she gazed off over the river.

"I rather hate to meet Mrs. Ellison," continued Nell, a frown puckering her brow. A silence fell between them, broken by the song of a cricket. "Do you suppose she will allude to the letter?"

"It's hard to tell." Dick was squirming uneasily. "I met her on the street last week and the air of superiority with which she regarded me was highly amusing. She seemed to be saying, 'Your sins have found you out.'"

"I'm sorry to say it, dear," ventured Nell, "but I think it's up to you to stroke the cat's back and end this spitting and scratching."

Dick looked defiant. "I feel more like throwing water on her," he answered, sitting up and clasping his knee.

"I'll tell Mrs. Parsons and ask her what is best to do; she has known Mrs. Ellson for years and has been so tactful they have never had an unpleasantness. You must do what she prescribes." Dick made a wry face.

"What a mess she has made of the doctor's life," Nell continued, "and he is so perfectly fine, going right ahead and making the best of everything."

"Yes, walking as he can, carrying his burden. I never could do it."

"How awful it must be to have marriage reduced to an endurance test like that."

As they drove to the farm the amber light died out of the sky and the soft twilight settled over the dewy fields.

"Nell, I think the greatest compliment you ever had is the place you have won in mother's affection. I can't get accustomed to mother's showing affection to anyone." Dick looked admiringly at his wife.

"She certainly is wonderfully good to me," said Nell, gratefully. "It's because I was sick."

"No, I've been sick, but she never lost her uncompromising attitude toward me."

"Perhaps I am growing to take the place in her heart of the little girl who died, as well as in father's; I hope so," and Nell tucked her hand in Dick's under the linen lap robe.

"So do I," answered Dick.

Household Hints

SOME GOOD SALADS

Eggs in Nest—Take at least two eggs for each guest. Boil eggs hard; remove yolks whole and arrange them in a nest made of celery straws covered with chopped whites of eggs; cut celery into pieces four inches long, divide in straight, thin pieces and lay on a bed of white lettuce leaves. If celery cannot be procured, the nest may be made of lettuce alone; eggs piled in the center.

Cottage Cheese Salad—Take fresh cottage cheese, add a few broken nut meats and a little sweet green peppers chopped finely. Make mixture into balls after adding salt to taste. Roll balls in some finely chopped parsley until completely covered. They may then be used as a garnish for salad or placed on lettuce leaves, covered with salad dressing and served with wafers.

Dutched Lettuce—Wash two heads lettuce, separate leaves and tear each leaf into two or three pieces. Cut one-fourth pound bacon into pieces or dice and fry till brown. While hot add two tablespoons vinegar. Beat an egg till light and put to it two tablespoons sour cream. Mix with the bacon and stir over fire until it thickens. Pour this boiling hot over lettuce. Mix well, serve quickly.

Apple and Cheese Salad—Simple but very wholesome. Use ripe, good eating apples of a juicy variety. Pare, core, cut in strips and blanch in cold acidulated water, to make firm and white. Swiss cheese may be used, cut in strips. Mix carefully, heap on head of lettuce and serve with French dressing. A little orange, grape fruit or whate grapes will combine with this salad.

French Dressing—In small bowl put one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon white pepper; add four tablespoons French olive oil and stir for a moment until salt is melted. Gradually drop in one tablespoon malt vinegar, stirring rapidly until mixture is slightly opaque or somewhat thickened. Use at once, or it quickly separates.

Tomato in Gelatin—One head lettuce, small tomatoes (one for each person), one box lemon gelatin, one box strawberry gelatin, a little mayonnaise and whipped cream. Dissolve one box lemon gelatin in one pint boiling water. Place in each mold (as many as people served) or coffee cup, if desired, two tablespoons gelatin and allow to set. (One box will serve nine people.) Peel tomatoes, scoop out centers and fill with chopped cucumbers or relish. Place in cups on gelatin which has set. Pour over enough strawberry gelatin to cover tomatoes and allow to set. Serve on two or three lettuce leaves. Pour over top one teaspoon mayonnaise; on top of this place one teaspoon whipped cream. To remove from cup, run knife dipped in cold water around edge of cup and turn upside down on lettuce.

THE TABLE

Red Kidney Beans With Chili Sauce—To prepare this delicious dish, place one tablespoonful of chees chopped up in a frying pan with a little lard, and when melted add a medium sized onion, chopped fine. When slightly brown stir in one tablespoonful of Mexican ground chili powder; then add the contents of one can of tomatoes (having first removed seeds and straining through a colander). Let this cook about ten minutes, thoroughly blending together. Now add one can of red kidney beans. When sufficiently heated it is ready to serve.

Stuffed Green Peppers—Take six green peppers, cut the stem end off and take out the seeds. To one pound of ground meat add one-half cup of bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Mix well and stuff the peppers, place in the frying pan with a little drippings; fry until a light brown. Put in one can of tomatoes and cook slowly for one hour. Take up the pepper on the serving dish and thicken the tomatoes and pour over the peppers and serve at once.

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLKS

BY ALICE CREW GALL

How the Animals Made Garden.

Clarissa Chicken said, "I think that in my garden bed
I'll plant some corn, because I am quite fond of it," she said.

"And then, beside," Clarissa said, "although I do not know,
It seems to me that corn must be an easy thing to grow.

"Because I'm sure I would not want to have to work a lot
At gardening these summer days, it is too awfully hot."

"But," said her friends, "in growing corn you'll really have to hoe."
"You're wrong," Clarissa Chicken said, "I'll simply let it grow."

And so she took some seeds of corn and threw them carelessly
Upon the ground; "It's too much work to plant the stuff," said she.

That night there came a dreadful storm, and sad to say, next day
Clarissa Chicken's corn crop was entirely washed away.

Said Mother McGrew, "It's time wasted, I fear,
To do things by halves or to slight them, my dear,
For here is a thing that I've often heard tell,
A thing that's worth doing is worth doing well."

The Plantagenets.

A flowering English shrub, the broom plant, is called in French "plantagenesta." From it the kingly family of Plantagenet took its name. It is said to have been first used as a badge by them because the Count of Anjou had himself scourged with its branches. The name was taken by Henry II., king of England, in 1154, he being the son of Geoffrey of Anjou, who wore in his helm a spray of the broom when he started for the Holy Land. The best known of the Plantagenets was Richard I., king of England, called "the Lion Heart."

Very Queer.

"My husband has been out late every evening this week, attending important club meetings."

"Yes, so has mine. They belong to the same club, you know."

"Why, how queer! My husband says he hasn't seen your husband in six months!"—Cleveland Leader.

Phantom Bubble In Sapphire.

In the National museum at Washington is a sapphire weighing nine carats that incloses a bubble which changes of temperature cause to appear and disappear.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main street newsdealer.

A general call has been issued to our leaders for their scalp. "Why have they failed to help the general conditions at large?" Whatever improves the white race the same applies to the Negro race. All people in this world are depending on some one for there support. We are always looking for charity. We should take the hard part first and if we were willing to pay the price for our experience which pays and teaches common sense to all. New leaders will be installed on May 31st for the good of all the people of the State of New Jersey and this will be a stepping stone for generations to come. The greatest men and women of today started without a dollar. Our President, Abraham Lincoln, who issued the declaration of independence by a stroke of his pen, seen what was laying out of the Negro. Live without your means if you wish to become prosperous people. We have been misled by our leaders and those facts cannot be denied by any one who has had any experience at all. My father was a Republican and I am a Republican and when I was a boy I was promised great things, but my experience has taught me the greatest lesson that the world can produce. Today you can take everything I own, but the knowledge I have gained you cannot take. Peace and prosperity and the law is for all, no man can prevail for all. Better government and a square deal for all.

"VAN ARSDALE FOURS"

Are attracting lots of favorable attention; this particular grade we have widened in scope and increased in value this spring. We put out this grade as a sensible compromise. For the man who wants shoes at under $4.50—and who has found by experience that the greatly exaggerated claims made for many $4.00 shoes nowadays do not materialize.

Four Dollars is a sensible, practical price—one that goes the limit in buying money's worth—when invested in shoes as good as "Van Arsdale's Fours."

BUDGET HEARING ATTRACTED FEW

But Those Present Had Some interesting Remarks to Make on Estimates.

CONFIDENCE IN COUNCIL

City Fathers Lauded for Their Work by Prominent Taxpayers—Suggestions Are Made by Jacob Sachar on Street Work.

"If the items in the tentative budget estimate for 1915 amounted to a sum $25,000 in excess of last year's appropriations, instead of being $13,000 less, there would be a great many more individuals interested in the public hearing," said Mayor Leighton Calkins in his introductory remarks in the Council chambers last night. Contrary to expectations the attendance at the meeting was a meager one and in his opening talk Mayor Calkins expressed considerable surprise. Continuing he said: "The Council will accept this condition as an indication that all taxpayers are satisfied and we will expect to hear no further kicks concerning 1915 expenditures. We have given everyone an opportunity to hear the budget items explained and the fact that only seven taxpayers are interested vouches for the belief that the rest are satisfied."

The budget was placed on exhibition and each item, whether in increase or decrease over last year's appropriation, was explained by Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, chairman of the councilmanic finance committee. He was assisted in making clear certain phases of the estimate by Mayor Calkins, Corporation Counsel S. A. Reed, his fellow colleagues in the Council and department heads. Chief of Police Kiely, Health Officer Randolph N. J. Chandler, City Treasurer William F. Arnold and Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett were also present to supply any needed information relative to their respective departments.

Few questions were asked by those present, Jacob Sachar and Joshua D. Loizeaux, both of whom are large taxpayers in Plainfield, supplying a majority of the queries. The comments of visitors were of a complimentary nature rather than of the derogatory variety. There was a tendency to laud the work of the Council and finance committee rather than to hurl adverse criticism at them.

Some of the more important questions and the answers follow:

Mr. Loizeaux: "What percentage of the street appropriation does the item of water sprinkling represent?"

Mr. Blatz: "The street watering contract amounts to about $4,000."

Mr. Louizeaux: "Is it expedient that less street watering be done during the year and more of the money be spent along other lines?"

Mr. Blatz: "The number of complaints regarding the conditions of thoroughfares in various parts of the city answer this question."

Mr. Loizeaux: "Couldn't street watering be limited to a certain number of months each year, thereby cutting down on the expense?"

Mr. Blatz: "In summer there is a natural demand for street watering and in the winter we could not get along without it on clear days as a means of keeping the dust down. The water preserves the street to some extent and we have only recently cut the figure down from $5,000 to $4,000."

Mr. Loizeaux: "Couldn't we displace more water and replace more tar?"

Mr Blatz: "That's just what we're trying to do. We're laying more permanent pavement each year, thereby doing away with this patchwork by degrees."

At this juncture Chairman Claybrook commented on the attitude of West Third street property owners in offering to bear one-third of the expense for laying a permanent pavement on that thoroughfare between Plainfield avenue and Liberty street and held it up as an example to other taxpayers who seek street improvements near their properties.

Jacob Sachar: "What are the specific items in the $56,000 street appropriation?"

Mr. Blatz responded to this query by furnishing the complete list of street items.

Mr. Sachar: "Don't you think the street work could be done cheaper by contracting it?" Continuing he said: "Will the Council accept any suggestions that I offer?"

Mr. Claybrook: "Yes."

Mr. Sachar: "I've got a man in Plainfield with the very best material at his command who will contract to do the street work for a sum between $5,000 and $8,000 a year."

Mayor Calkins was on his feet in an instant, saying: "I told you when you came to my office that the prop-

The house is attractively decorated for the affair, the decorative scheme being pink. This was carried out effectively through the various rooms and reception hall. The bride is the recipient of a large collection of gifts. The guests will be limited chiefly to relatives and intimate friends, they being from New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Chester, Pa., and this city.

Both the bride and bridegroom have a large circle of friends in this city, where they are popular in the younger set. Mr. Hallock holds a position with the Central Leather Company.

ANDREWS IS SENT TO STATE REFORMATORY

Elizabeth, April 24.—Joseph Andrews, arrested for a bicycle theft in Plainfield, April 10, was sent to the State Reformatory at Rahway by Judge James C. Connolly, in the Court of Special Sessions, yesterday afternoon. It was Andrews' second offense, sentence having previously been suspended for a bicycle theft. The defendant said he was addicted to the use of heroin before his arrest, and that he resided in Bleecker street, New York. His companion, alleged to be guilty of a similar offense, has been arrested in East Orange.

Albert Rogers, a Plainfield negro, was tried on a serious charge, Margaret Richardson; also colored, and his sister-in-law being the complaining witnesses. The case will be continued Monday afternoon.

MADE SETTLEMENT.

A satisfactory settlement was made yesterday between James Martine, of Maple avenue, the borough, and Aibert Hohnstein, of Westfield, for damage done to the former's bicycle in an accident that occurred Thursday night on Watchung avenue. Hohnstein, because of injuries, was unable to meet Martin, and his brother appeared in his place.

O. T. ELLIOTT'S LEAVING CAUSE FOR REGRET

Officials of Anti-Tuberculosis League Draft Letter for Retiring Associate.

As an expression of sincere regret because Charles T. Elliott, of Watchung avenue, is to leave town within a few days to accept a responsible position with a big paper bag company at Middletown, O., the executive committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis League have forwarded a letter to Mr. Elliott. Ever since the clinic of the league was started, Mr. Elliott has been chairman of the committee in charge, and has carried the business responsibilities, having unaided raised every dollar necessary for the support of this work. The letter, which was sent to Mr. Elliott yesterday by the secretary, F. W. Iredell, reads as follows:

April 20.

To Charles T. Elliott.

Dear Friend and Comrade—Your definite letter of resignaton compels us to admit that the bonds which have knitted us so closely together are broken. With sorrow we realize that you are no longer one of us, and that there will be a vacant place among us for many a long day. This place you made for yourself, and you filled it with a loyal and ardent personality. No studied praise in preamble and resolution could make you feel what is in our minds. We know that somehow the work which has been yours will go on. It must not stop; it must not even suffer. But not one of us has either the heart or the wit to feel that he can take your place.

We rejoice that it is your good fortune that takes you from us. Our concern is for the sick who have been in your care and whom you are leaving behind. We cannot foresee what good deeds will be yours in your new home, but we envy the community that gets you. We hope that though far apart our future interests may grow in ever-widening circles until again, at some not far distant time, these circles may meet, and once more we may work together.

May God bless and prosper you. May the good you have done here return to you and abide with you and strengthen you for bigger tasks in years to come.

Yours, with warm regard and high esteem,

William S. Tyler, President; B. Van D. Hedges, James P. Murray, F. E. Du Bois, Leslie R. Fort, F. J. Hughes, Marie B. Joost, Maria L. Murray, Clara De H. Krans, George M. Holstein, Frank W. Iredell, E. S. Krans, Mabelle C. Phillips, Samuel Rothberg, C. B. Tyler, S. H. Voorhees, William M. Wherry, Jr.

Mr. Elliott will assume his new position in a very few days. The family will remain in town until the schools close, and then spend the summer at a nearby seashore resort, after which they will join Mr. Elliott in Middletown.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE TEAMS GUESTS AT P. H. S.

Members of the local basketball teams that took part in the Interscholastic Basketball League during the season just closed, will be entertained at a dance to be given in the Plainfield High School Auditorium next Saturday night. It was decided to give this affair to the Plainfield, North Plainfield and Leal School teams at a meeting of the Plainfield High School Student Council held yesterday afternoon.

The plan is an excellent one, and although there is no deadly animosity between the players of the different teams, a social function such as this will bring to a close the greatest basketball league that this city has ever had with purely friendly relations. The championship squad will probably be the hosts, and the dance will undoubtedly prove a great success.

Committees have already been appointed to take charge of the affair, which promises to be a very pleasant one.

PLAN FOR A "LADIES' NIGHT."

The newly-organized Brotherhood of the Park Avenue Baptist church met last night with nearly fifty members present. It was decided to appoint a committee to recommend a slogan for the organization and report at the next meeting in two weeks. The Brotherhood also decided to give a "ladies' night" affair early in May to which all women of the church will be invited. After disposing of other routine matters, the men enjoyed a social time with phonograph music.

ARREST DARLING FOR A WITNESS

Former Plainfield Boy Located Through Information Secured by Chief Kiely.

ON FEDERAL WARRANT

United States Marshal Howley Takes Youthful Adventurer Into Custody Following Search Through Three States—Hearing Tuesday.

As a sequel to a search that has extended over a period of three weeks, United States Marshal Joseph Howley yesterday took into custody Mulford Darling, formerly of the borough, but later of Bound Brook. Darling is wanted in New York by the Federal authorities as a witness in the trial of Franklin D. Safford, former clerk in Hotel Kensington, charged with subornation of perjury in connection with the breach of promise suit of Miss Rae Tanzer for $50,000 against James W. Osborne, of New York, a former district attorney. Culminating a search that has led through parts of New York State, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and in which Chief of Police Kiely, of this city, has assisted the United States Marshal, Darling was arrested at Midland, Beaver county, Pa., yesterday. When he was taken into custody on a bench warrant issued by Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson, of the Western Pennsylvania District, he said he would return to New York as a willing witness. He stated that he would not have left New York had he known he was wanted as a witness. He started for New York last night in the custody of Marshal Howley.

When the Federal authorities decided to locate Darling they came to this city and enlisted the aid of Chief Kiely. The witness is well known hereabouts, where he lived all his life up to the time he married a Martinsville girl two months ago and moved to Bound Brook. At the latter place he secured employment on the State Center Record, a weekly newspaper, and remained in that position until shortly after Safford was arrested in New York. Interviewed by those searching for Darling, the proprietor of the paper said that he had left Bound Brook suddenly, but that he attributed his disappearance to financial difficulties rather than to fear of being brought into the perjury tangle. It is known that Safford spent several days in Bound Brook after leaving Plainfield, and it is thought that he lived with Darling.

The United States Marshal came to Plainfield Wednesday, and, together with Chief Kiely, went to Martinsville. From relatives of Mrs. Darling they secured the address of Darling and his wife in New York city, the couple having gone from Bound Brook to that place. Although it was definitely known that they were living at the address obtained last Friday, when the marshal went to look for them Thursday he found that they had gone to Pennsylvania. Hence his search in Beaver count., near Pittsburg, and the subsequent arrest of the local fugitive.

Although it was reported in another local paper yesterday that the sale of seats for the tenth annual Elks' minstrel show to be given in the Plainfield theatre, Wednesday and Thursday nights, was limited, Secretary V. W. Nash, Jr., of the committee in charge, this morning, positively denied the report. With the denial he issued a statemenet showing that plenty of good seats may yet be had, and although the seat sale has been heavy, those wishing to get the pasteboards will have little trouble in selecting good seats for either night.

The committee in charge is arranging for a number of extra features for this year's show, Mr. Nash having completed arrangements for the appearance of a metropolitan blackface troupe. Another brilliant number will be the rendition of the topical song, prepared by Assemblyman William N. Runyon and sung by Thomas M. Muir. It is filled with local hits and roasts on various topics of municipal interest.

"ECHOES OF SUNDAY MEETINGS"

Rev. Edward S. Ralston, pastor, will preach at the Netherwood Reformed church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and in the evening at 7:45 o'clock. The morning theme will be "Stone Walls and Feather Pillows," and in the evening the subject will be "Echoes of Billy Sunday." Favorite hymns of the Sunday meetings will be sung.

C. R. HEAUME WEDS MISS SARA BROUWER

Ceremony Performed at the Home of Bride's Sister-in-law in Brooklyn.

Miss Sara Anne Brouwer, formerly of Dunellen, was the bride at a pretty home wedding last night, when she became the wife of Clarence Robbin Heaume, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Heaume, of 1156 Myrtle avenue, this city, at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Varick Nevins, Jr., 452 Hancock street, Brooklyn. Rev. Dr. M. McGee Waters, pastor of the Tompkins Avenue Congregational church, that place, officiated. Only the immediate relatives of bride and groom were present at the ceremony.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white charmeuse with an over dress of rose point lace and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by Miss Edith Weck, who wore a creation of green crepe meteor and carried a flower hat of pink roses and sweet peas. Miss Weck was the roommate of the bride at Smith College, class of 1913. Frank E. Booth, who was the roommate of the groom at New York University, class of 1910, was the best man.

Miss Brouwer was given away by her brother-in-law, William Varick Nevins, Jr. Master William Varick Nevins, 3rd, acted as ring bearer. The home was charmingly decorated inspring flowers and potted plants, the prevailing color scheme being pink and green. Following a reception the bride and groom left for an extended trip to Washington and points in the south. They will be at home to their friends after June 1 at 342 Warburton avenue, Youkers, New York.

CONTRACTORS ASKED TO EXPLAIN ACTION

Elizabeth Firm Will Appear Before Building Trades' Council Next Week.

Because it is alleged by Building Trades' Agent William Lunger that they have violated their agreement as far as engaging 5 per cent. Plainfield labor on the work being done in the erection of the New Harrison Avenue School, in North Plainfield, Belluccie Brothers, an Elizabeth firm, will be summoned to appear before the local Building Trades' Council for an explanation. Smith & Ostergard, of Perth Amboy, the carpenters doing the work on the school, are said by Mr. Lunger to be employing five Perth Amboy workmen to every one man from Plainfield. The local agent claims that the firm agreed with him last week to engage carpenters on the fifty-fifty, local and foreign basis, but that it has failed to live up to the agreement. Hence the notification by Mr. Lunger for the firm of carpenters to appear before the council next Friday night.

In an interview today Mr. Lunger said that unless the fifty-fifty agreement was lived up to the men would be called from the job and an effort would be made to prevent the completion of the work under the conditions now prevalent.

Another matter brought to the attention of the council at its weekly meeting last night was the misunderstanding relative to the scale of wages between a painting firm in Bound Brook, which has the contract for painting a number of local houses in this city and the local Painters' Union. Mr. Lunger notified the firm to make appearance at last night's session, and after a lengthy consideration it was turned over to the Painters' Union. It will be returned to the council next Friday night for a final settlement. It is the contention of the local painters that a ban should be placed on the practice of out-of-town contractors invading Plainfield and bringing mechanics from a lower paid district.

It was reported that conditions and work on the Evergreen Avenue School were moving along satisfactorily at the present time, and that about 50 per cent. local labor was engaged in the construction work. It was decided last night to notify local business men and other individuals not to advertise in any journal or paper not endorsed by the Building Trades' Council. An official seal has been provided, and this, or the personal introduction of Business Agent Lunger, will be recognized. Four or five hundred sample copies of the Union Building Bulletin will be distributed in Planfield next month, this being one of the publications endorsed by the council.

CANADIAN TROOPS ARE FORCED BACK

Germans Take Four Guns, After Which They Are Retaken by Territorials.

ADVANCE THREE MILES

Germany Concentrates on Small Stretch to Force Wedge Through Apparently in Effort to Take Calais and Control Channel.

London, April 24.—The fight for the ground into which the Germans have penetrated between Steenstraate and Langemarck continues today, says an official statement given out by the news bureau. The loss of part of the line has laid bare the left flank of the Canadian Division which has been forced to retire a short distance to keep in touch with the right wing of the neighboring troops. Four Canadian 4.7 guns fell into the hands of the enemy in this way. Some hours later the Canadians in a brilliant and successful advance recaptured these same guns and took a considerable number of prisoners, including the Colonel of the German regiment. The casualties among the Canadian forces were heavy, but their gallantry and determination undoubtedly saved the situation.

It appears that the German advance must have penetrated some three miles beyond the British trenches when these guns were captured for heavy artillery is often from three to five miles from the front.

In the small stretch of battle front, not exceeding fifteen miles, where Germany is now concentrating her tremendous effort, immense guns bigger by far than the 42-centimeters that destroyed Liege and new and deadly bombs liberating a gas that asphyxiates men in their trenches, are being brought into the action. And massed for the greatest attempt to advance in recent months are half a million of Germany's picked veterans.

The battle along the Yser is still going on, and it is believed the long-awaited critical moment in the western fighting has arrived. Reports of the allies' aviators indicate that upward of 500,000 Germans have been massed along the Flanders front for a tremendous effort to capture Ypres, which they regard as the key to Calais.

Reports from Holland also tell of elaborate troop movements in Belgium in which the Germans are bringing up large reinforcements of picked men.

According to Rotterdam advices the German losses in the last few days have been tremendous. They are sending fresh troops in attack after attack over territory piled up with dead and wounded.

The Morning Post correspondent, in his description of the fighting near Ypres, says:

"In the course of this battle considerable use is being made by the enemy of their asphyxiating bombs—their newest example of "fightfulness," to which official reference has already been made.

"An informant who has come under the influence of one of them tells me that he was a good fifty yards from it when it exploded. He does not know if the fumes are actually poisonous, because he had time to get away from them before they overcame him; but he describes their effects as stupefying—something similar to the beginning of unconsciousness under chloroform."

DISCUSS PLANS FOR BAND CONCERTS IN WEST END

Representatives of the Plainfield Musical Union called on the executive committee of the West End Civic Association at its meeting at the home of J. J. Carroll, 938 West Fifth street, last night to discuss the question of summer concerts in the West End. The proposition made by the musicians seemed to be so favorable that it is quite likely that arrangements will be made to give the weekly entertainments every Friday beginning with June 18. The concerts will be given in Vail's grove if the arrangements are completed.

Progress was reported in the matter of the association's incorporation and the reports from the various members indicated that everything is in good condition. The next meeting of the association will be held May 14.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

MISS FRANCES SULLIVAN GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Miss Frances Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, of Dunellen avenue, was tendered a surprise party Thursday evening at her home in honor of her seventeenth birthday. The surprise was arranged by Miss Beatrice Costello, of Whittier avenue, Mrs. Florence Gray, of First street, and James Fitzgerald, of Plainfield. There were about sixty guests present from Plainfield, Elizabeth, New York, Lincoln and this place.

The party arrived at the Sullivan home at 9 o'clock, while Miss Sullivan was out. When she returned later she found the parlor and dining room of her home, which had been in the meantime prettily decorated with carnations, ferns and red, white and blue crepe paper, filled with those who would honor her. She was greatly surprised.

The program arranged for the evening consisted of dancing, games and music. Those who furnished the music were James Hickey, James McNeill and Frank McCarty, of Plainfield, violinists, and Miss Florence Gray and Miss Frances Sullivan, who rendered a piano duet, and James Fitzgerald, of Plainfield, who played the harmonica.

T. W. SISTY TO EXHIBIT WILD PASSENGER PIGEON

T. Walter Sisty, the proprietor of Wayside Park, will shortly place on exhibition one of the almost extinct species of the wild passenger pigeon. Mr. Sisty is a taxidermist and he has a rare collection of mounted birds and animals, but he treasures none of his species as highly as he does this mounted wild passenger pigeon, which is sixty years old. Anxious to ascertain the value of his treasure he recently wrote to the director of the Museum of Natural History at Central Park, N. Y. city asking the value of the mount and he was told that it was worth between $50 and $100. This estimate was confirmed by Prof. Davis, of the Newark Museum Association and later by F. Blake Webster. This association does a world-wide business, buying species to supply museums.

Old residents of this vicinity will remember how this specie of bird darkened the sun about thirty-five years ago by their flight of countless millions. When they fed, it was like the billows of the sea covering the ground. A good many of the old residents used to catch these birds in nets or kill them with clubs and pickle them in barrels for their winter meat supply.

These same old residents will also remember the sudden disappearance of these birds, which has been a scientific mystery ever since. Naturalists have been searching over the civilized and uncivilized portions of the globe, but have been unable to find a single one of this specie of bird.

WHEN JESS WILLARD

drove that crashing right to Jack Johnson's jaw that sent him down to defeat, thereby "copping" the championship, the world wondered how he did it.

Very few people believed Jess capable of performing such a notable feat, but he received a chance to show his wares, and of course the rest is history.

There are some people who do not believe that high grade clothing can be bought at low prices. Like Jess Willard, all we ask is the chance to show our wares.

We want you to see the wonderful values in Men's Clothing we are giving at You'll wonder how we do it.

Hundreds of others wondered how, and have been shown. May we show you?

HEARING ATTRACTED FEW

er course for you to pursue would be to bring your contractor and figures before the Council committee and they would be considered. I said I would guarantee that the contract would be accepted if the contractor agreed to furnish bond for the satisfactory completion of the specified work."

Mr. Sachar: "I know the man, it is up to you to get him."

Councilman Hylan interrupted the discussion at this point by saying that Mr. Sachar had made similar proposals at a West End Civic meeting last year but when cornered had backed down.

Mayor Calkins offered to make a date for a meeting between the Council committee and Mr. Sachar and his man at any time the questioner named. After considerable "hemming" and "hawing" Mr. Sachar had the date put off indefinitely and said he would come to the mayor's office Monday and arrange for a time and place. Mr. Sachar apparently tried to dodge the issue after it waxed warm but Mayor Calkins held him to his statement and he finally agreed to produce his man providing "that specifications embodying just what work was to be done, be drawn up." This Corporation Counsel Reed classed as impossible. He said that it was impossible to estimate the amount of patch work to be done on the streets and the amount of snow that would have to be removed next winter.

Mr. Sachar said that Foreman Frank Day, of the street cleaning gang, had told him he could do better work if he had competent men to work with. Mr. Claybrook said that the $1.25 a day paid to these men in some cases served to keep them from becoming public charges. If the city did not provide street work for them they would be dependent on the poor department for support thereby increasing the expense of conducting this latter department.

During the hearing Former Councilman B. O. Bowers, Mr. Sachar and Mr. Loizeaux took occasion to laud the Council committee and the mayor for their work in the compiling of estimates and expressed themselves as being entirely in accord with the present city government. Mr. Bowers was particularly complimentary to the city officials and praised the results of the efficiency and economy policy.

A CAPTIOUS CRITIC

TOO MUCH POETIC LICENSE.

The Big Guns of Literature, In His Opinion, Take Liberties the Little Ones Would Not Dare Take and Cites Examples to Prove His Case.

"I've been dipping into poetry," remarked the casual caller, "not as a writer, you understand, but as a reader. At that I think I could do as well as some of them if I could also write my own license.

"The mere versifier must stick to all the rules of the game or be treated as a joke, but the fellow who can get across with the idea that he's a real poet can make his own rules and take liberties with riming and common sense that would make a gargoyle ashamed of himself, which no one could do under a regular journeyman poet's license.

"Take 'Lochinvar,' for instance:

"So light to the croup the fair lady he swung;
So light to the saddle before her he sprung!

"How could he? I ask you that. With the lady once mounted how could he spring to the saddle without kicking her off in the act—unless he mounted backward? And who but a poet himself would license a poet to make his hero do such a fool thing as that? Those Netherby people would have died laughing at the spectacle. And that's only the start, for we also have:

"And save his good broadsword he weapons had none;
He rode all unarmed and he rode all alone.

"Silly, isn't it, to crack a man up as riding unarmed when he carried a broadsword that ranked with the weapons of those days about where a machine gun does now? We wouldn't boast of the nerve of a man these days who went to call on his ladylove with a gatling, would we?

"These poetry heroes do such very foolish things! There's also 'Horatius,' you know:

"So he spake, and, speaking, sheathed
His good sword by his side.
And, with his harness on his back,
Plunged headlong in the tide.

"Can you imagine it? A man with a couple of tons of iron attached to his person and very likely a spiked helmet diving head first into a river! Why, he'd have spiked himself to the bottom so hard that he'd be there yet. It's supremely ridiculous, and no one but a major poet would have dared even hint at such a thing. What Horatius really did, if he had the sense of a brass pup, was to jump in feet first so that he could begin churning himself to the surface the minute he struck the water.

"But it's when he monkeys with ships and railroad trains that the poet becomes most absurd:

"'We are lost!' the captain shouted
As he staggered down the stairs.

"Remember that old favorite, illustrating the power of faith? Read it to a seafaring man some day and hear him snort. Why, a captain who'd leave his post in a storm and go skipping down to the cabin to throw a scare into his passengers couldn't hold a job as a mule driver for a canal boat. Think of it! A great storm, when he's needed to handle the ship, and the poet sends him bellowing into the cabin to start a panic—with no reason for it either, for we learn later that they 'anchored safe in harbor when the sun was shining clear!' It's on a par with the engineer's story:

"The train was heavily laden, so I let my engine rest.
Climbing the grading slowly till we reached the upland's crest.

"I put that up to a railroad man once and he told me with much emphasis that any engineer who let his engine rest on an upgrade with a heavily loaded train would be chased off the right of way with bricks—if he got his train through, which he probably wouldn't. The chances are the train would slip back and pile up in a ditch somewhere while the engine was resting.

"But for supreme idiocy commend me to 'Casabianca.' Why, say, if that boy had been left in a house and the house caught fire and the boy had refused to let the firemen rescue him because papa had told him not to go away you'd be sorry for him, of course; but you'd never think of cracking him up as anything but an example of unprecedented imbecility! You'd reason, 'Well, that kid didn't have sense enough to grow up anyway,' and let it go at that. Yet the poet goes to work and roasts him to death on a burning ship just because papa isn't there and expects you to applaud the inhuman act. It makes me tired!

"And the riming that some of these big guns do is simply atrocious. A little fellow couldn't get across with it in a thousand years. Here take 'Mandalay,' for example:

"On the road to Mandalay,
Where the old flotilla lay,
With our sick beneath the awnings when we went to Mandalay.

"What kind of riming is that—lay, lay, lay? It's repetition, not riming at all. You couldn't get a license to do that kind of thing, and neither could I; so it's plain enough that Kipling must have filled out his own license and the public stood for it. It isn't fair; but it's done all the time—by the big people. Dig into their work a bit and see if it isn't."

Well, I have, and I am sorry now that I listened to the casual caller. I can no longer read poetry with my former careless appreciation of it; I have become too critical.—Elliott Flower in Chicago Herald.

BATTLES AND DOWNPOURS.

There Is No Connection Between Gunfire and Rainstorms.

So far as the records are available, the rain accompanying or immediately following great battles is not unlike that which might have been expected in the course of natural events, says a writer in the Popular Science Monthly. Bearing in mind the fact, already stated, that throughout large areas rain occurs on an average once in three or four days and also the subjective fact that rain associated with July 4 celebrations or with battles would doubtless not have been remembered had it not been for such associations, the hypothesis appears to have no foundation.

In 1892 the United States government disproved the idea by experiments in which violent explosions of dynamite were produced within clouds by means of kites and balloons, with no rain following as a direct or even as an indirect result. The practice, still followed in various European countries, of attempting to prevent hail by bombarding approaching clouds or of projecting vortex rings of smoke upward also is without scientific basis. The relatively feeble convectional currents resulting from these artificial attempts to influence the weather are too meager to have any appreciable effect upon the massive convection accompanying storms and are wholly inadequate to influence precipitation.

SWISS MILITARY SYSTEM.

Tests All Youths Must Pass Before They Become Soldiers.

The Swiss system is ultra militaristic and probably would never be acceptable to the United States. But it is interesting, nevertheless, as indicating how the problem of defense has been met and apparently solved by the earnest and patriotic people of a republic like our own.

The Swiss system is compulsory and begins with the early schooling of each boy. He does not drill or handle firearms, however, until he is twenty years old, when he reports to federal authorities for physical and literary examination. He must be able to read and write and figure, and answer questions in elemental Swiss history and geography.

The physical tests require that the applicant shall cover at least eight feet in a running jump, lift a weight of thirty-seven pounds in both hands at least four times, and run eighty yards in fourteen seconds.

Those who fail in these tests are given an extension of time for further training, not to exceed four years, and if physically disqualified at the end of that period they are obliged to pay a tax, or to take some assigned position which they can fill.—Kansas City Journal.

The Sixteenth Century Carver.

At the formal banquet of the sixteenth century the man who carved the meat was bound with the red tape of precedent. When carving for distinguished guests he had to remember that certain parts of the birds or meat must be set aside. In carving for his lord and lady he was expected to exercise great discretion in the size of the pieces he sent round, "for ladies will be soon angry and their thoughts soon changed, and some lords are soon pleased and some not, as they be of complexion." He was expected to have the rules both of the kitchen and the peerage at his knife's end. A pike, for instance, must be dished up whole for a lord and in slices for commoner folk. The rank of his diners, too, determined whether a pig was to be served up whole, sliced, plain or with gold leaf or whether new bread or bread three days old should be eaten.

Care of the Ear.

Never be alarmed if a living insect enters the ears. Pouring warm water into the canal will drown it, when it will generally come to the surface and can easily be removed by the fingers. A few puffs of tobacco smoke blown into the ear will stupefy the insect. Never meddle with the ear if a foreign body, such as a bead, button or seed enters it. Leave it absolutely alone, but have a physician attend to it. More damage has been done by injudicious attempts at the extraction of a foreign body than could ever come from its presence in the ear.—Health.

Attacked In Front and Rear.

A youngster of our acquaintance who has a faculty for getting into scrapes recently expressed the wish that he was a postage stamp. When asked why, he answered, "Because a postage stamp can only be licked once," whereupon we pointed out that the stamp received, besides the licking, a severe punch in the face.—Boston Transcript.

Distinction.

"What distinction do you make between 'entertainment' and 'art?'"

"'Entertainment,'" replied the theater manager, "is what people want. 'Art' is what people want to make other people think they want."—Washington Star.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and further more, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jads Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

TWO MEN COLLIDED; SPILLING THE BEANS

Peacock and O'Leary Hold a Forceful Meeting in the Second.

Because of a little misjudgment on the part of Peacock and O'Leary, Central High School, of Newark, won a good game of baseball, at that place, from Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon, by a score of 4 to 3. The fatal mistake came in the second inning, when Cregar knocked a short fly into right field. One person yelled for O'Leary to get it, and another signalled to Peacock, and as a result neither one got it and two runs were scored.

Brick pitched superior ball all during the game, and was well supported by his team mates. He allowed no free trips to first base and pulled himself out of several holes by striking the last man out. Schwartz, who pitched for Central High, showed himself to be an all-around baseball player. He, as well as Brick, had fine control all during the game, and allowed but nine scattered hits. Deviating from the usual custom of pitchers, he knocked out a three-base hit in the sixth inning, scoring the winning tally. Schwartz was also a shining light in Newark's Interscholastic Basketball League this winter.

Plainfield got one of its runs in the first inning. With Kyle on base, Rosenson knocked a twin-sacker, which brought Kyle home. Peacock also helped bring in the other two runs for Plainfield by a clean hit in the sixth frame, and came near scoring himself at home plate, but was called out on a close decision.

LOCAL CONCERN IN TWO COURT CASES

Decision in One Reserved and the Other is Postponed for One Week.

The Plainfield Cab Company appeared as defendant and complainant in two police court cases before Judge DeMeza this morning, decision being reserved for one week in each instance. On April 3 an automobile owned by the Castle Ice Cream Company, of Newark, and driven by Charles Meyers, hit a taxicab owned by the local company at Ninth street and Park avenue, slightly injuring two women passengers and badly damaging the taxi. The accident happened during a blinding snowstorm, and soon afterward the cab company filed charges of reckless driving and speeding against Meyers. After three postponements the case came to trial this morning, and after hearing testimony, Judge DeMeza reserved decision for one week. Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, represented the Plainfield Cab Company in both cases.

Mr. Hetfield asked for an adjournment of the hearing on charges of speeding preferred against William Skilman, a chauffeur employed by the concern, for a period of one week, and the court granted his request. Skillman was arrested by Motorcycle Patrolman Martin Welsh on Park avenue this morning. The patrolman alleged that Skillman was driving his machine at a twenty-nine mile an hour clip near Ninth street. According to Welsh, the driver told him "he was in a hurry," and that was the reason advanced for the deed.

PLANNING THE MEAL.

Balanced Rations an Important Factor in Home Economics.

"Oh, dear! This eternal planning and contriving, from meal to meal, over what to serve next."

A common enough exclamation, surely, and one familiar to the family man, who too often considers wife's work more or less of a sinecure and wonders why she frets so easily over trifles.

Just throwing things together in bulk, regardless of the food's effect on the general health and efficiency of those who must eat it, is a wasteful and even a dangerous process.

Nowadays the thoughtful housewife "balances rations" as skillfully and carefully as does the careful stock feeder. She feels that what is good for beasts of the field is surely worth applying to man.

A few hints on balancing rations from the home economics department, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, follow:

Fat, protein and carbohydrates should be distributed through the day so that no meal will contain an excessive amount of any one foodstuff.

Don't serve two or more foods rich in the same foodstuff at one meal. For example, macaroni and cheese with meat, rice and potatoes.

Don't serve the same food in the same form twice in the same day except with such staples as bread, butter and milk. Never serve such a combination as tomato soup and tomato salad, or creamed peas and cream of pea soup in the same meal.

Work for flavor contrasts between different courses of a meal. Seek to have pleasing combinations of flavor, color and form in each course.

Plan to serve a fruit or vegetable at each meal. A mixed diet of vegetable and animal food is safest and best.

PARIS AND BERLIN.

Both Know What It Is to See Foreign Armies Within Their Gates.

Paris has had severe experiences in the way of surrenders to invading armies. On March 31, 1814, the allied armies that had hemmed in Napoleon entered the French capital and occupied it with a force of 230,000 troops. After Napoleon's escape from Elba and his defeat at Waterloo the armies of the allies again enteged Paris July 7, 1815. Thus the great city had to surrender to its enemies twice within sixteen months. Fifty-five years later —Jan. 28, 1871—the city surrendered again, this time to the victors in the Franco-German war, after a brisk bombardment.

Berlin has seen foreign troops enter its gates no fewer than three times in the last 200 years. The first time, curiously enough, the conquerors were Austrian troops under General Haddick, who entered Berlin in 1757, when Frederick the Great was engaged in fighting the French on the Rhine. During their stay the Austrians imposed a fine of £30,000 on the city, as well as commandeering a huge quantity of provisions and equipment for their troops.

It was only just over three years later when both the Russian and Austrian troops, then allies of one another, entered Berlin. This time the city was fined £300,000.

The time that will be best remembered, however, was the entry of Napoleon into Berlin after the victory of Jena. Napoleon inflicted a very heavy fine on the Germans and forced them to feed his troops.—London Tit-Bits.

Saved His Dog.

Lord Rosebery is a great lover of animals, and on one occasion he actually went so far as to risk his life for a favorite dog. His lordship was on board a steamer when suddenly his dog fell overboard. Much distressed, Lord Rosebery asked the captain to stop the ship—a request which was refused.

"If it were a man overboard," said the captain, "why, then, of course"—

"Oh," said Lord Rosebery, "that can be easily managed," and, to the captain's astonishment, he leapt overboard after the dog himself.

Naturally, the steamer was promptly stopped, a boat was lowered with all speed, and both dog and master were rescued, none the worse for their experience.—London Tit-Bits.

Death by Freezing.

It has never been clearly understood why severe cold causes death, but a variety of reasons have been assumed —the accumulation of carbonic acid, paralysis of the vasomotor centers, loss of heat, accumulation of blood in the heart owing to stagnant circulation, anemia of the brain and destruction of the red blood corpuscles.—Philadelphia Press.

Egbert—Yes.

"Is it a gainful occupation?"

"I guess so, but it's hard to tell whether he'll gain money or experience."—Yonkers Statesman.

Would Not Be So Cruel.

Alice—Now that you've broken your engagement with Jack, you will of course return the diamond ring he gave you? Betty—Certainly not. It would be a constant reminder of the happiness he had missed. — Boston Transcript.

"Not if her father says no and the girl backs him."—Baltimore American.

An English Maker of Cretonnes

Introduces His Registered Patterns

to America through Wanamaker's

Beginning Monday, for the first time, decorators may find in America a representative collection of hand-blocked printed linen cretonnes from a certain London firm.

Heretofore continental and English orders have kept the mill busy. Now, on account of the war, the Wanamaker Store has been able to secure some of its original patterns.

All were made for use by decorators. Majority are copied or adapted from old museum pieces.

A verdure design is reproduced from an old Flemish tapestry; a delicate arrangement of flowers was taken from a quaint satin damask and there are unique studies of flowers painted in one or many colors.

They are on heavy linen at $1.65 and $2.50 yard.

Just off the SS. Philadelphian these linen cretonnes will be exhibited in the Upholstery Store facing the Bridge of Progress.

International Collection of Cretonnes

From America, France, England and other European countries, we are showing a bewildering variety of beautiful cretonnes of linen or cotton.

Many times each day we are told that the variety far surpasses any to be found elsewhere in the city.

There are designs for every room in the house—to cover the walls, to make curtains and for windows and doors, for bedspreads, pillows, slip covers. Gay flowers and stripes especially for the summer house, motor-boat and house-boat. Prices 25c to $3.50 yard. Third Gallery, New Building.

Georgette Crepe at $1.20 Yard

A Very Much Higher Grade than the Price Indicates

Georgette crepe is one of the most fashionable fabrics, greatly in demand for blouses, dresses and other uses, and yet we have been able to procure a very fine grade (we have had it in our stocks for $1.50 to $1.60 yard) to sell for as little as $1.20 a yard in light blue, pink, Belgian blue, ivory, flesh and dark green.

Because manufacturers would buy up this limited quantity to make up into blouses and dresses we will have to say that this Georgette crepe is for our own customers alone—it is not for the trade.

On sale for the first time Monday.

Our $1 Quality Chiffon Cloth, 55c a Yard

This is another extraordinary purchase. The chiffon cloth is double width and in about forty different shades, including such popular shades as flesh pink, sand, and black and white.

Chiffon cloth washes like a handkerchief if carefully done and makes charming blouses, sleeves for silk dresses, draperies and flounces, etc.

The Summer Furniture in the Cherry-Blossom Garden

What are your ideas for your Summer home?

All the best of the world's products in Summer furniture are laid out in the Cherry-blossom Garden for your choosing.

Thin young reed, closely woven; the thicker old reed, loosely woven; good white willow; oak, willow and cane in combination; rustic cedar; rustic hickory; natural tones, plain colors, and delightful little touches of colors or of black on a neutral background —everything one could imagine or seemingly desire is here.

There is no other stock of summer furniture in the city to compare with it.

And the very largeness of the stocks makes for moderate prices.

Willow chairs begin at $4. A dining room suite of 7 pieces is only $162.50. And how pretty it is with bright cretonnes showing under the glass tops of the table, sideboard and serving table.

The possibilities in individual color schemes are shown in a black and white willow set in the window at Broadway and Ninth.

Reed chairs begin at $5.50. One of the most exquisite—and at the same time comfortable — reed chairs at $31. It is the finest example of basket-weaving we have seen.

A reed set of settee, arm chair and rocker, ottoman, table, floor lamp and table lamp, is stained a dull black, with touches of red in the reeds, and bright cretonnes on the removable spring seat cushions and the shoulder rests. The set is only $191.25.

Oak frames with cane seats and cane or willow panels, make one very attractive group.

The oak is painted black; the cane and willow painted white. The effect is striking.

Another group is of oak in a light brown finish, with cane seats, backs and panels in the natural finish.

And yet another is of cypress, painted with waterproof paint—olive green, white and light chocolate brown.

Carrara Marbles for the Garden

Italians are masters of the art of the garden. They create for the little garden as well as for the large estate. They design the fountain that the garden may be filled with the cool, splashing sound of water. They sculpture the bench for the contrast of its gleaming white against the velvety sward.

A recent steamer brought our large yearly collection of carved Italian seats and benches of many sizes and shapes, central and wall fountains, jardinieres, tables, lions.

These were sculptured especially for the Wanamaker Store and came here straight from the Italian studios without any middleman's profits.

Notwithstanding the difficulty of ocean transportation, they are priced no higher than last year's importation.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION. A COMMUNITY ASSET.

To the man, or woman either, for that matter, who is closely identified with the activities of the Young Men's Christian Association any intimation that the organization is other than an asset will unquestionably bring forth an expression of protest, and yet there are those honest in their belief who thru misinformation or lack of information altogether, wonder sometimes just why there is a Y. M. C. A. A mayor of a New Jersey city once said at a Y. M. C. A. banquet to which he had been invited, that his city did not need a Young Men's Christian Association for it had its wheelman's club, athletic associations and kindred organizations; that these supplied the needs of the young men and boys. He was apparently honest in his convictions too, certainly had the courage of them, but could hardly be accused of either understanding the real purpose of the Y. M. C. A. or the needs of young men and boys.

Too many times the impression seems to hold that the Y. M. C. A. is simply a gymnasium with an instructor in charge, plus some sort of social activity, these being in themselves the end, instead of being but the means to an end, that end character and manhood.

The Young Men's Christian Association has become a community asset because of what it is not as well as what it is. In no sense is it a competing organization. It does not attempt to replace any athletic or social club. Does not ever presume to compete with the schools in its educational work and most assuredly is not in business as a competitor of the church.

It is a Christian organization, supervised and managed by Christian men, non-sectarian, born of the church and open to any man or boy over twelve years of age. Its aim is to aid men and boys in their effort to become instruments of value to home and community, to accomplish which the physical, social, educational and religious departments have been developed. The Y. M. C. A. works with men and boys instead of for them. In other words it is a "Character Factory," where the raw material thru its own potentiality becomes the finished product and is presented to the community in the form of an upright God-fearing citizenship.

As has been stated it is not a competing organization, and so in its physical work the aim is to teach self control, which means clean speech, clean life, clean sports, temperate habits and the right care of the body which is the Temple of God's spirit. The game rooms and social activities while appealing to red blooded youth and manhood are charged with an atmosphere both clean and wholesome. The educational courses are not substitutes for those of the day and night schools, but supplementary to them and are often of great assistance to boys who for one reason or another fall behind in their regular school work.

Again with the religious work the church calls on the Young Men's Christian Association for very definite service. In its courses in "Teacher Training" and personal evangelism, opportunities for instruction are offered Sunday school and church workers, while from its Bible classes large numbers of boys and men are going into the church. Other lines of religious activity include "shop meetings" where the message of the Gospel is carried to the men in the shops and factories often times in ten minute talks and at different hours of the day and night; Gospel meetings for men and boys in the building, personal interviews by the secretaries with the membership; and the supporting of secretaries in the foreign fields. This is not competition, it is co-operation.

As an asset therefore of the community the Young Men's Christian Association should have the cordial co-operation of all who make up the community, that it may be developed to its fullest capacity and as it offers vast opportunities for investment both in the way of personal and financial service none need hesitate to avail themselves of such privileges. "Character is more than intellect. * * * Goodness outshines genius as the sun makes the electric light cast a shadow," so they who have a part in moulding character are thrice blessed.

ENGINE'S SECOND TEST MUCH LIKE THE FIRST

The new Nott fire engine, ordered by the Common Council from the Nott Company, of Minneapolis, was given another official test at Brook avenue and the Elm street bridges yesterday afternoon. In point of working, the apparatus acted much the same as it did when it was first tried two weeks ago, the pumping capacity and pressure varying only slightly one way or the other. The test was witnessed by city officials, chief T. O. Doane and representatives of the Board of Underwriters. The definite figures will be lacking until the latter submit their official report to the Council.

The trial yesterday was a gruelling one in every respect, nothing being left to the imagination. The engine was run steadily under all kinds of speed and special attention was paid to the working of the motor. This was closely observed by an expert from New York and it is probable that a new motor may be put in place.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 68 degrees; 11 a. m., 74 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 72 degrees.

CHOIR TO SING JUBILEE CANTATA BY VON WEBER

The jubilee cantata by Carl M. von Weber, which the Crescent Avenue church choir will render, tomorrow afternoon, at 5 o'clock, is one of the best examples of von Weber's talent. Written at the heighth of his genius the composer of "Oberon" and "Der Freischutz" left this as his only great church work.

The organ recital preceding the service at 4:45 will be devoted to the sixth symphony of Tschaikowsky. E. Mettler Davis is organist and choirmaster; Miss Lillian V. Watt, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Paul I. Haskell, tenor, and Hugh Schussler, bass.

NO EVENING SERVICE.

Rev. C. H. Kues, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, announced today that there will be no evening service at his church tomorrow, the rector and his people feeling their deep loss in the death of J. Brognard Betts, who was treasurer and vestryman of the parish.

Mrs. Debele was assisted in serving the refreshments by Miss Nellie Winckler and Miss Minnie Leitheusser. The hostess is a member of the senior class of the North Plainfield High School, and her brother is a student at the Plainfield Business College.

TWO FINE SHOTS.

They Won Fame For the Marksman as a Lion Killer.

A good story is told of a trading agent in Nyassaland. He was obsessed with a particularly real horror of lions One of these brutes began to eat up the natives of the nearby village, doing terrible havoc. The agent barricaded himself in his room and slept with six native watchmen on duty in case the lion should try to break into his house.

One night he thought he heard the lion prowling around and promptly fired out of the window, knocking a hole in the government boat. The following morning he was astonished to see what had happened.

That night he again heard sounds which seemed to foretell the presence of the lion. He seized his rifle and fired and this time succeeded in bagging the district officer's favorite mule at the first shot.

A certain well known sportsman, who shall be nameless, was hunting in the district and heard the story. He wrote to the agent and congratulated him on shooting his first lion. The agent rose to the occasion and now silences all skeptics by producing the letter. He has since acquired quite a reputation as a lion hunter on the strength of this testimonial.—Captain W. Robert Foran in American Boy.

Birds' Eggs.

Even the same kind of bird often lays eggs that show a great difference in their marking. And often this is true of the same individual bird. At least one long, infertile egg is included in the clutch of a house sparrow, besides several eggs that are of a darker or lighter shade than each other. One may find a dozen clutches that contain some one type quite different from the rest. The tree sparrow also lays one always different from the others in the clutch. Some birds always lay an uncolored egg, such as the golden eagle, osprey and others. Some birds' eggs vary much more than others in color and markings. A result of experience shows that the following are among the common birds that lay eggs which vary considerably: Robin, linnet, rook, skylark, cuckoo, hawk and snipe.—Chicago Herald.

Two Trees.

The two navel orange trees that are the parents of all of California's millions of Washington navel trees are still alive. One of the trees is in the garden of Frank Miller's Mission inn where it was transplanted by Theodore Roosevelt when he was president. The other is at the head of the famous Magnolia avenue at Riverside. The two trees were sent by the government to L. C. Tibbetts, a Riverside colonist, in 1873. Then followed the development of California's great navel orchards.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Bad Bargain.

"They say she literally bought the count, and now I guess she wishes she'd bought him on the instalment plan."

"Why so?"

"Then all she'd have to do would be to stop payments and they would take him away."—Boston Transcript.

ARTHUR L. TITSWORTH TO OBSERVE 33D ANNIVERSARY

Arthur Louis Titsworth, the efficient organist of Trinity Reformed church, completes thirty-three years of continuous service tomorrow. Both the church and congregation are being congratulated upon the harmonious relation. Mr. Titsworth became organist when the membership of the church was less than 100 and has seen the church and Bible school grow to the present large membership.

He began his services on a small organ which was later enlarged and a few years later partially destroyed by fire. Finally it was necessary to dismiss the organ, Mr. Titsworth having worn it out by his faithful services. In 1911, therefore, the church was very fortunate in coming into possession of the fine Force Memorial Organ presented by the late A. L. Force as a memorial to his wife.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Frequenters of the "movies" who delight in Charles Chaplin's comic personality, as it is revealed in film productions, will be supplied with abundant opportunity to enjoy his droll performances on the screen of the Astor Theatre next Tuesday. Chaplin will appear in his side-splitting two-reel comedy entitled "The Tramp."

If next week's bill at the Astor isn't the best of the season, it approaches the high-water mark closely. With the Mutual Masterpiece, "A Man and His Mate," booked for one day, Monday; "Satan Sanderson," Tuesday, and Edmund Breese in Alfred Sutro's drama, "The Walls of Jericho," on Wednesday and Thursday, the program is one of exceptional merit. "A Man and His Mate" is one of the Mutual Company's latest releases. The full worth of this superb film will be appreciated by those who enjoy the inward feeling of a real play. It will appeal to thoughtful men of middle age, to young people and particularly to women of all ages. Throughout the entire production, dramatic situations are frequent and tense. Manager Hall accomplished a ten-strike when he booked "A Man and His Mate." "Satan Sanderson," Hallie Erminie Rives' famous novel, will appear in film form with Orin Johnson, popular dramatic actor, portraying the dual role of "Satan." "Satan Sanderson" tells the story of a beautiful blind girl. Orin Johnson gives to the role of "Satan" all his dramatic resource and finesse, and is supported by a notable cast of prominent players. William Fox's film masterpiece, "The Walls of Jericho," which as a play attained record-breaking success with James K. Hackett in the leading role, will be screened Wednesday and Thursday, fresh from a triumphant production at the big metropolitan theatres. "The Walls of Jericho" will be remembered as a virile story of English life, and gives a powerful warning to civilization against the decadence of its very foundations. The action centers about a self-made millionaire, who marries a woman of the nobility. Her former friends among Britain's royalty almost lead her to distraction. The production is invested with superb scenic effects, and it may safely be said that Mr. Sutro's play has been improved on the screen. Edmund Breese, than whom there is no more powerful actor, will be supported by Claire Whitney, Stuart Holmes and several other distinguished players.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Jesse Lasky and David Belasco, presenting together the film version of "The Girl of the Golden West," to be seen at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, the record-breaking Belasco dramatic achievement, hope that this romance of the mountains in the days of the California gold rush of '4, will prove worthy to become an established classic of the film. After being offered literally thousands of times in its original form, "The Girl of the Golden West" became an opera and part of the repertoire of the Metropolitan Opera House. But both drama and opera are less permanent than the photodrama, which remains an everlasting record, while living artists come and go. That this final form of the greatest of all American Western dramas may be suitable to stand all the tests of time, the Lasky organization has strained every means at its disposal to make "The Girl of the Golden West" an absolute screen standard.

"BILLY" SUNDAY TEAM TO VISIT THE CITY

Special Services to Be Held in the Churches and Y. M. C. A. Tomorrow.

Plans for the men's meeting to be held in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium tomorrow afternoon have been completed. Four men will make up the "Billy" Sunday team of speakers for the occasion.

Two of them, A. J. Saunders and W. L. Betts, are "trail-hitters." Mr. Saunders is a merchant in Scranton who never went to church except to weddings or funerals, thought all preachers were grafters, hit the booze pretty hard, and ran down "Billy" Sunday as a mountebank and grafter. He finally went to hear him on a dare, and after three weeks struggle "hit-the-trail." The first thing he did was to 'phone his wife to tell her to get all the booze in the house together and put it in the kitchen so he could pour it down the sink when he got home.

Shortly after the campaign in Scranton Mr. Saunders went to Philadelphia and spoke to 600 ministers about what the campaign had done for his city. He has been the means of leading scores into the Christian life. He conducts a short prayer meeting every noon in the basement of his store for his employes and others who may drop in. Mr. Betts is also a merchant with a stirring message.

The other two members of the team are professional men, Dr. B. H. Jackson being a physician connected with the State Hospital in Scranton, and Seldon H. Kingsbury, a member of the Pennsylvania Bar. While these men are not "trail-hitters" they caught a new vision of life and are strong speakers.

The musical program will consist of a song service, beginning at 3:45 p. m., assisted by the Dutch Arms Orchestra of Trinity Reformed church. The doors will be open at 3.15 and all men over sixteen are invited.

MEMBER OF BILLY SUNDAY PARTY TO PREACH HERE

FIRST PAGE. 5D,

Dr. B. H. Jackson, X-ray expert and surgeon of the State Hospital at Scranton, Pa., will address the Congregational church at its Sunday morning service at 10:30 o'clock.

Dr. Jackson is with the "Billy Sunday Campaign Team," which is to be at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon. Dr. Jackson is a fascinating speaker with a splendid message. The Congregational church invites everyone to this service.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

High-class vaudeville, feature photoplays and Charles Chaplin comedies will combine to give Proctor Theater patrons the biggest and best show in the city during the coming week. The new vaudeville bill will open Monday with five specially selected acts, as the following will show: "Fun in Switzerland," an elaborate musical comedy featuring J. C. Mack, supported by a bevy of pretty girls, presenting songs, dancing and comedy, special scenery and electrical effects forming a background for the action; Ray L. Royce, classy monologist, in a series of artistic character sketches; Olive North, singing comedienne, who has an entirely original act; Saunders and Von Kuntz, man and woman, in comedy singing, talking and dancing skit; Snyder and Roth, comedy jugglers, with genuine humor injected by Mr. Snyder's "patter" while performing difficult feats. The feature photoplay for Monday and Tuesday is announced as being George Broadhurst's perennial favorite, "What Happened to Jones," picturized from the original production by William A. Brady. The leading role is posed by Fred Mace, who has many comedy successes to his credit. In addition to "What Happened to Jones," Proctor patrons Monday and Tuesday will have another chance to laugh at Charles Chaplin, who is to be presented in one of his ludicrous two-reel comedies entitled "Mabel at the Wheel." For Wednesday a special photoplay will be Henry W. Savage's "The County Chairman," and on Thursday, "What's His Name?" from the book of the same title by George Barr McCutcheon.

FOR FIREMEN'S BENEFIT.

"The Celebrated Sweet Family" will give a very pleasing entertainment for the benefit of the Volunteer Firemen of New Market in Friendship Hall, next Tuesday evening, under direction of members of the G. E. Club. The program will also include a musical number known as "The Human Zylaphone." Dancing will follow and ice cream will be on sale.

DANCE POSTPONED.

The Park Club informal dance, which was to be held at the club tonight has been postponed, owing to the death of J. Brognard Betts, who was a member of the club.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Billy Sunday, following his visit to the Polo Grounds the other day, came through with the statement that baseball today is just the same as it was twenty years ago. All of which leads us to believe that ticket speculators, boneheads and one-eyed umpires were not unknown quantities a score of years ago.

If an occurrence similar to the one in the N. P. H. S.-All Star game Thursday afternoon happened in a Willard-Johnson prize fight some few scandal mongers would be crying "frame-up" today. It certainly must have required some skill to induce that bunch of shining notables to blow up in the ninth and allow the schoolboy talent to forge to the lead.

Having had the spectator punishing ability of the Plainfield High School baseballers brought to our attention we're inclined to believe that North Plainfield stock will be on the top shelf when it comes time for the initial interscholastic league combat. The red and blue youngsters have been pastiming in a listless style this season and unless a decided brace is effected the season is going to be a disastrous one.

One P. H. S. cohort has ventured to remind us that the season is young. We might add that the schoolboy season is also short. Two months doesn't afford much time for loafing and jumping in and out of slumps.

Despite the fact that certain interested parties offered to finance a feminine baseball combination in the Borough High School we have noticed no wave of activity along the organization line to date. The suffragettes on the other side of the water evidently covet the opinion that the place for the girl is in the kitchen of the domstic art department in the afternoon.

Speed exhibited by the local fire department drivers in handling the auto apparatus at a midnight test recently was worthy of a Barney Oldfield or Ralph DePalma. Cutting down the test time to the actual number of seconds involved in the operation of the trucks would probably make the best of the speed pilots look on with envy.

Certain local pedestrians formed a midnight walking club the fore part of the week and indulged in several early morning strolls into the country. When one of the more enthusiastic members discovered that a gang of robbers was operating about the city it was unanimously decided to discontinue the schedule of walks. Rather a healthy indication of guilty conscience, as we look at it.

Because one member of the Plainfield High School basketball team failed to show up to have his picture taken with the rest the squad will have to have another sitting. This idea of taking two pictures of the same "mugs" is right in line with running an excursion over again because one member of an organization missed the train.

How about starting that inter-club baseball idea going in this city. There appears to be clubs galore for such a week-end organization and it would no doubt serve to inject a little interest into the summer program.

It's a sad state of affairs that exists in the Interscholastic Baseball League. They've got so many cups in that organization that they've got to call a special meeting of the governing board to decide what to do with them.

Someone else has handed us the query concerning the reasons why Plainfield High School doesn't put an aquatic team in the field, or in the water, rather. With the big tank and a competent coach we're at a loss to supply the information seeker with a suitable answer.

Leal School is certainly entitled to sympathy. For fear that conditions weren't complicated enough in the private institution one of the few "regular" players has to break a leg. Two years ago Jimmy Nash pulled a similar "brodie" in a Leal uniform on Crescent Oval and it pretty nearly put the kibosh on the team's schedule at that time. There's no telling how Wilson's injury is going to result.

Joe Green, earstwhile footfall promoter, black-face comedian, ticket speculator and several other things, has undertaken to manage a baseball team in the Columbus Club. As a Joe Ruppert we're led to believe that Joe will be there on both feet.

Britt Martin's farm products will open the ball season tomorrow at Bound Brook. Britt is evidently giving the Plainfield fans an opportunity to show their loyalty by staging the initial contest in "Beetown."

WESTFIELDER LEADING.

At the conclusion of the fourth round of the chess masters tournament, contested at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday afternoon and evening, Jose R. Capablanca, of Westfield, and Frank J. Marshall were still leading the field, having won their games from E. Michelson and A. B. Hodges, respectively. The tournament is still in its earliest stage, but the two favorites are quickly opening up a gap between themselves and their rivals. So far each has scored 2½ points out of three games played, with an adjourned game apiece to be played off at the Manhattan Chess Club, this afternoon. Play will be resumed today, when also the Bernstein-Capablanca, Marshall-Chajes, and Hodges-Kupchik games will be played off.

ATTACHMENT ON FILMS.

Havana, April 21.—John R. Robinson yesterday filed a $1,500 attachment against the Frazee-Curle Syndicate's films of the Johnson-Willard fight. He claims that his services as publicity agent have not been paid.

DOES NOT COURT PEACE.

Pittsburg, April 24.—President John K. Tener of the National League, declared that he knew nothing of the reported meeting in Chicago today to discuss peace negotiations in the baseball world. President Tener said that he had no knowledge of any negotiations between the American and National Leagues and the Federal League. August Hermann, chairman of the National Commission, who has been here the past two days with President Tener, when asked what he knew of the reported peace negotiations, said, "There is nothing to it."

PLAINFIELD'S "FEDS" WILL OPEN SEASON

Team That Displaced the Pets Due to Pry off the Lid Tomorrow.

Britt Martin's Saurer baseballers, Plainfield's representative squad of diamond notables this year, will invade Charlie Newhouse's baseball domain in Bound Brook tomorrow afternoon to engage in a conflict with the town stars of that place. The veteran captain and manager of the local club has been trying out some promising material in preliminary practices, and indications point to an ironclad nine ready for any kind of mixing. While the Sunday line-up will not be made up of the same personnel as the Saturday one, the line of march given out by Martin seems to be plenty strong enough to cope with anything that has ever been developed in "bee" town.

John Dixon and George, alias "Katz," Miller will be taken along to fling the season's first horsehides from the rifle pit, and chances are even for either man being sent in to open fire on the Bound Brook swatsmiths. Dixon is a youngster who has given considerable promise during the past couple of years, while Miller is better known as a hurler, having adorned mounds all around this section in the past. Both are good garden men, and while not delivering on the mound will be used in the outfield. "Snapper" Bergen, one time Plainfield "Pet" and busn leaguer, will do the receiving. Captain Britt will divide the keystone sack labors with Strathborne; Chester Harriman will romp around the red light sack at the difficult corner; Johnston is down for the first station; Tommy Mullin is slated to do the hot work between second and third, and Lou Dixon and Johnny Wilson will line-up with Johnny Dixon and Katz Miller in the outpasture.

A number of local fans will make the trip to Bound Brook, and those who go are assured of a good exhibition. The Bound Brookers and their famous "tin-can lot" are well known in Central New Jersey baseball circles, and it's one safe bet that the fight will be a royal one.

'SMATTER WITH THE INTER-CLUB LEAGUE?

Plenty of Material Lying Around Loose for Such a Circuit.

Now that the baseball season is well under way, considerable informal interest has been shown in the organization of a city baseball league. Although none of the managers have yet taken the initiative in the formation of a circuit, the move will probably be launched in the near future.

There are about ten independent clubs playing ball on local sand-lots every Saturday afternoon and only the immediate followers of the teams know they exist. If a league was organized of six, eight or ten teams, with a prize of some sort to work for, a general interest in the outcome of the league and the games would be created.

The members of the Columbus Club are planning to form a team and the agitation for an independent aggregation this summer in the borough is strong. Three Sunday-school teams, the First Baptist, Hope chapel and Park Avenue Baptist, have all reorganized for the season and would undoubtedly enter a strong league. Other local clubs that are to be considered are St. Mary's T. A. B., St. Joseph's Boys' Club, Highlanders and Netherwoods. The conqueror of that list of teams, after going through a series of contests, could easily claim the Junior Amateur championship of the city.

JERSEY BOXING BILL MEETS AN ODD FATE

No Chance of Committee's Substitute Becoming Law in This State.

Trenton, April 24.—Discovery was made yesterday that the committee substitute for the Singer boxing bill did not pass the Legislature in regular form and is therefore dead. The bill was originally introduced in the house and provided for ten-round bouts. In the Senate a committee substitute was reported from committee and the substitute provided for four-round bouts of three minutes each under A. A. U. rules.

The Senate passed the committee substitute on Tuesday afternoon, and the substitute was returned to the House and concurred in. Under the rules of the two houses the committee substitute, which was approved by the House early Tuesday evening, should have been returned to the Senate because, under the ruling of the Supreme Court in the Pierce grade crossing case three years ago, the committee substitute in reality made the original Singer bill a Senate measure.

After the House had concurred in the committee substitute it was not returned to the Senate, and this fact will prevent the delivery of the committee substitute to Governor Fielder for consideration. The committee substitute is now in the hands of the clerk of the House and there is no chance of its becoming a law this year.

HOOKED THREE BASS; BROKE FOUR LAWS--JERSEY SPORT

New Brunswick, April 24.—Charged with having violated four of the fish and game laws of the State when he took three black bass from the Delaware and Raritan Canal yesterday, Louis Sesse, twenty-three years old, a mill hand, faces a long term in jail here.

He will have to remain in jail indefinitely or until his friends come forward with the amount of the fine and costs. The justice of the peace who sentenced him could not impose a jail sentence, but was compelled to fine him. Until the fine is paid the man will have to remain in jail.

Fish and Game Warden Steuerwald, of South Amboy, arrested Sesse and took him before Justice of the Peace Charles W. Sedam here. Steuerwald wanted the justice to fine the prisoner $20 and costs on each of four charges, using a wing net, fishing out of season, catching fish undersized, and fishing without a license, but Justice Sedam said he would impose one fine of $20, with costs of 65 cents. He has not the option of imposing a jail sentence and, as Sesse has no money to pay the fine, he will have to remain in jail until friends come to his aid.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR MEET TO BE MADE MONDAY

An important meeting of the Union County Athletic League, which will conduct a Central New Jersey interscholastic athletic meet on Parker Field, Decoration Day, will be held in the Plainfield High School, Monday afternoon. Representatives from about twelve schools in this section of the State will be present, and matters regarding the running of the meet will be discussed.

This meet will undoubtedly prove the greatest thing of its kind this city has ever had, and some of the best schoolboy athletes in New Jersey will appear here to strive for medals and the placque which is to be awarded to the team scoring the most number of points.

NEWARK FINISHED SIXTH; LOCALS NEAR TAIL-END

Newark Y. M. C. A. athletes, who took part in the national hexathlon meet, held two months ago, finished sixth among the Class A associations that took part throughout the United States. The Newarkers scored a total of 4,133½ points against the score that won first prize, 5,071 by San Francisco athletes.

Plainfield had a number of entrants in each of the six events, but did not rank among the first in New Jersey. The locals were near the tail-enders with the Montclair association behind them. Harry Slatin, of the Newark team, made the highest individual score in New Jersey, which was 425 points. The hexathlon consisted of six events, the 60 yards and 220 yards potato race, running and standing broad jumps, fence vault and 12-pound shotput.

WET GROUNDS.

The game between Leals and Somerville, scheduled for yesterday afternoon at Somerville, was called off in the morning by the Somerville manager because the grounds were too wet. The game will be played next Tuesday afternoon at Somerville. Fred Wilson, the Leal player who broke his leg in the game last Wednesday, is resting quietly in Muhlenberg. His place at third base will be taken by Mellor for the remainder of the season.

VAN ZANDT PARK LEADER.

Harry "Rope" Van Zandt was elected temporary captain of the Park Avenue Baptist baseball team at the practice held on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon. There were about a dozen candidates out, and the team will play its intial game today with the St. Mary's T. A. B. nine. Harry Thompson is manager of the team.

NEW RIVAL FOR N. P. H. S.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team will go to Orange Monday afternoon and meet the Seton Hall Prep nine of that place. Seton Hall has never before been on a borough athletic list, and the boroughites are anxious to make a good showing against the "prep" school athletes.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

BOSSES HAVE BUT ONE MORE WEEK

Must Reply to Carpenters' Demand for Wage Increase Before May 1.

NO WORD AS YET

Journeymen Will Meet Next Wednesday Night to Decide Upon a Plan of Action in Event of Walk-out.

Although but one more week remains before matters reach a climax, the local carpenters have received no official word regarding their request of an increase in wages of fifty cents per day. The ultimatum to the bosses fixed upon May 1 as the limit for consideration and in the event of an unsatisfactory reply that day would witness a walk-out. The union journeyman will hold a regular meeting next Wednesday night, when a plan of action will be mapped out in the event of a refusal to grant the increase.

It is generally conceded by the public that a raise in pay is due the carpenters, inasmuch as their daily wage is one of the lowest of the building trades, but the only argument advanced by the bosses is that inductrial conditions do not warrant the demand. There is very little work, they say, and each item of increased expense only serves to make the timid investor all the more reluctant to put out any money. In refutation of this, it has been shown by the figures compiled by the Daily Press that the local contracts for this year, up to April 1, more than doubled those of the corresponding three months in 1914.

Plainfield will not be the only place affected in the event of a walk-out, as the fifty-cent demand has been made in every district in Hudson, Essex and Union counties. The men at the present time are receiving $4 per day. Masons receive $5 and $5.20, according to the class of work; electricians, $4.80, and plumbers and tinners $4.50. The painters are the only other trade in the $4 class, but they do not have to supply even a brush, while carpenters are compelled to have a kit of tools worth from $100 to $200.

BARYTA COMPANY TO LOCATE AT VILLAGE

To Erect Factory at New Market on Property Purchased From T. O. MacKinnin.

Piscataway township, with all of its realty development of the past year, shows no signs of letting up in its upward climb as an industrial center, as another twelve-acre plot has been sold, and is to be utilized as a factory site. The land owned by Thomas O. MacKinnon, on the south side of the Lehigh tracks, opposite the plant of the Levgar Structural Iron Company, has been sold during the course of the past week to the Baryta Manufacturing Company, at present of Easton, Pa., the deal having been put through by John Fedderman, real estate broker, of Dunellen.

It is the purpose of the concern, who took title to the property in the course of the past few days, to erect a factory on the site, starting work in the immediate future, work on the construction of sidings from the Lehigh Railroad already having been started. While the first buildings will not be great in dimensions, it is expected that when the company gets into working order, further structures will be erected to care for the work which is expected. The New York offices of the Baryta Company will be located at 205 Pearl street.

The coming of the Baryta Company to the New Market section of Piscataway township is the second to be announced within the course of a comparatively short time, the other being the Harris-Davis-Silvers Company, of Brooklyn, who purchased the Blackford farm of sixteen acres, title of which was also passed during the course of the past week. These two factories will add considerably to the taxable property in the township in themselves, as well as making additional dwellings necessary, which means a great deal in the future development of the villages.

$12,000 HOUSE FOR BOROUGH.

Local contractors are figuring on plans for a handsome dwelling to be erected on Myrtle avenue, the borough, for a local man. The structure will be modern in every respect and cost between $12,000 and $15,500. The plans are being drawn by Architect Oakley, of Elizabeth.

A WIDE FRONT COLONIAL HOUSE

DESIGNED BY CHAS. S. SEDGWICK, ARCHITECT.

HERE is a design for a Colonial type of a house, standing with the broad front to the street, the size on the ground of the house proper is 36 ft. front by 23 ft. depth with piazza at the left side 10 ft. wide, making the total frontage 46 ft. The exterior treatment is low and quaint in its outline, having a very homelike appearance. The roof is gambril treatment with the first pitch of the roof brought out with a sweep over the projected windows in the first story and central entrance. The construction is frame and the first story walls are covered with cement stucco up to the top of the windows, above this the walls and roof are shingled and stained. Second story windows are in groups and projected with a sloping roof being extension of the upper pitch of the main roof. The main floor is 2 ft. above the grade, first story 8 ft. 6 in. in height and the second story 8 ft. A low attic space is provided for storage purpose with a window lighting in the gable at each end.

The central entrance opens into a hall with a platform stairs leading to the second story and a small section reaching the platform from the kitchen affording the combination feature. The living room on the left extends across the full depth of the house and is 14 ft. by 22 ft. with wide glazed French windows opening into the screened piazza; this piazza may be glazed in if desired. In the center of the living room at the right side is a wide open fireplace with double chimney, providing flue for heating apparatus and kitchen. Opening from the center rear hall is a toilet room and basement stairs extending down to the basement from this hall under the main stairs. The dining room is 12 ft. by 10 ft. 6 in., with recessed sideboard and connecting through to the pantry into the kitchen. At the rear of the kitchen is a small porch with space for refrigerator. This makes a very compact and convenient arrangement. This main floor is finished in oak.

The second floor has four good chambers, each provided with ample closets. In the center opening out of the hall is a small sewing room. The stairs lead up to the attic over the main stairs. In the rear is a bath room. This second floor is finished in white enamel with birch floor. It is estimated to build this house exclusive of heating and plumbing for $4,500 to $5,400. The exterior cement stucco of the first story may be tinted a light cream color and all the cornices, casings, etc., painted white and the shingles above stained green, giving a very artistic appearance to the house. There is a good full basement under the main part with laundry for furnace room, fuel room, etc.

BUILDING PERMITS SLOW UP THIS WEEK

But Three, Calling for the Expenditure of $740, Issued by Inspector Doane.

Three building permits, covering two alteration jobs and the erection of one frame storage shed, costing $740, were issued during the course of the past week by Inspector T. O. Doane. The figures of this week's permits bring the total of expenditures for the month up to $58,880.

While the activities in the line of issuing of permits have been somewhat quiet during the past two weeks, work covered by permits issued during the latter part of last month is giving employment to a large number of men, and contractors appear to continue optimistic regarding the future of the present construction season.

The permits as issued this week are as noted below:

FIRST WARD.

The Vitaphone Company is to erect a frame 14 by 14-foot one-story frame structure at their plant at 1112-1142 North avenue at a cost of $100. The building is to be used for storage purposes. The work will be done by employes of the concern.

THIRD WARD.

H. H. Pond, of 924 Madison avenue, is to place an 8 by 16-foot frame extension to the second floor of his residence at the above address at a cost of $400, the room thus provided to be used as a sleeping room. James C. Manning is the contractor, while the improvements were drawn by the owner.

A one-story frame addition, measuring 7 by 11 feet is to be built to the south side of the residence of William B. Nash, at 904 Grant avenue, corner Stelle avenue. The cost is estimated at $240. The contracts have been awarded to Joseph Brandt for the masonry work, and to George D. Wilson for the carpenter work.

Repairs in the masonry line were made last week to the roof of the Walter G. Runyon building, North avenue.

A new house of the brick variety is to be erected at once by Bernard Siriski on his land on Grove street, formerly the Humble property.

The Goth property on the Bound Brook road was sold at auction by the executors on Tuesday and was purchased by Joseph Kuidoshes for $3,600.

The development of the S. P. Q. R. tract, so called, lying between South avenue and Chestnut street, is going right along, the company more than making good their promises, which is something not always accomplished by real estate companies. A number of new houses have been erected during the past few weeks and still others are to be started.

NEW MARKET.

C. E. Kelly has granted the right of way privileges over his property to the new factory concern, which will at once start building next to his mill and coal yard.

MATERIAL MARKET SHOWS ACTIVITY

Indications Show That Day of Low Prices is Fast Closing.

CEMENT KILNS BUSY

A Total of 160 Now in Operation in Two Zones—Leading Supply Yards Report a Healthy Movement to Jobs.

New York, April 24.—If there is any doubt still remaining in the minds of prospective builders regarding the condition of the material supply market the latest advices from the Lehigh Valley cement market indicate that the day of low prices is fast closing. On the first of April there were only 700,000 barrels of cement in stock in Zones No. 1 and 2 than there on October 1 of last year, a period when the stock is normally low. In normal times this supply would barely be sufficient to take care of ten days' market requirements.

Consequently the Knickerbocker Company threw in four additional kilns this week and the Alpha Company started additional capacity, making a total number of kilns now in operation in the two zones approximately 160.

The leading supply yards in Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth and leading distributing point in Union and Middlesex counties in New Jersey, and Staten Island show a healthy movement of materials to jobs. Municipal work and especially State road development, wherein the use of brick and cement is being largely used, is partially responsible for the heavy movement of cement and the taxing of cement mill capacity, as far as the suburbs are concerned. Actual building work of commercial or residential structures has not yet developed in appreciable quantity.

In the river section of Long Island City tremendous acreage is either in process of commercial construction or is being prepared for it. In the Bronx there is scarcely a stretch of three blocks anywhere that is not broken by piles of material moving into jobs. The condition of that borough at present, irrespective of subway and municipal construction, both vast in themselves, looks like the prosperous building seasons of 1906 and 1909. An estimate was made indicating that approximately 12,500,000 common bricks are moving into that borough weekly, and something over a million barrels of Portland cement. So great is the demand for material that at least one company has been forced to employ quick delivery methods for conveying sand to jobs. A procession of five-ton automobile trucks load at five-minute intervals to keep abreast of the Kingsbridge neighborhood alone, and yet that is not the busiest portion of the Bronx.

Contractors are still hungry for business. When the bids for the Eastern Parkway work were opened this week there were nineteen bidders putting in figures ranging from $2,734,000 to $3,849,000. This indicates the competition now existing for work requiring building materials, and indirectly shows that even contractors are awakening to the fact that prices of materials cannot long remain at present levels.

Common brick in New York, the Newark distributing zone, and throughout Union and Middlesex counties are cheap, but stiffening. Lime and plaster are steady on present levels, but the increasing demand is making discounts tight. Steel reinforcement and structural material is much more active, and the new 1.36c price base is rigidly held. More money is moving into suburban real estate development, which bespeaks continuation of the present building movement late in the fall.

Roofing slate is stiffening and there are reasons for believing that present prices on Bangor and some Pennsylvania grades will be changed before long. Hardwoods are extremely active, but mahogany is now coming in again from South America. Flooring and wall paneling woods are still easy, but are stiffening at mill centers.

Heavy requirements of steel and iron on war orders is having an effect upon staple hardware and building hardware. There has been another slight advance in sheet brass and in copper. Spelter is active, which may affect galvanized ware, forcing prices still higher. Dealers are buying in heavy quantities in anticipation of a shortage and discerning consumers are laying in their stocks accordingly.

LEASES FARM IN PISCATAWAY.

John Reng, who bought a six-acre farm on the Piscataway-Stelton road, at sheriff sale for $5,100, has leased the farm to William H. Gordon for a yearly rental of $350.

Spray roses with whale-oil soap.
In the flower garden, sow calendula, calliopsis, centaurea, sweet alyssum, nasturtium, convolvulus, silene.
Plant a few gladioli for early bloom.
Prepare porch and window boxes.

UNLESS the weather is exceptionally backward, plant wrinkled peas. In case the ground is still cold and wet, however, plant the smooth varieties. The former are best. From this planting until June, sow every 10 or 12 days for succession. Planting in double rows six inches apart, with poultry netting or support of some other kind stretched between the rows, is the best method to follow. Never plant peas in soil that grew them the season preceding. It will repay the planter if he will inoculate the seed with nitrogen-gathering bacteria, culture of which can be had on application to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, or from seedsmen.

Good varieties are numerous. For small areas, select the dwarfest. For this planting, set the seed two inches deep in light soil and, in heavy soil, only half that depth. Increase the depth with subsequent plantings. Drop the seed one-inch apart and thin to three or four inches apart. Edible-podded, or sugar peas, are not so well known as they ought to be. The home gardener will not regret trying a planting of them. They are prepared and eaten as though they were string beans.

Dwarf or bush beans are the earliest and hardiest and the best for the gardener with limited space. The only risk assumed in planting beans at this time—limas go in later—lies in the possibility of the soil being too cold and damp. If dry and warm it is safe to plant them. Sow the seed two inches deep and one-inch apart. Nothing is gained by sowing eye down. Thin to four inches apart in the rows and run the rows two feet apart. From the time the seedlings appear above ground until the final crop is harvested, never touch the plants or brush against them while they are wet. Contact with the tops when damp ruins the crop.

In the flower garden, spray the roses—and surrounding shrubs or flowers—with whale-oil soap, two ounces dissolved in one gallon of water. This protects them against plant lice and leaf hoppers. The spray should be applied before the leaves are fully expanded.

In the flower garden, sow in the open ground seed of calendula (pot marigold), calliopsis (coreopsis), centaurea (blue bottle), sweet alyssum, convolvulus, silene (catchfly) and nasturtium. Plant calliopsis one-fourth inch deep and thin to 12 inches apart; centaurea one-eighth inch deep and thin to eight inches apart; sweet alyssum one-fourth-inch deep and thin to four inches apart; convolvulus one-fourth-inch deep, and thin to three inches apart; nasturtium one-inch deep, two or more seeds set six inches apart and thinned to one seedling later, and silene one-eighth-inch deep and thin to six inches apart.

Gladioli for earliest bloom should be planted now, four inches deep and eight or nine inches apart. Nothing makes a better "filler" for newly set borders of perennials or shrubs. Varieties are numerous and the corms cheap. It pays to buy and plant only the best as new corms are grown and there is no annual expense of renewal. Plant every two weeks for a succession of bloom. Montbretias, some of the newer varieties of which are vast improvements on the old sorts, may be set out at the same time and treated in the same manner. In warmer sections, however, with winter protection, they prove reliably hardy. Watsonia, or bugle lily, and the giant Ismene are two more tender, summer-flowering bulbs that do admirably when treated as gladioli are treated. Hyacinthus candicans is another excellent summer-flowering bulbous plant that should not be overlooked.

Porch and window boxes should be made ready, set in place and filled with soil preparatory to planting them during the next fortnight. As a rule, porch and window boxes are made too small. Inside dimensions measuring ten inches deep and ten inches wide are none too large—a foot each way, where space and conditions permit will give even better results with far less care and attention. If a space, say six feet long is to be devoted to the boxes, it is best to make two, each three feet long, rather than one six feet long; in the smaller sizes they are more easily handled. Cypress is ideal for the purpose, as it is but little affected by the damp soil. Boards an inch thick should be used. Provide for drainage by boring quarter-inch holes in the bottom at intervals of eight or ten inches. Make a compost of rich loam, two-fifths; thoroughly rotted cow manure, one-fifth; clean sharp sand, one-fifth, and leaf mold, one-fifth. Mix thoroughly and place in the boxes, packing the bottom layer firmly, first setting broken crocks over the drainage holes. If the boxes are to go in shaded situations where only ferns will thrive, increase the amount of leaf mold and reduce the portions of manure and loam.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

The advocates of woman suffrage are very fond of the term democracy. "Is it democratic," they say, "to exclude part of the citizens of our country from the electorate?" and to the unthinking that seems a pretty good argument, particularly when they bring forward the complaint that women must obey laws which they have had no hand in framing, and must pay taxes as to the imposition of which they had no voice.

They forget that the men composing our army and navy are practically disfranchised, and that aliens and minors must obey laws and pay taxes exactly as if they had had a share in enacting them. As a matter of fact, many of our laws have been put on the statute book in answer to the demand of women, as, for instance, the New York law granting equal guardianship of children. But, to take them on their own ground, is it democratic, even in the limited sense in which our government is to insist in allowing the rule of the minority?

It has never been claimed that the majority of American women want the vote. A vast number are absolutely indifferent to the question, and that a great number are unalterably opposed to it is self-evident.

The following clipping from the New York Times puts the case so forcibly that it is well worth a little study.

East Orange, N. J., Feb. 15, 1915.
Editor, New York Times:

I feel it a duty to present several sides of the controversy as they appeal to one who will have to vote upon the question in your sister State, New Jersey, at the same time that the New York amendment is submited to its electorate.

We are repeatedly told by the protagonists of suffrage that the women of this country desire the vote. This statement begs larger questions, but s deserving of consideration upon its own merits. If the women do wish to assume this privilege, burden, duty, what you will, they have adopted a most remarkable policy of concealment of their feelings, going even to the extremity of direct falsehood, because I have made it a practice for some time to sound women of my acquaintance on the subject, and have found few who favor suffrage, more indifferent, and many opposed in varying degrees of intensity.

We hear the historic phrase, "taxation without representation," without regard to the number of times that it has been pointed out that the words originally referred to financial legislation for one body of people by the elected representatives of another body of people not themselves included in the operations of the laws in question. In this country the men make the laws, and as it is incumbent upon the men to obey these laws themselves there does not appear to be any hardship in exacting the same obedience by women. In fact, the only differences between the sexes under our present laws in this country tend to amplify and safeguard the rights of women rather than ccurtail and destroy them.

We are told of the great abilities of women, the beneficent effects of which are lost to society because women as a sex are not allowed to vote. From the times of Queen Elizabeth and Joan of Arc, not to go back too far, and down to the present day, this absurd idea is disproved by the facts.

Florence Nightingale's conception of the organization which has grown into the International Red Cross Society could have gained nothing through woman suffrage. Mme. Curie's scientific discoveries were not retarded by her disabilities as a voter. Dr Katharine B. Davis's talents as penologist and administrator have not been less available because of "man-made" laws. Mrs. Eno's admirable activities in the Ellert case in Queens could not have been more successful under any other circumstances. Even the National Commission on Industrial Relations has a woman member, who, by the way, shines as a conservative beside the chairman. It is customary in many places for women to be included in the membership of Boards of Education, and examples might be multiplied to prove that women's abilities are thoroughly appreciated and availed of when existent. The crux of this argument seems to be that certain feminists have not been accepted by society at the value determinedby self-appraisal.

We are asked to stand aghast at the awful injustice of woman's position in industry where she toils for a pittance or less without the power of the vote to force the improvement of conditions. The female industrial is bristling with statistics, but it would be hard for me to specify the number of figures which would be required to convince me that a large proportion of these women are not under the voting age and that a larger proportion of them do not get married sooner or later and accept a destiny widely differing from that clamored about by the agitators. Again, in factories and mercantile establishments as well as outside of them women are now subject to the same laws as men except in some cases, where there is discrimination in favor of the women.

The whole movement, in so far as it is in any way sincere or intelligent, seems to be based on the fallacious assumption that righteousness may be reached through legislation. It seems that the utter absurdity of such a theory must be patent to all who read of the strange muddle of "progressive," socialistic, confiscatory, and worse legislation which has been placed on the statute books during the past ten years or so.

I yield to none in my respect and regard for women, but with before me the various workings of the feminine mind as evivnced by history, news reports, suffragist literature, and correspondence, I cannot feel that the sex as a whole is equipped in any way to vote.

To gain my support for such a Constitutional amendment as will be submitted in the fall, it will be necessary to convince me that women really wish to vote and are able to vote so much more intelligently than men as to give us a benefit commensurate with the increase in the expense of the election machinery.

G. EVERETT HILL, Jr.

And here is another suggestion question from the Evening Post:

A Question for Woman Suffragists.
Editor, New York Evening Post:

Sir—In view of the space that you think it worth while to devote tonight to rehashing the old defences of the female suffrage fad, I wish you would tell us this: Did any rational being, in any country on earth, at any stage of the world's history, or under any circumstances, ever seriously propose to confer the benefit or impose the burden of the suffrage on any class of people whatever among whom there was determined and organized resistance to receiving it?

GILBERT M. TUCKER.

New York, February 25.

THE DOUBLED VOTE.
Editor, New York Times:

The Chicago vote fully confirms the contention of those of us who hold that woman suffrage would have no beneficial effect in elections, but would simply add tremendously to the cost and trouble. This vote shows that of the total Democratic and Republican vote Thompson received 60.8 per cent.; from the men only 60.3 per cent., and from the women only 61.8 per cent. If no woman had voted he would have had 60.3 per cent—he actually got 60.8 per cent. What wonderful benefit do the women expect to get from this one-half of 1 per cent.? It is like sending a man and a woman to do a thing that the man would do equally well alone at a saving of time and expense for the woman.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

A COOL COSTUME FOR WARM DAYS.

One of the prettiest styles which has been introduced in some years, and one most comfortable for the coming season is the manner of making up the new flowered silks. These have the silk for a skirt—the new wide skirt which of itself has an air of quaintness after the recent infliction of hobbles—and with this is worn a dainty net or lace blouse with only a girdle or suspenders to prove its relationship to the skirt. The gown here was made of heavy faille in pompadour colors of blue and pink. The skirt consisted of a series of graduated circular strips and the girdle was boned and designed much on the style of a peasant bodice. The ecru blouse was net with lower portion of lace.

DRESSY SUMMER FROCK.

With the growing popularity of Princess and Empire styles comes a tendency to combine the two. Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8882 is a good illustration of this trend, having just a touch of the Princess panel, with the high waist of the Empire skirt. This gathered dress is well suited to sheer dimities and lawns. It has a three-piece underskirt, raised and gathered at the waistline and on the hips. Size 32 to 42, requiring in size 36, if made of one material, 6 yards of 36-inch material.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Oh! mother, how good it is to have you here," exclaimed Nell the morning after Mrs. Reeves' arrival. Nell herself had only recently returned from the country. The morning work was done, and Nell was lying on the couch, her head on her mother's lap. "It's six months since I left you."

"It does me good to see you looking so well. I feared you might show your recent illness."

"I've been gaining right along since I stopped worrying," said Nell. "I did try to follow your advice about not being suspicious and jealous, and I succeeded pretty well as far as not mentioning Miss Rudolph was concerned, but things got to such a pass that I was pitied by all the gossiping women," and Nell told her mother the story of Miss Rudolph's letter that fell into Mrs. Ellson's hands, and was sent on to her.

"Well, don't worry any more about it. Dick's only fault in the matter was his obstinacy and he has had his lesson; he will not be indiscreet again," comforted her mother.

"But this Mrs. Ellson; I haven't seen her since returning and I do dread the interview. Mrs. Parsons says I must be very polite to her, and must not antagonize her, for I shall have to meet her everywhere. She is invited on the doctor's account. I am going to turn her over to you, mother dear. She will call on you soon, probably, and you can straighten the tangle out for me."

"Surely I will do all I can. Is the girl still in Fairport?"

"Yes," answered Nell, sitting up, "but she has an office room of her own, and Dick rarely sees her."

"I must show you the box Dick's mother sent me," said Nell, as her mother followed her into the bedroom. "There are yards and yards of beautiful tatting that she made herself. Did you ever see anything more dainty?"

"I thought she did not believe in anything fancy," remarked Mrs. Reeves.

"She doesn't, if you buy it, but anything one can make is all right. See this apron; all the seams are rolled and the work is wonderful for a woman of her age. I was never more pleased over anything in my life. Dick says she never gave him a present on an anniversary or holiday. She made his shirts, knit his mittens and socks, and gave them when they were needed, but there was never any air of festivity or celebration. This was not given on any special occasion, of course."

"It is a great happiness to Dick to have his mother like you. I am anxious to meet her," said Mrs. Reeves.

"She certainly is a character, and father—— you'll love Father Morton; he's the dearest man! Dick is like him." Nell was replacing little garments in the box with a happy smile on her face.

"There's someone at the door."

"Oh, Mrs. Parsons, how good it does seem to have you running in again! I want you to meet my mother. She has heard so much about you that it will not take long to get acquainted."

After the greetings were said, Mrs. Parsons burst out with, "Oh! my dear, I have very exciting news. The owners of the plant, two families of Scotts and the Frazees, are coming to spend three months at their country homes this fall, and things always happen when they are here. They give lawn parties and auto parties and it's one round of festivities. You would not know sleepy old Fairport."

"I don't expect to be in on that. I do not know them, and I am not in society anyway," Nell laughed.

"Oh! you will be in on this all right. They will not come till late in September," said Mrs. Parsons.

Household Hints

DISHES FOR PARTICULAR HUSBANDS

Candied Sweet Potatoes—Pare and halve sufficient sweet potatoes; put in frying pan; cover with water; add one cup brown sugar and one-half cup butter; cook on top of stove.

Sauerkraut, Pork and Dumplings—Select a meaty piece of back bone, which is also reasonable in price, cook until tender, remove from kettle, rub with fat and brown in moderate oven. Put sauerkraut in pork broth and boil one hour. Make light dumplings, using one pint flour, two teaspoons baking powder, pinch of salt, enough milk to make soft batter, pour in well greased tin and steam one hour over sauerkraut and gravy.

Jellied Knuckle of Veal—Cover a knuckle of veal with cold water, let simmer two hours, then add one bay leaf, six cloves, salt and pepper to season rather highly. Return to fire and let simmer another hour. As long, slow cooking is necessary, a fireless cooker is the ideal thing. Remove all the meat from the bones and chop or cut into small pieces. Boil the liquor down to a quart; to it add two tablespoonfuls of sharp vinegar. Place in bowl or mold until firm and very cold. Slice and serve with crisp lettuce and rich dressing. This is excellent and takes the place of both cold meat and salad.

Chicken a la Creole With Rice Balls—Clean and dress a plump hen. Remove meat from bones, saving latter for soup. Dip each piece of chicken in olive oil and then in flour. Place in baking dish, season well and add tomatoes, finely ground green peppers and onion. Pour over whole sufficient cold water to cover, add small pieces of butter and cover. Bake slowly in moderate oven four hours, then uncover until brown, remove from oven and over the top place tiny rice balls made by mixing grated cheese and cooked rice and well beaten egg together and forming into balls and frying a delicate brown in deep fat. This with a dessert makes a complete meal and is very nourishing and comparatively inexpensive.

SODA HAS MANY USES

A teaspoonful of soda and eight drops of carbolic acid; put in cup and fill with boiling water. When it is cool enough, this is an excellent throat gargle and good for nasal catarrh.

Soda is a fine tooth powder. Keep a jar of soda with your toothbrush. After wetting the brush, dip into soda and brush teeth; rinse with water. It preserves teeth and keeps them free from tartar.

Often people could save a trip to the doctor if they would take a half teaspoonful of soda, pour on some peppermint essence, put into the mouth and drink some water to wash the soda down.

For the bath water soda is most excellent. It softens the water and cleanses the skin. Use a tablespoonful (rounding) to every half gallon of water, and more soda when one has been perspiring.

Use a tablespoonful of soda in a quart of water to rinse the bowels when necessary.

In place of baking powder, use one level teaspoon of soda and two level teaspoons of cream of tartar to a pint or two cups of flour.

Soda can be used to soften water for dishwashing; can be used to whiten clothes, same as borax.

When dressing a chicken or any fowl, after the feathers are off and the hair singed wet a cloth in warm water, put on a spoonful of soda and rub the chicken and see how it cleanses the skin; then wash in warm water.

Animal Jingles
FOR LITTLE FOLKS
By ALICE CREW GALL

How the Animals Made Garden.

Said Clementine Chipmunk, "I've made up my mind
What to grow in my garden, and find
"I'm going to plant some delicious acorns
And raise a nice shady oak tree."

Her playmates all said, "Why, you foolish young thing,
It will take such a long time, you'll be
A toothless old lady with gray hair before
An acorn grows into a tree."

Said Clementine Chipmunk, "The very idea!
You're all quite mistaken, I know;
I'll tend them so carefully, you'll be surprised
At how quickly they're sure to grow."

So Clementine planted her acorns and then
She patiently lingered around,
Expecting each moment to see her oak tree
Come bursting forth out of the ground.

But after a little her patience gave out;
Said she, "This is awfully slow;
Perhaps I had better dig down and find out
The reason those acorns don't grow."

She dug down and found them and said, "Well, perhaps
They will not grow into a tree;
I don't want them wasted, and so I believe
That I will just eat them," said she.

And that is exactly what Clementine did;
She ate them right there on the spot;
And that is the reason, when summer was done,
There was nothing in her garden plot.

"It takes time," said Mother McGrew with a smile,
"To do anything that is really worth while;
And it might be a good thing if you'd plant the seed
Of patience, I think it's a thing that you need."

WIDENING OF EAST SECOND ST.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council has fixed the Twenty-sixth day of April, A. D. 1915, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 140 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., as the time and place for Charles C. Randolph, Elias H. Bird and John Abbott, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to widen East Second Street from the northeasterly side line of Watchung Avenue to the southwesterly side line of Church Street," approved December 7th, 1914, and the resolution of the Common Council in the premises, adopted April 5th, 1915, to meet and proceed with the discharge of their duties and hear all persons interested in the premises, and make their estimates and assessments under said ordinance and said resolution and the statutes in such case made and provided.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — SCOOP HAS ALL THE MEDALS HE WANTS — BY "HOP"

THE FIRST TROUSERS.

They Were Worn Skin Tight and Let Men to Pad Their Legs.

The advent of the silk hat led to the introduction of trousers. Knee breeches and silk stockings did not correspond with stovepipe hats. Try them now and see if you think they do. So reformers set themselves to work to devise some nether garments congruous with the new headpiece.

The result was trousers. There had, it is true, been some precursors of those inimitable garments. The Turk had worn voluminous twin bags on his legs, gathered and tied, bag fashion, at the ankles. The Cossacks, too, had found such things more convenient for horseback riding than any other garb, and "pantaloons" were used in armies, especially by the French. But none of these nor any other garment that was worn prior to 1815 could be described as genuine trousers.

The first trousers worn in London were of plain, light colored cloth, and fitted very tightly; almost as tight, we may believe, as those in this country a generation ago. In the second season striped and other figured cloths were used by some, but such trousers were regarded as quite plebeian and fit for wearing only in bad weather when the streets were muddy, or as a sort of rough outing garb at the seaside. A favorite material for trousers worn by men of fashion was an elastic stockinet, which fitted literally "skin tight." Beneath such garments, to supply the deficiencies of nature, men were not averse to wearing false calves and other paddings on their legs. Straps passing beneath the foot were used to keep the trouser legs held down in place.—Exchange.

"VAN ARSDALE FOURS"

Are attracting lots of favorable attention; this particular grade we have widened in scope and increased in value this spring. We put out this grade as a sensible compromise. For the man who wants shoes at under $4.50—and who has found by experience that the greatly exaggerated claims made for many $4.00 shoes nowadays do not materialize.

Four Dollars is a sensible, practical price—one that goes the limit in buying money's worth—when invested in shoes as good as "Van Arsdale's Fours."

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND FUNERAL

State Educators Pay Last Respects to Memory of J. Brognard Betts.

REV. KUES OFFICIATES

Service is Held at the Church of the Holy Cross of Which the Deceased Was a Vestryman and Treasurer—Burial at Hillside Cemetery.

Many prominent in the educational affairs of the State, together with a large number of other friends, gathered at the funeral service of J. Brognard Betts, for many years assistant State commissioner of education, held at the Church of the Holy Cross at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. Charles H. Kues, rector of the church, was in charge of the service, and Charles Davis, organist, was assisted by S. Frederick Smith, organist of Grace church, this city. The boy choir sang several selections during the service.

Rev. Mr. Kues at the 11 o'clock morning service made brief reference to Mr. Betts, speaking a few words of eulogy and expressing the deep sympathy of the whole parish in its great loss. There was no eulogy at the funeral, but the service in itself was deeply impressive, particularly the music, which included the Dead March from Saul. During the service the choir at the request of Mr. Betts sang three hymns, "I Heard the Sound of Voices," "Now the Day Is Over" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." The entire service was planned by Mr. Betts and was held exactly according to his wishes.

There was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes, including a cross five feet in heighth from the vestry, a wreath of lilies from the New Jersey Council of Education, a pillow of roses from the county superintendents of schools, as well as tributes from personal friends which almost hid the casket from view.

Among the educators from all parts of the State who attended the service occupying seats reserved for them, were the following:

J. S. Frelinghuysen, vice-president, and John P. Murray, from the State Board of Education; from the State Department of Education, Commissioner Calvin N. Kendall, A. B. Meredith, Lewis H. Carris, J. J. Savitz, assistants to commissioner, T. D. Sensor, bureau of examinations; H. M. Morse, chief clerk; Miss Yates, secretary to Mr. Betts; the Misses Precht, Howell, Crisp, and Messrs. Stevenson and Lamson, clerks in the department; Principal J. M. Green, of the Trenton Normal School, and Principal Charles S. Chapin, of the Montclair Normal School.

County superintendents, H. M. Cressman, Atlantic; B. C. Wooster, Bergen; H. A. Stees, Burlington; C. S. Albertson, Camden; Oliver Morelock, Essex; J. H. Hoffman, Hunterdon; H. Brewster Willis, Middlesex; J. H. Huisart, Morris; Charles A. Morris, Ocean; E. W. Garrison, Passaic; H. C. Krebs, Somerset; A. L. Johnson, Union; F. T. Atwood, Warren.

City superintendents: Henry Snyder, Jersey City; J. R. Wilson, Paterson; J. W. Carr, Bayonne, H. M. Maxson, Plainfield; G. H. Eckels, New Brunswick; S. E. Shull, Perth Amboy; Herman Dressel, Kearny; Clinton Marsh, Summit; M. H. Kinsley, West Hoboken; J. W. Kennedy and E. K. Sexton, assistant superintendents, Newark; also W. A. Wetzel, principal High School, Trenton; D. Fred Aungst, supervising principal, North Plainfield; Paul Radcliffe, supervising principal, Flemington; O. O. Barr, supervising principal, South Amboy; H. E. Harris, principal High School, Bayonne; Charles McDermott, State inspector of buildings, Trenton; Charles Hopkins, State inspector of accounts, Trenton.

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall bearers were Dr. J. L. Carman and Herbert E. Langford, honorary; C. E. Murray, J. A. VanMater, F. L. Sill, D. C. Anderson, F. B. Ball, vestrymen of the Church of the Holy Cross, and Commissioner C. N. Kendall.

MOTHER FINDS SON DEAD IN HIS BED

Thomas A. Kilbride Stricken With Heart Trouble While In a Natural Sleep.

Failing to receive any response to her calls, Mrs. Ann Kilbride, of West Fourth street, went to the room of her son, Thomas A. Kilbride, at one o'clock yesterday to learn why he did not come down stairs to dinner. She found the young man dead in bed, death having apparently occurred only a short time before. His brother, John was in the room at 11 o'clock and to all appearances at that time he was enjoying a naturally heavy sleep. The cause of death is assigned as heart trouble as the deceased was in his customary health and had worked Saturday as clerk in the Red Cross Drug store, corner Fourth and Liberty streets.

Thomas A. Kilbride was twenty-three years old and was born in the house in which he died. His father was the late Dennis Kilbride, who conducted a cab business for many years and at the time of his death was employed in the Pond Tool Works. The son worked in various local drug stores as a clerk but had also learned the machinists trade. In the latter capacity he last worked in the Pratt and Whitney shop at Hartford, Conn., where he met with a severe accident several months ago. One hand was badly smashed and he returned to Plainfield for medical treatment, the physicians here finding that the member had been crippled permanently. The concern recently affected a money settlement. Beside his mother, he is survived by two brothers, Dennis, of Denver, Colorado, and John, of this city; also one sister, Miss May Kilbride, living at the parental home. The funeral will be held at the late residence, 658 West Fourth street, Wednesday morning at 8:30 and in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

LOCAL MATTERS WILL BE BURLESQUED

Clowns in Benefit Circus Plan to Poke Fun at Many Things.

Clowns are a feature of every circus, but the group of funmakers who will be seen with the Frank A. Robbins Show, when it appears here on May 7 for the combined benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, Visiting Nurse Association and Recreation Committee will outrival anything of the kind before attempted. Local young men, whose names will be announced later, are planning hits on subjects dear to the hearts of Plainfielders, and they will be worth the price of admission alone. In addition to this several of the star performers at the Y. M. C. A. will take part, doing acrobatic stunts, and the big children's pageant, arranged by the Recreation Committee will be a feature, with one hundred or more local children taking part.

Tomorrow the list of men who have agreed to act on the general committee will be made public, and from these will be selected the ticket sellers and takers, the side show barkers, announcers and general helpers. This list will contain the names of some hundred or more well known citizens. In addition to the women, whose names were printed on Friday night as having tickets on sale for the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the following identified with the Nurse Association can also furnish them. These are Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. James M. Charles, Mrs. A. M. Most, Mrs. Alexander Milne and Miss Elsie Burke. The reserved tickets were placed on sale today at the Daily Press office, and can be procured there between the hours of 8:30 and 5 daily until the show takes place.

A number of people who attended the performance last year have spoken about the trouble caused by the dust raised by the horses and elephants while performing. The committee have taken this problem up this year, and by sweeping with street brooms, sprinkling and the use of sawdust and straw will be able to eliminate this trouble, so no one who is hesitating about buying tickets need fear any trouble from that score.

The Robbins show is much bigger and better than last year, and comes here only a few days after leaving winter quarters at Trenton.

IT'S A BOY.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Staats, of 1018 East Front street, are parents of a twelve-pound boy, who arrived at 6 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Staats before her marriage, was Miss Florence Pearson, of this city.

"TRAIL HITTERS" PREACH GOSPEL

"Billy" Sunday Team From Scranton Hold Services Here.

VISIT THE CHURCHES

Evangelists Arouse Much Interest and Enthusiasm—Dutch Arms Band Plays at Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

The influence of "Billy" Sunday and his preaching was felt throughout Plainfield yesterday, for, in addition to the men's meeting, held at the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon, where the team of "Trail Hitters" from Scranton, Pa., spoke to men only, eight of the local churches had individual members of the team in their pulpits at either the morning or evening services.

A large congregation listened to A. J. Saunders at Trinity Reformed church in the morning. Mr. Saunders, in describing how he hit the trail, stated he had not been in a church for more than twenty years until he went to hear "Billy" Sunday, April 1, 1914. He criticized the ministers, thought it a crime that Sunday was allowed to come to Scranton, and went so far as to publicly urge people to keep away from the tabernacle.

A friend of Saunders' who drank and gambled with him had been to hear Sunday and had hit the trail, and he dared Saunders to go and hear him, which Saunders finally did do, and after three weeks of struggle against it, hit the trail himself. He could not wait to get home before telling his wife, but called her up on the telephone, saying "I have hit the

When arrested Fitch, who lives at 212 Stebbins place, was driving an automobile owned by the company, and was exceeding twenty-five miles an hour, according to Welsh.

QUEEN OF BELGIUM SHOWS APPRECIATION

Again Thanks Plainfield Women for Generous Donations for Relief Work.

A meeting of the Plainfield Belgian Relief Committee was held at Mrs. Frederick Wallace's on Hillside avenue last Thursday, at which very interesting letter were read. One from the Commission for Relief in Belgium acknowledged two boxes of garments sent since the previous meeting, March 4. Dr. Van Dyke, under date of March 13, wrote that a missing box of clothing sent November 13 (the only shipment that had been acknowledged) had gone to France and had been distributed to the Belgians there. Fortunately it contained a note to Dr. Van Dyke, which Andrew Reid, of Dinant, sent to him promptly. Another letter was from the Queen of Belgium, and thanked the women of Plainfield for their help.

It was explained by the president that the Commission for Relief in Belgium had not authorized any statement that more milk was not needed; but that on the contrary the need was continuing, although in February enough had been sent for some weeks.

The treasurer explained that though the response to the plea for more money had enabled her to order March 28 a third shipment of 100 cases, no boat had gone from New York since that date, so that the shipment was waiting to be sent in early May. The financial report showed a balance of $37.77 towards a fourth shipment. This was promptly increased to $45.77 by the ladies present, and $53 earned by Mrs. Van der Linde, Miss Hope Ivins, Miss Lillian King and Miss Alice Smith from the sale of candy and flowers at the theatre the week before, brought it up to $98.77. The announcement was then made that the proceeds from the play given April 15 would be not less than $200, and would raise the balance to at least $298. It was unanimously voted that a fourth shipment of milk should go with the third shipment early in May. The total number of cans of condensed milk sent by the Plainfield Committee will then be 19,200. It is earnestly hoped that a fifth shipment can be made in June, and donations for that purpose will be very welcome.

As the ships are so few and the need for food so pressing, no garments can be sent to Belgium now. Therefore, all clothing donated to the committee will go to France for the present, to be used preferably for the Belgian refugees.

The decision of the committee, made at the meeting of March 4, that its energies be confined to the raising of money for milk rather than for other purposes was reaffirmed.

A rising vote of thanks was given to the members of the Dramatic Club and to Mrs. Van der Linde and her helpers, through whose efforts the fourth shipment of milk can be sent at this time.

FAILED TO HEED OFFICER; HIS LICENSE IS REVOKED

Because he failed to heed Patrolman John Kelley's signal to stop on West Front street last night, after the officer had caught him speeding his taxicab, Wells Cregar had to forfeit his chauffeur's license when arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning. Cregar, according to Kelley, was hitting up a high clip through the business section when ordered to stop, and he will have to face a speeding charge in the police court next Tuesday morning.

Cregar has several times before been arrested for similar offenses, and on previous occasions was let off with warnings. His offense last night was of a flagrant nature, and the action so often threatened was inflicted.

MASQUERADE DANCE.

A masquerade dance was given in the North Plainfield kindergarten, Saturday night, under the auspices of the economic committee of the borough Parent-Teacher Association for the members of the Saturday afternoon dancing class, which has been running during the winter months. There were about eighty-five present, presenting various kinds of costumes. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening and refreshments were served. The event closes the class for this season.

L. O. O. M. MEETING.

The Loyal Order of Moose will hold a regular meeting tonight at which time the installation of officers will take place under the direction of Deputy Dictator John J. Carroll. The carnival committee will make a report on progress of the coming fair and a large attendance of members is desired.

NEUTRALITY OF AMERICANS URGED

Judge John F. Hylan Speaks on Subject at German Church.

QUESTION OF PEACE

Discuss the Right of Manufacturers to Continue to Furnish Munitions That the War May Be Prolonged Indefinitely.

Judge John F. Hylan, county judge of Kings county, N. Y., and president of the Neutrality League in Brooklyn, spoke at the German Reformed church, the borough, last night, on the subject of 'Neutrality.' In part he said:

"We are assembled here this evening for a serious and solemn purpose, i. e., to call the attention of the people to the mistake we are making in furnishing to our neighbors across the sea munitions of war with which they are day by day striking down sons of the great and most civilized countries of Europe.

"The question we are to consider here tonight is: 'Are we sincerely working for peace, for which we have been asked to pray, or are we anxious that the war continue so that a few manufacturers can profit by furnishing our beligerent friends over the sea with implements of war, with which they can exterminate their foes?'

"Why should we furnish our friends (for they are our friends) with instruments of warfare, destined for military and naval use, so that they can continue to take the lives of thousands and thousands of people, equally our friends, who must

Darling was brought to New York from Pittsburg. He is said to have accompanied Safford in an automobile from Slade & Slade's offices to Rockville Centre, where for a time the hotel clerk remained in hiding.

INCENDIARY AGAIN CAUSES FIRE LOSS

Woodbrook Farms Loses Second Large Hay Barn—Loss $1,200.

For the second time within two months, the Woodbrook Farms was again visited by an incendiary last night, with the result that another large hay barn was destroyed by fire. The structure was filled with twenty-five tons of hay and the total damage will amount to $1,200, partially covered by insurance. The fire department from Metuchen responded to a telephone call, but was unable to do anything as the building was partially consumed before they arrived and as it stood in a field by itself no other structures were in any special danger.

The blaze was first noticed by employes of the farm shortly after 10 o'clock. Within a moment or two afterward it was completely enveloped in flame, making an illumination that could be seen for many miles. No one had been anywhere near the barn during the entire evening and there is no possible way it could have caught fire unless lighted intentionally.

Shortly before the first barn was destroyed two months ago, a strange man was detected running around the premises. An effort was made to catch him but he managed to escape in the darkness. About half an hour later one of the largest hay barns on the farm was discovered to be ablaze and burned to the ground, endangering numerous other structures near by. The Woodbrook authorities are unable to fix upon anyone who might have a grievance against them that would lead to the incendiarism.

LOCAL INTEREST IN UNDERTAKER'S BILL

New Piece of Legislation to Place Morgues in Control of Coroners.

Considerable interest among local and county undertakers has been manifested in House Bill No. 423, allowing coroners in second class counties to take charge of all unknown or unclaimed dead as authorized. Largely due to the sentiments advanced in a petition circulated among morgue-keepers Governor Fielder turned down the bill Saturday after it had passed both the Assembly and Senate. Charles A. Higgins, of this city, who is one of the three Union county morgue-keepers, was one of the signers and he was notified Saturday that the measure had been vetoed by the Governor. Aside from the petition it was disapproved by the governor on the technical ground that the title to the bill is incorrect because date of the supplement which it proposes to amend is not stated.

Emphasis was laid by the morgue-keepers on the evils that would accrue from such legislation.

Harry Lowmiller, of Rahway; Samuel J. Leonard, of Elizabeth, and Mr. Higgins, of Plainfield, are the Union county morgue-keepers and if the proposed piece of legislation went through it would take the morgues away from their control and place them in charge of the establishments named by the county coroner. Under the present law the judge in the Court of Common Pleas, James C. Connolly, has the power to name the morgue-keepers and Mr. Higgins received his appointment last January for this end of the county.

Principle among the reasons for the negative stand taken by the morgue-keepers is the corruption that would probably result under the new law. The recent investigation in New York State, where similar legislation has been in vogue, was cited as a parallel. The probe in the Empire State brought out graft and indiscretion on the part of the coroners and it was feared that the presence of similar laws in this State might act as an incentive to the same conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jennings and family returned to their home at South Bethlehem, Pa., last evening, after spending three days in the borough the guests of Mr. Jennings' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jennings, of Front street. Mr. Jennings since he gave up his position as telegraph operator and station agent for the Central Railroad of New Jersey a little over two years ago, has been working for the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. In that short space Mr. Jennings has worked his way up from the bottom of the ladder to the position of one of the superintendents. Speaking of conditions at the company's works, Mr. Jennings said that all the factories were kept going full blast both night and day with men working in 8-hour shifts. The rush, according to Mr. Jennings, is not caused alone by the war orders, but by the fact that the railroads are commencing to enter the market at last for needed material.

In commenting upon the sensational rise in the common shares of the company from 50 to well across par since the present bull market started a little over a month ago, Mr. Jennings expressed the opinion that the shares are liable to be run up to 200 before the bull movement is over. This opinion of Mr. Jennings' is based upon the present orders and the fact that the floating supply of the stock is said to be small.

NEUTRALITY URGED

necessarily uphold the policy of their country, or become traitors in this disastrous conflict? Why should we furnish munitions of war to those across the sea, so that they can continue this war, devastating the lands, and making hundreds of thousands homeless, thousands of women widows, and hundreds of thousands of children orphans?

"It is only natural for us to express our individual sympataies for one or the other of the European nations in this conflict, but our sympathies are our own affairs. The hearts of many of our best citizens in America, who are by birth sons of the great nations at war with each other, cannot remain neutral, but must constantly sympathize with the country of their fathers. However, it is not for us to be interested in individual sympathies, nor swayed by individual opinion or affairs of the heart, but in the present conflict, we are interested in the policy of our government (which these sons help to make up), to see that our actions are in harmony with our prayers for peace.

"If our neighbors have trouble among themselves, should we go to church and pray for them to stop fighting, and then after the service is over and our prayers are finished, furnish those with whom we are in sympathy, arms to wound or kill each other?

"Would such action on the part of a God-fearing man be honorable and consistent? No.

"Is such action on the part of a great country like ours consistent? No.

"The people of the United States regardless of their sympathy, are opposed to any such policy on the part of the government of the United States. The precedent established by George Washington, the father of our country, can well be quoted. 'The attitude and interest of the United States require that they should with sincerity and good faith adopt and pursue a conduct friendly and impartial toward beligerent powers, to observe the conduct aforesaid toward those powers respectfully, and to exhort and warn the citizens of the United States carefully to avoid all acts and proceedings whatsoever which may in any manner tend to contravene such disposition.'

"Why should we discard our former high standard of international morality and submit to the greed of that small group of manufacturers whose factories and warehouses sell weapons and munitions of war? We are a peace-loving nation, we are and want to remain in peace with all the world. We have adopted Sabbaths to prayer, raised our voice in fervent wish that peace may come to the beligerent nations in Europe. Should not our actions be consistent with our prayers for peace?

"Let us then without shame in our hearts for our conduct, in this great country of peace and liberty, make it possible for the people of Europe to continue to say about the American: 'There goes an American from the land of liberty, the land of peace and hope of the haven of rest for the oppressed; the land of a great Republic where honor and principles are more to the United States Government than a profit from the sale of implements of war'."

RED CROSS HOME FITTING MEMORIAL

Commemorates Heroic Women of the Civil War

The American Red Cross society is ere long to possess fitting headquarters. The cornerstone was recently laid in Washington by President Wilson amid fitting ceremonies, and former President Taft was the orator of the occasion. The assemblage was also addressed by Miss Mabel Boardman, executive director of the society.

The building now in course of erection is situated on Seventeenth street, near the White House, on the block between the Corcoran Art gallery and Continental hall, the home of the Daughters of the American Revolution. White Vermont marble is to be used in the construction of the building, and the style is to be colonial, to correspond closely to the White House. Eight hundred thousand dollars has been raised by the commission for this memorial, of which one half was appropriated by congress.

MYSTERY OF AMBROSE BIERCE

Disappears In Mexico and Is Located In France.

Ambrose Bierce, about whose disappearance a mystery existed, has had a romantic career. He comes from New England parents, who settled in Ohio, and was born in that state in 1842. He served as a line officer throughout the civil war and received the brevet rank of major for bravery on the field. Subsequently he took up writing and editorial work, winning fame.

AMBROSE BIERCE.

He went to Mexico at the outbreak of troubles in that disturbed country, and there he mysteriously disappeared, and nothing was heard of him for eight months, despite the efforts of both the state and war departments to locate him. Lately his daughter is said to have received a letter from him saying that he was a member of Lord Kitchener's staff and was fighting with the allies in France. But inquiries made since have failed to discover any record of his enlistment in the British army.

"TRAIL HITTERS" PREACH

trail." He then went home, and for the first time in his married life got his family together for prayer. His wife asked him to pray, and he started with the Lord's Prayer, but could not finish it because of having forgotten it, and his sixteen-year-old son picked it up where his father faltered and carried it through to the end.

Many times his hearers were deeply moved by the experiences of his own and the lives of others with whom he came in contact.

Dr. B. H. Jackson, at the morning service in the Congregational church, told of his antagonism to Sunday when it was first proposed to invite him to Scranton, but how later he was persuaded to go and hear him, and how his whole outlook on life had been changed, and how glad he was to testify at all times to the saving power of the Gospel.

Selden H. Kingsbury occupied the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in the morning. He was also opposed to Sunday's coming to Scranton, and only went to hear him out of a sense of pride. He urged the lukewarm church member to get busy and be an active Christian. W. L. Betts, at the morning service in Hope chapel, said he was induced to go to hear Sunday by his mother, after his wife had failed to move him. He hit the trail and has been an active worker since.

Strong evening messages were given by Dr. Jackson in the First M. E. church, Mr. Kinsburg in the First Baptist, Mr. Betts in Grace M. E. and Mr. Saunders in the Park Avenue Baptist church.

At the meeting for men held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday afternoon, 350 men listened to the "Billy" Sunday "Trail Hitters" from Scranton, Pa. The meeting opened at 3:45, when the Dutch Arms Orchestra played several selections and also furnished the music for the songs which followed.

Mr. Estes, general secretary, presided during the meeting, calling on W. D. Murray to read the Scripture lesson, and then on Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson to lead in prayer.

The first speaker introduced by Mr. Estes was S. H. Kingsbury. Mr. Kingsbury told how, before coming in contact with Mr. Sunday, he was a member of the church, attending service Sunday mornings and playing golf, etc., Sunday afternoons. But the conversion of a tramp had opened the eyes of Mr. Kingsbury to the possibilities of the Gospel that Billy Sunday was preaching, and the result was that he became a "Trail Hitter" himself.

Dr. B. H. Jackson, the next speaker, stated that there was no chance to go 50-50 in one's religious life, but that it was necessary for one to go all the way in order to be a real Christian. He used the illustration of the dynamo, stating that all prayers will be answered if they are connected right with the proper sourse of power, and that unanswered prayers are not connected.

The third speaker, W. L. Betts, testified that he was a "Billy" Sunday "Trail Hitter" and proud of the fact. He told how the coming of Mr. Sunday to Scranton had changed his life. He used the same illustration that Dr. Jackson had, stating that a large number of professing Christians were conected to an alternating current dynamo and not a direct current machine.

A. L. Saunders, the last speaker of the afternoon, told the story of his life before hitting the trail. How his own children were afraid of him and ashamed to have him come home when they had company. Mr. Saunders' testimony was very strong and his description of his life before and after conversion made a great impression on all the men present at the meeting.

The meeting proved to be very much of a success, and no doubt the meetings in the different churches yesterday, together with the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, will make themselves felt in Plainfield.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the page that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

METHOD OF KILLING HORSE WAS COSTLY

Max Weber Sentenced to Pay a $20 Fine and Costs of Court for Cruelty.

Because he adopted an inhumane method for killing a horse which had been condemned to die by Dr. F. C. Herbert, a local veterinary, Max Weber, a Mt. Bethel farmhand, was this morning sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and costs of court, by Justice Snape in the borough police court. Lewis C. Teed ,of Newark, special agent for the S. P. C. A., appeared as complainant and in his specific allegations said that after Weber had discharged two barrels of a shotgun into the animal's head he beat it over the head with the sharp edge of an axe.

This failing to put the equine out of its misery Weber is said to have resorted to beating it about the body with the blunt edge of the axe and finally took a couple of more shots with a gun. After killing the beast, according to Teed, the accused man took a butcher knife and severed the head from the rest of the body. Arthur Winn, of Mt. Bethel, was the informant in the case.

COUNCILMAN DEAD; THREE OTHERS HURT

Bound Brook Party Victims When Septic Tank Valve Explodes.

In an explosion of illuminating gas near Belmar yesterday afternoon, Councilman Carson LaRue, of South Bound Brook, was killed; and Councilman Raymond Stryker, Mayor George M. Baldwin and Assessor William Morecraft, of the same place, were badly injured. The councilmen and Mayor went to Belmar yesterday to inspect a septic sewer tank under the guidance of Clyde Potts, sanitary engineer, of New York.

They had visited the plant and had just descended into the valve chamber when the accident happened. One member of the party had just stepped upon the ladder when a burst of flame burned him to his knees. LaRue was half way down the ladder when he stepped to the top all aflame and fell over the edge. Potts and Morecraft leaped to his assistance and dragged him out.

Ethelvert Bacon, an engineer, of Elmira, N. Y., went down for Stryker, who, it was thought, was dead. He had been knocked down and it is believed that this saved his life, as he lay beneath the sweep of the flames. It is thought the explosion of the valve chamber was caused by Stryker scratching a match to light a cigar.

The men visited the Belmar plant for the purpose of inspecting a system the installation of which is being contemplated in South Bound Brook and were concluding their visit when the fatal accident occurred.

British Soldiers' Pay.

The English war office gives some interesting information concerning how the soldier is paid, whatever the circumstances of his service.

In the trenches of course there is not much use for money, but while he remains on the firing line the soldier's accounts are kept by his company officers, and he can make withdrawals when convenient.

A statement of his financial position follows him into the hospital, and his banker is then the medical officer in charge. On furlough during convalescence there is a special paymaster. Pay due to a soldier killed in action is dealt with as part of the estate and sent to the next of kin.—Philadelphia North American.

A Curious Error.

The Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale told how a curious error crept into the translation of the Lord's Prayer into the Delaware Indian tongue. The English translator had as an assistant an Indian who knew English. "What is 'hallow' in Delaware?" asked the translator. The Indian thought he said "halloo" and gave him the equivalent. Therefore the Delaware version of the Lord's Prayer reads, "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallooed be thy name."

Alabama's Capitals.

When Alabama was a territory its capital was at St. Stephens, in Washington county. The convention that framed the constitution under which it was admitted into the Union was held in Huntsville, where the first legislature met in October, 1819, and the first governor was inaugurated. Cahaba became the seat of government in 1820. In 1825 the capital was removed to Tuscaloosa, and in 1846 it was again removed, this time to Montgomery.

Witness My Hand.

In the early days only a few scholars knew how to write. It was then customary to sign a document by smearing the hand with ink and impressing it upon the paper, accompanied by the words, "Witness my hand." Afterward the seal was introduced as a substitute for the hand mark and was used with the words above quoted, the two forming the signature. This is the origin of the expression as used in modern documents.

BEGGARS OF CHINA

They Are an Impudent and Aggressive Set of Rogues.

BRAZEN PRANKS THEY PLAY.

Some of the High Handed Schemes They Use For the Purpose of Extorting Money From Their Victims—One Clever Method of Robbery.

Begging is in the nature of an art in China, and the various sorts of supplicants have been classified until now it is known that there are at least thirty classes of traveling mendicants who regularly go from place to place, plying their profitable vocation. The passenger boats know them only too well and do not attempt to collect passage money, for they sleep on the open deck and, curiously enough, pay for whatever rice they require. This being the case, rather than have any trouble with them and gain their enmity the boatmen allow them free passage.

When the mendicants reach the city they put up at the beggar hotel near the big pagoda and let the beggar headman know of their arrival. Soon the regular allowance is forthcoming from their victims, and the beggars spend a few days in pursuit of pleasure and then move on to another place to repeat the same proceeding.

There is one particularly obtrusive and disagreeable class trained to balance various objects on the nose, which usually selects a victim of means. These fellows may walk into a house and pick up chairs and balance them on their noses as they prance around the room. They then take these and place them just outside of the door, possibly on the street, much to the satisfaction of the large crowd which has followed them, as they have possibly just done the same thing down the street a bit. If the money is immediately forthcoming, the show may soon stop and the things will be returned to their proper places.

If, on the other hand, the residents refuse to comply with their demands, they pick up one article of furniture after another, skillfully balance each upon their noses, and, amid the roar of satisfaction from the street rabble, they carry them outside to the street. This may continue till the whole of the room's contents have been piled upon the street, and then the beggars walk off amid the bursts of applause that follow their action and leave the victim to move his belongings back into the house.

Again, there are others who are beggars pure and simple, who walk in the middle of the street, beating the pavement with a small bamboo stick. They turn neither to the right nor to the left to beg, but keep their eyes fixed ahead of them and take only what is thrown to them.

In quite another class is the wretch who shams ailment or physical defect, and who is a clever actor, willing to go to considerable physical discomfort in his efforts to arouse sympathy. He makes a practice of cutting himself when his demands are refused. He will appear before a family and demand a fee. If this is refused he draws a knife and cuts his forehead, and the blood begins to flow, much to the horror, and confusion of those in the house, especially if they are only women.

The sight of blood quickly changes the matter, and the beggar begins to yell in a most distressing way at the same time, attracting a crowd. It is now easy with so many witnesses to open negotiations for a much larger fee, and he is usually paid considerably more than was at first demanded.

Having carried his point, the beggar now tours the entire street, where the news of his actions has preceded him, and he finds no trouble in collecting a handsome little sum from his one cut, for the blood, still fresh on his face, strikes terror to the chicken hearted.

There is also a class of criminals who are sent into exile and sentenced to beg for a certain period of time in a province a long distance from their native places. This does away with the necessity of the government's feeding the criminal and puts him out upon public charity.

Of a very different class are the men who have a pitiful tale of starvation to tell, which, they bewail, compels them to sell their wives or sons. Few indeed would think of making a purchase of this nature, and the story almost invariably results in the bestowal of money on the "unfortunate" man. However, if he finds some one who is willing to make the bargain and take the child he is inwardly delighted, for this means a full bag for him when he finally hauls in his net.

The son goes with the new master and proves himself an unusually satisfactory lad, doing his work with his whole heart in it and thereby gaining his master's approval and entire confidence as he had planned. In due time the dutiful son slips the latch and allows his fond father to enter and secure all the goods possible, and together father and son leave with all the plunder they can possibly carry.—Argonaut.

Capable of What?

Mrs. Newlywed—I want a cook, but she must be capable. Head of Employment Agency—Madam, I have several on my books capable of anything.—Judge.

To a sensible man there is no such thing as chance.—Ludwig Tieck.

THE 1915 BUDGET.

Plainfield taxpayers had their chance to gain inside knowledge concerning the tentative estimates for the 1915 budget Friday night and they choose to ignore the opportunity. While the disinterest might be charged up against the taxpayer, the generally accepted theory for the small attendance at the public hearing is that local citizens are so well satisfied with the ability of their councilmen that they think it unnecessary to worry themselves by delving into the mysteries of budget-making.

One thing is certain, however, and that is that a $25,000 increase in appropriations over last year, instead of the $13,000 decrease would have been a big drawing card for public interest in Friday night's meeting. Minute explanation of the allowances for various departments expenses during 1915 convinced those at the hearing that some close figuring had been done by the finance committee and the endorsement of the interested few made it evident that everybody is in accord with the tentative figures.

Inasmuch as no one came forth with a protest, when a general invitation was extended, the city fathers rightly expect that there will be no disgruntled remarks heard during the coming year over department expenditures. Suggestions galore came from the handful of taxpayers at the meeting, but it was shown in a convincing manner that better methods were being practised in each instance and that a change would not be expedient. While it is impossible to eliminate the kicking element in its entirety, it is only to be expected that the dissatisfaction will be reduced to a minimum during the present year.

ROOSEVELT AND BARNES.

After reading the testimony of Theodore Roosevelt in the Barnes libel suit, the average person is forced to wonder what possessed Barnes to start the action. The Colonel's testimony has been so effectively given that the general public has already formed the impression that Barnes is on trial, instead of trying to get $50,000 from the Colonel.

No political boss is likely to show up to advantage under the searching glare of the limelight. Speaking with reference to Mr. Barnes, Colonel Roosevelt declared that political bosses "form the all-powerful invisible government which is responsible for the maladministration and corruption of the public offices." It seems probable that Mr. Barnes was less eager to undertake the hazards of a defence in court than to be the means of disclosures likely to confound Colonel Roosevelt.

In response to the charge of inconsistency, Mr. Roosevelt, unexpectedly cynical and cheerfully frank, says that of course he used the bosses when they were co-operating with him and denounced them for their crookedness when they turned against him. This is a characteristic illustration of the Roosevelt ian logic and view point. His eloquence inspired by the present libel suit is likely to contribute to the gaiety of nations as well as to puzzle millions of Americans for an explanation as to why Barnes started the suit. Certainly from the testimony thus far but one result can be expected and that is a verdit of "no cause for action."

Certain interested citizens of Plainfield have sought to criticize the street department for the class of labor engaged to clean the city streets. They believe that the city should maintain a "white-wing" squad of brawn and muscle capable of earning two or three dollars a day. This same group also believes that it would not be advisable to boost either the street or poor department appropriations. Hence the question: "What are we going to do with the men now working on the streets?"

For the most part these men have sought this particular work because they are fit for nothing else. If they could not secure city employment they would be classed as indigents and the municipality would have to take care of them as such through the poor department. Contrary to the general belief they get not more than $1.25 a day and the amount of work they do is well worth this money. To hire able-bodied individuals for street cleaning would mean a boost in salaries and at the same time would throw these old men out of employment and make them dependent on the city for support. In a sense they are at the present time being supported by the city and it is not believed that any change in policy would be warranted or that the results would be so manifestly beneficial, as predicted by the agitators.

If someone wants to outrival Burbank we suggest the breeding of a boneless shad.

MANY ATTEND RECEPTION AND DANCE AT OAK TREE

A delightful reception and dance was held Saturday night at the Oak Tree school house by the Oak Tree dancing class under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Westcott, of Somerville. Mrs. Westcott, who is noted for her clever dancing, was assisted by Mrs. Campfield, of Newark, at the piano. About one hundred were present. The auditorium was prettily decorated in red, white and blue. A feature of the evening was the Paul Jones and Tag dance which was enjoyed by all. At a late hour refreshments were served.

Mrs. C. L. Laury, chairman of the committee for the affair, was ably assisted by her corps of floor managers. Guests were present from Oak Tree, Mt. Pleasant, Metuchen, New York, Plainfield, Newark and Somerville.

TEDIOUS ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH OF YOUNG MOTHER

Following an illness that has extended over the past year, Mrs. Queena E. Mundy, wife of William B. Mundy, died at 7 o'clock last night at her home on Lyman place. She was twenty-eight years old and was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Force, who have been making their home with her.

Mrs. Mundy was a native of this city and had always resided here. She made a gallant fight to regain her health, part of the time being a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital, but when she realized that her condition was hopeless she bore up bravely. Beside her husband and parents she is survived by two little girls. She was a member of Hope Memorial chapel and had a host of friends who will mourn her death.

Mrs. Mundy's mother, Mrs. Force, is the only surviving sister of Percy Cannon, of East Second street, and with him the young woman was an especial favorite, being his only niece. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

DANCE AND RECITAL.

Miss Lillian Leighton Lamson will give one of her imitative recitals under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, at the High School Auditorium, Friday night. SAD TRAGEDIES OF RURAL LIFE

Farm Women Write Their Pathetic Experiences.

THE United States department of agriculture has been making inquiries into the social and labor needs of farm women and has published a series of reports relating thereto. The reports deal with the domestic, educational and economic conditions of farm life and are largely made up of letters received by the department from farm women all over the land. These were in response to a letter sent out by D. F. Houston, secretary of agriculture.

The loneliness, isolation and lack of social and educational opportunity on the farm form the text of letters from all parts of the United States. On the other hand, many women writing from much the same states express complete contentment with farm life and assert that they would be unwilling to change lots with city women.

Apparently the complaint about the loneliness of farm life is more or less closely connected with other statements regarding overwork and long hours of farm women, which make afternoon or other visiting almost impossible and therefore keep the women at home. Several point to the fact that the farmer, in carrying his produce to market, comes into touch with the outside world and that even this opportunity for change of scene, seeing new faces and talking with other people is not afforded to the women.

This is the cry of a woman's heart in the state of Washington:

"I do not get off the ranch one time in a month, as it is all work and no place to go. I am not complaining of my lot. I am here with my family of boys and a hard working husband, all of whom I dearly love. But it is uphill work, with no pleasure outside of our family and no comfort."

WOMEN'S FARM WORK IS NEVER DONE.

Listen to a woman in Texas:

"I have never been to a lecture nor play nor show since marriage. Have been trying to save to buy a home. It has been a very monotonous road to travel. The women here in this country, where there is no help to be had, don't average a half dozen visits a year. Don't have time. I am making soap and ketchup today."

To the cry from Texas there is this answering one from a woman in Kansas, who speaks not for herself alone, but for a representative group of her neighborhood:

"Most of the ladies of our aid society seem to think their cases could not be reached by any law, and they gave the impression that they were content to sink into a grumbling acceptance of existing conditions."

With a short and simple but earnest and despairing rejoinder a Missouri woman speaks:

"I have been a farmer's wife for thirty years and have never had a vacation."

Another of the same state adds her voice:

"Every one is urging the farmer to raise crops. Now, all this means extra help for the woman to cook for, since all these crops have to be attended, harvested and marketed. From one to four extra men to board during the hottest part of the year is the rule, provided you can get the men. We would not complain if we could see the bank account growing in proportion to the work or if there were any permanent improvement in our surroundings."

The department of agriculture is a powerful and efficient worker. It is finding out what the women want and it proposes to do what it can to benefit the people on the farms and to make farming and farm life more profitable and attractive. It has shouldered the task of helping the farm women, and with the co-operation of these women speedy results will undoubtedly follow.

DEVOTIONAL SERVICES FOR FRATERNAL ORDER

Held in the Church of the Heavenly Rest Last Night.

Largely attended by members and relatives of those affiliated with Trafalga Lodge, Sons of St. George, the annual devotional services dedicated to the order were conducted in the Church of the Heavenly Rest by Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, last night. An excellent program of music featured the occasion and the pastor delivered an impressive sermon, taking for his text, St. James, chapter one, verse twenty-seven: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

The musical program included a chorus anthem by Miss Elizabeth Forster, Miss Alice Forster, William Brown, Juan A. Babcock, William Mead and Miss Grace Ludgate; a tenor solo by William Thiers, and a tenor and baritone duet by Mr. Thiers and Howard Riley. Charles Davis, organist of Holy Cross church, presided at the organ and gave a recital before and after the service.

Mr. Mallery opened his address with a few words of welcome to the members of the fraternal order and congratulated the organization on its splendid work. Their work of befriending a pilgrim in what is to him at first a strange land; administering relief to the needy, and extending the friendly hand of a compatriot's hand, was highly commended by the clergyman. He said that although this organization naturally cherished fond memories of the Fatherland the members were unflinching in their devotion to the Stars and Stripes. He held that this was the kind of spirit essential in America among those who come here from other shores.

Commenting on the name of the society, Mr. Mallery said that St. George was a Christian soldier of the fourth century, particularly noted for the defense of his fellow Christians during one o fthe persecutions of the Emperor Diocletian. He referred to St. George as a name representing noble principles and the ideal of chivalry and said that the society could have no greater watchword to guide it.

SEES PEACE HOPE IN WOMEN'S WORK

Miss Jane Addams Talks of Hague Conference.

MAY NOT END WAR AT ONCE

But She Is Certain, She Says, That Meeting Will Have Great Influence In Taking Settlement Out of Hands of Diplomats and Making It a Lasting One.

"We are not so foolish as to expect to end the war; still we shall accomplish something," said Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, just before sailing from New York at the head of the delegation of American women to the international congress of women called by the women of Holland to meet in The Hague April 28 to 30.

"We do not expect to end the war," continued Miss Addams. "We have not much hope that our meeting will have immediate effect upon the present situation, but we do believe that, as women, as mothers of men and soldiers, we are in position to meet without bias and formulate plans for the settlement of the present international troubles when the time comes to consider terms of peace.

"The present system of diplomacy has failed. It has plunged the world into a war the like of which it never saw before, and it has done this in the infancy of the feminist movement. Now is the time for women to assert themselves and attempt to bring about a settlement that will be a lasting settlement if it be possible to do so.

"This meeting at The Hague is called by no organization; it is a spontaneous movement upon the part of the women of all nations. It will be sponsored by no organization of women, and it will have no official character. For men to talk peace opens the way to charges of cowardice; to give the conference any official standing would make it impossible.

Sees Possible Results.

"It may have one of three results:

"It may be dangerous, for things may be said which should not be said, and this is a thing that must be guarded against.

"It may be futile, but we hope it will not.

"And it may be productive of results. We hope it may. But we have no idea of what we may do.

"As is usual with such meetings in Europe, the program has been mapped out. What we must do is to ascertain what is necessary for lasting peace, something the diplomatists evidently have not discovered.

"If Germany must have North sea ports, if Russia must have a warm water outlet, let us decide what must be done to bring about lasting peace. Then we shall organize so that when the time comes to make peace we women may have some influence in seeing to it that the terms are such that the peace is a lasting one and not of the makeshift kind that will leave the world open to the possibility of a recurrence of the present terrible conflict.

"If the warring nations do not agree to accept a plan for the establishment of a concert of nations then we must ask them to accept something else, but we must have something to substitute for the present policy of creating alliances for the maintenance of 'the balance of power.'

Favors Washington Platform.

"The platform adopted by the Woman's Peace party in Washington in January provides for such a 'concert of nations.' It provides that no province shall be transferred without a plebiscite of its inhabitants; that indemnities shall not be assessed save where international law has been violated; that the people shall ratify treaties of alliance. It suggests an international court, an international congress, with legislative powers over international affairs, and an international police force.

"It provides for the formation of a 'league of peace,' national disarmament, nationalization of armament factories, protection of private property at sea, removal of the economic causes of war and extension of suffrage to women as a means to all these things.

"But we are not so sanguine as to imagine that all these things may come to pass now or soon. We only hope that by attending a meeting of this kind, wholly spontaneous, we may be able to accomplish things that could not be accomplished by men.

"We meet as women, not as representatives of any interest or state nor as citizens of any state, but simply as women citizens of the world, in the hope that when the time comes to discuss peace we may have influence enough to bring about the adoption of terms that will mean real peace, not merely an interim to be followed by another such outbreak as is now convulsing the world."

Hold Funeral For Wrong Woman.

During the funeral services for Mrs. Clara C. Granlund at New Haven, Conn., a friend went to take a last look at the body before the casket was closed. The woman fell back with a cry. The body was not that of her friend. Mrs. Granlund was found alive and well in an institution, where an error was made when Mrs. John F. Heenie of Orange, N. J., died.

TWINS ARE PROBLEM IN U. S. MARINE CORPS.

But if Hallie Profits In Service Leslie Puts It Over Him In Love.

The Woodcock twins, Leslie F. and Hallie, twenty years old, who on enlisting obtained the promise that they should always serve in the same company, have become one of the chief problems of the United States marine corps. The entire corps at League island, Philadelphia, is amused by the continued complications which have arisen.

Both men are exactly alike in build, pose, action and expression, and as a result all sorts of punishments, rewards, commands and warnings meant for one are received by the other brother.

Leslie F. was found the other day in a state of well founded indignation over what he termed his brother's "outrageous conduct." He was engaged in painting a ceiling green, he explained, as a punishment for not reporting for drill, although he had been at the drill, and his brother, then absent upon a pilfered "shore leave," had not reported.

"Sometimes," said Leslie F., "I get a chance to put over a little matter on Hallie, and, believe me, when those chances come I'm about due to get away with it. It seems to me that I've been doing that boy's work ever since we started toddling.

"Down in Norfolk a little while after our enlistment Hallie got himself a girl. One day he didn't have enough to take a car out to his girl's house. He asked me for a loan, and I said, 'Never!' Then I got all dressed up and just dropped out to see the young lady myself.

"Well, it sure was fun. It was 'Hallie' this and 'Hallie' that, and I never was petted so in my life.

"That's only one of four times I have outlucked Hallie in the romance market, but he gets back and then some. Here in the barracks he has it all over me all the time."

Seeds which are expected to grow trees more than 400 feet high have been received from Australia by Professor Henry G. Walters at the Plant Research and Botanical institute, Langhorne, Pa. The trees which Professor Walters will endeavor to grow are a part of the glory of Australia, but so fas as he knows, none has ever been grown in America.

"From the cells of these huge trees, eighty-one feet in circumference, it is possible to distil a liquid hydrocarbon similar to that distilled by Edison from coal gas," Professor Walters says.

Redding (Conn.) Citizens Take to Attics When Horse Is Eaten.

Redding, Conn., was closed up by a real, live, honest-to-goodness bear. The village board of strategy planned to attack so soon as it had a sufficient supply of ammunition and meanwhile used the telephone in arranging tactics.

Citizens were laughed at when they declared they had seen a bear. Everybody said it was all bunk that there could be a bear within fifty miles of New York city, but when one of Farmer James Green's horses was found half eaten everybody took to their bear proof cellars and attics.

WORD WORRIES WAR OFFICE.

British Puzzled Whether to Make It "Embuss" or "Embus."

A question of orthography is exercising the authorities at the British war office.

Since they have been using the London auto busses for the troops in France it has been necessary to employ some word in orders to indicate the getting into and getting out of those vehicles. A battalion is instructed to "embuss" at a certain point and to "debuss" at another. The spelling has been questioned in Whitehall. It is argued that it ought to be "embus" and "debus."

AMERICA LAGS IN PROLONGING LIFE

U. S. Behind Europe In Fight on Disease, Says Professor.

"MELTING POT" IS BLAMED

Dr. Fisher Asserts That, While We Are Freer From Germs, We Wear Out Sooner Than Our Ancestors Did and Situation In This Country Is Alarming.

Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale and chairman of the hygiene reference board of the Life Extension institute, New York city, declares that Europe in her days of peace is beating the United States in the work of prolonging human life.

"It was once believed," he says, "that human mortality followed an inexorable law. But this old idea of an iron law of mortality has been utterly abandoned.

"Human life lengthened during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries at the rate of only four years per century. During the first three-quarters of the nineteenth century it lengthened about twice as fast, and since that time it has been lengthening more than four times as fast, or about seventeen years per century.

"In the United States, if we may take the statistics of Massachusetts as typical, life is lengthening at the rate of fourteen years per century. According to these figures, we have already accomplished a great acceleration in the length of life.

"Our vital statistics show us that, while the loss of life after middle age from degeneration has increased, the loss of life after middle age from infectious diseases has decreased.

Two Tendencies Race.

"The truth is we are witnessing a race between two tendencies, a reduction of the acute or infectious diseases, such as typhoid, and an increase in the chronic or degenerative diseases, such as hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease. Such a process bids fair soon to change our net gain in the average life span into a net loss unless we attack the degenerative problem very soon.

"The situation is especially alarming for us in the United States, because this tendency toward degeneration seems to be more in evidence here than elsewhere.

"The degenerative diseases in England, for instance, are remaining stationary, and the expectation of life after middle age is also stationary, while in Sweden we find the expectation of life increasing at all ages. There even the nonagenarians of today have more years to live than did those of former days.

"In the United States, on the other hand, as we have already noted, the rate of life lengthening is less than that of Europe as a whole, and our statistics show that the expectation of life after middle age is declining.

Organic Disease Increases.

"The number of people now dying from diseases of the blood vessels is nearly four times as great as a decade ago. This is found in the rural districts as well as in the cities, is found among the native born as well as the foreign born and is found in all classes of males in gainful occupations, where a marked advance appears.

"The mortality from these organic diseases in three decades has increased 86 per cent in Massachusetts and 94 per cent in fifteen American cities. The ten registration states of 1900 show an increase of 19 per cent in ten years.

"The fact apparently is that, while we are freer of germs than our ancestors, our vital organs wear out sooner. There may be some difference of opinion as to the cause of this more rapid wearing out. Various causes have been suggested. Alcohol, tobacco, the drug habit and the alleged increase in the diseases of vice are a few of those mentioned.

"It has also been laid at the door of the assimilating process necessitated by immigration—in other words, to the 'melting pot' process. Many of these undoubtedly have their influence, especially alcohol, the consumption of which has increased.

"What we must do is to educate public opinion to a change in prevailing customs. The customs of human life must be modified according to scientific knowledge."

HOPE LIFTS THE LID BY COPPING A WIN

Highlanders Sent Down to a 10 to 2 Walloping Last Saturday.

The Hope Chapel baseball team opened the season in fine style Saturday afternoon, when the Highlanders were sent down to defeat by a score of 10 to 2, on the Clinton avenue field. The result of the game was never in doubt after the initial inning, when the Fourth street swatters hit for four tallies. Dick Schott was on the mound for the Chapelites and he was opposed by Stebor and Morley. Schott pitched in midseason form, allowing but two safe hits, P. Luthman and Smith getting credit for these.

The Hope team in the field gave its twirler fine support, making only one error during the nine innings while the Highlanders were guilty of nine. The Highlanders' first count came in the second and their last was scored in the fourth. Hope registered once in the third and then held a swatfest in the sixth and hit for five runs. Ten hits were made from the Highlanders pitchers, Walls and T. Heron each getting two.

BRICK WILL FACE TEAM THAT DEFEATED N. P. H. S.

The Plainfield High School baseball team will take a trip to Elizabeth, tomorrow afternoon, to play Battin High School. This team defeated North Plainfield Saturday afternoon, by a score of 6 to 3, and the outcome of the game is being closely watched.

Brick will probably twirl for the locals as Denny is still on the sick list. Peacock will do the receiving.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE TO BE A REAL "FAN"

Get a Daily Press Scoring Tablet and Keep a Line on the Game.

Baseball fans! You can't be a real fan unless you keep score on a Plainfield Daily Press celluloid scoring tablet. Start today clipping the coupons, and when you have enough bring them to this office and get one of the novelties. They're just the right size to carry around in your vest pocket, and you always have something to keep tabs on the game with. Any thirty-second degree baseball fan knows he can't get all the enjoyment out of a game unless he knows how many runs, hits and errors each team has made, and the only way you can keep track of this information, inning by inning, is by securing a Press scoring tablet.

Particularly in Plainfield and North Plainfield will the tablets be useful. None of the local or borough fields have any score boards, and the fans have to depend on the say-so of a bunch of wiseacres to determine how the game is going. Get in line with the rest of the best rooters and secure one of these tablets as soon as possible.

JUNGLETOWN TEAM BUNCH OF NOVICES

Plainfield High School's Shattered Lineup Put Victory Across.

Indications that the Plainfield High School baseball team has rounded into shape were evidenced by the way it took care of the speedy Princeton High School nine, Saturday afternoon, at Parker Field. By bunching their few hits and taking advantage of the visitors' errors, they piled up a score of 9 to 2. "Tone" Denny being on the sick list and because Brick pitched a game the preceding day, Rosenson took the mound and performed in great style, considering the fact that this was his first attempt with the P. H. S. boys. He allowed but seven hits and made eight men fan the atmosphere.

Dunham took Rosenson's place at shortstop and Coudray held Victorson's bag down at third. This young infield handled everything that came its way and now it looks as though the veterans would have to work to hold their places. The team played errorless ball throughout the game and handled forty chances perfectly. The Princeton men were good only in spasms.

In the sixth, with one down, Princeton's catcher singled and was sent to third on Mulvey's double. Golden clouted another of Rosenson's "spitters" for the second two bagger, and drove two runs across the tally sack. This streak, however, was short-lived.

Plainfield's luckiest inning was the sixth, when "Runt" O'Leary gave the ball a ride for a base hit with three men on the bags, and accompanied by two errors the three men were allowed to score.

GOLF COMPETITIONS BEGIN AT P. C. C

Opening of Active Season Favored With Ideal Weather.

Weather conditions were ideal for the formal opening of the active golf season at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday. The entire course as well as the greens were in excellent shape and throughout the day golfers thronged the course. All expressed themselves as being well pleased with the opening.

The opening event was an 18-hole medal play handicap in which a large number of contestants took part. There was also a sweekstakes event which attracted many golfers. Beginning next Saturday and continuing every week until the middle of the summer there will be a dinner dance at the clubhouse. These scores were posted in the 18 holes medal play handicap:

G. A. Bomann, 94, 24-70. G. F. Earle, 96, 22-74; H. T. Eaton, 87, 13-74; L. G. Carman, 87, 12-75; F. O. Reinhart, 81, 6-75; J. V. Beekman, 104, 26-78; T. S. Wheeler, 94, 15-79; W. Lester Glenney, 88, 5-80, D. O. Rogers, 88, 8-80; D. W. Taylor, 105, 23-82.

INTER-SCHOOL CARD WEEK'S BIG EVENT

North Plainfield and Leal School in Initial go for Cup Award.

The city Interscholastic Baseball League will be opened this week when North Plainfield and Leal School teams meet on Hyde Oval, Saturday afternoon. The private school players have been putting up a good article of ball in the few games they have played and with the confidence they have in Voorhees, their twirler, they intend making a strong bid for the trophy.

All of the three school teams have a hard week before them, Leal's leading with four games in five days. The bad weather last Friday made it necessary to postpone the Somerville game until tomorrow afternoon and there are also three regular games listed. Wednesday, Upsala College will appear on Crescent Oval; Friday, the Berkeley School nine will appear here, and on the following day Leal players will cross the brook and perform. Plainfield and North Plainfield each have three game scheduled, the latter making two trips. Today the boroughites took an automobile trip to Orange to play the Seton Hall Prep. team and Wednesday the players will go to Kearny. The Ninth street aggregation visits Elizabeth tomorrow afternoon for a go with Battin, a team that defeated N. P. H. S. last Saturday, and on Thursday, Trenton High School is due to play on Parker Field. The team will play Pingry at Elizabeth, on Saturday.

SAURERITES DOUBLE SCORE OF THE DUNELLEN TROOPERS

The International Motor Company's baseball team defeated the Dunellen Scout Troop team, No. 2, on Maurer Oval, Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 10 to 5. For five innings the game was as good an affair as any fan would care to witness, but then things loosened up considerably.

The Scouts scored once in the second and again in the third, giving them a lead of two runs. The score was tied by the Motor work boys in the fifth on two two-baggers by Meray and Dansky, following Knight's single, which should have been easily collared by Grindlay or Rogers. In the next frame the game was clinched by the Plainfielders when they scored five runs on three singles, a base on balls and an error.

The feature of the game was easily the all-around play of the two opposing pitchers and a great stop by First Baseman Kenter Post, of the Scouts. The score:

LOCAL RUNNER IN CLOSE INTERCOLLEGIATE FINISH

William W. Poucher, of this city, ran on the Yale two-mile relay team at the University of Pennsylvania's annual relay carnival held Saturday afternoon at Philadelphia. The Yale four finished in third place. The Princeton team was first, 7 minutes 55 3-5 seconds, breaking the intercollegiate record formerly held by Michigan, which was a flat 8 minutes.

In the last half mile Poucher forged ahead of his opponents, but before the finish was passed by Princeton and Chicago runners. The finish of the race was extremely close.

BATTINITES GOT THE BIG JUMP ON OSCAR

North Plainfield High School Players Sent Down to Defeat.

The borough High School team went down to its second defeat of the season Saturday afternoon at the hands of Battin High, of Elizabeth, the final count being 6 to 3. The Elizabeth boys were good hitters, and also showed some neat infield playing.

Dilts started the game in the box for North Plainfield and pitched airtight ball up to the fifth inning, allowing but one hit. In that round three hits in succession filled the bases, and a center field drive cleaned them and left the batter on third. The latter scored on a muffed infield ball, totaling four runs in one inning. The home team took their turn without making a change in the score.

Coach Mullin started the sixth inning with a change in the line-up, sending "Germany" Stahl to the box, Dilts to short, Conroy to second, and Dawe to the bench.

This change brought results, but even then Battin scored one run on a base on balls, a fielder's choice and two hits, and North Plainfield registered another zero at bat. The losers did all their scoring in the seventh inning, when three clean outfield hits, a base on balls and an error brought three across the pan. The eighth inning was uneventful, and the ninth netted Battin one more run, sewing the game at 6-3. The score:

GOOD CONTEST ANNEXED BY PARK AVENUE BALLISTS

The Park Avenue Baptist baseball team opened its season with a win over the St. Mary's T. A. B. aggregation on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 3 to 1. Van Zandt pitched a good game throughout, allowing only three hits. The visitors scored their only run in the third round on safeties, but the Parks came back in the fifth with a pair of tallies, which put them in the lead.

One more run in the seventh sewed the game up for the Park Avenue players. The winners counted for four safeties, while each team was guilty of three errors. The score by innings follows:

NOTABLE PITCHING FEAT.

West Point, N. Y., April 26—The Army won from Lehigh Valley saturday, 2 to 0. The Cadets flashed their star hurler, Neyland, at Lehigh, and the Pennsylvania collegians were blanked, with only four hits as their lot for the day. The big Texan was steady and had fine control throughout. Except for some wild base running the Army's scoring column would have been heavier. The game was the eighteenth straight win for the Army pitcher.

LOCAL MAN TOOK PHOTOS OF FIGHT

Back From the South, George Bishop Says Johnson-Willard May Yet Be Shown.

Details of the great Willard-Johnson heavyweight championship fight at Havana heretofore not found in the sporting columns of the newspapers were brought to Plainfield Saturday, by George Bishop, the well-known local photographer, who returned to the city after a six months' absence in the South. So far as known, Mr. Bishop was the only Plainfield man who was at the ring side, being there in a professional capacity as one of the fourteen expert camera artists sent over from Florida by the Keystone Company. Seven of the men operated moving picture outfits while the others, one of whom were Bishop, worked at top speed on rapid fire reflex machines, taking the photographs which are now being shown in this country by means of slides.

In speaking of the fight to a Daily Press reporter, Mr. Bishop declared the big battle was absolutely on the square and until it was half over Johnson was confident that he would win.

"Even when he stepped in the ring," said the Plainfielder, "the former champion wore that ever present golden smile and he called out that he still had $1,000 left to bet on himself. The bet was quickly covered. There was a noticeable change in his demeanor when he discovered that his blows had no effect on Willard and from then on he was a changed man. The knockout was complete and anyone who says the fight was not on the square doesn't know what he is talking about."

The speaker expressed the belief that the moving pictures of the pugilistic encounter would eventually be shown in the United States. The concern which secured the privilege spent many thousands of dollars in addition to what was paid the fighters and promoters and evidently had something to assure them of the proper return. The fourteen men in the picture group were taken over from Florida in a special chartered boat and received $25 a day for their work, beside all expenses.

Mr. Bishop was in Havana for a week and took occasion to investigate business conditions in the Cuban metropolis. He declares there are excellent opportunities there for Americans, but a speaking knowledge of Spanish is absolutely imperative. The natives of the big cities believe every Yankee has his pockets lined with gold and spends most of his day figuring how he can get a hold of it, either by fair means or foul. The "pickings" the past winter have been especially good, as American visitors to the island were unusually numerous, due to the stoppage of traveling in Europe. The Plainfielder also visited the Isle of Pines before returning, this country being the mecca for fruit developers. A number of Plainfield people are included in some of the colonies. Mr. Bishop said there is good money to be made in the Isle of Pines, but as in every other place it is gotten only through hard work and not picked on bushes.

While in the South, Mr. Bishop conducted a photograph studio at St. Petersburg, Fla., and enjoyed a prosperous winter, although the weather was unusually damp and cold. He proposes to return there at the close of his summer at Watch Hill, R. I., where he has had a gallery for many years. He brought scores of excellent photographs of the Willard-Johnson fight taken by himself and he is showing these to his friends during the few days that he is in town before going to Watch Hill.

Bound Brook Aggregation Victim of Saurer Ball Tossers.

The Saurer baseball team won its initial game from the Bound Brook team at that place yesterday afternoon, the final score being 6 to 4. The home team scored twice in the second round, and Saurer evened up the score in the third with a pair.

Three runs in the fifth and one in the eighth gave the local team six, while Bound Brook's only other tallies came in the last round, when two were chalked up. McLoughlin pitched for Saurer for half a game, and he was relieved by Johnny Dixon, who gave a good account of himself. The score follows:

A TREE FALLACY.

The Idea That the Branches Rise as the Trunk Grows.

It is commonly believed that as a tree grows it elevates the lower branches and any other thing firmly attached to it. As a result, curious stories like the following circulate:

A Canadian farmer built a barn on willow posts set in the ground. The next spring happened to be wet, and he noticed that the horses had trouble in stepping up to the floor on entering. Finally it dawned upon him that the willow posts, which by this time had put out branches and leaves, were growing and elevating the whole barn.

The process continued until the floor was some nine or ten feet high.

Then he put in another floor at the ground level.

At the time the story was told this second floor was four feet from the ground, and the farmer was hoping for a wet season so that the elevation might continue until he could put in a third floor.

It is impossible to take this tale seriously, but many folks believe stories with as little foundation. Sometimes a hog tight fence is attached to green posts. In a few years the owner notices that good sized pigs can crawl underneath it, and often he concludes the green posts have grown and elevated the whole fence.

This elevation, however, happens also with seasoned posts and is due to another cause. Water expands when it freezes, and in the ground the expansion cannot be downward or sidewise, so it must be upward. Consequently, every time the ground freezes the posts are pushed upward a fraction of an inch. When thawing occurs the weight of the fence is not sufficient to push them back.

Thus every freeze means a slight elevation, and in the course of three or four years the fence may no longer be hog tight.

In the same way wheat is lifted out of the ground in the early spring when the ground freezes for several nights in succession and thaws in the daytime.

Farmers and city dwellers alike believe that a growing tree elevates its lower branches; otherwise, they say, how is it that a three foot cherry tree in a few years has not a branch within four feet of the ground? If elevation really occurred, however, it is difficult to see how we could ever have a low headed tree, and that it actually does not occur is shown by careful observation spread over a number of years. The lower branches gradually die as they are shaded by the upper ones and in the course of time drop off. This natural pruning can be seen in all its stages at the same time in any fairly dense forest. Here it is easily seen that only branches in the light continue to thrive and live.

No branch is elevated to any extent after it is a year old.—Farm and Fireside.

VICE-PRESIDENT THOMAS R. MARSHALL'S EXPOSITION MESSAGE TO THE NATION

THE VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AFTER SPENDING FIVE DAYS AT THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO, WRITES THE FOLLOWING MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE OF THE NATION, CONTAINING HIS APPRECIATION OF THIS GREATEST OF ALL WORLD'S EXPOSITIONS:

"The stages of my life seem to have been marked by national expositions. My young manhood began with the Centennial. Maturity was marked by the Columbian and the Louisiana Purchase. And now the sunset years bring me to this marvel of the Republic upon the shores of the sunset seas.

"So often have I thought I saw the Pillars of Hercules inscribed with their 'ne plus ultra', that I hesitate to say that I have reached them. But they who builded this Panama-Pacific Exposition were so wise in adopting all the good features and avoiding those which marred the preceding ones that to me it seems as near perfection as the mind and hand of man have ever wrought.

"Whoever can, even at a sacrifice of something which for the moment appears necessary, should come to see a real work of art never equaled even by a mirage.

"If there be anyone in America with a thirst for knowledge and for beauty and a longing for a liberal education such an one can here obtain it.

"This is the university of the world. It has a chair fully endowed to meet the wants and needs of each. The eye, the ear, the mind, the heart, the soul each may have its horizon here enlarged.

"I came to bear a message. I remained to become a student. I leave the feet of this Gamaliel of all expositions with regret.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL."

PRESIDENT WILSON TO VISIT PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION JULY 4 FOR BIG CELEBRATION; MAY GO WITH THE FLEET

BY EDWARD N. BLAKESLEE.

SECRETARY of the Navy Daniels has announced that President Wilson will undoubtedly visit the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in July and plans are now under way for the President's reception at the great universal exposition on July 4, on which date the great armada is due to drop anchor in Yacht Harbor off the exposition. If present plans are carried out the President will make the trip through the great waterway and to San Francisco on board the flagship of the great fleet, though he may decide to make the journey by rail.

"My object," says Secretary of the Navy Daniels, "is to get all the ships to the exposition by July 4, so that we can have a grand celebration there on that great national holiday."

Before the fleet departs from Hampton Roads on its way to the exposition, President Wilson will review the great assemblage of sea fighters and determine whether he will make the trip aboard the flagship or return to New York and go from there to San Francisco by rail. Secretary Daniels announces, however, that the President will likely make the trip with the fleet through the canal.

The news that President Wilson will visit the exposition has created a world of interest and immediately following the announcement, exposition officials began a campaign for the reception of the chief executive upon his arrival and during the time of his stay at the exposition.

The arrival of the great battleship fleet will be one of the most auspicious occasions in the life of the great exposition and the presence of the President at that time will lend additional interest to the great review. When Vice President Marshall formally dedicated the exposition, thousands upon thousands of persons found their way through the exposition gates, and President Wilson's attendance with the great armada will prove an attraction far greater. Practically every vessel of war in the service of the United States will anchor off the exposition during the mammoth review now scheduled, the Atlantic and Pacific fleets with numerous submarines, torpedo boat destroyers, gunboats and transports combining in one grand display.

With the President in attendance and the great fleet anchored off the exposition at San Francisco, July 4 will be a red letter day in the history of California and the world. The President will be greeted by scores of official representatives of all foreign countries who at present are special commissioners to the great exposition on the shores of the Golden Gate. A wonderful program has been arranged in honor of the President's visit and the chief executive's visit to the battleship fleet anchored off the exposition will be an event of national importance and interest. The President will be greeted upon his arrival by President Charles C. Moore of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and other directors of the great universal fair, and his arrival at the exposition will be heralded by the roar of big guns from the Presidio forts along the Golden Gate and the echoing thunder of the guns of the fleet.

E. J. V SKIFF, DIRECTOR-in-CHIEF — C. C. MOORE, PRESIDENT

New Jersey's building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is a replica of the famous barracks at Trenton. This building will be President Wilson's official home during his visit at the great exposition.

TWO HUNDRED JERSEY CITY POLICEMEN TO BE ON CARPET

Jersey City, April 26.—Two hundred or more policemen will be arraigned Wednesday morning, before Commissioner Frank Hague, to answer charges filed by the members of the "night patrol." Some will be up for drunkenness, others for being off post and one on a charge of having kissed a girl.

This is the first time in the history of the department that one commissioner will have sat as judge and jury to deal out sentences. This is also the greatest number of men ever brought up on charges at one time.

The trials have been postponed pending the disposition of several bills in the Legislature giving the commissioner the legal right to sit alone in a judicial capacity to hear charges against any of the employes.

The passage of the Martin bill gives this power, so Commissioner Hague will hear all police and fire cases. Captains Andrew Booth, Richard Battersby and Thomas Wolf command the "night patrol," comprising a squad of fifty men. Every night one or more policemen are booked on charges.

Health Notes

Published Every Monday. Prepared by N. J. R. Chandler, Health Officer.

When will mothers cease to believe that measles and some of the other so-called children's diseases are necessary evils and that the sooner they are over, the better? These diseases are not necessary and we continue to have them to deal with because people—particularly mothers—are ignorant or careless.

Mothers would not think of allowing their children to be exposed to scarlet fever; they know it is dangerous and likely to be followed by serious ear and kidney troubles and possibly death. But these same mothers would not hesitate to let their children "run into" measles. Why? Because they think measles is a light disease which is soon over, and many of them never take the trouble to call a doctor. "It's only measles and I know what to do," they say. Perhaps they know something about the disease itself, but do they know how serious some of the results may be?

Do they know that these results may be a great deal more serious than those of scarlet fever? Do they know that if these results do not end in death directly, that they often injure a person for life? Most everybody knows that there is danger of a person who has had measles being left with sore or weak eyes, but here is a list of some of the other serious diseases which may follow an attack of measles: Inflammation of the eyes; inflammation of the ear with discharge of pus; mastoiditis—another serious disease—both of which often end in deafness if not in death. Enlarged glands, bronchitis, laryngitis, pneumonia, tuberculosis, rheumatism, intestinal troubles and heart disease.

Just stop a moment and think of the cases of these diseases that you have known and see if you can tarce many of them to a previous atttack of measles. Even if the connection is not clear, the fact remains that there is an intimate relation between them.

Now, if measles is unnecessary, how can infection be avoided?

First, by keeping away from persons who have the disease. The Board of Health warning card is tacked on all houses from which cases have been reported. Reporting of all cases is required by law and failure to report a case (either by the doctor or family) makes the person responsible to a fine of $50.

Second, If a child has never had measles, be suspicious of every cold, for the disease begins exactly like an ordinary cold, with "running nose," watery and red eyes, headache, rise of temperature and a tendency to crossness. This will be before the rash and cough appear. It is in the first stages that the disease is so contagious; that is why children who have these symptoms should be kept at home and away from other children until the exact trouble can be determined. Suppose the attack turns out to be "only a cold." Very well, then other people have been saved the consequences of exposure to it. In any case, don't rely on your judgment or the advice of a friend. Call a doctor.

Third, See that soiled handkerchiefs are kept away from other people. They should be boiled (not only washed) as soon after being used as possible. In the meantime they can be kept in a paper bag, and if soft paper or rags are used, the bag, with its contents, can be burned. The discharges from the nose and throat, and possibly from the eyes and ears, contain the germs that cause the infection.

Nearly 20 cases of measles have been reported to the health department this year and, although the disease is declining, cases are still being reported and the danger of infection is not past; neither is the danger of bad effects. Remember that when the system has been weakened by an attack of measles, it is very easy to "take" any other disease.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

There was a superior smile on Mrs. Ellson's face as she looked at Nell.

"You see, I took a fancy to your daughter," she said, turning to Mrs. Reeves, "and I made up my mind to stop the work of that designing girl."

"Oh! don't use such a pretentious word," laughed Mrs. Parsons, "designing implies brains and no one would accuse Miss Rudolph of being stocked with brains."

"Well, brains or no brains, she succeeded remarkably well, and no one can tell what harm she might have done if she had not been sidetracked," said Mrs. Ellson, bridling.

"My dear Mrs. Ellson," said Mrs. Reeves, rising to pour fresh tea, "Dick had never met a girl to whom it was dangerous to be civil; he stood in no danger of having his affections alienated. My daughter can stand comparison with this girl, I think, from what I hear." She was smiling down into Mrs. Ellson's face as she spoke.

"Affairs of this kind are not usually a matter of comparison. You were not on the ground, my dear lady. No one can tell, of course, when a man's in love, but he certainly showed the incipient symptoms," and she looked pityingly at Nell.

"A wife surely would know if she were being supplanted," Nell hazarded.

"Men are such actors, my dear." The doctor's lady had the air of a benefactor as she distributed her crumbs of wisdom.

"Imagine Roger acting!" Mrs. Parsons threw up her hands and laughed.

"Mr. Parsons is an exception," admitted the lady.

"You are right, there," agreed the loyal wife enthusiastically, "but I haven't the slightest idea that Mr. Morton was trembling on the verge of love for that girl."

"His intentions were the best, I'll admit, but he was so innocent of the ways of such trappers that he needed someone to brush away the web. I am simply trying to make Mrs. Reeves understand my part in the farce." A scornful smile curled Mrs. Ellson's lips.

"Well, you are to be congratulated on your success in relegating the young woman to the background. I am sure we shall hear no more of her," said Mrs. Parsons.

"And Dick has learned the value of the Chinese proverb, 'Never tie your shoes when crossing a cucumber patch,' for there are plenty of people ready to accuse you of stealing cucumbers," added Mrs. Reeves.

"Certainly, for we have no way of knowing a person's thoughts except by watching his actions," answered the satisfied Mrs. Ellson, rising. "I am coming to take you for a ride in the auto soon; the country is beautiful now." And she took a stately leave.

"The secret of living peaceably with Mrs. Ellson is to let her think her meddling is a public benefaction," laughed Mrs. Parsons.

"What a pity she hasn't a broader mind and a wider sphere of activity," said Mrs. Reeves. "Really, in the right place that woman could be a useful member of society."

"It's another instance of the irony of fate, of the careless pigeonholing of valuable resources. Why so still, little woman?" asked Mrs. Parsons, as she turned to Nell.

"I was wishing Fate had been more orderly, and had not mislaid Mrs. Ellson in Fairport; it would be so much more livable here without her."

"I think she will not need to be your fairy godmother any more, so do not worry," said Mrs. Parsons, kissing her.

Household Hints

USES OF BRAN

One of the best ways of using bran is as a breakfast food. Ordinary clean bran will do. Bake it thoroughly to sterilize it.

Take a dish of bran, scald well with boiling water, add a handful of raisins, a little cream, and sweeten to taste with either sugar or strained honey, and you have a very palatable dish.

A handful of California walnuts, or Brazil nuts, added makes a satisfactory and wholesome meal.

Bran coffee is good, too, made from sterilized bran mixed with molasses and a little salt; brown well and stir a well-beaten egg in. This can be prepared in large quantities.

One tablespoon bran makes two cups of coffee.

EMERGENCY SHELVES

In every home there should be two emergency shelves.

The first, in the bathroom, should hold simple remedies needed in a family. There should be camphor, smelling salts, a good liniment, remedies for coughs and colds, a good cathartic, lotions for chapped face and hands, surgeon's tape, peroxide of hydrogen, bandages of different widths, absorbent cotton, shears and anything your experience teaches you will be needed.

If there are children in the family have your physician prescribe what to keep on hand for them.

Have also a medical book. Study carefully and mark the index in such a way that you can instantly turn to those pages most likely to be needed, such as croup, burns, scalds, cuts, severed arteries and veins, etc. Never trust to your memory, as accuracy is most important in following medical directions, and in excitement we are seldom accurate.

Have the other emergency shelf in your storeroom and stock it with supplies which can be used for the unexpected guest, Sunday night supper or any unusual occasion that may arise.

UP-TO-DATE RECIPES

Chicken Rissoles—A good way of using up bits of chicken that have escaped dinner appetites: One cup rice, two cups stock or milk, one tablespoon chopped onion, half cup butter, half cup flour, one cup minced chicken, one egg, and seasoning. Cook rice till tender, put butter in saucepan with onion and flour and stir till smooth, then add stock or milk. Mix half the sauce with the minced chicken and half with the cooked rice. Make balls of the rice, hollow them out, put into each a small amount of chicken.

Fruit Salad—Two oranges, one can pineapple, one cup nut meats, one bunch celery, three apples. Make a sweet dressing from juice of the pineapple, two eggs, a little sugar, pinch of mustard; cook like mayonnaise. After this cooks put over fruit. Whipped cream can be used over this. A cheap dressing and one that will take the place of mayonnaise is made from one egg, three teaspoons vinegar, three teaspoons cream, one-half teaspoon mustard, two teaspoons sugar, salt, pepper and celery seed. Mix this together and cook.

Never Failing Custard Pie—One pint milk, three eggs, three-fourths cup granulated sugar. Beat sugar and eggs together until very light, then add milk and pour all in well-lined pie tin (ordinary size) with good rich pastry. Pinch up edge of crust with thumb and forefinger, to prevent custard from running over. Grate nutmeg over top. Bake about twenty minutes in moderate oven.

Butterscotch Pie Filling—One cup brown sugar, three tablespoons (level) flour, butter size small egg, three tablespoons water. Mix smooth, add yolk of one egg, one cup sweet milk, vanilla flavoring (use white of egg for frosting). Boil until thick, stirring constantly. Use in a crust ready baked.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The Lasky-Belasco photo-dramatic production of David Belasco's great success, "The Girl of the Golden West," being shown at the Plainfield Theatre today and tomorrow, affords musical opportunities such as have never before been offered by any American film on an American subject. This is due to the fact that "The Girl of the Golden West" as the result of its international dramatic hit, was chosen as an opera subject by Puccini, most renowned of living composers, and was offered at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York with a cast including Caruso. The film production includes all the incidents of the operatic version, so that the music, instead of being merely incidental, can, in this instance, actually be the score written by Puccini for this very drama.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The World Film Corporation presents the five-act comedy, "What Happened to Jones," founded upon George H. Broadhurst's play of the same name at Proctor's Theatre today and tomorrow. When produced by W. A. Brady a few years ago the play was received with great success. The story and situations, the characterization and the acting made the piece a laughmaker and a moneymaker. The fame of the play has [illegible] and its film [illegible] will also probably be a success. Fred Mace directs the comedy, and Fred Mace directs himself in it, as Jones, the drummer, to whom so many things happen. Mace, of all men, holds the reversion to this part in a film play which has been inevitable for years, of course. Mace graduated in the Biograph School of Comedy, then he became a Keystone favorite, now he puts the seal on his reputation by succeeding Lew Fields in a big comedy in the World Film Corporation program. Farce, perhaps, more accurately described "What Happened to Jones." The situations are ludicrous in the extreme; the characters are ludicrous; the scenes are ludicrous. "A scream is the term, perhaps, more accurately than any other description that applies to the story. Fred Mace, as Jones, sells Bibles and playing cards; falls in love at first sight; goes to a prize fight, is badly mauled; hides in a young ladies' academy; frightens a girl in her bath; interferes in a girls' pillow fight; impersonates a bishop; becomes a teacher, and finally elopes with his girl, an heiress. There are lots of other characters in the comedy, but Fred Mace, as Jones, has the lion's share of the work.

For the Children

Young German Patriots Saluting Kaiser Wilhelm.

Young people, as a rule, are intensely patriotic. They believe—and it is natural they should—that no country equals their own native land. No other nation is so great and powerful and nowhere else are the soldiers so brave. It is entirely proper that one should cherish a love of country and home, for without patriotism to inspire it no nation would amount to much. The boys in the picture are German, and their picture was taken during a recent visit of the German emperor to Berlin. At the present time he does not spend much time at his capital, but more frequently is at the battle front. The boys, you will notice, are dressed in uniform. They were standing at their window so as to be able to see their loved ruler, and when he arrived opposite their place they saluted in true military fashion.

Double Beheadings.

1.—Remove the first letter from a word which signifies durable and leave a piece of furniture; behead again and leave a word that implies skill.

2.—Remove the first letter from a building material and leave a musical sound; take away the next letter and leave a unit.

3.—Remove the first letter from a part of harness and leave a trial of speed; behead again and leave a single spot.

4.—Remove the first letter from a grain and create warmth; behead again and learn what to do with the first word.

5.—Remove the first letter from an edge and leave a place of amusement; remove the next letter and you can write with it.

6.—Remove the first letter from the cost and leave a grain; behead again and leave something very cold.

7.—Remove the first letter from a shallow dish and you will be behind time; take away the next letter and it will be eaten.

Answers.—1. Stable, table, able. 2. Stone, tone, one. 3. Trace, race, ace. 4. Wheat, heat, eat. 5. Brink, rink, ink. 6. Price, rice, ice. 7. Plate, late, ate.

The Game of Teapot.

An amusing game to be played by any number is called "teapot." Let one player choose a word. The others are to guess the word. In order to do this they all ask questions which the word chooser must answer. This sounds simple. The difficulty, however, is that the chosen word must have two meanings, "roll," for instance, which may mean either the variety we enjoy for breakfast, or to turn over and over. Or it may be words spelled differently, but pronounced alike, such as "night" and "knight."

In answering the questions the player must use the meanings alternately, substituting "teapot" for the chosen word. Thus, suppose the word is "roll," the beginner might ask, "Does it belong to the vegetable kingdom?" The answer would be, "Teapot does belong to the vegetable kingdom."

Suppose the next player asks, "How would you get to the top of a high mountain?" The answer might be, "I could not teapot there." The successful guesser has the privilege of choosing the next word.

Advice For Hiking Scouts.

There are several things for boy scouts to remember when going on hikes. An old woodman gives the advice, "Never walk over anything you can walk around; never step on anything that you can step over." H. W. Gibson, in an article on the subject of hikes, advises a pace of two or three miles an hour and warns against excessive water drinking on the part of the hikers. He also advises that the scout carry only the things absolutely needed, rolled in blankets, poncho army style.—Chicago Tribune.

Table Manners.

When I am eating bread and cake
I never smack my lips;
And milk I always try to take
In quiet little sips.

At breakfast, luncheon and at tea
I hold my fork just right,
For little folks should always be Exceedingly polite.
—Portland Oregonian.

And, Sure Enough, He Cut the Apple Squarely in Two.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—An American Indian William Tell.

"I'VE told you the story about the Swiss William Tell, and tonight I'll tell you about an Indian who did something very much like it." Daddy was beginning the evening story, and the kiddies were cuddled down beside him upon the divan before the blazing fire.

"Before the coming of the white man to this country there lived in the region of what is now Florida a tribe of Indians ruled by a chief named Newakcum.

"This chief had a wonderful reputation as a master of the bow and arrow, and he was held in much respect all over the entire peninsula.

"This chief had many sons, but he loved Nogani, his youngest son, best of all. The tribe lived very peacefully, fishing and hunting in the streams and forests.

"But in the year 1537 there came a great change for the peaceful natives. Ferdinand de Soto, with a company of Spaniards, came to Newakcum's village, and instead of treating the Indians respectfully they looked upon them as inferiors and treated them accordingly.

"The red men resented the Spaniards' insolence and grew to deeply hate and mistrust these intruders, for, after all, the land belonged to the red men by right of first occupation, if for no other reason.

"One day a Spaniard insulted an Indian, and a fight ensued in which the Spaniard was killed. De Soto demanded reparation.

"De Soto had heard the story of William Tell, so to satisfy a dramatic instinct in his nature and having heard of Newakcum's skill with the bow and arrow he determined to make Newakcum shoot an apple off Nogani's head, for De Soto knew that Nogani was the chief's favorite son.

"Newakcum made a compact with De Soto that if he furnished them with this spectacle, whether he killed his son or hit the apple, that De Soto and his insolent followers should leave his village.

"The day came. Nogani stood up against the tree very bravely, because you see, kiddies, he knew his daddy just couldn't hit him.

"And, sure enough, he cut the apple squarely in two, and De Soto lived up to his promise and left the poor Indians in peace."

"Daddy, how did the white people come to own all the land and put the Indians in reservations?" asked Jack.

"That is a long, long story," said daddy, "and had better be told another time."

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — OH MY—LOOK WHO'S HERE! — BY "HOP"

Flags of a Ship.

Here is the complete story of a ship's flags, where they are flown and what they signify:

On the staff in the bow—The jack of nation to which vessel belongs.

On the foremast—Flag of foreign nation vessel is going to. If going to own national port she carries flag of nation she is leaving if that nation happens to be foreign.

On the mainmast—The house flag, always.

On the aftermain (if she has one)—Flag bearing vessel's name.

On the mizzen—Nothing.

On the staff at the stern—The national ensign of the nation to which the vessel belongs.—New York Tribune.

Small Anvils.

The anvil that rings to the sturdy blacksmith's sledge may weigh 200, 300 or 400 pounds, but there are anvils whose weight is counted in ounces. These are used by jewelers, silversmiths and various other workers. Counting shapes, sizes, styles of finish, and so on, these little anvils are made in scores of varieties, ranging in weight from fifteen ounces up to a number of pounds each. All the little anvils are of the finest steel. They are all trimly finished, often nickel plated, and those surfaces that are brought into use are made as smooth as glass.

Homemade Heathen.

A San Francisco clergyman recently at the close of his sermon announced that in the course of the week he expected to go on a mission to the heathen. One of his parishioners exclaimed: "Why, my dear doctor, you have never told us one word of this before. It leaves us unprepared. What shall we do?"

"Brother," said the minister solemnly, "I shall not leave town."—Argonaut.

Squaring the Circle.

The problem of squaring the circle consists in finding a square equal in area to a circle of given radius. Its solution depends upon ascertaining the precise ratio between the diameter and its circumference. Mathematics demonstrates this proposition to be impossible of solution.

The Good Old Way.

"My good woman, do you believe in castigating children by way of discipline?"

"I don't believe in none of these yere newfangled ways of bringing up children. I believe in a good lickin'."—Baltimore American.

Nothing can bring you peace but yourself. Nothing can bring you peace but the triumphs of principles.—Emerson.

WILL GIVE AID TO WORTHY CAUSES

Many Prominent Men Agree to Serve on Committee Having Circus in Charge.

ACKERMAN COMMENDS

Former Senator Says, As Do Many Others, That He is Glad to Aid the Splendid Uplift Work Being Done in Plainfield.

Nearly two hundred well-known Plainfielders have consented to act on the general committee which has been formed in connection with the circus to be given Friday, May 7, for the benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, Visiting Nurse Association and Recreation Committee. On the list are those prominent in every walk of life, including doctors, lawyers, commuters, local business men, ministers and others. Many of them will take an active part in the conduct of the show, so that no matter which way the spectators at the show turn they will see a familiar face.

An idea of the way in which the response has come in from the requests to act on the committee may be gained from a letter received from former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, who says that "in view of the fact that I am heartily in accord with the uplift work and particularly that in regard to the Anti-Tuberculosis League and the Recreation Committee, I feel that I would like to co-operate with you to the extent at least of being one of the patrons of the circus in connection with the Robbins Show. I hope that you will be successful in your praiseworthy work."

MISS SMITH TO BE AN APRIL BRIDE

Will Become the Wife of Thomas Derrick in St. Joseph's Rectory.

At a quiet wedding to be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the rectory of St. Joseph's church, Miss Justina M. Smith, of this city, will become the bride of Thomas Derrick, formerly of Canada. Father Patrick J. Hart will officiate. Miss Smith will wear a charming blue traveling suit and hat to match. She will be attended by her sister, Miss Florence Smith. Raymond Smith, brother of the bride, will act as best man. After a short reception at the newly furnished home of the couple, at 443 East Sixth street, Mr. and Mrs. Derrick will leave for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside on East Sixth street.

Miss Smith is popular in both this city and borough, and has a host of friends who have showered her with congratulations and best wishes. She was the recipient of handsome and useful presents. The bride was for many years organist and soprano soloist of St. Joseph's church, and was prominent in various activities of the church. She is secretary of the Women's League of the parish. Miss Smith was employed in the cloak and suit department of Tepper's store, a position which she held for fifteen years.

TWENTY-NINE PUPILS TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Boro High School Commencement to Be Held on Thursday, June 24.

North Plainfield High School will graduate the largest senior class in the history of the school on Thursday, June 24. The enrollment of the class at present is twenty-nine and all will, it is expected, be given diplomas. The original date for the closing of school was June 18, but because of the extended Easter vacation granted by the Board, the year was extended one week. The exercises will take place in the Plainfield Theatre as it has for the last eight years.

This year's class will return to the old custom of having class day and commencement exercises separately and several new features will be on the commencement program. Last year the class of 1914 combined the class day and commencement exercises and did not have an outside speaker as had been the case in former years.

Principal Albert Earley, of the High School, has an idea that should prove popular with a commencement audience, which is to have demonstrations on the stage of work in the commercial and language departments of the High School course. Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst will be the only speaker on the program.

The members of the graduating class are Hyman Abrams, Lester V. D. Chandler, Miss Margaret C. Currin, Edson B. Day, Miss Elsie Debele, Miss Marian Doughty, Miss Lucy Douglas, Frank R. Fetherston, Elmer Horton French, Miss Ruth Katherine Giddings, Miss Viola Hauser, Miss Margaret H. Hogan, Wesley M. Hughes, Halbert Hutchinson, Miss Ann B. Hull, Miss Lizzie M. Hummer, Russell K. Lee, Miss Elva K. Lippincott, Miss Nora M. Meaney, Miss Helen Beatrice Meaney, Miss Lena Mobus, Miss Julia V. Rowley, Miss Helen L. Schmidt, Richard Schroeder, Ralph J. Smalley, Charles Hoyt Tomkinson, Roscoe VanCamp, Augustus VanDeventer and Pierre Duclos VanMater.

Edson Day is president of the class. The Board of Education commencement committee consists of M. E. McGrath and F. O. Dunning.

ROGERS IS FOUND GUILTY; POOLROOMS ARE CONDEMNED

Albert Rogers, a local negro, was yesterday afternoon found guilty of a serious crime in the Union County Court of Quarter Sessions in Elizabeth and was returned to jail to await sentence next Friday. The complaining witness was Margaret Richardson, a fourteen year old colored girl of this city.

In convicting Rogers, who is the owner of a local poolroom, Judge James C. Connolly, took occasion to condemn these meeting places and said that he opposed mixing the two races, as is so often the case among pool players.

FEW CHANGES IN BOROUGH SCHOOLS

Board of Education Approves Teachers' List for the Coming Year.

EIGHT NEW TEACHERS

Miss Jessie Utter to Be Succeeded by S. Frederick Smith as Instructor in Music—Applications for Positions in Harrison Ave. School.

The North Plainfield Board of Education, at a regular meeting held in the Somerset School last night, decided to increase the teachers' salaries for next year a total of $1,325, this action being recommended by the members of the teachers' committee. All of the changes were gone over carefully by the entire Board and found to be satisfactory. The teachers' committee also submitted a list of the teachers for next year with three vacancies, which have not yet been filled. But two changes were made in the High School department. Miss Ethel Barnard, present instructor of Latin and English, will have charge of the German department next year, and Miss Irene Duchesne, of the borough, who is now teaching in the primary grades, has been appointed head of the English department, to succeed Miss Helen K. Ray, who leaves in June. Miss Duchesne will have an assistant English teacher, but no appointment has yet been made by the committee.

Miss Mabel Bennett has been secured to take the place of Miss Eva Dvorken, English and music teacher of the eighth grade C. Miss Dvorken's resignation will take effect this week, and Miss Bennett will finish the remainder of this year and start again next September. Miss Bennett is a graduate of Cornell University and has taught in Bound Brook and Dunellen schools. Mrs. Julia Bensing, of Magnolia, has been ap-

Art Department of Monday Afternoon Club Hold Its Final Meeting.

"Contemporary Sculpture in the United States' was the subject for discussion at the final meeting of the art department of the Monday Afternoon Club, which was held in the parish house of the Congregational church, yesterday afternoon. After a short business session, during which time routine business was discussed, interesting papers were read by Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, Miss Marie Finch and Mrs. Katrina Haff.

Y.; "Adams Monument," Rock Creek cemetery, Washington; George Grey Barnard's "The Two Natures," "Pan" and "Maidenhood;" John Quincy Adams Ward's "Greeley Statue," "The Beecher Statue" and Herbert Adams' "Madonna." The lives of the men were reviewed briefly and events leading up to their fate in the field of sculpture.

DR. J. R. JOY IS HIGHLY HONORED

North Plainfield Man Elected Editor of The Christian Advocate.

SUCCEEDS DR. ECKMAN

Action Taken by the Book Committee at Session Being Held in San Francisco—Choice is Considered a Popular One.

Dr. James R. Joy, of North Plainfield, who for several years has been assistant editor of The Christian Advocate, the leading publication of the Methodist Book concern of New York, is to be the successor of Rev. Dr. George P. Eckman as editor. The action is to be taken by the book committee governing the commercial affairs of the Methodist church now in session at San Francisco. Both Dr. Joy and Mrs. Joy are now in San Francisco, and before their return will visit the Panama Exposition.

Dr. Joy's election places The Christian Advocate, the original organ of the denomination, in the hands of a layman for the first time, but this will not be revolutionary, for Dr. Joy has had the virtual charge, both under Dr. J. M. Buckley, the veteran editor, and under Dr. Eckman, and to his initiative is due most of the innovations in recent years which have made his paper about the liveliest of the denominational press. Other members of the "Advocate" family have had lay editors.

Dr. Joy is a native of Groton, Mass., is a graduate of Yale and was given the honorary degree Litt.D. by Syracuse University in 1904. He has been with the "Advocate" since 1885 and assistant editor since 1904. He is widely known in Bible school work, being superintendent of the First M. E. church Sunday-school and for several years he has been active in the Laymen's Association of the Newark Conference. His selection as editor of the "Advocate" is a popular one and meets with the approval of those identified with the Methodist church.

ONE LOCAL WOMAN GRANTED A PENSION

Seventeen Widows File Petitions and Get a Total of $204 Each Month.

Seventeen Union county widows, including one from Plainfield, were granted pensions by Judge James C. Connolly, in Elizabeth, yesterday. Assistant County Attorney Francis J. Blatz, of the local law firm of Codington & Blatz, represented the county in all seventeen cases.

Lengthy arguments were heard on the applications, and sums ranging from $9 to $18, and representing a total of $204, were ordered paid to the petitioners each month. Mrs. Lulu Wilson, of Plainfield, was granted a pension of $9 monthly. In her petition she stated that she had two children, and applied for a pension on this basis. It was shown, however, by Attorney Blatz that one child was working and contributing to the support of the family.

Mrs. Adolfina Meyers, another Plainfield woman, filed a petition, but failed to put in an appearance in court yesterday. On the evidence produced by the county's attorney, Judge Connolly reduced the pension of Mrs. Margaret Staats from $14 to $9. She also lives in this city. It was shown that one of her children has been taken charge of by the grandmother since the original ruling allowing her $14 was made.

JAMES M'CANN DIES AT MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL

James McCann, aged forty-eight years, died this morning at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he had been a patient since March 15. He was employed for a number of years at the local freight station of the Central Railroad, and resided at 655 North avenue. He is survived by his wife, one son, Peter A. McCann, three brothers and three sisters. These are Thomas, Joseph and Peter McCann, Mrs. J. K. Mormion and Miss Norma McCann, of Utica, N. Y., and Miss Nellie McCann, in Ireland. The body was removed to Higgin's mortuary, at 111 West Fourth street, where the funeral will take place Friday morning at 8:30, and in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

DENTIST HELD ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

Dr. Israel S. Finkle Will Go Before Grand Jury on Woman's Complaint.

Charged with a serious offense, Dr. Israel S. Finkle, a dentist with an office at 148 East Front street, was this morning arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the police court and held in $500 bail to await the action of the Union county Grand Jury. The complainant in the case is Mrs. Mary Grant, a mulatto woman, and the offense is alleged to have been committed shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Finkle is married and lives at 313 Liberty street. He has practised in this city for several years. He is not a member of the Plainfield Dental Society.

In court Finkle was represented by William Newcorn, who waived examination on behalf of his client. Bail was immediately furnished by Henry Rosenbaum, a local merchant. Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, represented the city.

The complainant had been having some dental work done by the dentist when the incident is alleged to have occurred. She went immediately to police headquarters and Chief Kiely ordered Patrolman Arthur McGinley to arrest Finkle.

CUT 'PHONE WIRES AND STOLE CLOTHES

Thief Then "Borrowed" Horse and Rig to Drive to Railroad Depot.

Following the disappearance of clothes and money from the home of Mrs. Elsie Winner, of Plainfield avenue, yesterday afternoon, the local police are today looking for a man known to them as Jack Cretic, alias Shea, whom they allege carried out some carefully laid plans for robbery. Mrs. Winner engaged Cretic to do some work on her premises three weeks ago through a local charity bureau and until yesterday he was a trusted employe.

Early yesterday afternoon Mrs. Winner missed a suit of clothes and a small amount of maney and later found that a horse and rig had been taken from the stable. She notified the police and an investigation revealed the fact that a man answering Cretic's description had left the horse at Hunt's blacksmith shop, near police headquarters, to be shod. Although a careful watch has been maintained Cretic has not yet called for the rig.

It is said that the man boarded the 2:39 eastbound express at the North Avenue depot and it is supposed that he went to New York city. When interviewed this morning, Mrs. Winner said that Cretic had told her that he came from Westerly, R. I., and that she knew nothing further concerning him.

That the miscreant's plans for escape had been carefully formulated during the past fortnight was apparent. Before leaving he cut the wires belonging to the New York Telephone Company, thereby cutting off telephonic communication with the authorities.

GAS BOMBS USED IN NEW ASSAULT

Ypres in Flames as Tide of Battle Sweeps Back and Forth.

LIZERNE IS RETAKEN

Allies Claim to Be Holding Fast and Checking Each Attack—Kaiser's Men Continue With Unabated Ferocity.

London, April 27—Ypres is in flames, harried by a tornado of shells and ripped into ruins by monstrous projectiles of the German 17-inch howitzers. The hail of incendiary bombs has been poured upon the old town, the keystone of the allied line in Flanders.

A summing up of the situation at Ypres shows that the Germans have gained considerably, says a despatch to the Daily Mail, from Northern France. The Germans have flattened the allies salient northeast of Ypres and one point has become a German salient.

The Belgian legation issued the following today through the British Press Bureau:

"Our infantry repelled three attacks made south of Dixmude by the Germans, who are using asphyxiating gases. The Germans sustained heavy losses. Along our front the enemy's artillery has shown activity. Our artillery replied with success and by a strong fire proved useful help to the French, who made an attack on Lizerne. This town had fallen into the hands of the enemy on Sunday, but it was wrested from them again Sunday afternoon."

French troops have retaken Hat Sas on the Ypres Canal. All German attacks against Ypres yesterday were repulsed and the allies advanced near St. Julien, it is officially announced.

Paris, April 27—A supplementary report issued by the war office after the daily communique announced the recapture of Hartsmannsweiler Kopf, in Alsace. It says: "The summit of Hartmannsweiller Kopf, which had been taken from us yesterday morning, was retaken by our troops in the evening. We captured some prisoners."

The war office gave out the following:

"There is nothing to add to the communique of last night except to report the consolidation of our troops and the continuation of our progress to the north of Ypres and on the heights of the Meuse."

NEAR DEATH AFTER FALL FROM A PEAK

Three Hundred Foot Drop May Prove Fatal to Dudley Babcock, of Fanwood.

With both ankles, one arm and five ribs broken, and his face battered beyond recognition, Dudley Babcock, eldest son of Mayor Babcock, of Fanwood, is hovering between life and death in an Albany, N. Y., hospital. His injuries were sustained in a 300-foot fall from Storm King Mountain, one of the highest peaks in the Adirondacks.

Since his graduation from college young Babcock has been engaged in engineering work in the New York State chain of mountains, and when the accident happened he was "running" a gang of surveyors. He was swinging over the edge of a cliff at a dizzy height when he suddenly lost his grip, and his body was hurled into space. It struck the earth a few feet below and went rolling down the steep side of the mountain.

Babcock was whirled bodily from one tree stump to another, and he struck many stone boulders in his fall. The progress of the human form was stopped at the base by a 30-foot stone wall.

Immediately upon discovering their companion's plight, the other members of the party scurried down the side of the mountain. During the time it took the men to descend the 300 feet, Babcock lay at the bottom, unconscious, bruised and bleeding.

When the rescue party reached his side life was apparently extinct, it being conceded that the man could not live after such a long fall. Closer examination, however, revealed the fact that he was still breathing, and he was hurried to a nearby camp, where first aid remedies were administered. The long trip to Albany was taken as a last resort, and he was placed in the hospital.

AUTOIST DISAPPEARS AFTER RUNNING DOWN RIG

Another one of those incidents in which an automobile, after running a party down, puts on full speed and makes away without waiting to see whether the victim is seriously hurt or not occurred in Piscataway Saturday night, when a rig which Albert Nelson, the twenty-three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Nelson was driving back from New Brunswick, where he had been with a friend, Elmer McCullough, was run into head on by a large touring car containing four passengers. The wagon was upset and Nelson was thrown into the ditch. The horse was badly injured. The driver of the machine then backed his machine out of the wreck and, putting on full speed, continued towards New Brunswick. The accident happened within a quarter of a mile of young Nelson's home. Elmer McCullough was not in the rig at the time, having been let out at his father's home.

Fortunately, both automobile and wagon were being driven slowly at the time, and young Nelson was able to proceed very little the worse for his experience. The horse, however, was not so fortunate. Its condition was such that Mr. Nelson, who was aroused by his son, summoned a veterinary at once from New Brunswick to treat the animal.

This is the second automobile accident in which young Nelson has been the victim. Last winter he was driving his father's rig below New Market, when he was run into by an automobile and hurled out of the wagon, injuring his back. The party in the automobile in this instance stopped, and an ultimate settlement was made.

MICHAEL BECK'S FUNERAL IS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of Michael Beck, an aged resident of this vicinity, was held at his late home on the Warrenville road at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of this place. Mr. Brown spoke in most high terms of the deceased. He referred to Mr. Beck as one who was home loving, sociable and neighborly, and said all would miss him for his sterling worth. The floral tributes were beautiful. Among them were two set pieces, some very handsome shower bouquets, one great mass of sweet peas, another of carnations, and still another of roses.

Mrs. E. B. Leland, Mrs. F. H. Fuller, George Cameron and Guy H. Renyschler, of the choir of the Presbyterian church, sang two hymns, "O Happy Day that Fixed My Choice," and "In the Christian's Home in Glory There Remains a Land of Rest."

The interment was at Bound Brook. The pallbearers were: H. C. Vogel, F. T. Dauncey, O. V. Markle, Albert Brokaw, W. F. Wiedenhaupt and J. H. L. Peters.

Mr. Beck was born in Germany. He came to this country when seventeen years of age, locating at Randolphville, where he engaged in farming. In 1867 he married Miss Anna Kreig, of Brooklyn, who died on March 7, 1905. Mr. and Mrs. Beck came to Dunellen in 1873, purchasing the Titsworth place on South avenue. They remained there nineteen years, when they purchased and moved to the Andrew Drake farm on the Warrenville road, where the daughters, the Misses Annie and Mary, are now left alone.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

THY JUDGMENT WAITS

By George I. Sill

God of us all! before thy throne
The smoke of blood ascends—
Of innocents bereft, the cry goes up—
For vengeance pleads!

While dark upon my stricken sight,
Dark looms that form portentous—
Of Cain the avatar—ruthless and strong—
Of reason void.

It grows apace! and spreading far
O'er fields that smiled with harvest ripe—
In homes content, with plenty blest—
As shadow falls.

Where mother love enfolded warm—
Where trusting sweethearts fondly kissed;
And age its peaceful ev'ning spent,
In calm repose.

O Ancient One! O earth's Fell Scourge!
Who called thee forth from cave horrific,
To slake thy bloody thirst—
To glut thy sword?

Who put thee on thy devastating course,
Of homes made waste and desolate;
To drench a thousand fields with blood—
Death's cup to serve?

To bow the heart with sorrow's blight—
To wake the widow's and the orphan's tear—
Of bitter want the seal to set,
On man unborn?

The slaughtered ones, the ruined lands—
O God enthroned! thou wilt avenge!
For those who called this monster forth—
Thy judgment waits.

S. P. C. A. IS PLANNING FOR "HUMANE SUNDAY"

Preachers in Local Churches Will Be Asked to Dwell on This Subject.

At the monthly meeting of the local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals held in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon plans were made for the observance of Humane Sunday on May 23, and "Be Kind to Animal Week" the preceding week. On the twenty-third the ministers of the churches throughout the city will be asked to preach on "kindness to animals" and on one of the days during "Animal Week" the society will conduct an open air meeting for which arrangements are being made to have several prominent speakers present to lecture.

Although no definite plan was adopted, the matter of a place of destroying and of harboring stray animals, something that has been a problem ever since the Rushmore Dynamo Works changed hands, being founded in the near future, was discussed and a solution to the trouble is expected before the end of the summer. The annual report of the State society was read in detail by Mrs. Eleanor Dunn, secretary of the local body, and it was also reported that arrangements had been made to place animal calendars in every room in the local schools.

Mrs. S. G. Van Hoesen, special agent of the local society, in presenting her monthly report, stated that she had investigated eighteen cases, given nineteen warnings, made two prosecutions and had received two convictions, had had five animals destroyed, eight assisted, and five taken from work.

The committe has engaged the Leavitt and Meyerhoff company, which has an excellent reputation throughout the country, and which will come to Plainfield with novelties never before presented by a similar organization. The exhibition will take place during the week beginning Monday, May 17.

H. CRAIG SMITH HAS A NATAL DAY

Veteran of Civil War Quietly Observing the 75th Anniversary of His Birth.

H. Craig Smith, of Madison avenue, who is numbered among Plainfield's best known residents, is today quietly observing the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birthday. The event is not to be marked by any formal celebration as Mr. Smith is of a most modest demeanor and anyway, thinks a three-quarter century natal day is nothing to prattle about. In fact, he was extremely reluctant to say anything about it and acknowledged his guilt only when a reporter refused to let him go until he 'fessed up.

Mr. Smith was born and brought up in Wayne county Indiana, where he learned the civil engineering profession and followed it for many years. He is still in the game today and can out-chain, out-sight and out-stake dozens of young fellows who are beginning to carry the transit and hold the flagpole. He came East in 1866 as a member of the surveying party which mapped out the line of the national railroad from the Delaware River to Bound Brook, now known as the Philadelphia and Reading. There was strenuous opposition to the building of the road on the part of the Pennsylvania Railroad officials and if he can be gotten in the proper mood, he could relate for hours interesting stories concerning the legislative fights and legal battles waged before actual work on the line got under way. Mr. Smith first visited Plainfield in 1867, putting up at Laing's Hotel, where the Babcock building now stands, and gained such a favorable impression of the city that he moved his family here four years later. He has always taken an active interest in civic affairs and his genial hospitality is such that he has hundreds of friends throughout the twin municipalities.

Fort Sumpter was fired on April 14, 1861, and President Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers on April 15. The patriotic spirt was so rampant in Mr. Smith that he enlisted in Company A, Eighth Indiana Volunteers, on April 16. His regiment reported to the Governor the following day and on April 18 every member was sworn in to Uncle Sam's service. He served with distinction during his enlistment and in these days is still active in the affairs of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., instilling in the minds of the young that love and respect for the flag that all old soldiers consider a duty. Mr. Smith was one of the committee which arranged the recent celebration in honor of the surrender at Appomattox and much of its success was due to his efforts. All this is said by the reporter on his own responsibility, for as stated above, the subject of this sketch is not at all communicative regarding himself and admitted the facts only when absolutely cornered. Mr. Smith has three sons, Irving, who is in the West; Homer and Raymond, of this city, also one daughter, all four being well-known.

Cubberly acted as master of ceremonies.

Paroubek's orchestra furnished music throughout the evening and the program included the following numbers: Recitations, Miss Try Mattox; songs, Queen City Quartet; sleight of hand feats, Jesse Rogers; address, "Odd Fellowship," by Dr. J. H. Buchanan. Refreshments were served in conclusion and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

UNIQUE EXHIBITION BY P. H. S. STUDENTS

Commercial Club Conducts Novel Affair in School Auditorium.

One of the most unique exhibitions of educational work of interest to business men was given in the Plainfield High School last night under the auspices of the Commercial Club. The demonstrations were given by pupils in the school's commercial department and one of the features was a competition for speed participated in by the bank clerks of Plainfield. This contest was run off on the adding machine, William Marston capturing first place and a prize of $10 for speed and accurracy. Howard Boss was second, and was awarded a $5 prize.

A model classroom was fitted up on the auditorium stage, J. C. Evans, the commercial instructor, being in charge. He dictated letters to the students and these were taking down at the rate of 200 words per minute. The material used in dictation was some that the pupils had never seen before. The pupils were then given an opportunity to transcribe them and later gave exhibitions of speed on the typewriters at the rate of fifty words a minute.

A model office was the second exhibit. "How to use the switchboard," by Miss Sadie Rothberg, was a feature of this demonstration. Miss Hazel Putnam took dictation from a dictaphone into which Mr. Evans gave out a letter. Other office duties such as filing, mimeographing, and getting out a day's mail were shown. Miss Laura Smith, the champion typist of the department, gave a speed exhibition at the rate of seventy-seven words a minute, with an average of 99.99 per cent. for accurracy.

A musical program was also rendered. Miss Robinson rendered several vocal selections and Miss Lyle Smith played violin selections.

FREE COOKING LESSONS.

Arrangements have been made by E. & W. Schloss, the West Front street grocers, for a series of free lessons in cooking by a famous expert, Mrs. Rose Jerome, who is acknowledged authority on domestic science. Mrs. Jerome will demonstrate the various branches of culinary work, including southern style of cooking various dishes and lecture at the same time. Those interested are invited to call at the store, bringing book and pencil. Demonstrations will be given and lectures conducted tomorrow and Thursday commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning.

TO REMAIN IN WASHINGTON.

New York, April 27.—President Wilson virtually has made up his mind to remain in Washington during the summer. The Summer White House will again be established at Cornish, N. H.

RIGGS BANK CASE.

Washington, April 27.—President Wilson reiterated to newspaper men today that the administration was taking no interest in the Riggs bank case against the Treasury Department.

SECOND LOAN.

London, April 2.—A despatch from Geneva says that the Swiss Government has taken steps to place a second loan in the United States this summer.

The Almanac Trust.

The sale of almanacs was once a lucrative monopoly. Queen Elizabeth granted the sole right to publish "almanacs and prognostications" to the Stationers' company, and James I. extended the privilege to the universities of Oxford and Cambridge, but for centuries only these three bodies were permitted to issue printed calendars. The monopoly ended when the claim of the king to the privileges of granting or withholding permission to issue calendars—a survival, perhaps, from days when kings asserted their right to regulate all things, including even the times and seasons—was definitely disproved and proclaimed nonexistent. Now anybody can say who's who anywhere.—London Spectator.

Munchausen.

"The Travels of Baron Munchausen," as we have them, are a compound from a great variety of sources. The first installment, which professes to be based on the real baron's own tales, is scarcely a quarter of the whole, and even this has been traced in great part to various German, Italian and Portuguese origins. Afterward the author cribbed avowedly from Lucian and added a second volume intended as a satire on Bruce's "Travels." Most of the early editions were entitled "Gulliver Revived; or, the Vice of Lying Properly Exposed."—London Tatler.

How It Works Out.

"I'll never forget the favor you have done me," said the man who doesn't mind asking for what he wants.

"Don't say that," replied the cold blooded person. "When a man keeps brooding over an obligation he's almost sure to get resentful instead of appreciative."—Washington Star.

THE JITNEY.

In the sound of the word jitney there is a suggestion of something Japanese, but it is said to be merely a substitute for nickle of local origin in the far west, where the cheap auto-bus first saw the light. Whatever the origin of the term, the thing itself at the outset was manifestly a product of a season of unemployment.

The jitney idea was born in Los Angeles, spread to Portland, Spokane, Kansas City, Detroit, and in no great while was taken up as far east as Atlanta, Philadelphia and Providence. Now the whir of the jitney is in the ears of practically every large city, but according to report the tide now tends to subside rather than to surge higher.

It is explained that the jitney "craze" tends toward decline because it has been found, after the casting up of the accounts, that there is not in it a living wage—with wear and tear included in the cost—unless business is brisk and earnings handsome. After six weeks or so, it is said, the original jitney drivers disappear from the scene with worn out machines. A new expense now begins to face the jitney which at first paid no tax, and restrictive legislative regulations are rapidly taking form. Hereafter the jitney is not likely to enjoy all its present advantages over the street car, such as freedom to run only when its seats are all full and to confine its operations to populous districts.

But though it may decrease in numbers and be somewhat less profitable, the jitney will no doubt survive, and, aside from its own usefulness especially in growing cities with inadequate means of conveyance, it can not fail to perform good service in spurring the street car lines toward needed improvement.

THE SLAUGHTER.

The last casualty list published in Berlin is said to bring the German total of killed, wounded and missing up to 1,196,969, after less than nine months of war. The terrible significance of these figures will appear when they are compared with the total German casualties amounting to only 127,879 in the seven months and a half of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, and the total Union losses, dead and wounded, of 385,245 in the four years of 1861-65.

It is suspected that Russian losses in the present war are on a larger scale even than the Germans, but no official figures have been made public at Petrograd. The losses of France and Austria are also kept secret, but with good reason it is believed that they are enormous. England, with fewer men as yet sent to the firing line and with millions still to draw from in her empire, can better afford to make her losses public. But even England is slow to bring the facts before a shuddering public and employs the installment system of announcements, with the evident purpose of veiling the naked horror of it as far as possible. The wonder is that Germany is not also in dread of checking enlistments and arousing a peace-at-any-price sentiment by public announcements of the sacrifice of more than a million men.

With the two sides equally determined and apparently so evenly matched, there would seem to be no prospect of the end of the slaughter until the unparalleled record is appalling indeed.

There's food for a lot of thought on the part of Plainfield business men in the action that was taken last Friday night by the Building Trades' Council regarding the support of various so-called labor publications. During the course of every year some half dozen or more groups of canvassers come to town soliciting advertising for this or that labor publication, which is never seen in this city, except by those who put up their money for advertisements. The impression is given that the local union men benefit from the publications, and we are advised by William Lunger, the Plainfield business agent, that aside from the Union Labor Bulletin, published at Newark, the local men are in no way identified with any publication of the kind. The next time anyone solicits business for periodicals of this kind, the proper thing to do is to call for the production of credentials signed by the home labor officials.

Chief of Police Gray, of the Central Railroad, says that Assemblyman William N. Runyon told him that he could go to a warmer place than Trenton, when Gray was lobbying for the State Contabulary bill. From what we know of the average railroad police officer, Mr. Runyon picked the right place to suggest, and the world would be better off if they all went there.

Certainly the weather calendar has gone awry this year. With a miniature blizzard to give us a white Easter, and the lack of rain throughout the month which is supposed to be the rainiest month in the year, April certainly has been topsy-turvey.

Once again the West End Civic Association comes forward as a public spirited organization. Plans are being made by them to provide band concerts in their section of the city again this year.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press.

The following was prepared and presented to the meeting of the taxpayers called to consider the budget last Friday evening, but was neither read nor presented:

To the Honorable the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen—Owing to the evening selected for a public hearing on the 1915 budget, being Friday evening, which prevents my attendance, I would take this method of presenting my personal protest, for I believe it is time to call a halt. These are hard times and every effort should be made to decrease our expenses. A good business man when his income decreases, reduces his expenses and we as a body politic should do the same.

We have from 24,000 to 25,000 population, yet our bonded indebtedness is over $1,000,000 and the budget calls for about $600,000 or about $26 per capita. Owing to the increase in ratables by the new Board of Assessors, especially in the Second and Third wards, a number of active real estate men have been ruined and put out of business. These names I can give on request.

Real estate has almost alone to bear the burden, mortgaged real estate at that, for there is but little personal property reached. A remedy could be found here by amending the tax law, and impose an annual tax on intangible property. This has been adopted with much success in five States, viz.: Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Iowa, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Maryland.

To reduce our expenses especial attention should be paid to our State Legislature, which has imposed a school law which has taken practically all control from our voters over the schools and given it to the State Board; second, our Board of Freeholders should in some way be controlled. Think of a Bonnie Burn costing half a million, when the State itself spent but $150,000 for a tuberculosis hospital. We should go back to the call system for our fire department and not have an entire paid fire department. Elizabeth with three times our population cannot afford it. How can we? Stop charities and amusements which add so large an amount to the budget. Why encourage dancing and playgrounds. Rather attach our children to work as is done in Germany and make them useful citizens rather than incompetent to earn a living when they leave school.

There is not another city in the State outside of Upper Montclair, where so many of the rich are living, with our population, that has a High School costing so much as ours. Assessments should be reduced on outlying vacant lands and also in the business section. At present in some cases they amount to practical confiscation.

Insurance in the business section has jumped in some cases to three times what was paid two years ago or even one year ago. Our fire department is really run for the benefit for the insurance companies and they should pay the bill. These are but a few of the ideas that I would like to express. I have lived here all my life, spent large sums in trying to develop the place and I believe with but a single exception am the largest taxpayer, but I am without remedy and can only sit still and see the procession go by which will land the city in bankruptcy if we do not stop. The excessive cost of the Board of Health should be reduced. The item of shade trees eliminated altogether.

Other things may occur to your honorable body, by which expenses may be reduced until these hard times are over. An attempt should be made to get together with other cities, boroughs and townships in the county and with especially the Board of Freeholders.

It may be too late for this year's Legislature, but committees could be appointed to draft new laws and amendments to restore to the people the authority and franchise which has been taken away from them by the State.

It was the boast of Plainfield in its early days that it had no debt and could not get into debt without the vote of the body politic, but the State has stepped in and stopped all this. We have gone ahead too fast. We have been trying to get for a city of 25,000 the needs of a population of 100,000. If there is any legal way to reduce this budget by your honorable body, either in fire, police, charity, amusements, Board of Health or Shade Tree Commission, if it is only for a year or so until the taxpayers can get on their feet, I believe it is your duty so to do.

WILLIAM M. STILLMAN.

EXPERTS TO SPEAK AT MASS MEETING

Dr. Charles G. Kerley Will Talk on "Child Life" at the Y. M. C. A.

A mass meeting has been arranged for Thursday evening in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, in the interest of the "Baby Saving Show," by Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, under whose auspices the show was brought to Plainfield. As announced today the principal speaker will be Dr. Charles Gilmore Kerley, of New York city, one of the leading authorities of the country on the ills of babyhood, who has announced that he will speak on "Child Life." He has not announced the nature of his address, but judging from the title it will be neither an array of statistics nor a stereotyped speech on the care of the baby. Dr. Kerley is well-known in Plainfield and his address will be a fitting close to the "Baby Saving Show," which has had a very successful run here.

An invitation to attend is extended to the general public by Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, and the members of the Plainfield Medical Society, composed of the doctors of the city, have received personal invitations to be present. Dr. Ben Vaud Hedges is in charge of the arrangements, and Percy H. Stewart will preside.

Thursday will be the last night of the "Baby Saving Show" in the Stirling building on Park avenue, will be open, as it is to return to Philadelphia where it is to be set up in permanent quarters as the property of the Bureal of Health, to whom it has been presented by the Child Federation.

The show has been seen in its present shape by over half a million people, and to make it accessible to an even greater number it is planned by Mr. Birdsall, who is in charge, to present the show in the form of an illustrated lecture, making stereopticon slides of the show pictures and exhibits. This will make the show more easily transported, as the present equipment comprises nearly a carload of material. Mr. Birdsall has secured reels of moving pictures on similar subjects and if the proper amount of support develops the lecture will be offered to those interested in the subject this summer. Many of the show's exhibits are striking and unique, and representations of the Russel Sage Foundation have expressed their intention of coming out from New York to see it, since child-helping is a division of the work engaged in by the foundation.

popularity and ability to entertain. "Tom" Muir's annual rendition of the topical song, has become the brilliant feature of Elks' minstrels. As is his unusual custom, Assemblyman William N. Runyon has composed the words and music and the lines bring out local civic issues in humorous style. Muir's ability to bring out the composer's ideas are well-known and this event will be taken good care of.

The hits assigned to the end songsters follow: Firstbrook, "Mississippi Cabaret;" Cose, "On the 5:15;" Todd, "Southern Hospitality;" Bennett, "Sister Susie," and Campbell, "How the Money Rolls In." The title of the topical song is "Leave Everything to Me."

The following ballads will be sung: "The Garden of Gods," B. F. Tallamy; "Just a Little Bit of Heaven," Elmer D. Cutting, "Can't Yo' Heah Me Callin'," E. J. Harding, "The Bandolero," William G. Smith.

The olio will include the following numbers: "The Irish Senator," by Larry Sharkey; "The Phonograph City Trio," and Stayman & Buckley, singers and entertainers.

FRED ENDRESS GETS PARTY ENDORSEMENT

Democratic Club Want Him Named as Local Auto Registration Agent.

The Plainfield Democratic Club at its meeting last night endorsed former Councilman Fred Endress for the position of auto registering agent for Plainfield, to succeed Henry P. Vosseller. The club adopted a resolution which set forth that under the present system of licensing persons to run motor vehicles, those desiring licenses must go to Newark or some other neighboring city on some appointed day for examination.

The resolution pointed out that this system not only causes inconvenience and annoyance, but results in persons operating motor vehicles without a license and general acquiesence in this regard of a most wholesome regulation.

It was urged that the commissioner of motor licenses be requested to appoint some competent person located in Plainfield to make examination of applicants for motor licenses and that the chairman of the committee be directed to send a copy of the resolution to the chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee with the request that he confer with the commissioner of motor licenses in support of the resolution.

GOTHAM'S EARLY DAYS RECALLED

W. R. Cock Remembers When the City Hall Had Bell Tower.

SAW TROOPS RETURN

First Steam Engine Was the "Miles Greenwood" and Everyone Agreed That It Would Never Replace Hand Pumps.

William R. Cock, of East Fifth street, a well-known resident of Plainfield, in an interview in the New York Evening Post of April 19 recalls some of the early days of the metropolis, when the City Hall had a bell tower, and other interesting facts concerning the old volunteer fire department. His historical review is as follows:

"There is no really good history of New York city, and, consequently, it is to the random chapters of reminiscences of those who knew the city in earlier times that readers must look for the most interesting bits of the story of the past. W. R. Cock, of Plainfield, N. J., was born in the old Third ward, of New York city, and spent part of his boyhood there. He can remember the City Hall before the fire of 1860, the volunteer fire fighters, the building of High Bridge, the coming of Croton water, Barnum's Museum in its palmy days, and the great men who then passed through the nation's metropolis.

"I was born January 8, 1841, at 15 Murray street," he says, "and I lived there until 1852. When I was old enough I was allowed to wander about the streets, and had the special privilege of crossing Broadway to the City Hall Park. There were many opportunities to see sights, and I think I may say I always availed myself of them. I remember standing in front of the City Hall to watch the First Regiment, New York Volunteers, return from Mexico at the close of the war. The regiment lined up in front of the hall, and the color-bearers, escorted by the color-guard, carried the flags into the City Hall and came away without them. These flags should still be in the City Hall.

"I saw the illumination celebrating the declaration of peace in 1848. No electric lights, nothing but candles, but there was one candle behind every pane of glass. The buildings most prominent in this display were the City Hall, Tammany Hall, Barnum's Museum, the Astor House and the City Hotel.

"I saw a fugitive slave captured in the City Hall Park and taken into the marshal's office in the basement, under the Mayor's office, the Stars and Stripes, the emblem of freedom, floating over his head from the staff on top of the hall.

"I saw Henry Clay in a carriage returning from a call on the Mayor—Mr. Westervelt, I think. I also saw the first 'steam fire engine' tried in New York city. This engine, the 'Miles Greenwood,' was sent from Cincinnati, O., to show New York how far ahead the West was in the matter of improved fire apparatus. The engine stood on the west side of the hall, and it took over an hour to get up steam. After the engine started to work they tried to throw a stream over the statue of Justice, but did not succeed.

"Then Empire Engine Company, No. 42, brought their big hand engine, and by great effort lifted her on to the stone platform, and placed her close to the main steps. Then the members of '42' manned the brakes and threw a stream, first to the top of the statue, and by one superhuman application of the muscles of at least 100 men, the water was thrown ten feet above the statue, clearly demonstrating to the satisfaction of New York firemen that steam to work an engine at a fire was a dead failure.

"I asked one of the members of No. 42 if he thought that eventually fire engines would be run by steam, superseding hand power. This gentleman looked down in my youthful face, with perfect disdain, and said: 'No, by no means, for what would the men have to do at a fire if steam did the pumping?' I have seen many and many a big fire in my day, with a score of engines at work, all by hand, and no pay. I saw the Park Theatre burn down in 1847, and remember the ruins of the fire of 1845.

"Few people, perhaps, know that the City Hall once had a bell tower. After the fire of 1860, which entirely destroyed the cupola, it was thought that the 'Big Bell' should be removed, and among the reasons given, was that the jarring of the building, when the bell was struck, had a bad effect. Another reason imparted to me by Mr. Sperry, the clockmaker, was that the vibration was such as to affect the clock adversely as a timekeeper, and often the clock had stopped entirely. I remember that Mr. Sperry told me that he had notified the city authorities that if the contract for a new clock was awarded to him, he would not warrant the same if the bell remained. I think Sperry received the order. I have never seen a picture of the City Hall dated prior to, say, 1840, that represents it with a 'bell tower' on the roof, north of the cupola.

"I recall the fact that when the bell was taken down, and the tower removed, a number of articles appeared in the newspapers lauding the action of the city authorities in removing the unsightly 'Bell Tower,' leaving the building as originally constructed, and proclaiming the fact that it is the finest specimen of the style of architecture in this country.

"I was present when the last bell was lowered from the roof of the hall, to be replaced by the eleven-ton bell that died in the harness. It seems to me that they cracked a bell about every year, for I saw many hoisted and the old ones lowered, and for me it was a great sight. The last bell to come down was just at the edge of the roof when the men 'knocked off' for dinner, and I went home to return at 1 o'clock. For some reason I was detained, and on my return I was mortified and greatly distressed, for the bell had been lowered, and, more distressing still, just as she reached the top of the steps, the tackle broke, and the bell slid down the whole flight, breaking off the edges of each and every step, in which damaged condition the steps remained for very many years. I am sure the steps were not renewed, but 'patched.' If so, the patching can be easily detected, and my statement verified.

The New City Hall, as it was called, was a row of buildings similar as to design to the ordinary dwelling house in New York, in those days, with peaked slate roof, and most unsightly. They faced the park, being at the corner of Chambers street and Broadway. I remember them as having over the entrance door the names of the courts occupying the premises. These buildings, I think, were taken down at the time the brownstone courthouse was erected.

"A building in the park that I recall with pleasure was known as the Rotunda, used up to the time it was taken down as the offices of the Croton Water Department. I remember this building as a picture gallery. I have no doubt but that there were many fine pictures in the gallery, for I was taken there a number of times, and was supposed to be highly edified, but my interests were more centered upon a very huge representation of Noah's Ark. It was at least six feet long, which gives an idea of the size. The Ark was surrounded by the animals, marching in by twos, and, as I recollect, every known animal in the universe was represented, for I gave the subject close attention. In order to make the representation complete, birds were strung on cords from the sides of the room to windows in the Ark.

"I remember that there were four paintings in the gallery that were quite famous, and were placed there as a great treat to the lovers of the fine arts. The paintings were "The Voyage of Life," by Cole. After the Rotunda was closed they were removed to the lecture room of the Spingler Institute, on Union Square, and were, I think, the property of Dr. Gorham Abbott. A year or so ago I saw them in St. Luke's Hospital, in this city.

"My reference to the art gallery in the Rotunda may induce some of your readers to take up the subject of similar institutions that have existed in New York. I recall the American Art Union, on Broadway, on the 'shilling side' of the way, below Bleecker street; and the Dusseldorff Gallery, in a building (a part of the Church of the Divine Unity), also on Broadway, say, about Prince or Spring streets. Where the Academy of Designs was located before it went to Fourth avenue and Twenty-third street I cannot recall. All these galleries are modern as compared with the one in the park.

"Speaking of the lack of telegraphic communication, I had one experience which is interesting. On a trip from Philadelphia to New York in the forties, when the Camden and Amboy Railroad skirted the Raritan Canal between Trenton and New Brunswick, our locomotive ran off the track into the canal, and we were detained about four hours awaiting a relief train, which was sent from Princeton on notice of the conductor, the message having been taken by a farmer's boy on horseback. When we arrived in New York, we gave the first information of the cause of delay to those anxiously waiting on the ferry bridge."

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"Satan Sanderson," Hallie Erminie Rives' famous novel in film form, will be the principal dramatic offering at the Astor Theatre tonight. Orrin Johnson and a well selected cast playing the characters which attained wide popularity through Miss Rives' book. "Satan Sanderson" possesses a virility and originality thoroughly American and introduces many events and episodes that might happen in our own homes or the homes of our friends. It is this naturalness, this adherence to the realities, that made the original book so acceptable and which gives to the film dramatization a powerful appeal to old and young alike. In the film version the important scenes of the book and play have been extensively amplified and the interest, therefore, greatly increased. As an added feature tonight Charles Chaplin will cavort on the screen of the Astor in his side-splitting comedy in two reels, "The Tramp." Edmund Breese, remembered for his splendid work in "The Master Mind," will appear tomorrow and Thursday in "The Walls of Jericho," a photo-dramatization of Alfred Sutro's play which ran with phenomenal success at the Hackett Theatre, New York. "A Child," a Mutual masterpiece, will top the bill Friday, and for Saturday, Manager Hall has booked "Droppington's Family Tree," a thousand laugh comedy.

STOMACH TROUBLE HITS "PREP" TEAM

N. P. H. S. Balltossers Say They Were Deprived of a Possible Rally.

North Plainfield lost a ball game yesterday at Seton Hall, because the Seton Hall boys had to dress for dinner. The score was 2 to 1 in the "Prep" School boys' favor when the dinner hour was announced, so the game was cut to six innings. However, a great deal more baseball could be played in six innings than was played in that game. Mullin's absence may answer for some of it, but Captain Smalley's men played slow ball on the bases and indifferently in the field; showing up some of the listless stuff that has characterized Plainfield's games.

Smalley, personally, did himself proud, clouting two good hits, one of which brought in the single run his team scored. Seton Hall counted one each in the first and third innings. The Seton Hall pitcher's odd delivery puzzled the borough hitters and drew seven strikeouts.

The score:

BOB MIDDLETON DEAD.

Word was received here yesterday afternoon of the death at Rome, N. Y., of Bob Middleton, former baseball player and minstrel man. He was a native of Rome, but had resided in Elizabeth for nearly twenty years. Middleton played ball on the Elizabeth Stars, which met many major league teams some years ago. "Red" Waller, who died recently, was an associate player on the Stars with Middleton and he performed here on many occasions.

BAR FIGHT FILMS.

Newark, April 27—Customs Officer Freed yesterday denied a petition of L. Lawrence Weber, of New York, to bring pictures of the Willard-Johnson fight to this country for exhibition. A mandamus is expected to be sought by counsel representing Weber to compel Freed to fix a duty on the pictures. An injunction will be sought to prevent interference with bringing the pictures into the United States.

EXPECT FIELDER TO SIGN SINGER'S BOXING BILL

Jersey City, April 27—Assemblyman Jacob J. Singer still has hopes of the boxing bill being signed. He said yesterday that he expects his bill to be signed by Governor Fielder tomorrow.

"I have been in communication with Secretary Francis Davis, of the State Senate, and he has assured me that he will attest the boxing bill, when he goes from Woodbury, in Salem county, to Trenton to attend to the remaining Senate bills," said Assemblyman Singer.

"I talked with Mr. Davis over the long-distance telephone and explained to him the need of properly attesting the bill, in view of the Senate amendments that were tacked on.

"Speaker Godfrey has already signed the bill. I feel sure that all the legal quibbles have now been overcome or are about to be overcome and that the bill will, in proper form, get to the Governor. I understand that the Governor, realizing the fairness of the measure, will approve it very promptly.

"The bill was so radically modified in the Senate that I do not see how any reasonable objections can be urged against it.

"By limiting the sparring contests to four rounds and requiring soft gloves and confining the contests to amateurs all objections, it seems to me, have been properly met. There is a strong demand for the bill."

FIRST MATCH FOR BORO TENNIS TEAM NEXT WEEK

With the first match of the season just one week off, the North Plainfield High School tennis candidates are anxiously waiting for the first call for practice. Captain Hoyt Tomkinson has been ready to issue that call for the past week, but the condition of the tennis courts has caused the delay. They will be ready for use in the next few days and then those who intend trying for the team will be worked hard to get into trim for the initial match.

According to Manager French's schedule the borough team will travel to Summit next Tuesday afternoon. There are a large number of candidates out for places on the team. The first home game will be played one week from next Saturday.

N. P. H. S. AT KEARNY.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team will leave town for the second time this season, tomorrow afternoon, when it is scheduled to play Kearny High School at that place. The trip will be made by train to Newark. Last year the boroughites went to Kearny in the rain and won a 17 to 13 verdict. Dilts will probably be sent to the mound as Stahl worked yesterday and will face Leal Saturday afternoon.

CHANCE FOR THE FEDS.

Philadelphia, April 27—Connie Mack yesterday laid the way open for Frank Baker to jump to the Federal League, if the independents will have the star third sacker of the Athletics. Mack asserted that under no consideration would he take Baker back, and that he would keep him from playing with any club until his contract, which has two more years to go, runs out.

PARK CLUB BOWLING SEASON NEAR CLOSE

Schedule Will Wind up Friday Night With Ten Pin Event.

The Park Club bowling schedule will end this week, Thursday night being the final round of the handicap five-back competition, and Friday night the last ten-pin event will be rolled. The competition has been unusually keen this winter and much interest has been shown throughout. In the five-back tourney C. A. Rice was able to break the club record, chalking up a 122 several weeks ago.

At ten pins Warren Butler is still leading for first place and the championship trophy, and will undoubtedly be at the top after Friday night's scores are recorded. He has rolled steady scores right along and has taken part in fifteen games for a total of 16 points. Soon after the end of the schedules, probably some day next week, a meeting and social time will be held at which time the prizes will be awarded to the winners.

WANT LOCAL LODGES FOR FRATERNAL BALL LEAGUE

At a recent meeting of the Westfield Fraternal Bowling League, plans were made to form a circuit with twelve teams with any fraternal order eligible from Plainfield, Roselle, Cranford, Rahway and Westfield. It was voted to change the name to the Union County Fraternal Bowling League. One of the rules made was that all matches must be rolled in Westfield.

The officers for next season were elected as follows: President, George F. Brown; secretary, Edward Wittke; treasurer, Charles Westerburg.

National League Players Say Alexander of Phillies Is Equal of Walter Johnson

THE National league now presents a rival to Johnson in Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies. Splendid young pitchers have come into the National league, and some have attained considerable fame, but in the estimation of ball players none has combined the essentials of the art to the degree of proficiency reached by Alexander.

Though not of Johnson's proportions, Alexander has tremendous speed, and men who have played with him and batted against both him and Johnson say that Alexander is as effective a pitcher as Sir Walter. He may not have as much on his fast ball as Johnson had three or four years ago, but he has Gatling gun speed just the same—the whiz that gets the ball right up on the batsman before he can set himself.

If Alexander has a pitching weakness the batters who oppose him seldom point it out or take advantage of it. His curve is fast and breaks sharply, his control is excellent, he has a "slow ball" and, best of all, the "fast one." Applying good judgment, a cool head and a fine temperament to that repertory, he has become the best right handed pitcher in the National league. He stands out as no pitcher has stood out since the days when Mathewson and Mordecai Brown ruled the roost.

Panamas Send First Recruit.

The Panama Canal Zone league has sent its first recruit to the states. The Memphis club has taken on an outfielder named Drennan, who is so sure that he can make good that he paid his own way from Cristobal, a matter of about 2,000 miles.

CRAVATH'S TORMENTOR QUICKLY SHUT UP.

In Tampa, Fla., during the recent Cub-Philly series a Cub partisan began to taunt Cravath, the Phils' great fence demolisher. He likened Cactus to an elephant and other animals suggestive of girth and slow gait. Finally Cravath could stand it no longer.

"Shut up, you mutt!" he exclaimed. "When I am comfortably sleeping in the morning you will be delivering your second load of ice."

The crowd laughed at the expense of Cravath's tormentor, who suddenly bethought himself to move to another place in the stand.

JIM FLYNN TO QUIT RING IN ONE YEAR.

"I'll get out of the fighting game this year," said Jim Flynn, the heavyweight, recently. The ex-fireman then proceeded to give his philosophy about money, probably to dispel the last lingering suspicion that he was fighting for his health.

"Got to get out and make the coin while the going is good," said Flynn. "When I make it I will bring it back and invest it in Pueblo, Colo., my home town."

Flynn finds vaudeville engagements very healthy, financially speaking, between real fighting engagements.

Returning to his farewell, the big pug said: "I think I'll quit this year, not because I'm slowing up. I feel as fine today as I did sixteen years ago, and I believe I can stick in the business until I die. But that is the way with old age. You never recognize it until it knocks you out."

STRICKEN FIELDS IN EUROPE SEE MANY STRANGE WAR CONTRASTS

Soldiers Play Games and Follow Their Trades With Joy and Profit In Trenches In Lull of Battle.

Beg Friends to Send Them Flowers to Plant on Comrades' Graves and Decorate Their Camps.

NOW that the gentle touch of spring is in the air the buds are bursting on the shrubs and trees of the battlefields, crops are sprouting and the wild flowers are beginning to bloom amid the graves of the fallen warriors. Nature's seasons pay no heed to war.

Contrasts such as these are one of the most striking features today on the stricken fields of Europe. Yet contrasts in the war, strange as they seem, are perhaps the most natural outcome of the strained conditions under which the vast hordes of men are living.

German soldiers, for instance, are begging friends to send them flower seeds to plant on the graves of comrades and to decorate the trenches and camps.

Held in the trenches—frightfully bored. Between times they are drenched and stabbed by rheumatism and sometimes starved and often shot at. But mostly they are bored. They have nothing to do—nothing at all. They just sit and talk. By and by the man in the middle has heard all the man on the left and the man on the right can tell him. Then they just sit.

Enjoy Mouth Organs.

A thoughtful German woman sent a present which probably saved many a mind. Her gift was 300 mouth organs.

The new German bath train has also received a warm welcome from the men in the trenches. It consists of three water cars with a capacity of 15,000 gallons, two bath cars with thirty shower baths, two dressing cars, four storage cars for clean uniforms and underwear, and one storage car for discarded clothing that is to be disinfected. It can provide shower baths and clean outfits of underwear for 1,200 men in ten hours.

A soldier wrote from the front that Private A. C. White, with no friends, was "the loneliest man in the British army," and had been so upset he was in the hospital. "What he needs is not pills, but sympathy," the letter read. Since then Private White has received 800 letters, cards, papers and packages of delicacies.

Died as He Won Game.

Sergeant A. Vanoode of Brussels during a lull in the hostilities proposed a game of chess to a fellow enthusiast, a French comrade named Dussaixe. This was played upon a pocket chessboard and proceeded without incident to black's seventeenth move, when the sentinel sounded an alarm. Vanoode at once made his way to his post at the extremity of the trench, Dussaixe calling after him, "J'aurai vain—" ("I shall win"). But the sentence was never finished, for with a terrible crash a shell exploded in the trench, killing him instantly. The chessboard was kept by Vanoode, who was wounded. It shows that by his eighteenth move Dussaixe would have won.

"Come out, you Canadians; come out and fight!" was the challenge which the Germans issued the first night the Canadian division entered the trenches in Flanders. In his official record "Eyewitness" reports that the Canadians were annoyed at this, because they considered "the Germans were presuming upon a slight acquaintance." He adds, "Now, the trenches in normal times have their own code of manners and of amenity, and this challenge was and is regarded as impertinent."

A German soldier's letter, published in the Berliner Zeitung am Mittag, says:

"Inasmuch as there is nothing that can be bought in the villages just behind the German front, coin has lost all its value. On the other hand and in the same proportion, the value of the cigar has increased. It now forms the basis of the entire trade here.

"It makes no difference whether you have a fine cigar or one of the cheap variety, such as those of which you can buy three for 5 pfennig at the village shop, their buying power and value are the same.

Use Cigars as Money.

"So there has developed on the basis of the 'single cigar standard,' as one might say, a very lively system of barter in commodities which for the most part come as loving gifts from home. A slice of salami sausage as big as your hand costs four cigars. A flask of cognac, irrespective of brand, costs thirty cigars.

"Whoever wants to have his boots shined and cleaned of the muddy real estate that cakes them can have them polished splendidly for two cigars. Thus we have reverted to that primitive medium of exchange that is found only among nature's people, where mussels and like articles take the place of money."

Under the uniform of the soldier various trades and professions are hidden, all of which prove useful in one way or another in camp or trench. The woodcutter of last year still goes on with his woodcutting. Several infantrymen spend their nights fishing for eels. A fair night's catch is fifty, which sell for about 4 cents each.

Mechanics employ their spare time manufacturing tinder boxes and other articles out of old cartridge cases. One can obtain penknives, pencil cases, scissors, cigarette holders and a variety of similar articles.

Agricultural workers spend their spare time helping the farmers with whom they are billeted. Soldier barbers do a roaring trade and find customers among the civilians as well as the military. Tailors and bootmakers also find many occasions to use their skill.

Make War Souvenirs.

Leather workers gather up old pieces of leather from discarded harness or equipment and make it up into pocketbooks or cases for various articles. Soldiers with a fair education find plenty of work teaching French to the English soldiers or vice versa. Some of the English soldiers number among their pupils several civilians, all of whom are eager to master the intricacies of English, and a fair proportion of these civilian pupils are of the fair sex.

The military authorities thus far have had no occasion to notice these little side employments, which are not exactly allowed by military rules. They prefer to close their eyes, however, as long as the work helps to keep the soldier busy and happy.

In the German trenches grand opera is sung over a telephone, not only in the evenings but even in the midst of battle. "Die Walkure" and "Tristan und Isolde" are the most popular, together with old German folk songs.

But when the men sing they usually choose "Morgenrot," the song of the soldier who is to die at sunrise; "Es Geht bei Gedaempfter Trommel Klang," the song of the soldier condemned to be shot; "O Strassburg, O Strassburg!" the song of the relentless captain, who would not release the boy to his parents because "there must be soldiers at Strassburg." They also sing of home and parents, the parting for the war, the lads who will never return.

The Indian cavalry, back at the front with the warm weather, spend much of their spare time in feats of horsemanship. Hundreds of dusky horsemen sweep into lines of imaginary Germans, slashing right and left with their sabers. Their control of their horses is superb, and the spirit and agility they display astonish the French onlookers.

In addition to lance work, such as tent pegging, the Indians give exhibitions of fancy riding, the equal of which is seen only among the cowboys of the far west or the Cossacks of Russia.

A young Canadian who, with a Scotch friend, joined the French Foreign legion has written home, telling how he missed his first shot.

"We were not far from the German line when dawn began to break," he writes. "Presently at about seventy-five yards distance we saw a couple of German soldiers. They were absolutely unarmed, their tunics were open, and they were digging up some peasant's potatoes. I whispered to Mac to take the man on the left, and I drew a bead on the other. But when I'd got that far I couldn't finish the operation. I had never fired at a man before, and I simply couldn't shoot in cold blood an unarmed man digging potatoes.

"I lowered my rifle and turned to Mac to tell him how I felt and saw that he, too, had lowered his. He had felt the same as myself."

Pluck shows itself in all sorts of contrasts in the field.

A French patrol came upon five Germans. Two they shot, two got away, and the fifth they surrounded. When he had used all his cartridges he took his rifle by the muzzle and stood at bay. The Frenchmen got nearer and shouted to him to surrender. His only answer was that it was "a disgrace for a German soldier to be a prisoner."

Could Not Make Him Squeal.

The patrol then rushed in. The German lay about him lustily, and when he was down and could do nothing else he bit the French sergeant's hand to the bone. They took him back to their own lines, but no word of information could they get out of him.

One of the curious happenings of the war is the capture of seven Bavarian soldiers in the Argonne by a solitary French soldier. The Frenchman came suddenly on the Bavarians and called on them to surrender. They did not know French, but they threw up their hands all the same, and the Frenchman started to bring them to the French lines.

At intervals along the route he shouted out to men of his regiment, apparently concealed on each side of the road, and as these answered back the captured Bavarians followed their captor with the greatest docility.

When the Frenchman arrived in the French lines with his prisoners the captain of his regiment was astonished.

"You captured them all alone?" he asked incredulously.

"Yes, captain," the Frenchman replied, "but it was not so very difficult. I'm a ventriloquist."

But almost equally picturesque achievements are officially recorded. Corporal Fuller and Private Barber, both of the British Grenadier guards, who threw grenades with such effect at Neuve Chapelle that numbers of the enemy surrendered to them individually, have been awarded Victoria crosses for their feats of conspicuous bravery.

The official record says that when his comrades reached Barber they found him quite alone with the enemy surrendering all about him. Fuller also alone intercepted a party of the enemy which was trying to escape along a trench. He killed the leader with a bomb. The rest of the party, numbering nearly fifty, saw no way of evading Fuller's bombs and surrendered.

King Cuts His Menu.

Table expenses at Buckingham palace have been reduced from $3 to $2 a person each day since the war started and the dinner courses cut from twelve to five. The menu cards are written by hand to curtail expenses, and for three successive dinners cold roast beef was the only meat served.

"London not yet Germany," was the laconic correction of a French clerk's error by a British postal official. An envelope sent from Paris was addressed "Victoria street, London, Allemagne." The letter reached its destination uncorrected by the French postmen. The British simply marked it "Not yet."

A British sailor on duty in the North sea has written to his wife to say that if his new baby is a boy it is to be christened Thomas Torpedo.

A baby girl at Maesteg, Wales, has been christened Mary Allies.

A Swansea couple have decided to call their baby Dardan Ella.

The Society of Netherlands Bulb Growers, The Hague, Holland, has decided to sent cut flowers as gifts to the hospitals for the wounded of the belligerent nations. The international women's congress will pay the express cost and purchase the boxes. No hyacinths, as their scent is too strong for the hospital wards.

NEWS AND VIEWS
Conducted by
THE W. C. T. U.

There are three distinct features of the revenue question. First, all must recognize that however beneficial prohibition will finally be as a sound government principle, a considerable porton of pauperism, crime and insanity traceable to the liquor evil will exist and the costs have to be met after we cease to receive revenues from the traffic. This cost will gradually lessen and finally disappear.

Second, the revenue derived by the State under license presents quite a different proposition from the revenue derived by the Federal Government through the taxation of liquors. As soon as the States can protect themselves from outside shipments and make their prohibition laws effective, or better still, every State pursues the same policy so that the criminality traceable to liquor in a license State will not have to be taken care of in part by dry States, the large expense incident to the liquor regime will at once begin to decline, and the people need fear no serious fiscal inconvenience so far as State taxation is concerned.

But a different feature is presented as to Federal revenues now derived from the liquor traffic. More than one-fourth of the revenues of the Federal Government, costing less than two per cent., it is claimed, for collection, is derived from the taxation of liquors. Inasmuch as the far greater cost of pauperism, crime, and legal administration, traceable to the liquor traffic, has to be taken care of by the States under our form of government, this leaves the Federal Government taking what might be called the "velvet" and walking off with it. It must be admitted that if the liquor traffic is prohibited throughout the entire nation, and the people would, as a whole, be greatly enriched thereby, and the States largely benefited, as we contend, there is no system of taxation in force which would supplement this alleged loss of revenue which the Federal Government now receives. I frankly admit that those who advocate prohibition should announce their policy and say whether they mean to entirely cut off part of the revenues of the Federal Government or supplant that revenue by some other revenue, from where it is to be derived. I consider the Federal revenue feature the only one which demands serious attention. The fiscal policies of the States are so elastic that they can take care of themselves and easily make any change from license to prohibition, as they have been doing, but the Federal Government has always been hampered by an inelastic fiscal policy, and there something needs to be done.

It is often said that all taxaton is odious, and yet if properly expended it would probably appear that the average man gets more for the dollar expended in taxation than he does for the average investment, or at least speculation, or private enterprse.

There is one source of revenue to which the Federal Government could resort to supplement liquor revenue, a source which would more than supplement the so-called loss. That is the inheritance tax. It would require no amendmont to the Constitution to secure it, as in the case of the income tax, and by being graduated, a very large revenue could be derived without being felt by anyone, for the tax would never be exacted until the beneficiaries of estates would be enriched. The tax on direct inheritances should be light on small estates, heavier when the estates go to collateral heirs and graduated upward as the estates enlarge. The heaviest per cent. could be laid when the estate is willed to those who are not natural heirs. There is perhaps no tax more just or less burdensome.

"It is no longer a question as to the effect of alcohol on the human system," says Dr. Charles Gilbert Davis, of Chicago. "Alcohol is a poison and destructive to all the normal processes of life. When it does not immediately and completely arrest the vital functions in the individual, it leaves such an impression on the centers of vitality that its effects are transmitted down through subsequent generations, resulting in insufficiency, weakness, disorder of mind and body, leading toward degeneracy and the destruction of character.

"In these early years of the twentieth century, science has emphatically and irrevocably given its verdict against the use of alcohol as a beverage.

"As a result of the ravages of this poison, vice, crime, insanity, pestilence, poverty and war today overshadow mankind. It is enough! Alcohol must go! Wine, whiskey, ale, gin, brandy, rum and beer all contain alcohol and are injurious.

"It is my professional opinion, after observations of many years in the practice of medicine, that beer is doing more harm to humanity than all other alcoholics. There is a reason for this: Beer is insidious, delusive, tempting and fascinating. Advertised to contain less alcohol than some other drinks, it appeals to the man who does not wish to be considered intemperate. But statistics prove that this is a delusion.

"Beer contains gluten, gum, sugar, the extractive matter of the hops and alcohol. The nutritive properties in it are insignificant. A man could live years on milk alone, but if he drank nothing but beer he could survive only a short time.

"Beer produces disease of the stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels. Owing to the diuretic effect of the hops, the alcohol in the beer is diverted towards the kidneys, which probably accounts for its destructive action on those organs. It causes a deposit of morbid fat in the body, especially around the heart, enlarges that organ and increases the work of the heart and blood vessels, manifested by the fatigue and shortness of breath of all beer drinkers.

"A man cannot use beer daily for any great length of time and not manifest some physiological deficiency.

"Professor Stengel, in his great work, a translation from Jugenson, of Tubingen, and Schrotter, of Vienna, draws attention to what he calls the 'beer heart.' He says: 'Bavaria, especially Munich, is its home par excellence, and the people in that country in every class of society fall victims to this form of heart disease.

"Beer deposits fat around the heart, weakens the muscular wall, thickens and enlarges the ventricles, and if continued, ultimately cuts short the life of the individual.

"All of this has been proven time and again by the post mortems of Bollinger, who has examined and weighed the hearts of many beer drinkers. This is a terrible scientific arraignment of beer, but it is the truth, and truth is the voice of God. Humanity has not advanced one iota in physical, mental or spiritual strength since the days of ancient Babylon and Nineveh. The cause is doubtless alcoholic saturation. Flowers cannot live in the scorching heat of flame, and the soul of man cannot blossom in the fumes of alcohol. Man has reached the lowest depths of alcoholic degeneracy, and as a result modern civilization is drifting toward war and destruction."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How Shells Are Used For Conveying Messages.

The Cannon Ball Was Picked Up In a Jungle.

"THE soldiers send messages on the shells and cannon balls over in Europe, so I have read," said daddy, snuggling the kiddies up for the evening story.

"And the habit is not a recent one, either, because there is a cannon ball in a museum at Calcutta upon which a message is engraved.

"The story goes that this cannon ball was picked up in a jungle near the ruins of the old city of Anadnagor.

"Many years ago Anadnagor was ruled by the Princess Cande. The Moguls invaded India and after having conquered one state after another at last attacked Anadnagor.

"But the Princess Cande was a very plucky princess and loved her state and people very much. She did not wish them to fall into the hands of the Moguls, for she feared they might not be treated as well as she had always treated them.

"But after fighting for many days she discovered that her ammunition was gone. But that fact by no means frightened the brave princess. She had all the gold and silver taken from her treasury and molded into bullets, and upon these bullets were engraved bad wishes against the oppressor.

"Then these bullets were fired at the enemy. But, sad to relate, the poor princess was at last obliged to surrender.

"But the surprise and chagrin of the Moguls can be imagined when they were ready to loot the treasury to discover that there was no treasure.

"They stormed around at a terrible rate and were going to torture the princess to find out where she had had the treasure hidden.

"Then one of her servants, because he had served the princess a long time and loved her very much, told them that all that remained of the treasure would be found upon the field of battle in the form of bullets.

"Then you may be sure that there was some mad scramble among those high and mighty Moguls.

"But they overlooked this one bullet which is now in the Calcutta museum."

"I didn't know girls were brave like that princess," said Jack, looking at Evelyn teasingly.

"Look here, kiddy; girls are just as brave as boys. They may not be quite so warlike, but they are just as brave," said daddy.

"I should think they are!" cried Evelyn.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Glimpses of Married Life
BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The whole day had been a long nightmare, a hideous dream. The nurse from Kansas City who had arrived two days before and the doctor were the only cool-headed persons in the house. Dick would have resented the way the nurse ordered him around under ordinary circumstances. She carefully restricted his activities to the front part of the house, and he walked miles and miles up and down the place listening to the muffled sounds from the bedroom.

What if something should happen to Nell and they would not let him see her? He dropped into a chair weak with the very thought of it.

It was dusk, and the soft notes of the birds dropping early to their nests floated in at the window. 'Everything alive in nature centers in a home and young," he thought.

A faint wail floated out on the air. It affected him more than any sound he had ever heard. His heart gave a great bound. "Is that our baby crying?"

He sprang to his feet and rushed toward the door. The nurse was just coming out.

"How is she?" he gasped.

"Everything is all right; in a few minutes we will be ready for you, Mr. Morton," said that cool person authoritatively.

Dick leaned against the wall trembling. "What a cold-blooded person," he thought as the little cry was repeated. He closed his eyes; his heart beat like a triphammer. Presently:

"Now we are ready," he heard, and the nurse went on to the kitchen.

Dick dashed the happy tears from his eyes and sank on his knees by the bed.

"Dick, see our little son," Nell was saying, but the room spun around and he could only cling to her hand and see her white face as if it were a long way off.

"What do you think of him?" asked Nell, wondering at his silence.

"How is my little girl?" came in a low, trembling voice.

"So happy! I am a woman now, not your little girl any more."

"Oh! you will always be my dear little girl," he whispered, kissing her and seeing the scrap of humanity on her arm.

"Why, how little he is! Are all babies so small?" he asked.

Nell laughed happily.

"He's a good-sized baby, and his grandmother thinks he's a pretty fine boy." Dick had not seen Mrs. Reeves smiling happily on the other side of the bed.

"Send a telegram to your people right away, Dick. Tell them we've named him Harlow Frederick after his two grandfathers. Harlow for your father; that will please your mother, as she wanted to name you after him, but he would not consent." Nell smiled up into his face.

"Don't you want to take him? He's so dear."

"Oh, I'm afraid I'd do something to him; drop him or something. I'm too shaky," said Dick, laying a careful hand on the little head.

"He's got a lot of hair, and so dark. I thought all babies had light hair."

"I'm afraid your knowledge of babies will need revising," said Nell in a superior tone, as if a baby were an everyday occurrence to her.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

In keeping with its policy of providing the very best picture productions for its patrons, Proctor's Theatre will offer for tomorrow the five-part photo-play "The County Chairman," from the play of the same name by George Ade. Madlyn Arbuckle, who created the title role when Henry W. Savage first presented "The County Chairman," at Wallack's Theatre, New York, will again be seen as the "Honorable Jim Hackler," and he will be ably assisted by a cast that upholds the standard of the Savage office. The story of "The County Chairman" is one of George Ade's masterpieces and will live forever as an evidence of the verility and originality of American authors. In its picture form, the play is even more absorbing than when it achieved its dramatic success and Proctor patrons will be highly delighted with it. The story of George Barr McCutcheon's "What's His Name," is another book production that has been picturized recently. The adventures of "Harvey," who was shoved so far in the background that no one remembered his cognomen, while his wife attains success on the stage, are shown in such a vivid manner that spectators cannot help admiring the submissive hero. "What's His Name" is booked for Proctor's Theatre for Thursday and is especially recommended to picture debutees who like action and a tangible plot. The change of vaudeville at Proctor's Theatre yesterday afternoon, brought an excellent bill headed by the tabloid musical comedy, "Fun in Switzerland.'" J. C. Mack, the eccentric comedian, pleased the audiences with his quaint humor, while a supporting company of girls delighted with their songs and dances. Ray L. Joyce, in character sketches, made a big hit, and Miss Normandie won rounds of applause with high-class singing. The program was completed by Saunders & Von Kuntz, comedy, singing and dancing skit, and Snyder & Roth, comedy jugglers.

Household Hints

SANDWICHES FOR PARTIES

A Good Sandwich—Take one can pimentoes, drain off oil; two cans deviled ham, one large tart apple, four large tablespoons chow-chow, or three large sweet pickles. Chop all together very fine. Take lettuce leaf, lay on slice of bread, spread on filling. Butter top slices of bread very scant, place on top of first slice, then cut in two. The cost is about forty cents for twenty-five or thirty sandwiches, enough for a crowd, and they are fine. One ten-cent or two five-cent cans deviled ham, one can pimentoes, ten cents; ten-cent loaf of bread; lettuce, five cents; pickles and apple about five cents.

Sandwich Filling—One-half pound cheese, ten-cent bottle stuffed olives chopped fine; add mayonnaise dressing composed of one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon sugar, one tablespoon vinegar, one teaspoon mustard, cup water, one egg. Beat all together; cook in double boiler until thick.

THREE FINE PIES

Next baking day make an orange potato pie and see how good the men folk think it is.

Mix two cups of unseasoned mashed white potatoes with three-quarter cup sugar creamed with one cup butter; add one cup thick sweet cream, two beaten eggs, juice of one large orange and half the grated rind. Bake in open crust.

Almost everyone has her pet recipe for lemon pie with meringue, but here is a fine one without it and is good for everyday use. Mix a cup of sugar and three tablespoons flour, then add three tablespoons lemon juice, yolks of two eggs slightly beaten, one cup milk, one tablespoon melted butter and pinch of salt. of the eggs beaten to a dry froth and bake in one crust.

Few people seem to have eaten grape-fruit pie, and yet it is delicious. Mix one cup sugar, two round tablespoons cornstarch, one teaspoon butter, yolks of two eggs, juice of half a grape-fruit, juice of half a lemon and half an orange and one cup hot water. Cook in double boiler until cornstarch is fully cooked, stirring well. Put into backed shell, cover with meringue made of whites of the eggs and bake in slow oven.

HANDY WORKSTAND

Remove the canvas from a camp stool, and enamel or stain the frame.

Then make a large bag of cretonne, measuring thirty inches by twenty-four inches, and line it with sateen.

The shorter sides of the material are then seamed two inches from the edges.

The other sides are turned over into a hem of the same width, leaving two inches at each end unstitched.

Through each of the two hems last made thread a piece of tape which, when it is brought out of the hem, should be fastened around the side pieces of the frame.

The short sides of the bag which were hemmed two inches from the top should then be attached. Put the material on the outer side of the top bar of the frame, and the lining on the inner side. Then turn them both in and make a neat hem at the top of the bar. The ends where the other hem touches need to be cut down and turned in, to enable them to pass around the top rails.

A few small brass-headed nails should be tacked along the sides to keep the bag in position. Two handles made of cretonne and sewn one each in middle of the longer sides of

THE PICTURESQUE IN DRESS.

After a period of fashion devoted to converting "lovely woman" into a near monstrosity we have at last adopted fashions that are not only beautiful but comfortable. The new Watteau gowns with their wide skirts and dainty silks sprinkled with bright colored posies are charming to behold. A design for one of these silks which looks like an old picture is shown here. Two flounces of the skirt are set on a flaring skirt and a high crushed girdle forms the main portion of the bodice. The silk is draped over an undersleeve of tulle in a deep scallop similar to those on the skirt and shirred tulle fills the corsage.

NEWEST TOP-COATS SHOW A DECIDED FLARE.

For summer wear a top-coat of pongee or linen is indispensable and should be made big and roomy, so as to be suitable both for street and motor wear. It should have large armholes, to take in the new full sleeves and well flaring skirts, so that the dress underneath shall not be crushed. An excellent coat of this type is Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8897, which is cut in Empire style with a novelty sailor collar, broad revers and full-length sleeves with turn-back cuffs. The pattern is cut in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure, requiring, as illustrated, 3⅛ yards 42-inch material with 4¾ yards 36-inch contrasting material for collar, cuffs and lining. With this is worn a two-piece circular skirt, with slightly raised waistline and to be made with or without a two-piece yoke.

Patterns may be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

One of the most elaborate picture productions that has ever been brought to this city was shown at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday, in the presentation of "The Girl of the Golden West." Every expectation based on the popularity created by the play from which it was arranged for the screen, was fully realized and the large audiences were enthusiastic in their praise. Theatregoers everywhere are familiar with the name of David Belasco, who produced "The Girl of the Golden West," with Miss Blanche Bates as its star, and the fact that he gave his personal supervision to the picturization explains why the photo-play is peer of all previous silent dramas seen here. Plainfielders will only have one more opportunity to view "The Girl of the Golden West," as the performances of this afternoon and tonight will conclude its engagement here. The Plainfield Theatre will be given over tomorrow and Thursday nights to the Plainfield Elks for their annual mammoth minstrel show. On Friday and Saturday, Lyman Howe's superb pictures of travel and industrial life will be the attraction. Features of the coming engagement will be authentic motion views of the U. S. Navy, taken under the special permission of Secretary Daniels.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA
Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color. Gloss and Thickness.
Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.
While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS
If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.
When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.
Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

SUMMONS COMES TO W. C. KINNEY

Prominent Plainfielder Called by Death While Apparently Recovering.

AN ACTIVE CITIZEN

Aided in the Upbuilding of Muhlenberg Hospital and Gave His Services for Public Welfare—Authority in Financial World.

Following an operation for appendicitis performed upon him two weeks ago, William Chapman Kinney, who has been prominent in Plainfield's civic life for many years and a well known figure in New York's financial district, died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Muhlenberg Hospital. For a few days after the surgeon's knife had been used Mr. Kinney was in a critical condition but he rallied and was doing splendidly until yesterday morning. At that time it was believed he was well on the road to recovery but he suddenly took a turn for the worse and sank speedily despite the best of medical aid. Death was primarily due to complications arising from an earlier operation which Mr. Kinney underwent twenty years ago.

William Chapman Kinney was born at Plainfield, Vt., in 1864, his mother being a sister to the late Harvey Fisk, father of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk. After graduating from Dartmouth he took up the study of law and received his diploma as a practicing attorney. While still a young man, Mr. Kinney entered the office of Harvey Fisk & Sons, the metropolitan bankers, members of which have been active in the social and civic life of Plainfield. In connection with this concern, he became thoroughly familiar with the intricacies of banking on a large scale and was recognized as an authority among the Wall street business men. He seemed to be naturally adapted for the supervision of large financial deals and was a factor in the extensive operations of the Fisk house. At the time of his death he was attorney for the concern and also managing clerk, at the firm's address, 62 Cedar street.

Mr. Kinney removed to Plainfield twenty years ago and within a short time after making his home here, he entered heartily into the city's varied interests. He served for many years as president of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital and also acted as treasurer at various times, relinquishing his duties only a short while since. Much of the splendid development of the institution is due to his able management and powers of discernment for future needs. A large portion of what little time he had for personal recreation was spent in visits to Muhlenberg, always on the alert to note where an improvement could be made or an evil corrected. When the financial campaign for the hospital was conducted two years ago, netting more than $125,000, Mr. Kinney was one of the directors who worked day and night to make the undertaking a success. There is hardly an adult in Plainfield but what knows how well he succeeded.

Mr. Kinney was also interested in the Plainfield Board of Health, serving for a time as its president. He took an active interest in local political circles, being a staunch Republican and also in Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., of which he was a member. At the time of his demise he was trustee for the bondholders in the lodge's handsome new building. His church membership was with the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian congregation.

Mr. Kinney leaves to mourn his loss his wife, who was Miss Isabelle George, of East Hardwick, Vt., and one son, Chapman K. Kinney, also his father who resides at Plainfield, Vt. The funeral service will be private and burial will be made at East Hardwick.

TWO ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF LARCENY

Philadelphia Men Accused of Having Stolen Meter From Tool Bag.

Two youths in their early twenties were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court, this morning, to face charges of larceny, the complaining witnesses being two members of the Central Railroad's signal testing gang. The defendants, who were arrested by Patrolman Thomas Flatley, gave their names as Henry McDevitt and John Sheridan, and said that they lived in Philadelphia.

The railroad men reported to Chief Kiely yesterday afternoon, that a testing meter valued at $20 had been stolen from their tool bag which they had left on the tracks near Grant avenue. The department head sent out two men to hunt for the suspected Philadelphians who had been seen loitering in the vicinity of the Grant Avenue depot earlier in the afternoon. The search in the afternoon and evening, however, proved futile and it was not until 1:30 this morning that Flatley found them asleep in Charles Arnold's barn in Liberty street. In the police station, this morning, they told conflicting stories and in view of this fact and at the request of Chief Kiely, the police court judge remanded them for further examination tomorrow morning.

The prisoners said that they had found the meter and their testimony gave no indication that they had attempted to conceal the meter during the afternoon and evening when they visited the postoffice, the Grant Avenue station and a saloon in the West End of town.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY FLAYS HOTEL CLERK

Safford Said to Have "Lied for a Price" and That Slade Paid Him.

On an indictment charging him with complicity in the alleged conspiracy by Rae Tanzer to defraud James W. Osborne through her $50,000 breach of promise suit, Franklin D. Safford, former clerk in the Hotel Kensington, was placed on trial before Judge Hough, in the United States District Court, New York city, yesterday. He is accused of having committed perjury when at a hearing before United States Commissioner Houghton he identified Mr. Osborne as Oliver Osborne, who registered with Miss Tanzer on October 18 last, in the local hostelry.

In outlining what the government intends to prove against Safford, Roger B. Wood, assistant United States district attorney, said:

"We shall show you that David Slade brought Safford to New York from the Greenwood Lake House; that David Slade showed Safford pictures of James W. Osborne, and that Safford said, there and then, that the profile did not look like that of the 'Oliver Osborne' who registered with him at the Kensington Hotel.

"We shall show that Slade persuaded Safford to leave the Greenwood Lake House and come to New York. Slade gave him $10 and took him to his house in New York, where he remained until the next day. McCullough and one Darling were with Slade. We will show you that James W. Osborne never was at the Kensington Hotel.

"We shall show you that one Hannan loaned Safford money and charged it to the Slades; that Slade paid down certain sums of money to Safford for the Monday after he (Safford) was arrested. When he was arrested Slade procured a lawyer for him.

"You will also be shown that Safford's identification of Osborne was false and that he know he was lying, and was lying for a price, part of which had been paid him and part of which was to be paid."

Telling his story on the witness stand, Mr. Osborne denied that he had ever been in Plainfield and said that he had never seen Miss Tanzer until the day of the hearing before Commissioner Houghton. He said that he spent the afternoon of October 18 at the Bar Association, in Fourty-fourth street, working with Matthew A. Smith, one-time district attorney for Queens, on a brief. Mr. Osborne produced records of telephone calls he had had from the Bar Association on the date in question and a bill for the use of the room he had occupied while at work there.

Safford was represented by Benjamin and David Slade. Benjamin Slade conducted the cross examination of Mr. Osborne.

"ANTIS" PLAN FOR COMING CAMPAIGN

Suffrage Opponents Hold An Enthusiastic Meeting at Public Library.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Mrs. E. Yarde Breese, of Trenton, Tells of Progress of Work—Members Arrange to Attend State Association Meeting.

Optimism was the keynote at the special meeting of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, held in the Public Library, this morning. A large attendance was present at the gathering and much enthusiasm was evinced in the coming summer campaign. Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, president of the Plainfield branch, presided at the meeting. The following vice-presidents were added to the officers of the association: Mrs. Orton G. Dale, Mrs. John H. Jewitt, Mrs. Rufus Delafield, Miss Jessie Munger, Miss Laura Osgood and Mrs. William Wallace Coriell.

Mrs. E. Yarde Breese, president of the State Association, gave an interesting address on the plans to be waged during the campaign in Plainfield and other cities throughout the State. She reported encouraging work being done throughout the State, and said the outlook is unusually bright for the future. In response to an appeal made for funds to carry on the work of the organization throughout the State a large sum was pledged this morning for the purpose. Each branch is allotted a certain portion of this fund for its expenses through the State Association. Several new members were present, and intense confidence was manifested all through the meeting.

Attention was called to the annual meeting of the State Association, which will be held in the headquartres, Trenton, May 3. The business meeting will be conducted in the morning, followed by a luncheon at noon at the Masonic Temple. In the afternoon a State mass meeting will be held. Sixteen members of the local association have signified their intention of going to Trenton, and many more are expected to send in their names to Mrs. Joost, who will furnish them with tickets. Among those who will represent the Plainfield Association will be: Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. John Constable Moore, Miss Florence Tweedy, Mrs. Harry D. Hibbard, Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, Mrs. William A. Conner, Mrs. Edgar F. Hyatt, Mrs. George A. Bomann, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and Mrs. Charles L. Sykes.

Miss Anne McIlvaine, of Trenton, vice-president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, and also a vice-president of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, will be one of the speakers at the annual meeting and luncheon of the New Jersey Anti-Suffragists to be held in Masonic Hall next Monday.

Miss McIlvaine is one of the pioneers of the anti-suffrage movement in this State, and during the past three years has spoken with great success at many meetings in different parts of the State, converting many to the anti cause. Her address during the luncheon, together with the brief talk by Secretary of State Martin, will be part of the many features planned for this gala Anti-Suffrage Day.

Monday will be the opening of the anti-suffrage campaign in this State, and from all over the State will come representative men and women to take part in what will surely be a big demonstration against woman suffrage. Among those expected will be many men who stand high in the State's political, business and professional life, and women who are leaders in the philanthropic, charitable, church, business, educational and club life—all of them believing that woman's greatest service to the State is through her influence in the home rather than through political conflict on election day.

Miss Kathryn Conway, daughter of Mrs. Anna Conway, of 725 McDonough street, Brooklyn, and Harvey Morrison, of East Second street, this city, were married at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in the Church of the Transfiguration, (The Little Church Around the Corner), New York. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. Dr. Houghton, in the presence only of the necessary witnesses, owing to the recent death of the bridegroom's father, Joseph B. Morrison. Miss Conway was attended by Miss Claire Fowler, of Brooklyn, as bridesmaid, while Arthur Robinson, of West Third street, this city, was best man. The nuptial event was followed by a wedding supper for the bridal party.

Mr. Morrison is assistant salesmanager of the Vitaphone Company, and has a host of social and business acquaintances, who extend congratulations. He has always been a resident of this city, and is popular with all his friends. While Mrs. Morrison has always resided in Brooklyn, she is well known in Plainfield through frequent visits here.

STEAM DIGGER FRIGHTENS TEAM CAUSING AN UPSET

A team of horses attached to a delivery wagon of J. B. Greenhut & Company, of New York, became frightened at a noise made by a steam sewer trench digger at Front street and Jackson avenue, Dunellen, yesterday afternoon, upsetting the wagon and causing Lewis Moore, the driver, to lose control of the animals.

The frightened horses turned abruptly from Front street into Jackson avenue and Moore and an assistant, Alfred Volter, became wedged in the wagon in such a way that they could not get out and were in danger of being seriously injured by the horses which in their frantic efforts to free themselves from the wagon were jumping and kicking in a lively manner.

The continued kicking of the team finally loosened the seat which held the young men and they quickly extricated themselves from the tangled situation. Moore fainted and was carried to the porch of the Hague house nearby. He quickly regained consciousness. Dr. T. H. Platt was summoned and an examination showed that neither Moore nor his companion were seriously injured, suffering chiefly from shock and slight bruises.

The horses were considerably scratched and were in such a nervous condition that it was deemed best to stable them for awhile at I. V. Smalley's barn.

BID OF INTERNATIONAL MOTOR CO. THE LOWEST

Among the five manufacturing concerns who yesterday submitted bids for twelve new motor-driven hook and ladder trucks of the latest type for the fire department of New York, for use in the suburban districts, is the International Motor Company, who has one of its plants in this city. The bid of the local company was placed at $52,152.

The other concerns bidding on the equipment were the Seagrave Company, of Columbus, O.; Robinson Fire Apparatus Manufacturing Company, of St. Louis; James Boyd and Brothers, of Philadelphia, and the American-La France Fire Engine Company, of Elmira, N. Y. Whether the work will be done in this city at the Saurer shop or the Mack shop at Allentown, Pa., in case the International Company secures the contract, is still an open question, although it is highly probable that at least a portion of the work will be done here.

MRS. A. B. JONES NOW PRESIDENT

Chosen Head of Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

PLAN FOR CAMPAIGN

Encouraging Reports Received of the Past Year's Work at the Annual Meeting Held Yesterday—Campaign Alliance Organized.

Despite the excessive heat yesterday, the annual meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield was well attended in the afternoon at the headquarters, 110 Depot avenue. There was plenty of enthusiasm and every member present seemed prepared to word hard during the summer campaign just opening. Mrs. A. B. Jones, president of the local league, presided at the meeting, during which the officers and chairmen of the standing committees read most interesting and encouraging reports of the work done by the organization during the past year. The officers elected for the coming twelve months were as follows: President, Mrs. A. B. Jones; first vice-president, Mrs. C. L. Riley; second vice-president, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; third vice-president, Mrs. C. E. Ryder; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Francis deL. Hyde; fifth vice-president, Dr. Clara DeHart Kraus; sixth vice-president, Mrs. Isaac Schwed; recording secretary, Miss Sarah Van Boskerck; treasurer, Mrs. F. O. Ball; auditors, Mrs. Allan Cowperthwaite and Mrs. Maxwell Perkins.

Notice was received that the Women's Voters' Campaign Alliance has been organized through the efforts of Miss Anne H. Martin, president of the Nevada Equal Franchise League, which since victory there, has become the Nevada Women's Civic League, a non-partisan political organization.

The object of the alliance is to win more suffrage States. This year New Jersey has been selected because the election here will come before that in the other campaign States, and victory in New Jersey will do much to help New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Miss Anne H. Martin is chairman of the alliance, and Miss Jane Addams honorary chairman. The executive committee is composed of women from the suffrage States.

After carefully going over the New Jersey situation with Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, Miss Martin, chairman of the alliance, decided to concentrate the work upon the First Congressional District, composed of Camden, Gloucester and Salem counties. Miss Laura Gregg Cannon, the well-known labor organizer and suffragist, who did notable work in the recent successful Nevada campaign, will be sent to the First District on May 3, and will work there, organizing and speaking, until after the vote is taken in New Jersey.

It was noted that the philanthropic committee of the Friends' Association is arranging a meeting in the interest of "Votes for Women," to be held in their historic meeting-house, on Watchung avenue, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Those in charge have been fortunate in securing as one of their speakers, Miss Louise Connolly, of Summit. The cause has few more enthusiastic supporters in this vicinity and Miss Connolly has a bright and entertaining, but at the same time convincing manner of presenting the subject.

D. Fred Aungst will also address the meeting and as he has lived in the West he is qualified to give first hand evidence of the results of equal suffrage where it has been tried out.

"THE MAKING OF A MAGAZINE."

The final lecture in the course which has been given this year by the Monday Afternoon Club will be delivered in the Congregational church parish house Monday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. The subject of the lecture, "The Making of a Magazine," is one of general interest, and the lecturer, MacGregor Jenkins, the publisher of the Atlantic Monthly, is a man who not only knows his subject, but knows how to present it in a most entertaining manner. The lecture will be open to the public on the payment of the usual fee.

Preceding his departure for Fort Wayne, Ind., where he will open another store, Jacob Tepper, of the firm of Tepper Brothers, this city, was tendered a delightful farewell party at his home at 723 Monroe avenue, last night. The affair was given by the employes of the local store and was a complete surprise to the popular business man. The evening was spent in dancing and singing, musical selections being rendered by the guests. Solos were given by Mrs. Adolph Tepper and Mrs. Jacob Tepper. Refreshments were served during the evening and a general social time was enjoyed by all.

WINDSTORM WRECKS FERTILIZING PLANT

Theodore Glaser Suffers a Loss of $2,000 and Night Watchman Is Injured.

In the midst of a severe windstorm and rain which passed over this section last evening, the roof of the main building of Theodore Glaser's fertilizing plant near Samptown, was torn off, causing a damage of $2,000. The heavy timbers and other material crashed through the roof of the boiler house, striking Paul Schworzak, the night watchman, on the head and rendering him unconscious. He was rescued by Mr. Glaser and his son, Theodore Glaser, Jr., the only other men about the place at the time. It was fully fifteen minutes before Schworzak recovered and he still feels the effects of the injury today.

The heavy wind lasted only a few minutes and it seems as though the Glaser plant was the center of a terrific gale. After the roof had been lifted off, the rain damaged a complete stock of fertilizer and various chemicals used in its production. Mr. Glaser and his son were in the main building when the crash came, but were not injured in any way. The building was only completed a short time ago and carried no cyclone insurance making the loss complete.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY GIVES "THE SPIRIT OF MOTHERHOOD"

The annual tea of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Congregational church was held yesterday afternoon in the Parish House. There was a large attendance and Mrs. Frederick Meade gave a very interesting lecture on "China." The talk was followed by a sketch entitled "The Spirit of Motherhood," in which there were eight characters representing various nations.

Those who took part were Miss Hague, as the "Spirit of Motherhood;" "China," Miss Margaret Rice; "Michonesia," Mrs. Fred Suffern; "Hindu," Miss Elvira Tappan; "Africa," Miss Martine Weeks; "Japan," Mrs. Rolland B. Rice; "Armenia," Miss Kathleen Phillips, and "America," Miss Thelma.

A social hour followed the entertainment and refreshmenis were served. The committee in charge of this part of the affair consisted of Mrs. F. A. Weeks, Mrs. T. F. Hylan, Mrs. Joseph Fuller, Mrs. H. V Hubbard and Mrs. John Martin.

QUEEN OF GREECE CURBS THE COUNTRY

Threatens to Leave the King if Greeks Join Allies.

There are powers behind the throne in Europe today which at times put a check upon the wishes and aspirations of the throne itself. King Constantine of Greece has all along outwardly been for neutrality and against joining the allies, but it is said that this is not his real feeling, but it is a case of "my wife won't let me."

The Greek queen, who is a sister of the kaiser, declares she will leave King Constantine and shake the dust of Greece from her shoes if Greece joins the allies. She has declared that she will return to Germany, and it is said that her Potsdam apartments already are prepared for her.

King Constantine, it is reported, was inclined to support the Venizelos attack on Turkey, but the queen induced him to remain neutral. The queen, who is of a tenacious and strong willed disposition, is now credited with scoring several big German triumphs in the court, where many of the princes and statesmen have come under her imperious sway.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY GIVE "CLIPPING SOCIAL"

The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. church held a "clipping social" in the church parlors last night. The rainy weather kept many from attending, but those who were present spent a very enjoyable evening. The Dutch Arms Band, of Trinity church, entertained with musical selections throughout the evening.

A regular performance was arranged but because of the small attendance, was dispensed with and an informal time was held. Aprons, fancy articles, homemade cake and ice cream were for sale and the proceeds will go into the society's treasury. Mrs. J. S. Darby was the general chairman of the affair and she was assisted by several committees.

WOMEN'S CORPS AND VETS HONOR ADJT. H. C. SMITH

At the conclusion of the regular meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., last night, Adjutant H. Craig Smith, was accorded a pleasant surprise in honor of his seventy-fifth birthday. It was arranged by the members of the Women's Relief Corps and they entered after the business session was finished, bringing with them a plentiful supply of cake and other refreshments. Mr. Smith was totally unaware that the affair was in his honor and although completely taken back when he realized it fully was able to respond to the scores of congratulations. He was further surprised when Miss Clara S. Smith, president of the corps, followed Commander T. O. Doane's congratulatory address by presenting him with a handsome meerschaum pipe.

The remainder of the evening was passed with an informal program of recitations, music and addresses. Mr. Smith was called upon for a speech and responded in his usual jocose vein. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

An incident in connection with the presentation which was not on the program but which caused much amusement had Commander Doane as its central figure. He stepped from his automobile to enter the building early in the evening, bearing proudly a delicious cake which Mrs. Doane had baked for the occasion. A fatal misstep caused the commander to lose his balance and the plate holding the precious cake went to the sidewalk with a crash. He saved the refreshment part of the package, but the plate was broken into a thousand pieces. It was a gift to Mrs. Doane and the chief has been trying to think all day of a plausible excuse to tell her why he did not bring it back last night.

ALL DAY MEETING.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold an all day sewing meeting at the church tomorrow and a full attendance of members is desired.

REGISTRATION BOOK PROVES INTERESTING

Instructive Remarks Penned by Those Visiting New Jersey Building.

San Francisco, April 28—The remarks in the registration book in the New Jersey building is certainly interesting and instructive. Many visitors spend a lot of time reading the comments and it affords them much pleasure. People from all parts of the world have expressed their appreciation of the New Jersey building by the following remarks: A gentlemen from Australia wrote "A Beauty;" one from Japan "Splendid," "The Best Yet," "This Coast has nothing on New Jersey" and hundreds of similar remarks. One of the best tributes came from a charming young lady from New Jersey who on seeing the building wrote "I am not homesick now."

During the past week a number of prominent New Jersey people registered. W. G. Besler, president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and W. C. Hope, general passenger agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; Mayor Charles O. McFadden, of Long Branch; Silas W. Niles, of the Newark Evening News, who is on his way to China and Japan in the interests of his paper; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Wallace, of Montclair; Mrs. Welling G. Sickle and her son, Harrison, of Spring Lake; Joseph O. Stokes, of Trenton; Thomas Irving Brown, of the Red Bank Register; Mr. and Mrs. James L. Hand, of Paterson, and Daniel A. Black, of Jersey City.

A very interesting New Jersey exhibit is that of the Arlington Company, manufacturers of Pyralin brand. They are showing an extensive line of the various goods they manufacture, such as sheetings, pipe, bits, knife handles, harness rings, collars and a very extensive line of the Pyralin Ivories Toilet Ware De Luxe. There is always an attendant at the booth who extends a warm welcome to all visitors, particularly those from New Jersey.

Clarence C. Breckinbridge, one of the New Jersey commissioners to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, and his wife have left for the East after having spent a month at the Exposition.

Among those registered at the New Jersey building recently were H. P. VanBostwick, of Dunellen, and W. J. Anderson and family, of Westfield.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

One of the tremendous lessons of the appalling European conflict has been a profound conviction that a nation's life depends largely on the efficiency of its navy. Naval and military experts have recognized this fact for many years, but the general public has realized this fact at best in only a dim, vague sort of way until within the past few months. It is therefore timely indeed to review America's resources and power, and particularly, just in these momentous days in the world's history when naval supremacy means so much. In order to afford the American public an opportunity to gain an adequate conception of "Our New Navy," Lyman H. Howe will present at the Plainfield Theatre, on Friday and Saturday nights, the swiftest things that the human race has ever put in motion. They are the steel projectiles of the latest super-dreadnaughts of the United States Navy on which Howe's camera men made their home for months. Released at a pressure of forty thousand pounds to the square inch in a heat at which diamonds melt and carbons boil—these projectiles are hurled through the air at the rate of 25 miles a minute, and reach the mark far ahead of their own sound. No engine or machine made by man produces anything like this pressure. The boiler pressure in steam engines does not exceed 200 or 300 pounds to the square inch and the huge hydraulic presses that would crumple up a steel girder do not exert a pressure of more than one thousand pounds to the square inch. The only reason that these particular gun barrels here shown can resist this pressure of 40,000 pounds to the square inch is that each one is built in a series of concentric steel hoops or tubes shrunk one over the other until there is a resistance capacity of from 70,000 to 90,000 pounds per inch. Even at rest, the barrels of these great guns are under such enormous compression, from being thus squeezed within these outer coverings, that if the retaining steel jackets were suddenly cut, the tubes would blow themselves into pieces from the violent action of release. Howe travelers will also visit what, at first sight, might well be regarded as a governmental edifice, museum or university. Indeed it well deserves to be considered as a university that stands for all that is progressive and practical, rather than for theory. In reality it is a manufacturing plant of vast proportions and one that owes its great success to the initiative, increased efficiency and consumate skill and organization of an army of over 6,000 men and women. It is the plant of the National Cash Register Company at Dayton, Ohio, and the innumerable processes, operations and machines employed in manufacturing the product as shown in this reproduction are of absorbing interest. Native life in the Philippines is another feature of remarkable interest showing the strange customs of different tribes and how these same tribes have been led to civilization by Uncle Sam. Unique customs, weird scenes, strange dances and the swift march of progress are all vividly illustrated. It is an astonishing object lesson showing how these strange people have been redeemed from savagery.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Daniel Stewart, the well-known and popular comedian, supported by an excellent company of five people, will be on the new vaudeville program at Proctor's Theatre commencing tomorrow. They will present the laughable comedy dramatic sketch "Back from the Holidays," an offering of more than ordinary merit and carrying an elaborate stage setting. Other members on the new bill will be David McFadden, the singing cowboy; Martin & Maxmillian, two comical tricksters; Eugene & Roberts, vocalists and instrumentalists; three Conway sisters, singers and dancers. For the picture portion of the program tomorrow Proctor's will offer the Paramount five-part photo-play "What's His Name," from the story by George Barr McCutcheon. The role of "Harvey," the meek and insignificant husband of a famous actress, has been posed by Max Figman, who has achieved great success on the dramatic stage during the past decade.

RECREATION NOTES

The Girls' athletic and swimming classes will meet this evening at High School.

The Thespian Society will rehearse "Father and the Boys" this evening at the High School.

The task of feeding the hungry people of Belgium, especially the little ones, has been materially helped by Plainfielders. For several months the local relief commission has sent shipments of condensed milk to the needy babies, and until the demand for clothing was satisfied, we did our full share in supplying wants of that kind. The Belgian Relief Commission, through which the local aid is sent, is the one undertaking upon which all of the belligerent powers have looked with approval and to which in a large measure they have given their active support. It is the one organization where the executive heads are able to discuss its affairs direct, face to face with Cabinet Ministers of the warring powers. It is the quintessence of neutrality, in that it has the respect and recognition of all governments. The work of this Commission has given an outlet for the keen desire of many Americans to be of service in connection with the work of salving the wreckage produced by this titanic struggle.

The people of America have responded nobly to the call from the Belgians—the Macedonian cry, "Come and help us!" But help is still needed and will continue to be needed for months to come, until the "Little Sister of Nations" can again hold up her head and once more take her place in the ranks of industry and commerce she so proudly held up to less than a year ago.

If Plainfielders entertained doubts concerning the efficiency of the local public school system's courses for commercial preparation, their misgivings would have been badly shattered had they attended the demonstration in the Plainfield High School Monday night. In the past some have questioned the efficiency of the course for those seeking a practical business education in the local institution, but its adequateness was fully demonstrated on the above mentioned occasion. It included examples of speed and accuracy in lines of work most common to the commercial world and the participants displayed a degree of efficiency that came as a surprise to even the most pessimistic of the witnesses. Never before in the history of local educational work has such a thorough demonstration been given and the fact that the most approved types of modern equipment and systems were used lends emphasis to the high calibre of instruction being provided for Plainfield school children.

Spring weather brings to the notice of pedestrians, more than at any other time during the year, the presence of many irregular pavements in the business section of the city. Winter storms followed by thaws, have left the sidewalks in poor condition in numerous places and some difficulty is experienced in keeping from tripping over a number of the worst places. Nature is not the cause for all the poor spots, however. In several instances merchants have taken up the walk in front of their places of business for repairs and other purposes and in replacing them have failed to allow for spring thaws. In other cases carelessness in relaying pavement has resulted in some stumbling block which should be done away with. This is especially true of North avenue.

When Judge James C. Connolly, in disposing of charges against a Plainfield defendant, condemned poolrooms his words were particularly pertinent locally and will probably furnish much food for thought for those working to put Plainfield youths on a safe and sane basis. Although the poolrooms in this city are well regulated it is a well known fact that in some cases there is race mixture and this is a feature which should be tabooed. In such resorts the races should not mix. It is true that poolrooms in the past have been breeding places for all that is vile but it must be said to the credit of Plainfield that there are some here run on a standard morally as high as any in the country.

Announcement that twenty-nine pupils will be graduated from the North Plainfield High School in June reminds us of the fact that the girls in the class are expected to make their own graduation dresses at a cost not to exceed $5. At least this was the plan adopted several months ago. Inasmuch as exhibitions of school work have become so popular recently would it not be well to put these gowns on parade for close inspection sometime after the commence exercises? Five dollars will not purchase a great quantity of some of the fancier materials so pleasing to the schoolgirl's eye and it might be well to have a committee of Board of Education censors pass on the patterns selected.

Old Sol's hot rays during the past couple of days have brought out some of last summer's straw hats. There's nothing backward about some people. In fact, those who have donned the straws now instead of waiting for May 15 to roll around, give credence to the belief that a few men are still sane.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I wish to make the following answer to John Naylor, who resents statements made by me: The contracts in question have heretofore been done by local contractors for the owner, and when a contractor comes from a district where the wages are $1 per day less a question would arise, does the firm pay the Plainfield scale or does it pay the lower wage. Contractors come to me for information as well as my local men. I always stand up for the firm that claims it is paying the scale of Plainfield district. I, as business agent, referred the matter to Painters' Local, and advised it to take up the case with the firm, which it did, and received a reply stating that it was only paying $3.85 per day, and did ask for a concession from the local, which was placed in my hands. I notified firm to appear before Building Trades' Council, Friday, night, which it did. I will state I was very careful in my letter not to mention any names or state where houses were situated. Mr. Naylor comes forward with my name, so I will answer, if you please. Mr. Naylor made the statement that wages in Bound Brook were $3.85, which is untrue. Painters in Bound Brook asked for an increase in wages April 1, 1915, from $3 to $3.28, but, on account of very little work in sight, decided to stand by $3 per day. The firm also states they organized the local in Bound Brook. I feel the secretary will bear me out when I say I, as business agent for Bound Brook, started the local myself, with the assistance of Organizer M. J. Beck, of Jersey City. Our contractors and journeymen are always favorable to a firm from out of the city, but we only ask them to live up to our conditions. We have fought so long for and worked in harmony with our employes I will state that, if some people want to start a chain of newspaper writing, I, as business agent of the Building Trades' Council of Plainfield, Bound Brook and Somerville, will follow up the same, and I assure anyone I can make some statements that will surprise the public about some of our good-seeming people.

WILLIAM LUNGER,
Business Agent.

SUFFRAGISTS TO COVER THE STATE

Three Days' Auto Campaign Starts Tomorrow From Paterson.

MEETINGS TO BE HELD

This Will Be the First of a Hundred or More Tours to Be Held During the Next Six Months—Suffrage Day on May 6.

The first of a hundred or more automobile tours to be held throughout the State of New Jersey within the next six months is planned for tomorrow and Friday and May 1. The party will consist of Miss Florence Halsey, Bergen county organizer, whose automobile will convey the tourists; Mrs. E. F. Feickert, of this city, the State president; Mrs. F. H. Colvin, of East Orange, first vice-president of the State Association; Mrs. Emma M. Funck, president of the Maryland Woman Suffrage Association, and Dr. Mary G. Cummins, president of the Paterson Woman Suffrage League. The party will leave Paterson at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and proceed to Passaic, where a street meeting will be held. The next stop will be Elizabeth, where the tourists will be entertained at luncheon by the Elizabeth Equal Suffrage League, after which an open air meeting will be held.

Proceeding south from Elizabeth, stops will be made in two or three towns for short meetings, and Lakewood will be reached in time for dinner, after which a mass meeting will be held under the auspices of the new Lakewood Equal Suffrage League. Leaving Lakewood early Friday morning, the party will proceed to Atlantic City, reaching there in time for the board meeting of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, which will be held at the headquarters of the Atlantic City Equal Suffrage League, 2,505 Bordwalk, of which Dr. Alma H. Edgar is president. In the afternoon a reception and tea will be held in honor of the members of the State board at the home of Mrs. Joseph Marvel, sister-in-law of Miss Lulu H. Marvel, president of the Atlantic City Woman Suffrage Club. In the evening a mass meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Atlantic City High School.

The automobile tourists will leave Atlantic City on Saturday morning and proceed to Philadelphia, reaching there in time to march in a suffrage parade with the large New Jersey contingent which is going over from Camden, Merchantville, Moorestown, Riverton, Haddonfield and other South Jersey towns. In the evening the tourists will speak at the Suffrage Day celebration in Camden, which will be held at the City Hall plaza, where prominent Suffragists will speak at each of the four corners of the square. Many leagues in towns through which the party will pass are planning to furnish an escort of decorated cars, which will accompany the visitors for a few miles of their trip.

Elaborate plans are being made by suffrage organizations throughout the State for the celebrtion of Suffrage Day, which falls on May 1 this year. Mass meetings will be held in every large city in the State, and there will be automobile parades, suffrage balls and many other demonstrations.

GEORGE P. BUHLER FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States District Court yesterday by George P. Buhler, a butcher, of Bound Brook. The petitioner, through his counsel, Edward R. Bonsall, of Asbury Park, declared his liabilities aggregated $2,763 and his assets $175.

Buhler claims exemption for his assets on the grounds that as a married man he is allowed $200 exemption by law. The liabilities are mostly for merchandise delivered at his store and the assets are household furniture. The matter will be heard before Referee William B. Steele at Somerville.

NO INFORMATION ABOUT CONDITION OF BABCOCK

Dudley Babcock, son of Mayor Wright Babcock, of Fanwood, is still a patient in an Albany (N. Y.) hospital, following a fall of 300 feet down the side of Storm King Mountain, in the Adirondacks. He was terribly injured in the fall, and his recovery was a matter of grave doubt from the first.

When Mayor Babcock was called on the 'phone by a Plainfield Daily Press reporter this morning he refused to give out any information concerning his son's condition, adding: "I do not care to have anything published. This affair is none of the public's business."

Spring's Joy

He planted seeds three weeks ago,
Quite neatly in a window box,
And now they're up he doesn't know
The cucumbers from four o'clocks.

As tender little leaves appear,
Each shoot his happiness completes,
And then he asks as you draw near,
"Say, are those radishes or beets?"

Some of his seeds have failed to sprout,
The reason why he doesn't know,
Per contra, he sees starting out
Some seeds he sowed a year ago.

So life for him is full of joy
As his big box is full of seeds—
Pure happiness without alloy,
Though some of his new shoots are weeds.

NEW WIRELESS CAR OF ARMY IS MARVEL.

Can Face Any Sort of Land Surface and Has Eighty Foot Mast.

A traveling wireless station that can do almost anything but shin up a telegraph pole is the latest contribution of Uncle Sam's efficient army officers to the defense forces of this country.

Successful experiments just concluded at Fort Myer show that "radio tractor No. 2" can even travel over the fields when necessary, whereas its predecessor, No. 1, had to confine its peregrinations to the highways.

Radio tractor No. 2 consists of a motortruck that drives, brakes and steers on all four wheels and carries a knocked down army field wireless set. The mast that supports the antennae is eighty feet high when extended and comprises eight sections of light tubing that are strapped to one side of the truck when not in use.

The wireless outfit has a sending range of 250 miles under ordinary conditions and an almost illimitable receiving range. It is a great improvement on the old hand operated apparatus that is laboriously toted around on the backs of three pack mules. Moreover, it is not liable to stampede under fire.

The power to operate the sending apparatus is furnished by the truck's own motor and is made available by simply shifting a lever. This is a great improvement over the old hand operated sender and much more powerful. The electric generator is rated at two kilowatts or, roughly, twenty-two "man power."

NELSON ESTATE FOR PUBLIC.

William R. Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, left a farm of 1,750 acres in Jackson county, Mo., to be a model farm for thirty years for the purpose of instructing neighbors in stock raising and farming. On the death of both Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Kirkwood, the editor's daughter, the management of the property is to be placed in the hands of a board of trustees.

The trustees are required to set aside for each of the children of Mrs. Kirkwood, if any, property "of the reasonable value of $1,000,000." The residue is to be managed by "The William Rockhill Nelson Trust," to purchase works of arts which will contribute to the enjoyment of the public generally.

EATS NOVEL BREAKFAST.

Farmer Enjoys Two Ostrich Eggs Almost Every Morning.

Louis Sands of Spring Lake, Mich., enjoys the distinction of being the only man in the United States who sits down to two soft boiled ostrich eggs for breakfast every morning. Not every morning in the year, maybe, but every morning when the ostriches are laying well. An ostrich egg is about the size of a grapefruit and is pretty well stuffed with meat. Two or them make "some breakfast."

Mr. Sands owns a herd of ostriches.

BALL THRILL KILLS WOMAN.

Excitement at Game Proves Fatal to Enthusiastic Fan.

In the crowd at the New York Polo grounds to see the game between the Giants and Phillies was Mrs. Susanna Wisnewsky, wife of Edmund Wisnewsky, a public accountant, and when the visiting team made two runs in the second inning excitement ran so high she sank back unconscious. Dr. Oscar Leisner, physician at the grounds, found her dead from heart failure.

Mrs. Wisnewsky was forty years old and an enthusiastic baseball fan.

BLOWS OUT HIS HEART.

Miner, Brooding Over Europe's War, Uses Dynamite to Kill Himself.

As a result of brooding over the war in Europe, Joseph Hansock, a young German working as a miner at Homer, Pa., literally blew out his heart.

Dressed in his best clothes, Hansock attached a fuse to a stick of dynamite, touched a match to it and pressed the explosive close to his heart. His chest was shattered.

New Styles For Mexican Judges.

The dress includes black Quaker hat, black frock coat, white shirt and cravat, black gloves and black walking stick. The emblem of justice embroidered in gold must be worn on the lapel of the coat.

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Plainfield Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Plainfield readers.

Mrs. William E. Gardner, 322 East Second street, Plainfield, says: "I suffered a great deal from rheumatic pains across my back. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action and I was in a miserable condition for months. Nothing I tried seemed to give me any relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's drug store. They seemed to take hold at once, removing the rheumatic pains and regulating the action of the kidneys. They improved my condition so much that I soon felt like a different person."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gardner had. Foster-Millburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

PLAINFIELDERS NOT THE WHOLE SHOW IN CIRCUS

Professional Acts of Unusual Merit to Be Seen with Robbins at Benefit.

While Plainfielders will play a large part in the circus to be given on Friday, May 7, for the benefit of the Recreation Committee, Anti-Tuberculosis League and Visiting Nurse Association, they will by no means be "the whole show." The big canvas, which will house the performance at the lot at the corner of Front street and Grant avenue, will be the one which regularly covers the Frank A. Robbins' circus, and all the splendid features of that well-known aggregation will be in evidence. John E. Dunn has generously given the use of the lot. The Robbins' show has been coming to Plainfield for many years, and the program offered this year is said to be the best they have ever been able to give. They will open the season tomorrow at Trenton, where a benefit will be given for the New Jersey Children's Home Association, under the auspices of the leading men of the State capital.

Following the policy established thirty-five years ago when he first put a show on the road, Mr. Robbins has among his star acts many which are not seen with any other circus on the road this year. Mr. Robbins spent all winter scouring the country for the kind of features which are "different." There has been a substantial increase made in the parade, menagerie and other equipment, so that the show, which has been in Trenton all winter, appears so changed and improved that there is little that is old about it, but the name.

The greatest feature of the show is Hillary Long, who leaps the gap and "walks" down stairs on his head, the only person in the world who does the act, will be seen at every performance. Defying all laws of nature, and without the use of his hands at any time, he mounts an incline, balances on his head, and slides along a distance of ten feet to a gap which he leaps across and lands on a similar incline on the other side, still inverted. The performance will be given twice a day.

Graceful bareback riders, aerialists, recently returned from a tour of South America, a big group of fur makers, three bands, and a hundred other performers provide an entertainment which lasts for two solid hours.

Two shows will be given, no matter what the weather, under a waterproof canvas, at 2:30 in the afternoon, and the other promptly at 8. The doors of the big canvas will open one hour earlier, so that the enlarged menagerie may be viewed leisurely and with full knowledge that nothing will be missed in the main tent.

NEW COCHRAN YACHT 214 FEET IN LENGTH

"Sea Call," Three Masted Auxiliary Schooner, to Be Launched Tomorrow.

The new three-masted auxiliary schooner Sea Call, built for Alexander Smith Cochran, owner of the America's Cup yacht Vanitie, will be launched tomorrow at the shipyard of George Lawley & Son Corporation, Neponset, Mass. Mr. Cochran is a brother of Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, of West Eighth street. This latest addition to Mr. Cochran's sea craft, which was designed by William Gardner & Co., of New York, has been built for ocean cruising and is equipped with complete sea-going rig, including square sail on foremast, three headsails forward, short mizzen boom, and gaff for offshore work. Its length over all will be 214 feet, with a beam of 33 feet 6 inches and a draught of 13 feet. Its length on the water line is 150 feet. Every accommodation possible for the comfort of the owner and his guests and crew have been looked to in the designing of the craft.

ALEXANDER S. COCHRAN

The hull topsides and framing are of special steel made for the purpose and the bottom is of Monel metal, polished, which will not be painted. The frames are bulb angles of special designed section. The boat has five steel bulkheads and seven web frames, which are intended to give very great transverse strength. Deck beams are channel steel. The boat has been built under special survey by Lloyd's, and will class 100 A1.

The steering gear is quite novel, as it consists of a diamond screw gear placed below the deck. This is operated by a shaft from a stand on deck, which is equipped with two wheels—one on the fore and one on the after side of the stand. All bearings of the steering gear consists of balls or bearings.

The three masts are made of nickel steel, the rest of the spars of wood, all of which are hollow. The rig will be large, the distance from the waterline to the top of the mizzen truck being 167 feet. Due to the long overhang forward, the jibstay will set on the stemhead.

The motive power consists of an eight-cylinder gasolene or kerosene engine of 500 horsepower, the largest yet built. It has cylinders 12½ inches diameter by 20-inch stroke, which turns a two-bladed feathering propeller, of the Bevis type, 7 feet 6 inches in diameter.

It is possible that Mr. Cochran will take a trip around the world in the Sea Call, when she has been thoroughly tried out and tuned up.

Other large auxiliaries owned by yachtsmen about New York are Aloha, the property of Arthur Curtiss James; Sea Fox, owned by Dallas B. Pratt, and the Endymion, which flies the pennant of George Lauder, Jr., of Greenwich. The Aloha is a larger boat than the Sea Call, being 218 feet over all.

SOME ELEPHANT THIS, WITH BIG CIRCUS SOON TO BE HERE

"Big Bingo, the biggest brute that breathes," is coming to Plainfield on Wednesday, May 19. That is just three weeks away, and Bingo, be it known, is the star of a village that is known far and wide as Ringlingville. The circus germ innoculated every youth and his elders today, for the first advertising car of Ringling Brothers' circus is in town, and the knights of the brush are busy posting the pictures that tell of Bingo, the only original two-story elephant, as well as the other 385 circus acts that make up the performance.

Naturally Ringling Brothers announce a spectacle this year. It is a grand, gorgeous and stupendous affair entitled "King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba," in which 1,280 characters take part, as well as 750 horses and other beasts of burden. A ballet of 300 dancers is another added feature this season, and the spectacle precedes the circus program in the big tent.

Ringling Brothers appear in Trenton, Newark, Jersey City and Paterson this year. They will travel on five trains, the longest circus train in existence.

Because of the war in Europe Ringling Brothers have corralled a number of the best foreign circus acts in the amusement field. Mlle. Leitzel, known as German's most famous woman aerialist, and the Tankwai troupe of Chinese acrobats from the Imperial Pekin circus head the foreign talent. The women with the Chinese troupe perform the most wonderful stunts while suspended from the top of the tent by their hair. The Mirando Brothers, from France, use the longest poles known to circusdom for their highly sensational perch act, while the Agustus troupe show the latest feats of English horsemanship.

The Clarkonians, wizards of the air, and the only aerialists who successfully throw three somersaults on the flying trapeze, will be seen in Plainfield, while the riding department includes Reno McCree, Charles Clark, Josie Clark, Josephine Hodges, Minnie Clark and May Davenport.

The menagerie has 108 cages, a herd of forty-one elephants, and a number of animals never before with a circus. Of course a street parade will be the feature of circus day morning, and a number of new surprises will be included in the line. The fifty clowns who furnish fun for the performance will also appear in the procession.

George Goodhart, who has been under the Ringling banner for the past twenty-three years, is in charge of the billposters in town today.

Leal School Players Meet With Their First Reverse of the Season.

The Leal School baseball team met its first defeat of the season, yesterday afternoon, at Somerville, when the High School team of that place walloped them by the score of 13 to 1. The Somerset county seaters had no mercy at all on the private school aggregation and collected a total of sixteen hits, four of which went for extra bases. Smith pitched a fine game for the home team fanning ten men and only passing two.

Captain Chauncey Stewart, of the local team, made the only run and the only hit off Smith, the run coming in the fourth inning. Paul Robeson and VanPelt were the star sluggers of the game, the former getting two triples and a single, while VanPelt hit for three singles and a double. Leal was guilty of six errors while the home players were perfect in the field.

RANDOLPH HITTING .143.

"Cliff" Randolph, of this city, is batting at a .143 clip for the Perth Amboy "Pacers." So far this season he has taken part in two games, and has made one hit out of seven trips to the plate.

BATTIN DIPPED IN TUB OF KALSOMINE

P. H. S. Team's Clever Hitting and Timely Batting Saved the Day.

Although the Plainfield High School baseball team hammered out but seven safeties yesterday afternoon, the swats were registered in the right places, and together with some first-class base running, defeated Battin High School by a score of 4 to 0, on Parker Field. The outcome of this game was watched with considerable interest because this is the same team that beat North Plainfield High School Saturday.

The local nine played almost perfect baseball, only two errors being registered, both by Dunham, the second baseman, who took the place of "Runt" O'Leary. O'Leary met with a painful accident during the preliminary practice. He was running to first base and turned his ankle, pulling a tendon in it. He will probably be out of the game for a few weeks. Considerable anxiety is felt by the coach and players as to whether he will be able to get back on his sack before the North Plainfield game, only three weeks off.

Both pitchers twirled in fine shape, Brick allowing but five hits, and the visitor seven. However, the ball was hit frequently, giving the fielders a good many chances, in which Plainfield took the leading part. The local fielders handled forty-three chances with but two errors. Brick scattered his hits through the nine innings, but Stanley permitted Plainfield to garner six of their bingles in the first three rounds.

In the first inning, almost the same thing was repeated as has happened in previous games. Kyle got on base by a safe hit, and with two down, Captain Rosenson lined out a single and sent Kyle in with a counter. This occurence was duplicated in the third inning, although Kyle was helped around the bases by a few errors on the part of the Battinites.

The work of the left fielder, Captain Gilhauser, and Johnson, the centre fielder, were the big features in the Elizabethans game. By clever judgment and spectacular catches, they checked the local youths seven times from getting some long hits. Two double plays featured the locals' playing, one from Rosenson to Hirsch, and another from Victorson to Hirsch.

"K. O." BLOW FOR AMATEUR FOUR ROUND BOUT BILL

Trenton, April 28—Assemblyman Singer has asked Attorney-General Wescott for an opinion as to the regularity of the supposed passage of the committee substitute for his boxing bill.

Secretary of the Senate Davis has refused to accept the committee substitute from the House clerk, and the bill has not bee turned over to Governor Fielder. The committee substitutes in the Senate made the original Singer bill a Senate measure. It was not returned to the Senate clerk, and was therefore suposed to be dead.

TWENTY CLUBS IN "MET" GOLF EVENT

Cranford and Hackensack Women Brassie Wielders in Hot Fight.

Teams of women golfers from twenty clubs in the metropolitan district played the first round yesterday for that sectional championship.

The biggest battle was a Cranford with Hackensack, where there was a tie, so that foursomes were played to reach a decision, when Cranford won.

Great interest was at Nassau, which met West Brook. Miss Lillian Hyde and Miss Marion Hollins, stars, were on the latter team, which lost, 4 to 5. Other results:

Ardsley lost, 4 to 6, at Knollwood; Richmond County lost, 3 to 4, at Fox Hills; Scarsdale lost, 4 to 5, at Century; Great Neck won, 6 to 4, at Flushing; Westfield lost, 0 to 10, at Montclair; Essex County lost, 1 to 4, at Englewood; Tuxedo won, 9 to 3, at Arcola, and New Brunswick lost, 1 to 9, at Glen Ridge.

Miss Hollins scored three points and Miss Hyde one, making full credit received by West Brook. The winning teams will be drawn against each other for the second round next week.

"PEERLESS MEL" SUES GARDEN AND N. Y. A. C.

Melvin W. Sheppard, the Olympic athlete, sued the New York Athletic Club and the F. and D. Company, promoters of shows at Madison Square Garden, yesterday, for $25,000.

The athlete alleges he was forced to retire from athletics after he had injured his foot while running at the New York A. C. games in the Garden last winter. He says the running track was rotten, broke beneath his foot and threw him to the floor, causing injuries that forced his retirement.

"HOME RUN" BAKER SIGNS AT $10,000--NOT BASEBALL

Philadelphia, April 28.—Delaware county legislators at Harrisburg are the authority for the report that J. Franklin Baker, of the Athletics, has been angaged by John P. Crozer, of Upland, at $10,000 a year to manage the Crozer stock farm. As a side issue Baker, it is said, will play third base for the Upland team, of the Delaware County League, in which club Mr. Crozer takes much interest.

The Interstate Association, the governing body for semi-professional baseball, has been asked to restrain Baker from playing with the Upland club. It is likely that a special meeting of the Interstate Association will be held this week. It is also reported that the Delaware County League will withdraw from the Interstate if Baker is barred from playing in the league games.

JIM THORPE SLATED TO GO TO JERSEY SKEETERS

Jim Thorpe, the world-famous Indian athlete, will play with the Jersey City International League team this season. This was the report that emanated from reliable sources yesterday. It was stated that waivers which were asked on Thorpe several days ago have been secured and that Manager McGraw, of the New York Giants, will turn him over to Manager Wiltse, of the Jerseys.

It is reported that Thorpe will join his now team mates at the Jersey City ballyard tomorrow, when they are scheduled to start the championship fight with the Rochester club. He will take care of one of the outfield positions.

MORAN "UP A TREE;" SENDS FOR MARTIN

But Jack's Contract With St. Paul is Binding and Philly Manager Sobs.

Although the Philadelphia National League club has been setting a speedy pace in the league race to date, Manager Pat Moran is "up a tree" concerning the shorstop berth, formerly held down by Jack Martin, of this city, but now being taken care of by one Bancroft. Contrary to expectations Bancroft has not set the world afire with his clouting, and hits alongside of his name in the box score have been about as scarce as straw hats at Christmas time.

Early last week Moran sent a distress telegram to the St. Paul Club, of the American Association, asking for a five days' lease on Martin's services, evidently believing that in the interval Bancroft would round into shape. The contract Moran had entered into with "Big Ed" Kelley, of the Western club, however, made it possible for Kelley to demand a big price for "hiring" Martin out for a number of days, and this Moran could not pay. Subsequently Moran had to give up the idea of using Martin as an infielder in the emergency case.

Little has been heard of Jack since he went to St. Paul, but it is a well known fact that St. Paul is near the top rung in the league averages, and that Moran is anxious to get another option on the Plainfielder's services is ample proof that he is still in the ring.

According to the terms of the contract Martin must remain with St. Paul until the end of the present season, and if Moran so desires he may exercise his option by recalling the Plainfielder to Philadelphia in the fall.

QUEEN CITY BALLPLAYERS WILL FACE EACH OTHER

Tommy Mullin will play against Cliff Randolph in Perth Amboy next Sunday afternoon, at the Amusement Park. The local player has accepted an offer to perform with the Franklin A. C., an independent club, of Perth Amboy, which will face the Pacers. Cliff will do the slabwork for the Atlantic League club.

Mullin will play shortstop every Sunday with the Franklins during this year. Last season they took the measure of Randolph's team.

HALF HOLIDAY FOR BASEBALL.

Newark, April 28—Mayor Thomas L. Raymond yesterday afternoon issued a proclamation declaring Thursday afternoon of this week a half holiday for the opening of the International League baseball season. The Mayor will pitch the first ball.

MULLIN MAY LEAVE N. P. H. S. SCHOOLBOYS

Considering An Offer to Join Washington (N. J.) Club Next Saturday.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team may lose the services of Tommy Mullin as coach, as he has practically accepted an offer to play Saturday with the Washington (N. J.) team. This club is in a league, and in past years local players have found berths in the circuit. Tommy was in Somerville for a conference yesterday afternoon, and is assured of a position.

However, the management of the borough team realizes the value that Mullin is to the team and will make every effort to keep him here until after the last Plainfield game in June. Last season his coaching was in a large way responsible for the excellent showing made by the borough team, and while the players have not yet come up to expectations this year, the season is young, with plenty of chace for molding a championship nine. Mullin is the best coach North Plainfield has ever had, and if he does decide to go the team will be the loser.

To date the team has undoubtedly played poor ball, but Captain Smalley is still waiting and hoping that they will "hit their stride" before May 15. The game with Kearny for today was canceled, and the next game will be with Leals' next Saturday, on Hyde Oval.

TO INVITE AMERICAN CREWS.

Canadian Association Plans International Regatta at St. Catharines.

Special efforts will be made by the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen this year to have a large number of United States competitors at the Canadian Henley at St. Catharines, Ont.

The dates for the national regatta were announced as Friday and Saturday, Aug. 6 and 7. The United States national regatta will be held the following week on the Connecticut river at Springfield, Mass.

The Duluth Boat club will be asked for an entry in the eight oared event. Various rowing clubs in St. Paul, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, New York and other cities will be asked to make entries.

In spite of the fact that scores of Canadian oarsmen are now either at the front or preparing to go, the Dominion will be as largely represented in the United States national regatta as usual.

ACOSTA GOOD UTILITY MAN.

Is a Fast Runner and Hits Above the Average.

In speaking of Acosta, the utility outfielder of the Washington club, there seems to be but little that this player cannot do when it comes to baseball. He is not an infielder—he never claimed to be—but should it be necessary on account of illness or injury to fill a racancy this lad could fill the bill to a nicety. Acosta can run, not as fast as Milan or Moeller, but pretty fast; can hit above the average, throw with the best and field sensationally, whether it be in the inner works or some other place.

Acosta is intelligent and, above all, has a great love for the game. Some day he is going to the outfield as a regular and will never be replaced until Father Time says so.

RIGLER THOUGHT THEY WERE CHEERING FOR HIM.

Charley Rigler, the umpire, told a yarn on himself recently. He told it pretty well too. Here it is:

"The first year I broke into the National league I was assigned to umpire a game between the Army and Navy teams. The two major leagues alternated each year in supplying an umpire for this game. I was quite proud of my assignment, and a few minutes before game time I walked out of the dressing room to the home plate.

"I had to walk the full length of the field, and, to my great surprise and pleasure, every step I took was marked by the loudest cheering I ever heard. My chest swelled to twice the normal size until I found Teddy Roosevelt had entered the field just as I had emerged from the dressing room and that all the cheering was for him."

TINKER'S "NEW" PLAY IS AN ANCIENT SCHEME.

Manager Joe Tinker of the Chicago Federals is working a "new" play, a double squeeze. With the bases filled or with men on second and third the batter bunts, and two men try to score, the man on second getting a flying start and following the runner home from third.

The play is new to this extent—it was worked by Burns and Kelly of the old Chicago White Sox repeatedly in the late eighties.

Lange and Dahlen worked it for a later generation of Chicago players and it was abandoned by Anson one day after Bill Everitt popped up a fly to the pitcher with the bases filled and no one out.

Connie Mack also has employed it occasionally in recent years.

WOLGAST BOOSTS BROTHER.

Ex-Lightweight Champion Says Lad Is Coming Wonder.

Ad Wolgast is convinced that his brother Johnny, nineteen years old, is a coming lightweight champion. After watching the youngster perform recently against Billy Martin of Streator, whom young Wolgast held even, Ad remarked that "the kid" was twice as good as when he boxed three weeks previous. Ad may have made this remark because he trained his young brother for the Illinois lightweight.

Wolgast the younger has been boxing for two years. He lost his first fight and two weeks later knocked out the only scrapper who has won a decision over him. Johnny has three draws with Jimmy Brady of Chicago.

PREPARED IF EVERS FAILS.

George Stallings Is Not to Be Caught Napping.

It is difficult to catch George Stallings napping, because the "miracle man" does not take naps. It may be recalled that one John Evers, considered the most valuable player in the National league last year, was close to death's door during the last winter. For a week his life was almost despaired of, but he came through all right and expects to play his usual game this year.

JOHNNY EVERS.

Marse Gawge, however, refused to bank on the Troy merchant being able to play his usual game. At any rate, he opined that perhaps Evers would be slow in rounding into shape, and rather than be caught without a capable substitute he purchased Second Baseman Fitzpatrick from the Toronto International league. Fitz is not a powerful hitter, but he is a hustler, the kind of player whom Stallings would like to have as a part of his machine. Although batting only .260 in 1914, Fitzpatrick scored 105 runs, drew 69 passes and stole 44 bases.

No Baseball Money For Wolverenes.

The University of Michigan board of control in athletics has unanimously rejected the proposal to allow the students to play summer baseball for money.

Standard Motor Gasoline is so much better than "just gas" that it is worth while to be particular about what goes into your tank. Cylinder carbon frequently is caused by the use of an inferior fuel.

Standard Motor Gasoline vaporizes readily and burns cleanly. It is a straight-distilled product, not a mixture—the same for every drop in your tank.

You can get Standard Motor Gasoline wherever you can take a car. It is absolutely uniform — the same now as next week, and it is cheaper to buy because there are more miles in a gallon.

ARRANGE A PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

Jersey High and Preparatory Schools to Compete at Newark on Friday.

Representatives of ten New Jersey High Schools and Preparatory Schools will meet in a declamation contest at Central High School, Newark, on Friday evening. A similar contest was held for the first time last year and the enthusiasm shown augurs well for the success of the coming one. It is being conducted by the alumni of Hamilton College and is preliminary to the sixteenth annual interacademic contest held at the college, Clinton, N. Y., on May 15.

Similar contests are held at Albany, Brooklyn, Bingnamton, Bunalo, Rochester, New Rochelle and Utica. As the local contest is one of the largest of these, the winners of both first and second prizes will have the privilege of speaking in the final competition. The prizes are cash, sufficient to defray the contestant's expenses to Clinton.

The idea of interscholastic declamation contests fittingly originated at Hamilton, for this institution has since its foundation taken pre-eminence in training public speakers. In connection with the speaking contest at Clinton, there will be as part of visitors' week, a track meet and ball game with Rochester University, Hamilton's strongest rival. This will be followed by a college smoker. All the contestants in preliminary contests are invited to be guests of the college on that day.

The Newark contest promises to be a very close one, and is arousing a great deal of interest among the schools entered. Prof. Calvin L. Lewis, the head of the department of public speaking of Hamilton College, will preside. Several of the boys are being drilled by Hamilton men. No admission fee will be charged and a cordial invitation is extended to the public, and particularly to High School students. The Central High School orchestra will furnish the music.

The schools represented will be: Asbury Park High School, Bayonne High School, Camden High School, Dickinson High School of Jersey City, Glen Ridge High School, Orange High School, Peddie Institute of Hightstown, Plainfield High School, Ridgewood High School and Roselle High School.

Plainfield will be represented by W. Hamilton Spence. The title of his declamation is Washington. A delegation of rooters will accompany the local representative.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS WILL DISCUSS SUFFRAGE

Tomorrow evening, in the Stillman School Auditorium, the class in public speaking will present arguments for and against the subject of woman suffrage. Any Plainfielder who wishes to join with the class for the evening may take a part in the discussion.

The primary object of the class is to give experience in the art of public speaking, the criticism of the members present and the instructor being of untold value in acquiring poise and power in manner of speech. The meeting tomorrow evening promises to be particularly interesting. It is hoped that every one present will have something to say on woman suffrage.

MISS MILDRED BROWNLEE TO GIVE DANCE NUMBERS

The program which has been arranged for Friday evening by the Public Recreation Committee will be a treat for both old and young, and it is hoped that as many children as possible will attend with their parents. The story of the "Fortune Hunter" is tremendously interesting and humorous. From the quaint old character of Sam Graham, the inventor, to Tracey Tanner, the fat boy of the town, the characters are all well drawn and many of them humorous.

The aesthetic dances which will be executed by Miss Mildred Brownlee are sure to add much to the pleasure of the evening. Those who remember her work at the entertainment on Washington's Birthday night will be desirous of seeing her again. On that occasion Miss Lamson gave a recital of "Peg o' My Heart." "The Fortune Hunter" is just as enjoyable, and is, in fact, one of the best programs Miss Lamson has to offer.

CHAPTER I.

The Master Mind.

THERE was a sudden, tense silence in the courtroom as the judge on the bench lifted his head and stared steadfastly at the prisoner in the dock. All had eyes only for the man who stood motionless, awaiting under a mask of pallid indifference the words of doom that must now be spoken. And as they looked, thrilled by the awfulness of this moment, the watchers felt their hearts stirred to a profound pity, for this victim of the law was young, slender and strong of body, wholesome of face. In his expression there was no taint of the bestial, no hint of the lustful, the cruel. His whole appearance cried out that he was never one to prey on his fellows, to plunder them, to slay them. Merely he showed himself a winsome lad, surely light hearted in happier case, though now his face was set in the bleakness of a still despair. But the jury of twelve good men and true had named him murderer.

At last the voice of the judge sounded. "Henry Allen, the jury, after a careful consideration of all the evidence presented in your trial, has found you guilty of murder in the first degree. This is the capital offense against the law, and for it the law demands the capital punishment. The defense has urged that your action in slaying a man within his own house was justified by the unwritten law, since the one thus done to death had by the arts of seduction alienated the affections of a wife, and therefore the penalty exacted by the written law should be abrogated in behalf of one who has thus punished the violation of the sanctity of the home. Yet, though the guilt of the murdered man in this regard has been fully established, this plea as to the potence of the unwritten law in such instance has not prevailed. The jury has seen fit to disregard it completely and has rendered an unqualified verdict of guilty against you. It only remains, then, for the court to pronounce upon you, Henry Allen, the extreme penalty commanded by the law for the crime of which you have been found guilty." Then followed a short interval of dreadful silence, through which, as always, the prisoner maintained his desperate calm of despair. His demeanor abode immobile even while the judge spoke the few words that decreed a shameful death. Perhaps the pallid face grayed to a ghastlier hue, but there was no other sign, nor was there as he went shambling listlessly from the dock, obedient to the leading of his warders.

The hush that was still over the courtroom was broken by a gasping cry from somewhere in the crowd. A few close by him were aware that the sound had issued suddenly from the lips of an old man on one of the rear benches. For a few seconds it seemed that he was about to swoon. When, almost at once, the crowd began to press its way out, the old man went with the others, moving, indeed, with a briskness and a nervous energy that seemed surprising in one of his years, and doubly so in view of the emotional strain through which he had just passed. He pursued his way rapidly. That way took the old man northward by the subway to Twenty-eighth street and afterward eastward to a house near Third avenue, which retained still traces of a gentility almost wholly unaltered by the years. Here the man entered with a latchkey and passed through the bare hall and up the stairs and so came into what had aforetime been the drawing room of the mansion, which now patently served as the living room for a bachelor of varied and curious tastes. Thus arrived at home the old man threw off the light coat which he had been wearing, tossed it carelessly on a chair, threw the slouch hat beside it, then with a deft movement stripped the gray locks from his head and with a gesture of relief cast the wig disdainfully from him. Freed from this simple disguise, that which remained of the unmasking process was simple enough. The man merely straightened himself with a sigh of relief as he inhaled deeply till the lungs were swollen to their full capacity. Now, in the metamorphosis of a moment, where had been merely a slight form, with rounded shoulders bent under the weight of years, there was revealed a stalwart man in the maturity of his vigors, broad of shoulder, deep chested, thin of flank, whose lithe erectness told of an agile strength beyond the usual. Nor was the transformation that of form alone. Even as the short figure of the old man had grown abruptly into six feet of sturdy manhood, so, too, the vacuous face merged subtly, surprisingly, into a countenance alert and masterful in its expression. The eyes that had seemed dim under the drooping of heavy lids were widely opened and in their clear gray shone the fires of a lively intelligence. He crossed the room to a couch that stood against the wall and there dropped down in an abandonment of grief, for this was Andrew Allen, whose younger brother had that day been sentenced to death for the crime of murder.

Little by little the expression on the man's face changed. Where had been the extreme of grief grew, slowly, yet implacably, a grimmer mood and one more evil. The lines of the strong, mobile face set themselves to a wrath that was all pervasive. Andrew Allen had bound himself to avenge his brother.

What in another might have been only a helpless fury against malignant fate became in this man a purposeful wrath against the one who had acted as the main instrument of destiny in devoting Henry Allen to death. Throughout the proceedings against his brother Andrew had cherished an ever increasing hatred of Wainwright, the district attorney. He regarded this public official as directly responsible for the death penalty. To his mind, warped perhaps by a great affection, which held the accused slayer guiltless of any crime, it had seemed that Wainwright pursued a course of intolerable cruelty toward the innocent for the sake of a vaulting personal ambition. He deemed it monstrous that the prosecutor should thus juggle with a life in order to win the plaudits of the crowd. Undoubtedly had Wainwright been less zealous in his conduct of the case the accused would have suffered a comparatively light sentence or perhaps have been acquitted.

Presently Andrew Allen sprang to his feet and began pacing hurriedly to and fro, muttering to himself disjointedly the while. Though a man of infinite precautions, he had now no fear lest he be overheard as from time to time he voiced fragmentary suggestions of the ideas seething in his feverish brain. In that house there was none to listen. He lived alone, absolutely; not even a woman came on occasion to set the place in order.

Andrew ceased his nervous pacing about the room presently and prepared for going out. He proceeded to the steps of a disreputably dilapidated house and climbed three flights of stairs to the top story, where he fitted a key to the door of the back room and entered, carefully closing and locking the door behind him. A moment later the gaslight flared from the match he had struck and showed the desolate wall paper, threadbare carpet, thin, hummocky bed, rickety table, chairs and washstand. The whole air of the place was repellent, worse than poverty stricken.

Only two things in the room tended in any wise to contradict the general impression of squalor. On the wabbly table stood a typewriter; to one wall a telephone was attached. It was the typewriter that first engaged Andrew's attention. The machine was small, very serviceable, but of a cheaper sort, in which the printing was done from a type wheel having three bands of characters. This wheel was readily detachable, and now the operator's first care was to remove it from its shaft and to bestow it in a pocket of his coat. From a pasteboard box beneath the table he procured another type wheel, one that had never been used, and adjusted this to its place on the machine. Then he inserted a sheet of an ordinary cheap typewriter paper and proceeded to write in the forefinger manner of the novice a letter. And he wrote with entire frankness, unafraid lest the missive betray him—his precautions were too carefully taken.

SCALLOPED FAILLE AND TRAILING FLOWERS.

You cannot finish the new dance frock more modishly than with scalloped flounces; and if you wish to be in the very van of the mode wear a trailing corsage bouquet. This pretty dance frock is of rose pink faille with a sash of pink taffeta. The overturning bodice top is particularly smart and new. Below it a frill of lace gives a little jacket effect. The long green chenille stems support blue forget-me-nots and pink satin rosebuds.

FLARING QUAKER SKIRTS POPULAR.

In these frivolous days of the dance craze, it is astonishing to see a dress copied directly from the Quaker garb. Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8801 is such a dress, however, one having a surplice waist with a draped fichu and full-length sleeves with tiny puffs. The skirt is in three gores, gathered at the waistline and it is to be made with or without the applied hem. This would be attractive developed in demure grays or tans in true Quakerish style, or in sprigged lawn or organdie with trimmings of contrasting silk and the soft, draped fichu of sheer net. The pattern cuts in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure, requiring in size 36, 5⅞ yards 36-inch material, with 1¼ yards 36-inch contrasting goods and ⅜-yard 54-inch net.

Patterns may be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Well, how are my wife and baby?" asked Dick, bounding into the house.

"He's so good; he sleeps so much I hardly know what color his eyes are." Nell was sitting by the open window in the shade of the apple tree.

"Oh, Dick, see what came this morning." Nell displayed a handsome silver cup inscribed "Harlow."

"That's from your father; he is as pleased about the name as your mother was. This baby spoon, knife and fork are from Daddy. Every day brings some pretty present. I didn't know I had so many friends."

Dick smiled down into her happy face, framed in the pretty breakfast cap.

"The doctor says I may have dinner with you today."

"My, it seems so long since you came to the table. I'm glad that nurse has gone; she got on my nerves." Nell laughed.

"Dinner is ready," called Mrs. Reeves, bringing in a platter of juicy steak. "I hope you are hungry, Nell."

Dick helped Nell to her chair. A big bouquet of roses was at her place in honor of the festive occasion.

"Oh, thank you, dear," she said with shining eyes. "I'm very happy."

Before dinner was well under way a commotion was heard at the door, and Dick, looking over his shoulder, saw his father and mother coming in. Nell started to get up, but Mrs. Morton raised her hand in protest.

"Now, you sit still, Nell; you'll make yourself sick. I can look at him without help," and she bent over the sleeping infant. "My! Doesn't he make you think of Dick, Pa?"

Mrs. Reeves had hastened to get extra plates, and Dick said:

"Come, mother, the baby will keep better than this good steak will, and I want you to meet Nell's mother, Mrs. Reeves."

"It ought to be easy to get acquainted as long as we own Nell between us," said Mrs. Morton, reaching out a serviceable hand to grasp Mrs. Reeves' plump one.

"Come, father," called Dick.

"I can't," laughed the delighted old man; "the little fellow is hanging on to my finger; we're chums already."

"You see," explained Dick's father as he sat down to dinner, "we could not agree as to who should come down here first to see the baby. Mother said I must, since he was named for me, but I wouldn't leave her, so we both ran away and left the hired man alone. I must get back tomorrow to attend to the work."

"Yes, and I am needed in the busy season, too, but we had to have a look at the first grandchild. There's been no baby in the family for a quarter of a century," added Mrs. Morton.

"The farm won't run away," laughed Dick.

"Your lovely gift came this morning," said Nell, in an aside to Father Morton. "Thank you so much."

"I had no idea when we could get away, so I sent it along."

The baby waked and began to cry. Mrs. Morton rose and took him up, saying, "You wanted to see your Grandma Morton, didn't you? Well, she's here. Open your eyes instead of your mouth. I want to see what color your eyes are. How much does he weigh?" she asked.

"Eight pounds," answered Nell proudly.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Thrilling Adventures of Robinson Crusoe.

For Many Years He Lived Upon the Island.

"WHEN Robinson Crusoe was a very little boy he used to sit on the pier near his home and watch the huge white sailed ships come in and sail out of the port."

Daddy had begun the evening story, and Jack and Evelyn were snugly cuddled up on the divan to listen.

"He wove wonderful romances about foreign countries and would read all the books of travel that he could find at home or could borrow.

"Of course he neglected his school work, and when he should have been studying he was either reading stories about the sea or was dreaming dreams about it.

"Then one day a boy friend whose father was master of a trading vessel told little Robinson that his father wanted a cabin boy.

"This, of course, doubly aroused all his longings to go to sea since here was an opportunity. So he determined to ship upon this trading vessel and become a sailor.

"He did so and wandered for many years in foreign lands. Then when he grew older he took ship as seaman upon a vessel bound for the south sea islands.

"When the ship was far out to sea a terrible storm broke. The waves rose in huge mountains of water which fairly smothered the ship.

"The ship was finally driven upon a reef near a barren island and was wrecked.

"All on board perished except Crusoe, who was thrown upon this barren island, there to live alone until his good man Friday was sent to keep him company.

"For many years Robinson Crusoe lived upon this island. He built himself a house and learned to make a fire by striking flints together. He made his clothes of animals' hides.

"He built himself a house, too, up in a tree. I think it was so he would be safe from wild beasties.

"But he wasn't very happy there. He longed to go back to his home, so he always kept a beacon fire burning.

"Then one day a ship came along and took Robinson Crusoe back to civilization.

"Good night, now, kiddies."

"Good night, daddy."

UP-TO-DATE RECIPES

Meat Patties With Dumplings—Put two tablespoons lard into a deep iron skillet. When hot, add small onion sliced and fry a golden brown. Then put in six medium-sized meat patties made of ground steak seasoned with salt and pepper. Fry brown on both sides, then cover with boiling water and simmer very gently for one hour. Remove meat and add dumplings made as follows: Mix one cup flour with one teaspoon baking powder, a pinch of salt and sufficient milk to make a batter that will drop from spoon. Drop by small spoonfuls, cover and cook ten minutes. Place meat on hot platter, arrange dumplings around it and pour over it the brown gravy.

Baked Tomatoes—Cut in half; on each piece sprinkle pepper, salt, sugar, two or three drops of vinegar, a bit of butter and a chopped onion. Bake in oven twenty to thirty minutes.

Baked Easter Rabbit—Make a sponge of one quart milk, one cake yeast; add one cup sugar, one-half cup butter and lard creamed, one teaspoon salt and bread flour to make as stiff as bread. Let it rise. Make a pattern of a rabbit running, on heavy paper. When dough is raised roll it out 1½ inches thick, lay on the pattern and cut around it with a sharp knife; put it in the pan. Use a raisin for an eye. Let rise again. Brush with beaten egg or milk and bake. If too much dough for rabbit, roll out, spread with melted butter, cinnamon and sugar and you have a coffee cake.

Imitation Angel Cake—Use neither butter nor eggs, or cake will be yellow. Cream together one cup and one large tablespoon granulated sugar, one-third cup lard (add large pinch salt to lard); then stir in alternately one cup milk, two cups flour into which you have put a heaping teaspoon baking powder. Stir or beat until it looks like cream. Flavor with heaping teaspoon lemon extract. Makes two large layers and is pure white. Filling may be made by taking one-half cup milk, four tablespoons sugar; let boil, thicken with cornstarch, let cook until very thick; flavor with lemon, spread between layers while warm, so layers will stick together.

Vegetarian Hash—Two cups dry bread crumbs soaked in as much milk as they will take, one cup mashed potatoes, one cup Brazil nut meat (measure after putting through chopper). Put good sized piece butter in frying pan and cook slowly. The addition of a chopped onion makes this very pleasant to those who like onions.

Lima Bean Soup—Soak one cup lima beans over night. In the morning wash, pick over and boil till tender. Put through food chopper one carrot, one onion, one turnip and add to the beans, salt to taste and boil till all are cooked. Rub together in a warm bowl one tablespoon of butter, same of flour, same of cold water. With this very carefully thicken the soup. By using same rules this can be changed into quite a variety of soups—for instance, in place of beans use lentils or peas, and to either can be added a pint of canned tomatoes. All are delicious.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — SHERLOCK HOLMES HAD IT ON SCOOP IN THIS DEPARTMENT — BY "HOP"

THE TURKISH BABY.

Odd Customs Attend Upon His Birth and His First Bath.

A Turkish baby looks very queer in his odd dress. He wears over his shirt a kind of padded gown, something like a bathrobe, and on his little head he wears a bright red silk cap with a tassel of seed pearls. To keep all evil away from the baby one or more charms are fastened to the tassel.

His arms and legs are bound tightly after they are straightened out by his nurse, and when he is all fixed he is put in a little bed and covered with several warm pads. In addition to this a thin red veil is put over all.

When he is all ready his father comes in to see him for the first time. If the child is a boy, the father is doubly pleased. He takes the child up very tenderly in his arms and carries him out of the room. Just outside the door he rests a minute and prays. After he prays three times he repeats the name chosen for the baby and this is the way the baby is christened.

When the child is three days old a celebration is held and old women who make a regular business of this go to the different houses inviting the ladies to the party. At each house they tell the day of his birth and the name of the baby and urge the people to come.

On the day of the celebration the people arrive from early in the morning until late in the afternoon. Nearly all bring presents for the baby's mother, and each person as she gives her present to the mother expresses a pleasant wish for the child.

They hardly notice the baby, for the mother is afraid of bad luck if too much attention is paid to it. The few who do look at him say how ugly he is or something like that and this delights the mother, who knows they do not mean what they say.

If the parents are rich sweet sherbet or coffee and candies, cakes and ices are served as refreshments. If they are poor coffee and fruits are offered, but the entertainment is much the same. The ladies talk and laugh and eat until they are ready to leave.

Another great event is the baby's first bath. This happens when he is eight days old, and his mother and her friends may have a bath, too, if they wish. The baby bathes first, then his mother and then the visitors. This bath takes a long time and all the time slaves play sweet music and food is served three or four times.—Portland Oregonian.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air pasages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.—Adv.

JAS. B. CONKLING NOW A BENEDICT

Popular Young Man Weds Miss Bertha F. Coddington at Home Ceremony.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Bridegroom Employe of Local Postoffice and Active in Co. K and Trinity Reformed Church—Couple to Reside in This City.

Miss Bertha Frances Coddington, daughter of Mrs. Frances G. Coddington, of this city, and James B. Conkling, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Conkling, of 65 Pearl street, the borough, were married at a blossom wedding at the home of the groom's parents, last night at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, officiating. The home was attractively decorated with palms and flowers and the ceremony took place beneath a floral bower in the parlor.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Warren F. Coddington. She wore a gown of white crepe de chine trimmed with white satin and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Harriet E. Reeder, of Fanwood, who was maid of honor, wore a gown of pink satin trimmed with white chiffon. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was John T. Conkling, of Atlantic City, a brother of the groom. Miss Clare Betz, of Brooklyn, played the wedding march, and Clinton F. Reeder, of Fanwood, and Allen Layton, of this city, acted as ushers. A reception followed the ceremony after which the couple left for a short trip to Atlantic City and other places. On their return they will reside with Mr. Conkling's parents.

The groom is well-known in this city and has a large circle of friends. He is employed as mail order clerk in the local postoffice. He is a member of Trinity Reformed church and is treasurer of the Sunday-school. He is also an active member in Co. K, N. G. N. J., of this city.

The couple were the recipient of many beautiful gifts, consisting of furniture, silverware, cut glass and other articles. The postoffice clerks sent a full set of silverware consisting of thirty-six pieces and also a cut glass pitcher, with glasses and tray to match. A one hundred and fifty-piece dinner set was received from the mail carriers. The bride, who until recently was employed as stenographer in a New York concern, received a remembrance from the office staff.

MRS. ARMOR, "THE GEORGIA CYCLONE," TO SPEAK HERE

Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, known as "The Georgia Cyclone," being the national lecturer for the W. C. T. U., will speak at the Plainfield High School on Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock on "A Saloonless Nation in 1920 and Why?" It is expected that Mrs. Armor will also speak in Plainfield, on Sunday, May 9, but the place has not yet been secured.

In speaking of Mrs. Armor's recent tour through Georgia, a newspaper of that State says that it was really an ovation to her and the cause of national prohibition. She is said to possess a splendid and vigorous personality and charming optimism takes hold on the hearer more strongly than ever.

MISS MARY LEAHY LAID TO REST IN ST. MARY'S

The funeral of Miss Mary A. Leahy, of Brook avenue, was held this morning from her home and later at St. Joseph's church, where requiem mass was offered by the Rev. P. J. Hart. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends and the flowers were many and beautiful. There was a large pillow from the family with the inscription "Mary," a large standing wreath from the acturial department of the New York Life Insurance Company, where Miss Leahy held a responsible position, and many other sprays and set pieces from relatives and friends.

The bearers were Jeremiah C. Callahan, Vincent Carroll, Jeremiah J. Callahan, William Daley, John Callahan and Martin Whelan. The interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

FILE ANSWER TO INJUNCTION SUIT

Progress in Sewer Work Reported at Meeting of Joint Commission.

The Joint Sewage Comission, representing Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, at its monthly meeting, last night, in this city, authorized condemnation proceedings in the matter of several rights of way for the trunk sewer where an amicable adjustment could not be made. There are about thirty titles involved.

Attorney Ashley, representing Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, reported that he had filed an answer to the papers in the injunction suit brought by W. A. Coddington on behalf of the Borough of Middlesex. Argument will be heard on the matter at a later date.

The Commission learned last night that Contractor Bader is progressing with the work of installing the sewage disposal works on the Darling farm and that the work of building the trunk line is also progressing. The Commission authorized the payment of bills presented.

PARALYSIS FATAL TO GEORGE RICKERT

Well Known Plainfielder Passes Away After An Illness of Six Months.

George Rickert, a native of this city, and known to the major portion of its residents, died early this morning at his home on Fairview avenue, the borough, after a long illness following a stroke of paralysis. He was stricken suddenly last October, and since that time had been in a helpless condition. During the early part of his affliction he was a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital, but it was found that his chances for recovery were practically hopeless from the outset.

Mr. Rickert was the son of the late Peter and Barbara Rickert, and was born in the homestead at North and Watchung avenues, where the Walsh building stands. The father was a pioneer truckman in this section, and the business which he established is believed to be the oldest of the kind in Plainfield. It was carried on by his sons after his death, and is in operation at the present time under the direction of Frank Rickert. George Rickert worked with his father, and when the latter received the first contract from the city for providing teams for the volunteer fire apparatus, whenever an alarm was sounded, the son frequently acted as driver. It was through this capacity that he became known to almost everyone in Plainfield, as the position of a fire engine driver in those days was no small honor. When the paid department was instituted he was one of the regular drivers for a short time.

Many Plainfielders will recall an accident which befell Mr. Rickert in the fall of 1885, when he was driving Gazelle Engine in response to what proved to be a false alarm of fire. He had failed to strap himself in his seat, and was jolted to the roadway by a depression at Second and New streets. The heavy apparatus passed over him, breaking a leg, an arm, and inflicting other injuries, from which he never fully recovered. He was confined to his home on West Second street, opposite the present Plainfield Theatre, for many months. He was helpless in bed at the time that the Cook Lumber Yard fire took place, and when all residents of West Second street were ordered from their domiciles under the impression that they were doomed. The houses were all saved, however, and the invalid was returned.

Mr. Rickert was of a quiet, unassuming disposition, but readily made and kept friends. He had no fraternal affiliations, but was a member of the First Presbyterian church. His father died many years ago, but his mother passed away only last September. He is survived by two sisters, Miss Margaret Rickert, with whom he lived on Fairview avenue, and Mrs. A. P. Roberts, of Elizabeth, also two brothers, Frank, of Fairview avenue, and John, who lives in the West.

The funeral will be held at the late residence, 68 Fairview avenue, tomorrow night, at 8:30, and will be in charge of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Mulford Darling Gives Some Surprising Testimony in Conspiracy Case.

AN UNWILLING WITNESS

Local Boy Also Claims Former Hotel Clerk Was Coaxed to Give False Testimony—Tells of Interviews With Slades.

Testimony offered yesterday by twenty-two-year-old Mulford Darling, formerly of this city, at the trial of Franklin D. Safford, one-time clerk in Hotel Kensington, for perjury in conection with his identification of James W. Osborne as the man who visited the local hostelry with Rae Tanzer, on October 18, 1914, caused a big stir. The hearing is being continued before Judge Hough in the United States District Court today. Darling is said to have told David Slade, a New York lawyer, where to find Safford when the attorney wanted the hotel clerk as a witness for Rae Tanzer. It is also alleged that Darling was present on a number of occasions when Safford and the Slades talked together.

Darling said he received a friendly letter from Safford and took it to Slade & Slade. Then he, David Slade, and Albert J. McCullough, the private detective, went by automobile to Greenwood Lake, N. J., where they found Safford and showed him a profile photograph of James W. Osborne. Safford, Darling said, told David Slade that he could not recognize in the photograph the man who came to the Hotel Kensington, but that "from the neck down" the photograph resembled the man. Safford then consented to come to New York, Darling said, though he professed himself an "unwilling witness." Before leaving Greenwood Lake Safford said he was "broke," and Slade gave him $10.

The next day was that of Rae Tanzer's examination and, Darling said, he, Safford and McCullough went to the courtroom together. Mr. Osborne, the witness said, was sitting in his chair within the lawyers' enclosure, and first McCullough and then Safford looked at him and enchanged a few words in an undertone. Safford then turned to W. J. Kitchen, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, Darling testified, and said that Mr. Osborne 'looked like the man," to which Mr. Kitchen replied that he was "not the man."

"Safford answered," Darling testified, "that he could not identify Mr. Osborn positively. A little later he was called as a witness."

On cross-examination, Benjamin Slade read to the witness that part of his affidavit to Slade & Slade in which he said that when Maxwell Slade questioned Safford in the corridor, the latter replied tht he was positive of his identification. Darling admitted that he had said this in the affidavit and believed it to be true. On redirect examination he said that his best recollection at the present time was that Safford had expressed doubt of the identity of Mr. Osborne.

Darling quoted Kitchen in the affidavit as saying to Safford, "That's not the man," and Safford as replying, "You know better, Bill," to which Kitchen answered, "You are with the Slade gang." Darling admitted on the stand yesterday that this conversation had taken place.

Darling admitted that David Slade had given him small amounts of money from time to time. He said he considered this no more than just remuneration for his efforts in finding Safford for the Slades. He also said that David Slade had directed him where to find employment.

CARPENTERS ARRANGE FOR A WALKOUT NEXT MONDAY

At a largely attended meeting of the Plainfield Carpenter's Union last night, it was reported that no official communication had been received from the Master Carpenters regarding the request for an increase in wages of fifty cents per day commencing May 1st. As a result, plans were made to declare a walk-out, commencing next Monday from all shops where no personal agreement had been reached. Another meeting will be held in Trades' Council Hall Saturday afternoon to bind last night's resolution.

It was stated at the gathering that practically all of the bosses had declared that the men were entitled to a raise, but the conditions at the present time did not warrant the additional expense. In several instances, it was also said, the new rate of $4.50 would be granted and these shops would not be placed on the unfair list.

SMILES GALORE IN ELKS' SHOW

Modern Minstrelsy in Satisfying Portions Served up by Entertainers.

TOPICAL HITS SCORED

Capacity Audience Was Kept in Continuous Round of Merriment—"Pep," Smoothness and Originality Featured Production.

If anyone of the nine hundred and ninety-nine individuals who witnessed the tenth annual minstrel performance of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., in the Plainfield Theatre, last night, failed to find a laugh in the show, upon the presentation of proof of this fact the committee will provide a return check for tonight's event. So sayeth those who promoted the most commendable attempt at minstrelsy the local performers have ever staged. The fact that the opening production went off without a semblance of a hitch indicates that the jesters were thoroughly drilled and that much time had been spent in preliminary rehearsing to make this affair a precedent setter. Lots of "pep" featured the work of individuals and cast and the snap and ginger kept the capacity audience on edge from the rise of the asbestos until the last minute was finished.

Those who annually witnessed the Elks' efforts to entertain have been educated to anticipate a healthy portion of local "gags," and humor-seekers had their appetites fully satisfied. The smoothness which characterized the shifts from one number to another; the adeptness of the

For the first time in many years the annual convention of the New Jersey Diocese of the Episcopal church, which will be the 143d session, will be held in this part of the State on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. The sessions will be held in Trinity Episcopal church, Elizabeth, affording an unusual opportunity for members of the denomination in this section to attend. There is unusual interest in the approaching gathering for the reason that Bishop Paul Matthews, the new head of the diocese, will preside for the first time.

The sessions will begin Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, when Rev. Dr. J. R. Harding, mission department secretary, will preach the sermon. Other attractive features are announced on the two days' program, which are sure to interest all members of the Episcopal church.

The convention is expected to be one of the largest in recent years. Clerical and lay delegates from Elizabeth to Cape May will attend, and the local churches will be largely represented. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church; Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest; Rev. Henry Mesier, of St. Stephen's church, and Rev. C. H. Kues, of the Holy Cross church, together with lay delegates, will represent these respective parishes.

GEORGE O. STEVENS HURT DURING ELKS' REHEARSAL

While taking part in the final rehearsal for the Elks' minstrel show in the Plainfield Theatre yesterday afternoon George O. Stevens, the interlocutor, had a narrow escape from serious injury. He was ascending a flight of temporarily erected stairs in the hotel scene, and upon reaching the top step fell headlong over the top. Mr. Stevens though that there was a platform at the head of the stairs, and when he took his last step he fell off into space.

Fellow members of the cast picked the interlocutor up and administered first aid remedies. He was badly bruised about the body, but pluckily assumed his part in the show last night, although he was plainly laboring under pain.

TWO MEN RELEASED.

Henry McDevitt and John Sheridan, the two Philadelphia men who were arraigned before Judge DeMeza, yesterday morning, in the city police court to answer to a larceny charge and who were remanded until today, were released this morning. BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT DISCONTINUED

Vera Meyer Devine Halts Her Action Against William A. Coddington.

Trenton, April 29.—The suit for $50,000 damages for alleged breach of promise brought against William A. Coddington, of Plainfield, in the United States Court here by Vera Meyer Devine, of Valley Cottage, Rockland county, N. Y., has been discontinued by papers filed in the court by the plaintiff. No reason for the discontinuance is shown. Following the filing of the papers, Judge Haight has entered judgment against the plaintiff.

In her action the plaintiff alleged that Mr. Coddington had promised to marry her at various times between 1910 and June, 1914, when he was married to Miss Elizabeth St. Ives, of Plainfield. Mr. Coddington's defense was that the plaintiff was already a married woman, having been wedded to Peter Devine, of New York, in 1902.

Specific allegations that the husband of Vera Meyer DeVine, of Valley Cottage, Rockland County, N. Y., is living were set forth in the amended answer by Harrison P. Lindabury in the breach of promise suit instituted in the United States District Court by Mrs. DeVine against William A. Coddington.

Peter DeVine, thirty-four years old, of Long Beach, N. Y., signed an affidavit in which he stated that he and Veronica Meyer were married in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, March 30, 1902, by Rev. Thomas F. Murphy.

Mrs. DeVine has never obtained a divorce, DeVine says, as far as he knows. He declared that no papers in a divorce action ever have been served upon him.

Warren Dixon, of Jersey City, was attorney for Mrs. DeVine.

ALLIES CAPTURE WHOLE BATTALION

Report From Sulva Bay Gives British Landing Party Victory.

TURKS LOSSES HEAVY

Constantinople Dispatch Says That the First Attempt of Allies to Conduct a Land Campaign Resulted in Disaster.

London, April 29—A news agency despatch from Athens says severe fighting yesterday on the shores of Sulva Bay on the west side of the Gallipoli Peninsula, 18 miles north of the southern extremity, resulted in success for the allies. The Turks losses are declared to be serious. One entire Turkish battalion was captured by the allies.

The despatch from Athens says the British force landed on the European coast of the Dardanelles has been entrusted solely with the mission of occupying the Gallipoli Peninsula which is defended by 60,000 Turks. The French force landed on the Asiatic coast with the object of advancing along the Littoral to keep place with the progress made by the British on the opposite coast. The bombardment of the straits was resumed Tuesday and lasted 12 hours.

The following official report from the Belgian minister of war was issued today:

"Several points on our front, such as Ramcapelle, Pervyse, Lampermisse and Oostleperen, have been repeatedly bombarded. The Belgian artillery has vigorously co-operated with the French in attacks against Steenstraate."

A despatch from Stockholm says that Foreign Minister Wallenberg has received notification that Germany has ordered the release of coal laden Swedish steamers she has been holding.

Constantinople, April 29—The following official statement was issued here today:

"The district of Sighimn Dere west of Sedel Bahr, has been cleared of the enemy. Near Gaba Tepeh the enemy endeavored to maintain his position under cover of fire from his ships. Early Tuesday we stormed the position and forced him back along the whole front, inflicting a severe loss. Part of the enemy who fled in the direction of boats disappeared. Those unable to escape surrendered enmasse. An enemy transport was sunk off Sari Burun."

The following supplementary statement was later issued at the war office:

"Later reports declare that hostile forces estimated at four brigades have been driven into the sea on the coast of Gaba Tepeh."

Rome, April 29—Service on all railroad lines in Austria leading to the Italian frontier has been virtually suspended for the last few days. According to the Giornale D' Italia, the suspension of service is believed to be connected with the movement of troops to the border. The belief that Italy is on the point of announcing that the conversations with Austria have been broken off is fostered by an announcement by King Victor withdrawing his acceptance of an invitation to go to Sicily on May 5 to take part in the ceremony of unveiling a statue of Garabaldi.

Paris, April 29—The text of the French war statement follows.

"In Belgium we continued to progress yesterday in co-operation with Belgian troops. Toward the north on the right bank of the Yser Canal we took 150 prisoners and 2 rapid-fire guns.

"Nothing new developed on the Meuse heights or in the Vosges. The enemy's aeroplane's bombarded with incendiary bombs the open town of Epernay, occupied exclusively by medical forces.

"Definite reports state that the Zeppelin that threw bombs a week ago on Dunkirk was badly damaged by our artillery and completely disabled. It fell in the woods between Bruges and Ghent."

Slowly but surely the Germans are being forced back by the allies in the region of Ypres. The French, British and Belgian troops are continuing their offensive there. The pressure against the Germans is increased by the arrival of French reinforcements who have been poured into Flanders.

The British forces on the plain northeast of Ypres have retaken the village of St. Jul Xd, says a despatch to the Petit Parisien.

Berlin, April 29 (by wireless)—The following statement was issued at German headquarters today:

"All the attacks against German positions on the west bank of the Ypres Canal and north of Ypres fail-

SURPLUS WATER INTERFERES WITH SEWER OPERATIONS

The sewer work has progressed slowly this week on account of water on Dunellen avenue and Front street, which has kept the steam digger moving to find dry areas to operate. A gang of hand diggers was then used and the digger was obliged to steam along the thoroughfare to Jackson avenue before it was considered advisable to resume operations towards Jefferson avenue. BOY SCOUTS TO SHOW THEIR SKILL

Plainfield Troops Will Participate in Benefit Circus for Three Causes.

Through an order issued by Scout Commissioner Allen E. Beals, a large number of the local Boy Scouts will play an important part in the circus which is to be given next Friday for the benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the Visiting Nurse Association and the Public Recreation Committee. Fifteen minutes or more of the time of the show will be given over to the coming citizens, and they will give exhibitions of pyramid building, bridge building, treck cart assembling and other outdoor "stunts" at which they have become proficient. At every public exhibition in the past the Plainfield Boy Scouts have made splendid records, showing the careful training which they have had under the direction of Commissioner Beals and his many capable assistants. Further details of the part the Scouts will take in the show will be made known next week.

The order to scoutmasters regarding the exhibition is as follows:

An invitation has been extended to all the Boy Scouts in the city to participate in a circus performance and parade that is to be held in conjunction with a benefit performance of the Frank A. Robbins' circus here on the afternoon and evening of May 7, in behalf of the Open Air Tuberculosis School and the recently organized visiting Nurse Association.

"Scoutmasters are authorized to permit their leaders and Scouts to take part in the procession and in the arena, with their full fife and drum corps equipment, and their various feats of pyramid building, bridge building, treck cart assembly, making fire without matches and other various activities of scoutcraft suitable for presentation in the open air.

"Troops will assemble at the circus grounds at a time to be announced later, both morning and evening. Out-of-town troops may participate upon announcing their intention to the commissioner."

It is expected that the Board of Education will take formal action about the closing of the schools on the afternoon of the circus within a very few days, and formal announcement will be made through the local newspapers. Such action was taken last year, but no meeting of the Board has been held since the date was fixed for the circus. Because of the other acts in which local children participate, it is expected that there will be a record-breaking crowd at the show. The plans for the pageant, under the direction of Miss Lamson, of the Recreation Committee, are going forward, and about 200 children will take part.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

One of the many lessons impressed upon the minds of spectators of Lyman H. Howe's production of every phase of life in the United States Navy which comes to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow and Saturday, is that of "scientific management" and efficiency. Just how much this increased efficiency means, for instance, in naval gunnery, can be better realized when it is remembered that our gunners did 1,200 times better at Vera Cruz than at Santiago. In the Spanish-American War our bluejackets fired one shot in five minutes and hit only one in thirty. Today our men fire two shots a minute and, at a distance of over six miles, hit the bull's eye one time in every three. And they hit the target itself every single time. All this is the result of scientific efficiency. And here's another striking fact. The building of a battleship in past years has been as slow a process as it has always been vital. Several years ago it took an hour to take aboard and store 30 tons of coal. Our super-dreadnaughts of today in the same time load from 300 to 350 tons and one of them has recently made a record of 550 tons in an hour. How this is done is shown by Lyman H. Howe's film as well as all the other varied and innumerable activities aboard ship. The romance of industry as expressed in the making of a National cash register constitutes another feature of the program. Howe selected this particular plant not alone because it is typical of American skill, enterprise and organization, but because it is recognized the world over as the model manufacturing plant—a monumental realization of an idea and an ideal. The variety of the scenes may be imagined when it is remembered that 90 trades and professions are engaged here in manufacturing machines from 8,800 different kinds of raw material coming from all quarters of the globe. The registers are shipped to 75 different countries and protect 33 different coinages of money. The Philippines of today and yesterday—the past and present customs, costumes, dances, habits, etc., of a strange people—forms another noteworthy subject of vital and absorbing interest, besides many other features of rare charm and beauty, not to mention entirely new animated cartoons which always form such a welcome and pleasant diversion.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Walls of Jericho," with Edmund Breese, the five-part visualization of Alfred Sutro's famous play, which ran twelve months at the Hackett Theatre, New York, several years ago, will end its engagement on the screen of the Astor Theatre tonight. Tomorrow's dramatic feature will be the Mutual Masterpiece, "The Child of God," and Saturday that rib-tickling comedy, "Droppington's Family Tree," will be shown.

Manager Hall will serve the dramatic dessert of the season next Wednesday and Thursday, when Mrs. Leslie Carter will appear in the elaborate screen version of her earliest success, "The Heart of Maryland." All the old thrills are still there, together with many new ones, which are possible in camera work, and as yet impossible to realize on the restricted stage. The battle scenes have been handled with wonderful realism, and both the interior and exterior views throughout the six parts of the film are artistic treats.

Mrs. Carter has the advantage of an unusually strong company, all the members of which have been well directed by Herbert Brenon, the producer. There is no doubting the appeal of this melodrama.

After a lapse of so many years it will be interesting to see Mrs. Carter in this once favorite role of "Maryland," and it will be pleasant to find that she accomplishes its playing for the camera with all her old-time verve and spirit.

PLAN INAUGURATION OF THE YALE BOWL

"Iphigenia in Tauris" to Be Presented There on May 15.

The inauguration of the Yale Bowl as a place for dramatic entertainment, which will occur on Saturday afternoon, May 15, when Granville Barker and Lillah McCarthy produce there Gilbert Murray's translation of the "Iphigenia in Tauris," of Euripides, promises to be a brilliant occasion socially as well as dramatically. The Yale University Dramatic Association, under whose auspices the production is to be made, is in receipt of large orders for seats from Yale graduates in all parts of New England, and there will be in attendance may motor parties from New York city and from Long Island.

The performance in the Yale Bowl will be the first of the series of productions of Greek plays that Mr. Barker will make at the principal American universities. These productions are planned on a scale never before attempted in this country, so far as the Greek drama is concerned, and the undertaking will be watched with the greatest interest by artists, theatrical producers and students of the stage in this and other countries. Mr. Barker's standing as a producer is so high that any enterprise of his—and particularly one so out of the ordinary as the presentation of Greek plays in the open—is a matter of great importance that is certain to be widely discussed on both sides of the Atlantic.

Mr. Barker has already shown to New York playgoers, during his tenancy of Wallack's Theatre, his delightful and unusual manner of presenting plays of Shakespeare, Shaw and Anatole France. What his wizard touch will do for the plays of Euripides remains to be seen. That the result will be artistic and striking is a certainty. And it is also certain that the productions will possess the human appeal that comes through Mr. Barker's simple and direct methods of interpretation and presentation. This quality stamps all of his productions.

The performance of "Iphigenia in Tauris" will also bring forward Miss McCarthy (Mrs. Barker) in a part quite unlike any in which she has appeared during the season at Wallack's Theatre. She has, however, appeared as Iphigenia and other heroines of the Greek drama, with very great success in England, and the commendatory reports of those performances that have reached this side have awakened a keen desire on the part of American playgoers to witness her portrayals of the Greek characters. Among the other members of Mr. Barker's company who have appeared in the Greek drama in England are Ian Maclaren, Leonard Willey and Lionel Braham.

DR. GROSZMANN'S METHOD IS HIGHLY COMMENDED

Dr. E. A. Meyerding, director of division of hygiene of the St. Paul public schools, has just informed Dr. Maximillan P. E. Groszmann, educational director of the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, of the successful outcome of the latter's propaganda on behalf of the exceptional child in St. Paul last summer. In July, 1914, the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children held a joint meeting with the department of special education of the National Education Association, under Dr. Groszmann's presidency.

The meetings of these two bodies attracted a great deal of attention. Practical demonstrations were made of testing children mentally and physically, and of grading them according to their type of mind. The school authorities of St. Paul appreciated this work highly and a movement was put on foot to establish special classes for various groups of exceptional children, under the special supervision of a trained examiner.

This aim has now been accomplished as Dr. Meyerding writes, and credit is given to Dr. Groszmann and the association he represents for the impetus given by them to this movement. Dr. Meyerding expresses his particular appreciation of the value of Dr. Groszmann's work.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Adv.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water, and above all take a spoonful of salts to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousand of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

AMERICAN MEDIATION.

In the course of a recent address President Wilson incidentally remarked that "we are the mediating nation of the world" and that "we shall some day have to assist in reconstructing the processes of peace." In some quarters this has been regarded as an indirect repetition of Mr. Wilson's fruitless offer of his services as a mediator early in the war.

The Paris Temps, for example, lost no time in pointing out the uselessness of offered mediation while the issues of the war remained undecided. Admitting "praiseworthy anxiety" on the part of President Wilson, the Temps warned him against any opportune step or premature pressure. The Allies, it declared, are fully resolved to win a durable peace by victory, and any initiative looking toward mediation by a neutral "would only undermine the neutral's moral credit without accomplishing anything."

The President's language indicated that he was thinking of the future rather than the present, but even in the future there may be no invitation for the United States to intervene as a friend of all concerned. A mediator is expected to have the confidence of both sides, and recent resentful comment at Berlin, following our State Department's letter to Ambassador Bernstoff, indicates distrust of both President Wilson and the United States on the part of Germany. The press at Berlin virtually charged that our government is not living up to its professions of neutrality and declared that the Administration's attitude will not be soon forgotten in Germany. And yet, in its desire to be fair to both sides as well as to uphold the rights of neutrals, our government has caused irritation among the Allies as well.

The problem of satisfying both sides while firmly upholding neutral rights is practically impossible of solution. Under ordinary circumstances the United States, as the leading neutral nation, would naturally be regarded as the desirable mediator, but when the proper time arrives—a time now apparently far away—it will surprise no reflecting observer if some small neutral nation that has kept quiet and given no offense should receive the coveted invitation to initiate the peace adjustments of the greatest of wars.

ONE BENEFIT OF WAR.

Charles H. Sherrill, who was the American Ambassador to the Argentine Republic, and will be remembered by many Plainfielders as one of the speakers at the Board of Trade dinner last year, sees great hope for the Hebrew race in Russia's struggles in the present war. Mr. Sherrill has traveled much abroad, and he thinks that the war has developed a blaze of patriotism which has melted much of the prejudice which existed prior to the outbreak of hostilities. One evidence of this patriotism will be seen in the benefit which will be derived by the peoples who have suffered most from the restrictions which were formerly placed upon their rights of citizenship, which of course means the Jewish race in Russia. He says of them:

Opportunity has knocked at their door in the guise of an appeal to patriotism, and they have flung open that door with a splendid gesture of devotion to country. And the door thus bravely opened in the stress of war time will never be shut to them in peace, certainly not by the grandson of the great Czar who freed the serfs. The Russian Jews themselves are working out their own political salvation as Russians among Russians.

One has to know and to talk with but few Russians to realize that a great change has already come over Russian public opinion as a result of this war—a change which makes for a new and greater cohesion in their body politic, a change which manifests itself in many ways, but especially in general appreciation of Jewish loyalty to nationality.

Americans knew that the people of this race make just as good citizens as anyone, and there is no reason why Mr. Sherrill's prediction regarding Russia should not come true.

The death of John Bunny, the moving picture comedian, was a happening that created national interest. Probably as Mr. Bunny died thousands through the country laughed at him on the screens. Mr. Bunny's art was a peculiar one, but his personality was so entwined with the moving picture that his death meant almost a personal loss to millions of patrons of this form of entertainment. Possessed of a grotesque physical makeup, Mr. Bunny employed it to his own advantage in a most profitable manner. In so doing, however, he carried sunshine into the hearts of men, women and children. Standing as the premier comedian in the world of films, Mr. Bunny's death is perhaps a loss that is irreparable. He started at $40 a week and when he quit a year ago to try vaudeville he was earning $2,000 a week. To the patrons of the film he was worth his salary, but it is an odd condition that as a vaudeville actor he had but little drawing power.

If the reception accorded the mention of the discarded fire gong at the Elks' minstrel performance last night is to be taken as an expression of public sentiment there are still some few citizens among us who are in favor of having it restored to a state of uefulness. Suggestion that it would warn the school kiddies not to venture out on sloppy mornings and serve in the capacity of a warning note when our homes catch fire gained the lion's share of the evening's handclapping.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Permit me to reply to conclusions as contained in a recent editorial, that because of the small attendance of taxpayers at the meeting called by the Mayor to consider the budget last Friday evening, the Common Council is justified in going ahead without further economies than those already suggested.

Over seven hundred taxpayers protested vigorously against last year's assessment, but in almost every case the Board of Appeals set aside their objections and would not allow any deductions, and they feel themselves helpless.

The taxpayer practically stands alone before the Board of Appeals when he appears before them, for they are assisted by the full Board of Assessors and the corporation counsel. Naturally the Board takes the advice of eight or nine men as against the one man, the owner.

The real reason for this non-appearance and apparent lack of interest is not because he is satisfied, but because he feels that as things are at present constituted he is without remedy. The assessors, Appeal Board and even the State Board all stand together against him.

Never before were so many unpaid taxes from Plainfield docketed at the Elizabeth county clerk's office, and these are mostly from the small property owner rather than the large one. The assessors made the mistake of increasing values when they should have increased the rate. We are paying the county this $17,500 more than our share of the county tax this year. Money thrown away. There is no doubt whatever that prices have greatly declined in this city, and that we are greatly overvalued. It was the proper thing to equalize valuations, but not to increase them.

In making this year's assessments these facts should be considered and the situation met, both by our Common Council and the assessors when they make the 1915 assessments. While the books show about thirty million dollars of ratables, we are mortgaged about 60 per cent., so the true value of the property that is bearing this annual load of $600,000 is nearer $1,800,000.

characters to the various roles they played; the unique and appropriate scenic effects, and the selection of vocal "hits," would be hard to improve upon.

Considering the high plane of excellence established by the show as a whole, it seems significant that an individual may be singled out as the star, but nevertheless it is a true situation. Thomas M. Muir, probably the best known character in local minstrel circles, and one of the veterans of the burnt cork art, was in a class by himself as a fun-maker.

Aside from rendering the annual topical song, the words and music of which had been composed by Assemblyman William N. Runyon, in a finished style, Muir reeled off a monologue in the first part of the program that kept his audience in side-splitting merriment for ten minutes. His humorous portrayal of the characteristics of well-known local business men and city officials and of civic incidents scored the evening's big triumph. He topped off the monologue with the rendition of Judge Runyon's song and the audience also found much that was interesting in this selection.

Sharing the limelight with Muir was Eddie, alias "Banty" Bennett. His general makeup added considerably to his excellent rendition of "Sister Susie," one of the songs that left a lasting impression on the audience and brought the songster to the footlights for a triple appearance. Edward J. Harding's ballad, "Can't Yo' Heah Me Callin'," also illicited a raptuous send-off and he reappeared with a requested selection entitled, "Songs My Mother Used to Sing." Johnny Campbell, with "How the Money Rolls In;" Bill Firstbrook, with "Mississippi Cabaret;" Johnny Cose, "On the 5:15," and Jack Todd, with "Southern Hospitality," also met favor as end singers.

Other vocal selections of merit included "The Garden of Gods," by B. J. Tallamy; "The Bandolero," by William G. Smith, and "Just a Little Bit of Heaven," by Elmer D. Cutting. George O. Stevens played the role of interlocutor in his well-known style despite the fact that he had earlier in the afternoon met with an accident and experienced difficulty in getting about.

A fitting finale was put on the first half of the program when five groups of soldiers dressed in American, English, German, French and Russian army regalia, marched before the spotlights and sang "The Star Spangled Banner," while the audience stood. August N. Laggren the "midget" man of the Elks' club, played the part of Uncle Sam, and the following characters made their appearance: Dr. Chalmers L. Crist, Richard Mulvey and John Feriston, for Uncle Sam; John T. Boylan, J. V. Alster and J. A. Stryker, for England; E. E. Campbell, E. F. Dorman and George W. Pope, for France; A. C. Brunner, F. C. Brunner and C. S. Woolston, for Germany, and R. Loughlin, M. Reedy and N. Luthman, for Russia.

The first part represented a "Hunt Scene," with the interlocutor playing the part of the proprietor; the end men as waiters, and the chorus as huntsmen. The elaborate setting and costumes added considerably to the appearance of the cast. The second part of the show was furnished by high-class professional talent, three feature acts comprising the olio portion. The performance will be repeated tonight.

SUFFRAGE FEATURE PROGRAM

Devotions will open the afternoon session at 2 o'clock in charge of Mrs. E. M. Compton, of Cranford. Then will follow the reading of the journal of the executive committee by Mrs. T. C. Bodine and the presentation of visitors. Mrs. Mary K. The session will close with music and the benediction.

RECITAL OF "THE FORTUNE HUNTER"

Miss Lamson to Give Imitative Portrayal of Popular Play.

The entertainment to be given at the Plainfield High School tomorrow night, promises to be a delightful treat for the Plainfield public. The affair will be given under the supervision of the Plainfield Recreation committee. A nominal sum will be charged for admission.

The main part of the program consists of a dramatic recital of "The Fortune Hunter," which will be presented by Miss Lillian Leighton Lamson. Miss Lamson has given her imitative recitals of popular plays in nearly all the large cities of the east. Jack Barrymore made the "Fortune Hunter" famous during its run of two years in New York, and the impersonations of the various characters by Miss Lamson loses none of the force and humor of the original production. "The Fortune Hunter" is one of Miss Lamson's most successful recitals, she impersonates each character of the play, presenting the entire comedy as vividly almost as when acted out by a company of actors. Plainfielders will remember the popular young woman impersonating the parts in "Peg O' My Heart," which was given by the Recreation Committee two months ago at the Washington School.

A unique feature of the evening will be a series of classical and interpretive dances by Miss Mildred Brownlee, the popular young woman whose beauty and poetry of motion have charmed the Plainfield public in the past. Tomorrow night Miss Brownlee will interpret "Voices of Spring," by Strauss. Here the freedom of movement and abandonment of spirit gives expression of the joy and gladness at the coming of spring. Miss Brownlee will also present a Spanish costume dance, introducing the use of the tamborine and the characteristic movements of the Spanish dancing girls. The spacious stage of the High School auditorium has been given over to these dances and special settings have been prepared for the event.

A remarkable peculiarity of manganese steel is its almost complete lack of magnetic properties. A bar of this steel balanced on a knife edge was not drawn out of balance by a powerful electromagnet, but when hammered into very thin foil the steel was lifted by the magnet.

TO END ALL WARS BY A WORLD COURT

Supreme Tribunal For Settling International Disputes.

Ways and means for establishing a "supreme court of the world" for settling international disputes and avoiding war will be discussed at a congress of representatives of peace societies, educational institutions, chambers of commerce and civic organizations, to be held in Cleveland, O., May 12, 13 and 14. Announcement of the plans for the congress was made by the world court committee, composed of 100 prominent citizens, including the governors of most of the states.

"It is not the thought of the committee nor the purpose of the congress to deal with the present war situation," says the committee's announcement. "The movement contemplates the establishment of judicial machinery at the close of the war as the one necessary means of preventing future wars.

"Its exceptional character is found in the fact that it is not a peace congress. Peace is the ultimatum, but the object of the congress, will be thoroughly to discuss and decide upon the organization of the peace sentiment of the world into a practical and rational method of securing peace. The congress will devote itself to the method indorsed at the last Hague conference and reaffirmed by the committee of one hundred—namely, the judicial settlement of international disputes, which procedure necessitates the organization of a world court."

John Hays Hammond is chairman of the committee, and among those who have accepted invitations to speak at the congress are former President Taft, Governor Willis of Ohio, Alton B. Parker, Senator Harding of Ohio and Senator Sherman of Illinois.

John Hays Hammond is peculiarly well fitted for his position of chairman by reason of his practical business sense, his diplomatic temperament and his personal acquaintance with most of the rulers of the world.

IN MISERY BLESS STARS AND STRIPES.

Belgian Gratitude For Relief Seen by American Visitor.

James W. Bennett of the Roanoke (Va.) Times, the only person not connected with the commission for relief in Belgium to cross the Atlantic in one of the commission's steamers, has just returned. Mr. Bennett was purser of the Lynorta, which carried Virginia's cargo to the Belgians. In Belgium he made an automobile tour of the German occupied territory, visiting Malines, Dinant, Namur, Louvain, Liege, Brussels and Antwerp.

"There were terrible scenes wherever we went," he says. "I saw long lines of famished people waiting for food. Many of them were well dressed, and this made the sight all the more pitiable, for everything defining respectability but their clothes was absent. They had once been affluent, and there they were without means to obtain food. Their faces were lined with despair.

"The Belgians were not slow to exhibit their gratitude. The motor relief car was flying the stars and stripes, and many approached and stroked the emblem with affection."

WEALTHY, STOLE FOR LIVING

Two Women Even Purloined Chickens to Celebrate Sabbath.

Mrs. Rose Schlissel and Mrs. Esther Cohen, two well to do New York women, have been sentenced to ten months each in the penitentiary for petty larceny.

Detective Frank Cassassa said both had long careers as shoplifters, rarely buying even the necessaries of life. Mrs. Schlissel, he said, owned real estate in several sections of the city, but even stole chickens every Friday night to celebrate the Jewish Sabbath.

The women wore the most elaborate shoplifting outfits he ever saw, consisting of false waists and double skirts with pockets manipulated by strings that enabled them to drop stolen articles whenever they were under suspicion in a store and pretend the goods had fallen from a counter. They had worked together for years and had been arrested frequently.

IN PRISON AT 102 YEARS OLD

Has $15,000, but Won't Pay Doctor Because Operation Failed.

Although Thomas Goggins, who claims to be 102 years old, is said to be worth at least $15,000 and admits himself that he has a few "little dollars" in the bank, he is locked up in the county jail at Syracuse, N. Y., for contempt of court and stubbornly refuses to pay a fine of $18 and costs levied by Judge William G. Cady.

Mr. Goggins' case is unusual and baffling. He is ill with an incurable malady, and the judgment against him was for the bill of Dr. George M. Price, who performed an operation on him in an effort to restore his health.

He wouldn't pay, he said, because the operation was not successful.

SHIRT FOR 7-FOOT WAIST.

Costs 495 Pound Man $11 and Is Biggest Ever Made.

What is believed to be the biggest shirt ever made has been turned out by a factory at Parsons, Kan., for George W. Nicklor of Ames, Ia., who is the biggest man in that state and is said to possess the biggest waist of any man alive.

The shirt is cut with a waist which lacks one inch of being seven feet. The collar is twenty-three inches and the chest sixty-six inches, with a twenty-eight inch arm. The shirt is made of cheviot and will cost Nicklor $11.

Nicklor has turned down numerous vaudeville offers. He weighs 495 pounds and is five feet six inches tall.

TO RAISE "SACRED LEGION."

Venizelos Says He Will Gather Greeks Here In America.

Greece's great statesman, ex-Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, is coming to America, he says, to raise a "sacred legion" to fight for Greece in Asia Minor.

Forced from office by a quarrel with the king, Venizelos is unable at present to bring about Greece's intervention against Turkey, but he doesn't intend to retire from active life.

His sacred legion will number 50,000 men drawn from Asia Minor refugees, as well as Greeks in the United States. He will use Cyprus and Egypt as bases for his corps, it is planned, and will operate against Smyrna, Broussa and Saloniki.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

FLAINFIELD AUTO PILOT WILL DRIVE IN BIG NEWARK RACES NEXT SATURDAY

FAMOUS DRIVER WHO WILL OPPOSE LOCAL MAN.

There will be a big automobile race on Olympic Park's half-mile race track, Newark, Saturday afternoon. The affair has an American Automobile Association sanction, and is run under the direction of the "Matty" Matthews Auto Racing Association, of New York, promoters of Brighton Beach race meets, who have held more successful races in the East than any other association, racing on the best mile an half-mile tracks in this vicinity.

The program will consist of five events: One-mile time trials, five-mile invitation race, five-mile professional (under 300 cubic inches piston displacement), ten-mile professional free-for-all, and the star even: of the program, a five-mile handicap free-for-all. Two silver cups and $500 in prize money will be given to the drivers.

The races will start at 2 o'clock, and fifteen drivers and cars have signed up and entered.

The entries: Joe Dickinson (Newark), Stutz Special; Grover Bergdoll (Philadelphia), Erwin 30; George Jessop (Boston), Chevralet; Joseph Ryan (Suffern, N. Y.), Mercer; Bergdoll Entry Special (Philadelphia), Erwin Special 60; Vale (New York), Otto Car Special; Jackson (Plainfield), Correja; Benedict, Mercer; Burman, Stutz; Peacock, National; Bob Simms, National; Hickman, Flying Dutchman, Mercedes; Lambert (Cranford), Stutz; Hinschberger, Thomas 60; Hill, Fiat Special.

Ray Jackson, president of the Mercer Automobile Company, of Plainfield, better known as "Ray," will drive his Correja Special in the Olympic Park races. As racing driver he has no peer on a half-mile track. During the season of last year he drove in nine races and was beaten but twice. This is a record held by few, if any, of the racing drivers. F. A. Croselmire, representative of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, has superintended the preparing of the track for automobile racing. The track has been widened, scraped, banked, rolled and oiled, and is in as fine condition as any half-mile track in the country, and fast time is looked for this coming Saturday.

MEADOWS' GLASSES MAKE FUN BUT HE PITCHES GOOD BALL JUST THE SAME

Lee Meadows.

Baseball writers and others are having a good many jokes at the expense of Lee Meadows, pitcher of the St. Louis Nationals, the only known player in organized baseball who wears spectacles while playing. These jokers do not worry Meadows, however, and he seems to be making good. He says wearing glasses does not interfere with his playing.

FLAINFIELD FIVE POSED FOR A GROUP PICTURE

The members of the Plainfield Five basketball team, undisputed girl champions of the city, had their pictures taken at the Stone & Luckey studio this week. There were seven in the picture. The loving cups which were presented to the members of the team by the Columbus Club team, were placed in a row in front of the players, giving a fine effect.

The team has already made plans for reorganization next season and intends making a strong bid for the State feminine title. The manager is in communication with the manager of the Trenton Y. W. C. A. team for a home-and-home series of three games, such as was played this year. She is also trying to get some of the best teams in the State to appear on the Columbus Club court, where all home games are to be played.

Those in the picture are the Misses Helen Bryniarski, captain, center; Helen Hummel and Ida Hummel, forwards; Clara Smith, manager; Marian Mair, Ellen Doughty and Mildred McAuliffe, guards.

DENIES HE TRADED WHEAT TO GIANTS

Robinson Stamps as False Press Agent Yarn That Created Big Stir.

Philadelphia, April 29.—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyns, today denied emphatically that a deal had been completed between the New York and Brooklyn Nationals by which the Giants would have secured Zach Wheat in exchange for two outfielders and a pitcher.

Robinson also declared that to the best of his knowledge no negotiations affecting Wheat were even pending.

FAIRINGS ANNOUNCED FOR GIRLS' TOURNEY

Plainfield High School Feminine Athletes Plan Tennis Competition.

Miss Dorothy Crane, manager of the Plainfield High School girls' tennis tournament, has drawn up the order of events, which will be played every day that the ground is in good condition.

The following have entered for the singles, and the winners of these first tryouts will qualify for the semi-finals: E. Peacock vs. E. Mumford, Florence Alpaugh vs. Lillian Loizeaux, Katherine Stevens vs. Marion Blanchard, Dorothy Peacock vs. Josephine Smith, Irene Moy vs. Jean Peacock, Marjorie Henwood vs. Helen Peacock, Margaret Jahn vs. Bessie Marchant, Dorothy Crane will play the winner of the last match.

Several double teams have also been formed. They will compete in the following order: Marjorie Henwood and Irene Moy vs. Mary Simons and Helen Peacock, Dorothy Crane and Margaret Eaton vs. Jean Peacock and Marion Blanchard, Katherine Stevens nd Ella Mumford vs. Josephine Smith and Bessie Marchant. Lillian Fountain and Margaret Jahn will play the winners of the last. Prizes will be given for the first and second places.

SHIFT IN BOROUGH BATTING ORDER FOR BETTER RESULTS

The postponement of the game with Kearny yesterday will give Ernest Stahl a chance to rest up for the initial interscholastic contest, which takes place Saturday between North Plainfield and Leal School, on Hyde Oval. Had he been forced to pitch yesterday it would have meant three games this week, as he worked for five innings against Seton Hall Monday. The boroughites had a fine practice Tuesday, and will also work out today and tomorrow.

Conroy will be on second, and the regular infield will again be used against the private school team. Captain Smalley has made a shift in the batting order of the team in an endeavor to get hits when they are needed. Five of the regulars are hitting the ball above the .300 mark, but those batters cannot seem to get a chance at the pitcher at critical times. Dilts has displaced Hebert as lead-off man.

RIFFERT GETS A SINGLE.

Jack Riffert, formerly of this city, played right field on the Swarthmore baseball team against the Army, at West Point, yesterday afternoon, and had a slow day in the field. He did not have one chance during the entire game either for a put-out or an assist. Out of four times at bat he counted for a run and a single. While in the local High School Riffert played for several years on the baseball and football teams. The Army defeated Swarthmore, 11 to 7.

JENNINGS IN FORM.

Harry Jennings, the former Plainfield pitcher, is rounding into the form which made him almost invincible last season. Last week he pitched against New York University and held them to three scattered hits. He will start for Rutgers against Swarthmore in the second home baseball game for Rutgers, Saturday afternoon.

INITIAL MATCH OFF.

The tennis match between the Plainfield and Woodbridge High School racquet wielders, scheduled to be played this afternoon at Woodbridge, was canceled by the Woodbridge manager yesterday afternoon because the courts were not in condition to be used. The local players will play the first interschool match Saturday, when Cranford High School representatives will appear here.

TOMMY MULLIN WILL REMAIN WITH TEAM

After having a long conference with Captain Ralph Smalley, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, yesterday afternoon, Tommy Mullin, the borough school coach, decided to remain with the team until the end of June. He had considered taking a position with the Washington Club, starting next Saturday, but has thought better of the plan, and will not play Saturday ball until after the schoolboy season closes.

Mullin has had several good offers this year to play, but the one from Washington, which he received the early part of this week, was the only one which he considered. He will play ball Sundays with the Franklins, of Perth Amboy.

Arthur O'Leary, the star second baseman of the Plainfield High School baseball team, who was injured Tuesday afternoon, is reported to be improving rapidly. He pulled a tendon in his ankle in the practice before the Princeton game. He was cared for immediately and his teammates are hoping that he will be well in time for the North Plainfield game May 15.

HOPE VS. ROYAL GIANTS.

The Hope Chapel baseball team will meet the Royal Giants on the Clinton avenue field, Saturday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. This game should be a good one, but will only be for practice, as it does not appear on the schedule of either team. Dick Schott will twirl for the Fourth street aggregation.

CAN O'TOOLE COME BACK?

Has Signed With Columbus Following His Relapse.

The question now before the house is whether or not Marty O'Toole will succeed in pitching himself back into the big league. He is now with Columbus and expects he will do as King Cole did following his big league relapse.

Otto Hess and George McQuillan are other shining examples of pitchers who were sent to the minors only to twirl their way back into fast company later in life.

Many are inclined to regard O'Toole as the unhappy victim of overwork.

Following his sale to the Pittsburgh club in 1911, St. Paul pitched him to a finish—that is, between the consummation of the sale and the date of delivery. When Marty reported to the Pirates in September he was worn to a frazzle and hasn't been much good since.

COULDN'T FOOL LAJOIE.

Pitcher Thought Slow One Would Puzzle Big Frenchman.

Malachi Kittredge, the veteran catcher, regards Lajoie as the greatest batter the game ever knew. According to Kittredge, it was almost impossible to outguess the Frenchman. He tells a story of a left hander named Jacobson, who pitched for Washington and who thought he had discovered Lajoie's weakness. After making this discovery Jacobson faced Lajoie at a critical stage of an important game.

Lajoie's weakness was supposed to be a slow curve, rather low. Larry came to the bat, and Jacobson gave him that slow curve, rather low. Larry swung, and away went the ball over the center fielder's head, and with it went Jacobson's discovery of Lajoie's weakness.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

—The Daily Press can be purchased each night at Mallinson's drug store, East Second street.

—Compare the COST of holding tenantless property with the cost of enough advertising to rent it—and decide the matter in a business way.

The host responded to the presentation.

During the evening an informal program was enjoyed and all the guests were called upon for toasts. Refreshments were served.

ACTUAL WORK STARTS ON TWO NEW PLANTS

Ground has just been broken for the plant of Gabriel and Schall on a twelve acre tract of land they have purchased and upon which they will locate a factory for the making of asphalt products, composition floors, etc. Their factory building, 225 by 135 feet, will be of reinforced concrete and hollow tile construction, will cost $100,000.

THE MASTER MIND

Novelized by Marvin Dana, author of "Within the Law," from the successful play by Daniel D. Carter

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly company.

The greatest expert in machines would be unable to trace the peculiarities of a type used only on this single occasion, which would thereafter, with its fellow already in his pocket, be cast into the waters of the North river. So Andrew wrote freely, venting in words the hate that flared hot in his heart, baring his lust for revenge with brutal virulence, for he wrote to Cortland Wainwright, district attorney.

When he had finished writing Andrew went to the telephone and called a number. The connection was made quickly.

"You recognize the voice?" he asked softly and very distinctly. "Well, then, you know the place. Come at once. There is work to be done. Yes, for the Master Mind."

While he waited the coming of the one thus summoned Andrew took from his pocket a tiny mirror and a pencil and put a few lines to his face, which completely altered his expression. With the visor of the cap drawn low over his brows he felt that his disguise was sufficient for the occasion. He smiled a little grimly as he thought of what would be the visitor's amazement could the man but know that this messenger for the Master Mind here in the squalid room was in very truth the Master Mind himself.

On the morning following the sentencing of Henry Allen, Dr. Forbes, the eminent alienist, whose sanatorium for the mentally diseased was famous throughout the civilized world, sat at breakfast with his friend, Cortland Wainwright, in that gentleman's rather sumptuous bachelor apartment in upper Madison avenue. The host, with the informality of long intimacy, permitted himself during pauses in a desultory conversation to glance over the letters stacked beside his plate. Presently he became so absorbed in one of these as not to hear a question put to him by the physician, who, mildly astonished by this lack of attention on the other's part, looked up from his omelet to learn the cause. At the same moment Wainwright uttered an ejaculation of disgust.

"Now, this sort of thing has gone far enough," he exclaimed wrathfully. His eyes flashed.

"What's the matter, Cortland?" Forbes questioned sympathetically. There was a professional soothing quality in his voice. "Somebody else after your scalp, I suppose."

Wainwright nodded somberly.

"Yes," he admitted; "a new one, and the worst yet, which is saying a good deal. Just listen to this letter, doctor."

The district attorney straightened out the sheet of paper and proceeded to read the following communication aloud with indignant emphasis:

Cortland Wainwright, Esq., District Attorney, New York City:

Sir—In spite of my previous letters to you, in spite of all my arguments, my prayers, my threats, you have chosen to go ahead with your prosecution of Henry Allen, in whose behalf I have so tried to intercede with you. You have succeeded in your efforts to destroy an innocent boy. He was right to kill the man who came by stealth into his home to betray his honor. In his just rage over the first discovery of the shame put on him by such black treachery he shot the villain and killed him. You might well have done the same in like case. And because he did that, the natural, the human, manly thing, he is to die at the hands of the law—thanks to you.

Without your vicious bitterness in pressing the accusation against him, he would have been acquitted in all probability, for the men on juries, though they may be stupid, are, after all, men, with the primitive passions of men, with some regard for the sanctity of the home. At least he would have escaped with a term of imprisonment. But that would not content you.

Your personal ambition demanded the lad's life as a blood sacrifice. Because there has been much outcry in the sensation mongering papers of the country against some failures to punish murder when the unwritten law has been pleaded in justification, you thought this a capital opportunity to put a feather in your cap to flaunt before the public—the voters!—by securing the conviction of Henry Allen and condemning him to the extreme penalty of the law—death. Well, you have had your will. Be content of it while you may, for you, too, must expiate your crime. I shall see to that. I have the leisure, the means, the mind, the will, to punish you—and I shall. Make no mistake, sir. These are not the idle vaporings of some one with a grudge. I give you the precise assurance that you will be made to suffer with the suffering the most dreadful to you. The signature I put to the end of this letter will be sufficient evidence to you that I am competent to the task.

You have torn my heart by your cruelty toward one I love. In turn, I shall tear yours and crush it under my feet. I shall not hurry the work. Time will be required to make my vengeance complete. But delay on my part must not lead you to think that I have forgotten or swerved one whit from my purpose. I inclose in this letter a white card. From time to time, wherever you may chance to be, you will receive a like white card. When my plans are matured you will have warning of the fact given you in the form of a red card in place of the former white ones. And, at the end, a black card will tell you that the hour of your punishment is at hand.

Such, Mr. District Attorney, is the matter between you and me.

THE MASTER MIND.

Dr. Forbes listened to the reading of this extraordinary missive with close attention, which nevertheless did not prevent a professional consideration of the manner displayed by Wainwright under circumstances so unusual and so sinister. He observed with keen appreciation the fundamental strength with which his friend met the attack. The anger was no more than an evidence of wholesome virility resenting injustice.

Under that flurry of wrath the character of the man showed undismayed. The physician found a new satisfaction in his friendship. Since his vocation drove him daily to consort with the unfit, with those diseased of body or of mind, or of both, he found a singular pleasure in companionship with one who was sane and strong in every part, lower and higher alike. Yet, notwithstanding this personal interest, the letter itself provoked him to a lively curiosity. It held a savor of stark sincerity that made its threatenings vitally evil. Forbes, from long practice sensitive to the receiving of impressions, was sure that the writer of this arraignment meant every word; that the punishment of the district attorney would be compassed if it were humanly possible. Assuredly the prophecy was not one to be despised.

"The Master Mind is the most dangerous criminal today."

But the physician allowed no hint of his disturbed thoughts to color his tones as he spoke with an air of almost perfunctory interest:

"And who is the Master Mind, Cortland?"

"The Master Mind," he explained crisply, "is an enigma and a menace. He is, in fact, the most interesting and the most dangerous criminal working today."

"Then you know something of him?"

"To my sorrow," the district attorney admitted grimly. "Why, the fellow has been back of some of the biggest crimes committed recently. And, to make the history still worse, he has been back of others for years. And that's all I, or anybody else apparently, knows. He is a mystery—to me, to the police, even, as it would seem, to his tools themselves."

"But surely he must have been arrested, convicted, for some of his crimes?"

Wainwright shook his head.

"The authorities of the law have never even got to the initial point of suspecting his identity."

Forbes uttered an ejaculation of astonishment at the statement, then asked:

"Do you really believe that the fellow is serious, that he will"—

Wainwright bowed a mute affirmative answer to the halting question. Finally he said:

"This man is unlike others who have threatened me. For Henry Allen's sake he hates me. He means to be revenged on me for Henry Allen's death. And what the Master Mind plans he accomplishes. That's his record through years of crime. Now he sends me a white card to warn me that I am to pay the penalty of my offense against him."

Wainwright picked up the square of cardboard and regarded it curiously. "It doesn't seem formidable," he went on, turning it over to show the blank surfaces. "It is to serve merely as a reminder to me that the Master Mind has not forgotten his purpose toward me. There are other blank cards to come, merely reminders. But by and by, the Master Mind says here, there will come a red card to warn me that the appointed time is near at hand. And then at last there will be a black card to tell that the time is come for the Master Mind to strike me down. No, I am not afraid now. But when the black card comes"—

And silence fell.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

An absolutely new Charles Chaplin picture, one that has never been presented in this part of the State before, will be an added attraction to the program at Proctor's Theatre tomorrow. This film is in two parts and bears the promising title of "The Pre-historic Man." The mere mention of this to movie lovers conjures all sorts of possibilities for Mr. Chaplin's inimitable funny moves. Laughs will be plentiful and it is safe to predict that "The Pre-historic Man" will be one of the biggest hits of the week. In addition to the new vaudeville program inaugurated today the bill for this afternoon and tonight includes the five-part Paramount photoplay, "What's His Name," from the book of the same title by George Barr McCutcheon. Other attractions are promised for tomorrow and Saturday, guaranteeing a splendid entertainment no matter when or what time you visit Proctor's.

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. WM. LEONARD.

"Of course you must go. It's the event of the season." Mrs. Parsons' tone was final.

"But the baby; what will I do with him?" objected Nell.

"Get your mother to wait over a day or two longer; she will, I know. Won't you, Mrs. Reeves?"

"Of course I will; what is it?" was the smiling response.

"Why, the Scotts are going to give a lawn party next Thursday, and Nell must go. In the first place, she hasn't been anywhere for a long time, and this is her opportunity to meet these pleasant people. Young Mrs. Scott is about her age and has a baby nearly two years old. Of course it's a question what to do with Master Harlow, and I said I knew you would postpone your going home a few days to give her this outing. You will, won't you?"

"Certainly I will. I haven't told Mr. Reeves the exact day I expected to leave."

"Dear, obliging little mother," said Nell, kissing her.

"I don't want to go with ill-fitting clothes, and I am not sure I can wear anything I have," protested Nell.

"Try something on. I'll help you alter it. I'm not going to take no for an answer," and Jo Parsons put her arm around Nell's waist and headed her for the bedroom to "try on." Mrs. Reeves joined the council and the verdict was that a thin white dress could be whipped into shape with least work.

"It's two miles out there; how are we to go?" inquired Nell, when the dress specter was laid.

"They are to send in the Scotts' big touring car, so we can go in together. Mrs. Ellson will go with the doctor."

"Thank heaven for that," said Nell fervently.

Very sweet and girlish Nell looked as she bent over the cradle before starting. "Mother, you think he'll be all right while I'm gone?"

Her mother laughed. "I am perfectly certain that I can care for him, so enjoy yourself," and she kissed Nell goodby.

The well-kept Scott lawn was covered with chairs and tables and the deep porches held divans and easy chairs. Everything bespoke affluence and refined taste. Mrs. Ellson was standing with young Mrs. Scott when Nell alighted, and acknowledged her greeting with a cold stare.

"What can be the matter with Mrs. Ellson?" whispered Nell as they passed on to greet the elder Mrs. Scott. "I have hardly seen her since baby came, but I am manifestly under a cloud."

"The evil spirits that dwell with her alone can tell; she may have had pickles for dinner." They laughed noiselessly, for they were nearing the hostess.

"Mrs. Scott, I want you to meet my nearest neighbor and dearest friend," said Mrs. Parsons, presenting Nell.

The gracious, motherly woman made Nell feel entirely at home by inquiring about the baby as if she had known her for years and was interested in all that concerned her. Nell sat down on the porch, for she felt shaky after her ride. Here young Mrs. Scott found her and they visited about their babies as only young mothers can. When the men arrived in their spotless white flannels, refreshments were served. Then several of the men, including Dick, went off to play tennis. Young Mr. and Mrs. Scott visited with Nell on the porch. Finally Mrs. Scott went to get her little girl at Nell's urgent request. Her husband was sitting on the railing of the porch breaking off a spray of jasmine, which he tossed into Nell's lap as Mrs. Ellson passed. The innocent action seemed criminal in the scornful glance she cast at Nell, who flushed and looked down.

"I believe if that woman had lived in colonial times she would have been arrested for having the evil eye," laughed Nell uneasily. "She always makes me feel like giving myself up to the police for some unknown crime."

"The doctor is a good sort. I never saw much of her," answered the young man.

"Would that I had been born under as lucky a star," replied Nell fervently.

Nell turned, and looking through the vines, saw Mrs. Ellson meet Mrs. Scott, who had the little girl, and draw her aside down a walk behind some pines.

What could she want?

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Moor Who Gave His Promise.

In the Fight the Moor Was Slain.

"If you eat in the house of a Moor you would be safe there even had you done something dreadful and the police were looking for you," said daddy as the kiddies climbed up on the divan to listen to the evening story.

"The story goes that a Spaniard fell into a fit of anger with a Moorish gentleman, and in the fight that followed the Moor was slain.

"The Spaniard fled from his pursuers and climbed over a garden wall into a garden which proved to belong to a Moor. The Spaniard told his story in a very excited manner, naturally, and begged the Moor to hide him somewhere.

"The Moor held out half of a peach to the Spaniard. 'Eat this,' he said, 'and then you will know that you can safely trust yourself to me.'

"The Moor then locked the Spaniard up in a summer house, promising him that as soon as night came he would help him to escape.

"The Moor went away from the summer house, but just as he reached his house a great clattering was heard at the gate. He went out and opened the gate and got a dreadful shock, for his son was the one who had been killed, and some men were bringing him home, and the man that they described as having done the awful deed was the man that was now locked up in his summer house and whom he was pledged to help escape.

"As soon as it was dark the Moor went out to the summer house and opened the door.

"'Sir,' he said, 'you have killed my son, but you have also eaten with me. I cannot break my rules of hospitality. You are free.'

"He led the trembling wretch to his stable. Picking out one of the fleetest horses, he bade the Spaniard mount it.

"'Fly!' he ordered. 'By morning you will be in safety.'

"The Spaniard felt very bad and explained that the fight had been a fair one and that if his son had been the stronger man he might now have been fleeing from justice.

"The Moorish gentleman was very glad that he had kept the unwritten law of hospitality even in the midst of his great grief."

"Daddy, that must have been a very hard promise to keep," said Jack gravely.

"Yes," said daddy "but a promise is a sacred thing and should always be kept."

"Good night, kiddies."

"Good night, daddy."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Household science is in little things—to save steps and worry and work. There is always work enough. Here is a little thing all may not know: Don't put tumblers that have had milk in them into hot water until they have been rinsed in cold water, as the heat will drive the milk color into the glass, and they become cloudy.

When through housecleaning, don't forget to buy a bottle of gold paint and gild the picture frames that have become black and dingy, and get a little varnish and brighten up the furniture. Beauty is part of life. Dust the flower leaves in the pots, as flowers breathe as much as we do, and need it.

Furniture Polish—Boiled olive oil, to which a few drops of vinegar has been added, makes an excellent furniture polish for very fine woods. It will be found to work nicely on highly polished surfaces. It is applied in moderate quantities and rubbed to a luster with a flannel cloth.

Painless Removal of Adhesive Plaster—Apply a very small quantity of oil of wintergreen directly to the plaster. This soon spreads through the adhesive material and you may remove the plaster without pain. For large pieces of plaster, use an ointment consisting of lanoline and 10 per cent of oil of wintergreen.

GOOD MEAT DISHES

Stewed Lamb Chops—Brown one pound lamb chops to light brown in butter, then cover with water. Dice two onions, one carrot, three small potatoes; put onions and carrot in with meat; in fifteen minutes put in potatoes; let stew one hour. Use an iron frying pan. Just before turning out fire add a can of peas and a little thickening. This will serve four people. Salt and pepper to suit taste.

Lamb Chops and Sausage—Trim all fat from nice tender (and not too thin) lamb chops and fry to a nice brown (in butter if preferred). Be sure to skin and sear edges, as you do your thick steak. When hot, put in with the chops a few pork sausages (not of the shrively greasy kind). Have ready a few raw potatoes pared and sliced about one-fourth inch thick; sprinkle these on top and in between meat. Pepper and salt, put on cover; when brown, on under side turn and fry a golden brown. Serve at once.

Flank Beef—Take two or three pounds of the flank of beef, which is about the cheapest part of the meat. Remove tough skin and spread meat with a savory forcement of breadcrumbs, herbs, parsley and a little finely minced onion. Roll up and tie firmly. Have a pint of mixed vegetables ready—carrot, onion, celery and turnip. Put these in bottom of a rather shallow stewpan and place the roll of meat on top of them. Add enough water to just cover vegetables; put in a small blade of mace and three or four cloves. Cover closely and cook very slowly four hours, basting frequently with the liquor in pan. When done, remove both meat and vegetable to a hot dish and thicken gravy with browned flour. Strain gravy over meat, removing cloves and mace before serving. Excellent and very economical.

TOMATO DISHES

Bisque, or Cream, Tomato Soup—One quart can tomatoes; heat and strain; add one-fourth teaspoon soda. In another pan heat one quart milk, add three tablespoons flour mixed smooth in cold water, one tablespoon butter. Have tomato juice boiling, add to milk (which must be boiling); salt to taste after removing from fire. It never fails.

Tomato Fritters—Bake some tomatoes very lightly, add some Parmesan cheese and a little onion finely chopped, the white of an egg and as much cream as will make it like thick batter; drop this batter into pan of boiling water a tablespoonful at a time. Take fritters out when they rise and serve sprinkled with a little Parmesan.

Tomato Marmalade—Scald one pound of ripe tomatoes, take off skin, mix with one pound sugar, boil slowly one hour, skimming and stirring; after which add juice and grated rind of one lemon. Then boil another half hour or until it becomes a smooth thick mass.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. H. E. Parker, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The Latchstring of Opportunity.

To be a little more courteous than is necessary.

To pay a little stricter attention than most people do, and consequently be a little more accurate than they are.

To be a little better informed than "the average."

To work a little harder and a little more willingly than "the bunch."

To be neat, modest, and yet confident and aggressive.

To keep the mind on clean, useful thoughts.

To spend a little less than is earned.

To be happy and yet never self-satisfied.

Summed up, it all means being the rare person who not only gives most but gets most out of the "job" and out of life.

For such people the latchstring of opportunity hangs out at many doors. —S. Roland Hall in Selling Sense.

Roselle Park.

The Sherman Primary School, of Roselle Park, has recently organized a Parent-Teacher Association with great enthusiasm. There are forty-eight members, and the president is Mrs. H. H. Shopp, of 68 Sheridan avenue. It has been decided to give $1 per month to the class having the highest percentage of mothers out to the meetings, the money to be spent for library books for the school. The association has secured C. R. Scott, State secretary of Y. M. C. A., of Newark, to give a stereopticon lecture on the evening of May 7.

State Congress of Mothers.

The officers of the State Congress of Mothers for 1915-16 are: President, Mrs. Wellington Bechtel, Haddonfield; first vice-president, Mrs. Augustus H. Reeves, Moorestown; second vice-president, Mrs. William Downs, Orange; third vice-president, Mrs. William M. Sandford, Plainfield; recording secretary, Mrs. Samuel P. Leeds, Atlantic City; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. F. Meschter, Woodbury; treasurer, Mrs. J. Linton Engle, Haddonfield; auditor, Mrs. L. P. Tomlinson, Marlton.

MONTCLAIR.

When Mother Goes to School.

Would grown folk go back to school if they had the chance?

Superintendent Bliss, of the Montclair, N. J., schools, doubted it, but he had so tempting an offer to make to the women of the town that he tried the experiment as a test.

There are five home science rooms in the Montclair schools, and they are busy all day long. Mr. Bliss thought they ought to be used at night as well, so he drew up a program of nine cooking courses of ten lessons each, and fixed a fee to cover the bare cost of materials—from one to four dollars for a course. The Board of Education agreed to pay the cost of tuition.

Then he announced his offer and set a date to meet all the Montclair women who were interested. He expected twenty or thirty. There came two hundred and thirty.

They have been a steadily increasing success. It is interesting that the most popular of all the courses was that devoted to problems of marketing, and the next in popularity was on salads. And among the women attending these, and, in fact, all the courses, were representatives from every social grade, from the wives of Italian laborers to the wives of New York money magnates.

School Gardens.

In an address given before the American Civic Association, in Washington, D. C., Commissioner Claxton said:

"Home gardening done by children under the direction of the schools seems to offer what is needed. In all manufacturing villages, suburban towns and cities there is much valuable land in vacant lots, backyards and elsewhere which might be used for this purpose. In every school in a community of this kind there should be at least one teacher who knows gardening, both theoretically and practically. This teacher, who should be employed for extra time, should teach the elementary sciences during school hours, and should out of school hours direct the home gardening of the children between the ages of six and fifteen years.

Vegetables grown should be used first as food for the children and their families, then the surplus should be marketed. Through the help of the teacher this can be done in a co-operative way. When the surplus is large and cannot be marketed to advantage, the teacher should direct the children in canning and preserving for the winter use. The canning and tomato clubs in the Southern States have shown what can be done in this way.

It is difficult to estimate all the results of this plan once it is in operation throughout the country. For the children it will mean health, strength, joy and work, habits of industry, an understanding of the value of money as measured by terms of labor, and such knowledge of the phenomena of nature as must be had for the understanding of most of their school lessons!"

Longer School Year.

Dr. J. Henry Bartlett, of Philadelphia, is advocating a longer school year, and states that two schools in Newark are in successful operation for forty-eight weeks each year. In Europe the schoolboy has worked fifteen hundred hours in a year, but in America the boy loses about two years during his school life because he works only one thousand hours in a year.

130 CHILDREN IN BIG PAGEANT

Recreation Committee Planning Big Feature for Benefit Circus Next Friday.

PLAN IS ORIGINAL ONE

Miss Lanson and Miss Brownlee Have Designed Costumes—Professional Acts Will Be of Unusual Merit.

Over 130 children are in rehearsal for the original pageant which is being arranged by the Public Recreation Committee in connection with the Frank A. Robbins circus which is to appear here one week from today, May 7, for the benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the Visiting Nurse Association and the Recreation Committee. Miss Lillian L. Lanson and Miss Brownlee have planned the rehearsals, and under their direction the costumes are rapidly being completed for the most pretentious affair of the kind that has ever been attempted in Plainfield. The plot of the pageant, and the names of those who are to take part will all be published in the local papers next week.

In addition to the pageant, the Boy Scouts are planning to give exhibitions of the various "stunts" which they have been practising for some months here. The local part of the program will take over a half hour, making a performance of nearly three hous altogether.

The Frank A. Robbins All Feature Show is one of the best known circuse on the road today, having been under the same management for 35 years. Following his usual custom, Mr. Robbins has searched the country for the best available acts and will have a number of stars of the circus world with him when he comes here. Hillary Long, who walks down stairs and leaps the gap on his head, and does equally difficult stunts while upside down, swinging in a trapeze; the gracefulest and best bareback riders of the country; troupes of aerilists; a group of wire walkers, who have just returned from a triumphant tour of South America; acrobats without equals, make a list of stars which briefly tells of the real attractions of the show. There will be a score or more of fun provoking clowns, a number of fine animal acts, a splendid menagerie and other attractions to entertain the spectators. The show gives performances daily at 2:30 and 8 p. m.. Doors open one hour earlier, and a band concert precedes each regular show.

JAMES M'CANN'S FUNERAL IS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of James McCann, whose death occurred Tuesday, was held from the Higgins' mortuary chapel, this morning at 8:30, and later at St. Mary's church, where Rev. Father McDonald celebrated a requiem mass for the deceased. The floral tributes were unusually beautiful and many, among them being a sheaf of wheat from the New Jersey Central freight house employes, and a pillow, with the inscription "Brother," from the family.

Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: James Kane, J. A. Traynor, J. F. Fitzgerald, Martin Regan, William Willis, and E. A. Shannon.

ENDEAVOR SOCIETY GIVES SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT

The pure food supper given by the Young People's Christian Endeavor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, in the church parlors, was a thorough success in every way. One hundred suppers were served. The rooms and tables were attractively decorated in blossoms and potted plants. Robert Rollins, of Newark, who demonstrated and served the supper, gave an interesting talk of the food that was served, where it was grown, and how prepared.

A delightful musical program was rendered after the supper. Selections were given by Miss Jessie Utter, organ; Mrs. Mabel Maxson, piano, and Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, piano. Miss Moore, of New York, was soloist of the evening, and her numbers were enthusiastically received. Miss Moore accompanied herself.

The committee having charge of the affair was composed as follows: Tables, Miss Frances Kinne, entertainment, Miss Isabell Randolph; candy, Miss Sina Greve and Miss Dorothy Hubbard. The members of the Christian Endeavor Society acted as waitresses for the occasion. A substantial sum was realized as a result of the affair, which will be added to the fund of the society.

MRS. M. H. EWART IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT

North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Ass'n Holds An Interesting Session.

Mrs. M. H. Ewart, president of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association, was re-elected to that office at the annual meeting of the association held in the Somerset School building yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Guy D. Peck was elected vice-president to succeed Mrs. Allan B. Laing, and Mrs. W. O. Taylor and Mrs. Judd Stuart were both re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst is honorary first vice-president. Yearly reports were given by the secretary, treasurer and the chairmen of standing committees.

Mrs. E. D. Hutchinson, for the entertainment committee, reported on the social events of the year, including the "Hall of Fame." Mrs. Frank Rowley, chairman of the economic committee, made a report on the two dancing classes and the cooking contest held recently, both of which were successful undertakings. This committee has charge of the graduation dress contest for the girls of the 1915 class. Mrs. Alexander Milne has offered two money prizes for the best all-around dresses made by the girls for graduation. The cost of the dress must not exceed five dollars, and the girls must have memorandum of every expenditure, no matter how small. Any of the girls may enter, but the contest is not compulsory. Five dollars will be given to the winner and three dollars for the second best.

Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, of the new membership committee, made an encouraging report that during the past year sixty-six new members have joined the association, making the total membership 196. Mrs. L. S. Townley reported that the visiting committee had raised $32 during the year. For the hygiene committee, Mrs. F. E. Bach, chairman, made a report. It was through the efforts of this committee that a school nurse was obtained for next year.

The committees for the coming year have not yet been appointed by the president.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS FLORENCE HOWARTH

Miss Florence Howarth, of Westfield, was given a miscellaneous surprise "shower" at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Howarth, of Mountain avenue, last night. The surprise was a great success, both the host and hostess being totally unaware of the arrangements.

There were about twenty-five guests from Westfield, Elizabeth, Cranford, Garwood, Rahway and Mountainside, and the evening was spent in a very enjoyable manner. Refreshments were served during the evening. Miss Howarth and Myrton E. Glover, who are engaged to be married, were the recipients of a large variety of useful gifts. Mr. Glover is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Glover, of Park avenue.

HAD EXCELLENT RECORD

Member of Local Police Force for Twenty-two Years — Regarded Highly by Chief Kiely—Leaves Wife and Three Sons.

Patrolman Martin Vanderweg, one of the most faithful and efficient officers of the city's police department, died at 4 o'clock this morning at his home at 690 West Fourth street, from the effects of a paralytic stroke, the third he had suffered within the past two years. He was stricken late yesterday afternoon while attending to chickens in the rear of his yard, falling to the ground in an unconscious condition. He was removed to the house and attended by Dr. Frederick J. Hughes, who arrived in response to a telephone summons. The afflicted man was beyond aid, however, and remained unconscious until the end.

The previous paralytic attacks which Patrolman Vanderweg suffered were rather slight. One of them affected his side, while the other was in the face. He had been off duty for several months at various times, but recently appeared to be in almost normal condition. He was working about his home yesterday afternoon without the least suspicion of the impending attack. A few minutes after he had entered the chicken run, Mrs. Cornelius Guinee, who resides next door, noticed him lying on the ground, and hurriedly called for help in the neighborhood. Councilman John H. Cose, Michael D. O'Keefe and John Guinee responded, carrying the unconscious man to his home.

Patrolman Vanderweg was born in this city forty-six years ago and had

MISS MARTHA EMMONS HAS A PERFECT SCORE

The fourth and next to the last spelling contest of the North Plainfield grade pupils was given this morning and the results will be announced in a few days. Five dollars will be awarded to the member of each class making the best showing for the five contests, which consists of one hundred words each, and are given on the last Friday of each month. In case of a tie another match will be held of one hundred words until there is a winner

Miss Martha Emmons, of eighth grade, has gone through the first four tests without a single miss. In the seventh grade the pupils have not fared so well as in the others, four being tied for the prize with five misspelled words out of four hundred. Six members of the fifth class have one word wrong, while two of the sixth are still perfect. The leaders to date follow: Eighth, Miss Martha Emmons, perfect; seventh, Horace Fisher, Miss Sadie Michael, Miss Mabel Rilling and Miss Marie Walsh, five wrong; sixth, Miss Florence Lendin and John Mason, perfect; fifth, Case, Marian Jorden, Anna Rilling, Katherine Sheelan, Ethel Winn, one word.

BISHOP TO VISIT HOLY CROSS CHURCH SUNDAY

Bishop Paul Matthews, of the diocese of New Jersey, will visit the Church of the Holy Cross, Sunday morning, and in addition to preaching at the 11 o'clock service will administer the rite of confirmation to a class of twenty. This will be the bishop's first visit to the borough church and he will doubtless be greeted by a large congregation at the morning service.

Rev. Charles H. Kues, rector of the church, will assist at the service and will present the class for confirmation. There will be special music by the vested choir under the direction of Charles Davis, organist.

CHURCHMEN WILL ASSIST SUFFRAGE

So Declares Miss Connolly in an Address at Friends' Meeting House.

APPEAL TO JUSTICE

Believes That Men of the Church Will Vote Righteously on the Question—D. Fred Aungst Tells of Experience in the West.

Despite the stormy weather a large number of people gathered at the Friends' Meeting-House, on Watchung avenue, last night, and thoroughly enjoyed two excellent addresses on the question of suffrage. Miss Louise Connolly, of Summit, the principal speaker, was in her usual happy mood and held the close attention of her audience throughout. In her opening remarks Miss Connolly said that she felt quite at home in a Friends' Meeting-House, as her older sister married a member of that society years ago, and she spoke reminiscently of her visits, as a small girl, to her sister's home, and of their quiet, simple life among the Friends.

"I will not use the arguments of expediency to an audience of Christian people," said Miss Connolly. "The men in the churches are interested in the suffrage movement now. So long as it was merely an academic subject they were indifferent, but now that it has become a matter of practical politics they are ready to listen, and when convinced of the justice of the cause they will put aside all personal feeling and prejudice and vote according to the dictates of their consciences." "I really believe," said the speaker, "that if 'votes for women' wins in New Jersey this year it will be largely because the men of the churches, having come to see the fundamental justice of the cause will vote righteously."

Miss Connolly made her appeal to the men chiefly upon the basis of justice. She said: "A man may love a woman or he may hate her; he may respect her or he may despise her; he may abuse her or he may serve; but one thing he cannot do: he cannot understand her, therefore he cannot represent her."

She spoke of woman's desire to serve being a sex inheritance. Woman has always been ready and anxious to serve, but economic changes have made it impossible for her to do so now in an efficient manner. Women are coming to see the futility of much that they do, and, Miss Connolly said, "it is tragic to be futile and know you are futile, and not be able to help it."

The great duty of woman, according to the speaker, is to serve the race and to become all that God has given her the power to be. To accomplish these ends she must have a real, vital part in the affairs of the government.

D. Fred Aungst told of going to Idaho, as a young man, fresh from college, with a strong prejudice against woman suffrage. In his college days he was one of the violent opponents of the cause, and he went to Idaho in a very sceptical frame of mind; but he told of his change of view while living in that State and being able to observe at first hand the benefits which spring from woman's taking part in political affairs.

JOHN TAYLOR TAKES UNTO HIMSELF A BRIDE

John H. Taylor, Plainfield's well-known colored singing comedian, and Miss Charity Bowman, daughter of Mrs. Jemima Bowman, of West Third street, were married last night at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. W. Roberts and was witnessed by a gathering of relatives and friends. Mrs. Tipton Goldstone and Mrs. R. B. Norwood were Miss Bowman's attendants. A wedding supper followed the ceremony, and after an extended wedding trip the couple will reside on West Third street.

Mr. Taylor is one of the best-known colored residents of the city and has a wide reputation as a singer and composer. His greatest song success was "Back to the Jungle" and "White Folks, Goodbye," which he used during numerous theatrical engagements. For many years he teamed up with the late "Skinny" Wilson, and the two made one of the best vocal and instrumental couples in the city. Mr. Taylor is an expert guitar player, and at various times traveled with professional troupes.

GREAT SEND-OFF FOR MINSTRELS

Second Capacity Audience Takes a Dose of "Laughology."

SUCCESS FINANCIALLY

Elks' Star Entertainers Produce New Effects on Last Appearance—Dover Lodge Presents Floral Horseshoe to Troupe.

An audience that exceeded in number the one that witnessed the first effort saw the Plainfield Elks put a fitting finale on their 1915 minstrel attempt in the Plainfield Theatre last night. With a greater variety of spicy "gags," added confidence, and harboring a desire to conclude their stage efforts with a flourish, the antlered actors left a lasting impression on their 1915 patrons. In speaking of the show this morning, V. W. Nash, Jr., said that although all reports had not as yet been received, it was safe to conclude that the production has been a financial success, and if the general comment is to be taken as a criterion, everyone who saw the entertainment is satisfied.

"Tommy" Muir duplicated his big hit of the previous night with Judge Runyon's topical song, and "pulled" another big "hand" from the spectators by tacking a new verse on the rendition. "Banty" Bennett, with his original version of "Sister Susie's Sewing Shirts for Soldiers," entitled, "Thister Thusie Thewing Thirts for Tholdiers," scored another triumph. All of the other endmen duplicated their first night's successes.

One new feature of the second night show was the presentation of a large floral horseshoe, sent by Dover Lodge, a delegation from which saw the affair Wednesday night. New "roasts," bringing out humorous incidents in the lives of well-known

CONFER K. OF C. DEGREE ON FORTY CANDIDATES

Forty candidates, a large majority of whom were from this city, received the third degree in Watchung Council, No. 885, Knights of Columbus, last night, the ceremonies taking place in the local clubhouse. The degree work was exemplified by Warden Thomas McLaughlin, State Warden Cornelius McGlennon and District Deputies John J. O'Neill and William Nolan, of Jersey City.

Warden McLaughlin, in an address, said that the total membership in the order, January 1, 1915, numbered 350,000. Two hundred and fifty joined in April and 150 more applications are in the hands of various councils. He urged the practice of religious faith and strict observance of all national and State laws.

SITUATION UNCHANGED IN CARPENTERS INCREASE

The situation in the local carpenters' request for a fifty cent increase in daily pay remains unchanged today. None of the contractors have signified their intention of meeting the new rate, although it is quite probable that a number will do so tomorrow. All men paid off tomorrow noon will be entitled to twenty-five cents additional under the new rate, and wherever it is paid the employes will return to work Monday as though nothing had happened. Where the increased amount is not forthcoming or the bosses make no statement the men will cease work.

A meeting of the carpenters' Union will be held in the Trades' Council rooms at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at which time reports will be received from the various contractors. The request for the fifty cent increase has been made throughout Union, Essex and Hudson counties and in a majority of the districts the new rate has been granted.

There are all sorts of lard to be found on the market, but nothing like that of Smalley's own rendering will be found elsewhere in Plainfield.—Adv. ***

GOVERNMENT RESTS IN SAFFORD CASE

Two Local Witnesses Among Seven Supporting Osborne's Alibi.

After strong evidence had been introduced to establish an alibi to prove that James W. Osborne did not accompany Rae Tanzer to the Hotel Kensington on the afternoon of Sunday, October 18, Assistant United States District Attorney Roger B. Wood, yesterday rested the government case in the prosecution of Franklin D. Safford on the charge that he committed perjury when he identified Mr. Osborne as Miss Tanzer's companion. Seven witnesses gave testimony to show that Mr. Osborne was in the Bar Association building at the time when Safford said he was in Plainfield, and counsel for the defense was unable to shake any of them.

Dr. Alexander S. Nye, an eye specialist of New York, testified that he had examined Mr. Osborne's eyes in December, 1913, and had found that Mr. Osborne had "bad eyes for a man of his age." Mr. Osborne, he said, would not be able to see clearly without his glasses. Safford testified at the examination of Mss Tanzer that the man who came to the Hotel Kensington wore no glasses and signed his name without apparent difficulty.

F. D. Lapp, of this city, testified that he was working in the Hotel Kensington on October 18. He saw the man who registered as "O. Osborns," and that James W. Osborne was not that man. W. J. Kitchen, the proprietor of the hotel, followed Mr. Lapp and repeated the emphatic assertion he made at Miss Tanzer's examination that Mr. Osborne was not the man who accompanied Miss Tanzer to the hotel on October 18.

When the government rested at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Judge Hough announced an adjournment until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The buttons are made up in the school colors, maroon and black and have a dollar sign on the face.

A number of the students are already entitled to the buttons, having made their amount in various ways. Mrs. Judd Stuart, treasurer of the association, has received a total of $125 for the fund, which includes money from all sources. The pledge cards have been given to the pupils, and it is hoped that the buttons will be won rapidly.

NAVAL ATTACK ON FRENCH PORT

German Fleet Bombards Dunkirk, But Few Miles From Straits of Dover.

45 KILLED AND INJURED

No Damage to Military Fortifications—Dardanelles Attack is Renewed—Two More British Boats Are Torpedoed.

Paris, April 30—German warships have bombarded Dunkirk, the French naval station on the Straits of Dover. Nineteen shells were thrown into the city, the French war office announced today, killing 20 persons and wounding 45.

The bombardment resulted in the destruction of houses there, but so far as known no damage was done to military fortifications. The communique announcing the bombardment of Dunkirk also stated that 500 bombs had been thrown upon Rheims by the Germans.

Whether the German warships that shelled Dunkirk came from Zeebrugge, the German base on the Belgian coast, is not known. It is about 42 miles from Dunkirk to Zeebrugge and more than 200 miles from Dunkirk to Heligoland. Dunkirk is an important base of the allies.

The French war office gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"We made progress yesterday to the north of Ypres in the region of Steenstraette. The city of Rheims received 500 shells of which many were of an incendiary nature. These missiles started several fires, but it was found possible to circumscribe them and to put them out quickly. In the Champagne district the enemy shelled one of our ambulances, wounding a doctor."

Athens, April 30—The greater part of the Anglo-French fleet has entered the Dardanelles and is furiously bombarding the Turkish forts defending the narrows.

Constantinople, April 30—The following statement was issued here today:

"During the fighting on Galipoli Peninsula the Turks fought two days and a night, making attacks and resisting counter attacks without showing fatigue. They inflicted heavy losses on the enemy with their bayonets and captured many rifles and large quantities of ammunition. While the battle was raging 40 warships bombarded Sed El Bahr. Our batteries responded vigorously and the enemy's ships are believed to have suffered severely. Fighting continues at Kum Kale. Enemy forces that landed near there are being attacked with the bayonet."

London, April 30—The British collier Mobile was torpedoed off Lewis Island, yesterday. The English trawler Lillydale was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea off the Tyne yesterday. Her crew was rescued.

This statement was issued by the Belgian legation today:

"During the night our troops repulsed successfully a German attack proceeding from Steenstraette. The enemy's artillery has been active and bombarded at intervals various parts of our line."

The German supply ship Macedonia which recently escaped from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, has been recaptured. Official announcement to this effect was made by the British Admiralty today.

A wireless from Berlin says that three-fourths of the latest war loan already has been paid. The aggregate amount of payments up to date is $6,751,000,000, more than twice the amount required.

Vienna, April 30 (via Amsterdam)—"Greece wishes to remain on friendly terms with the Entente of the Central Balkan States," is the statement attributed to Greek minister of foreign affairs in an interview with him printed in the Pesti Herlap. "The operations of the French and British against the Dardanelles is interesting Greece," he continues, "but there is no wish or disposition on our part to interfere."

There is no treaty existing between Greece and Bulgaria, but the situation so far as regards the relations of the two countries is continually improving.

The purpose of the union is to promote fellowship among the Sunday-schools of the community and to add to their strength. The event, if arranged, will probably start with the parade, which will be followed by a meeting in Washington Park.

A home-made sale will be conducted by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church in the barracas room of the church tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 to 5 o'clock.

WAYSIDE PARK OPENS FOR SEASON TOMORROW

Wayside Park will open to the public tomorrow. The proprietor, T. W. Sisty, will not run any regular Saturday and Wednesday night dances as heretofore, but will lease the dancing pavilion to reputable organizations and individuals for dances, picnics, etc. The first dance booked for the season is that of the Public Service Band from the Dunellen carbarns, on Wednesday, May 26. Wayside Park is essentially a family picnic park with free admission to picnics and individuals. In order to maintain a high moral policy the proprietor has sacrificed and passed up many lucrative offers from advocates of Sunday baseball and outings as well as many other objectionable features to the end that instead of meeting the fate of most inland parks this park has steadily gained the favor of moral self-respecting people.

Six picnics are booked so far and perhaps a weekly dance by a woman who may run it on the invitation plan. Organizations holding picnics and outings at Wayside Park are fortunate in receiving the assistance of the proprietor, who is always able and willing to turn in and assist committees by advice on all arrangements and frequently takes hold of the entire sport program, conducting it successfully himself.

MANY USES FOR GUNS.

They Have Even Been the Means at Times of Saving Lives.

Guns would not go even if warfare were abolished. For example, the signal gun of a ship is used to announce her arrival on a coast. It would be difficult to find an equally effective substitute. The 1 o'clock gun, too, which is fired by electricity from Greenwich observatory, is the most effective means possible of announcing the exact time to surrounding towns, while nothing more impressive could be found than the minute guns fired for public mourning and the salute given on occasions of public rejoicings.

Guns save lives as well as take them. In desert countries, where it is difficult to collect water out of a mere dampness of sand, gun barrels are often sunk into the ground. By this means moisture is collected in the bore and many lives have been preserved by a timely draw at the muzzle.

A slaver, captured with a crew of slaves in the tropics, was once put in charge of a prize crew. During the voyage water ran out and slaves, slavers and prize crew were all dying of thirst. Then a sergeant hit on a brilliant idea. Taking all the available gun barrels, he plugged up the breach ends of a few of them, filled their bores with sea water and set them end up among the coals of the galley fire. Then as the steam rose he ran it through the other gun barrels till it cooled. The cooling steam collected in the shape of excellent fresh water and by this means scores of lives were saved.—Pearson's Weekly.

SUBLIME SIMPLICITY.

The Epitaph Over Sir Henry Lawrence, the Lucknow Hero.

There is a simple tomb in Lucknow, in India, that cost no more than many a plain farmer's gravestone in our rural burying places, but Clarence Poe declares that it impressed him more than anything else he saw in India except the Himalayas, the Taj Mahal and the view of Benares from the river.

It is the tomb of the heroic Sir Henry Lawrence, who died so glorious a death in the great mutiny of 1857. No commander in all India had planned more wisely for the defense of the men and women under his care, but the siege had only begun when he was mortally wounded. He called his successor and his associates to him, and at last, having omitted no detail of counsel or information that might enable them to carry out his farseeing plans, he roused himself to dictate his own immortal epitaph:

Here Lies
Henry Lawrence,
Who Tried to Do His Duty.
May the Lord Have Mercy on His Soul.

And so today these lines, sublime in their simplicity, mark his last resting place, and you feel that not even the great Akbar in Secundra or Napoleon in Paris has a worthier monument.—Youth's Companion.

Bull Baiting.

Although bull baiting was a cruel pastime, it was also a fulfilling of the law, for formerly no butcher was allowed to offer for sale the flesh of any bull that had not been baited. The goading of the animal in a fury was supposed to have some influence on the flesh. In a similar belief the flesh of a hunted hare was thought to be superior in flavor to that of one that had been shot, and a present of "a hunted hare" was considered to be a special compliment. In the records of the corporation of Leicester, England, the following order appears: "At a common hall, held on Thursday before St. Simon and St. Jude, 1467, 'no butcher to kill a bull till baited'." At Winchester it was ordered (reign of Henry VIII.) "that from hensforth ther shal be no bulstake set before any mayor's dore to bayte any bull, but onlie at the bullringe within the saide cytie."

Her Only Course.

Lady Anne Lindsay, the author of the old poem "Auld Robin Gray," was not only a delightful conversationalist, but she was a great story teller.

This gift made her not only a welcome guest abroad, but a valuable member of the home circle, for it is related in "A Group of Scottish Women" that at a dinner party which she was giving to some friends an old manservant caused some amusement by saying in a perfectly audible undertone:

"My lady, you must tell another story. The second course won't be ready for five minutes."

What He Saved.

"Good!" shouted the friend of the bibliophile as the latter emerged from the burning house carrying a bundle of books. "Did you save your Shakespeares?"

"No," replied the bibliophile, combing a spark out of his whiskers; "I saved my Bacon."—Houston Post.

SOLDIER'S LIFE IN FRENCH TRENCHES

A New Development In Modern Warfare Carefully Planned.

A VISIT to the French trenches—and not merely to "model" trenches, but over a long line front—shows how carefully a new development of modern warfare has been studied and how successfully the dangers (typhoid, rheumatism and half a dozen others) and the drawbacks of trench life have been overcome, writes Brian Phillips. The real science of intrenching was known only to the Germans when the war began, but the French have learned their lesson so well that their trenches are said by their prisoners to be far more healthy than the German ones at present.

They run not in straight lines, but with twists and turns, until with their "boyaux," or connecting trenches, they form a maze in which the stranger can easily lose himself, which may be why the humorists in the ranks put up such signs at the corners as "Unter den Linden," "Wilhelmstrasse," "a Potsdam" and "a Berlin." Where the soil admits of it ordinary drains will keep them dry, but where that is impossible the old fashioned manual fire engines, with two handled pumps, have been introduced, and relays of men work on these. Where the buildings have been sufficiently ruined in the neighborhood bricks and stones have been brought to pave the trenches, and where there is no better material they are paved with logs of wood or even with bundles of twigs or hurdles. From the pavement there is a step up to the loopholes, which are carefully shaped of wood and curtained or at the worst filled with clumps of turf or handfuls of straw, so that anybody passing between them and the light behind may not offer himself as an easy mark where the range is short.

FRENCH SOLDIERS IN THE TRENCHES.

The mud caverns within them that may be a colonel's headquarters or an officers' mess room have doors and are furnished. The rest shelters are only a few feet high, but they have raised wooden platforms, covered with straw for the men to lie on and wood fires burning brightly, at which everybody seems to manage to have something to cook and the ability to cook in an appetizing way.

Even where there is "nothing to report" bullets are flying overhead and shells bursting around all day, except that, apparently by common consent of both sides, there is usually a lull between 11 o'clock and noon, apparently for lunch, and it is a very dull trench indeed in which every section does not have four or five men picked off in the course of a day, even in the quietest times. Always two or three yards behind a trench there are newly made graves to be seen, and these are always neatly arranged, surmounted by a rough cross of wood and, with a pleasant sentiment, planted with a few spring flowers. Where these are wanting even a few roots from the nearest field in which a crop has been left growing are made to serve the purpose of adornment.

The French troops, as a whole, are perfectly healthy. A distinguished general, in calling particular attention to this fact, pointed out that they have two hot meals a day, that they get two large glasses of wine and a practically unlimited supply of hot coffee, that even if their uniforms get torn and mud stained and disreputable they are always warmly clad, and there is never a man in the whole army who is not absolutely well shod. In this as in many other respects, the French have many made many advances since 1870-1. German thoroughness, of course, sees to it that the men of the kaiser's army in the trenches are well fed, well clad and well shod. The line of supply from the German bases to the front has been continuous and well maintained.

A correspondent of the New York Times cabled recently from the French trenches and said: Daytime in the trenches is usually quiet beyond an occasional artillery bombardment. The real work is at night. So men during the day sleep in dugouts or laze about playing cards and writing letters, all except the sentinels on duty.

MINSTRELS GREAT SEND-OFF

local characters brought forth round after round of hearty applause.

A notable number on both nights' programs was the comedy musical act put on by Stayman and Buckley, a pair of metropolitan blackface mirth providers. Their instrumental selections and volley of wit were productive of keen interest, and they were given a big "hand" by the audience on both occasions.

Those who appeared in the opening portion of the show were the following: Proprietor, George O. Stevens; waiters, J. J. Campbell, T. M. Muir, J. H. Cose, J. V. Todd, W. Firstbrook and E. H. Bennett; the chorus, J. V. Alster, S. A. Aldrich, W. P. Banks, J. F. Coleman, W. C. Cram, C. L. Crist, E. D. Cutting, H. de Valliere, F. R. Emmons, G. T. Dunham, L. Elbert Fullerton, W. F. Hamilton, F. T. Frazer, F. R. Haynes, E. J. Harding, Jr., H. L. Hetfield, A. Y. V. Hibson, W. Hogan, H. F. Krausse, J. H. Logan, W. J. Loomis, W. Lyon, J. C. Martin, F. M. Masker, G. Morton, W. C. Mulvey, W. T. McCullough, F. McInerney, J. F. O'Keefe, E. W. Poinier, J. A. Pope, A. A. Prudhon, W. H. Randall, E. C. Searing, E. P. T. Smith, W. C. Smith, Jr., W. G. Smith, B. F. Tallamy, W. J. Tallamy, S. R. Taverner and J. A. Stryker; Uncle Sam, August N. Lagren; Spirit of 1776, C. L. Crist, Richard Mulvey and John Periston; soldiers: English, J. T. Boylan, J. V. Alster, J. A. Stryker; French, E. Campbell, E. F. Dorman, G. W. Pope; Russian, R. Loughlin, M. Reedy and N. Luthman; German, C. Brunner, F. C. Brunner and C. S. Woolston.

The minstrel committee for Plainfield lodge is composed of William Mulvey, chairman; Chalmers L. Crist, Joseph C. Martin, John V. Todd, William N. Runyon, Walter Marder, William C. Smith, Jr., Harry W. Weber and V. W. Nash, Jr.

The words of the topical song follow:

Often times I've deeply pondered o'er
the many things I'd do,
If they'd leave everything to me.
And of all these wondrous changes
I'll recite you just a few,
If they'd leave everything to me.
To the guy who has some goods to sell I'd make all people pay,
While to buyers every man would gladly give his stuff away,
This would solve the cost of living and would surely save the day,
If they'd leave everything to me.

Chorus.

Oh, dear, he's dippy in the noodle
His plans are just as silly, just as silly as can be;
For his only panacea is that crazy old idea
Leave everything to me.

I would have a city survey that was really up to snuff,
If they'd leave everything to me.
And it wouldn't be a failure or a sorry little bluff
If they'd leave everything to me.
In the first place I would have a plan to catch both old and young,
For I'd make them think they wanted every office holder hung.
And I wouldn't send them homeward saying, "Geo, but I was stung!"
If they'd leave everything to me.

At the hour of 12 in Plainfield you would hear a mighty blow
If they'd leave everything to me.
From a whopping fire whistle you can bet would really go,
If they'd leave everything to me.
All this silent stuff is great for those who on all noises frown,
But it's hard on rainy mornings for the school kids of the town,
And I'd give a man a chance to know his house was burning down,
If they'd leave everything to me.

I'd relieve the Common Council men of all their heavy cares,
If they'd leave everything to me.
And inside a month I'd have the crowd a bunch of millionaires,
If they'd leave everything to me.
For I'd put all lawyers out of biz but Frankie Blatz and Clay
Not a soul but Teddy Martin e'er could drive a van or dray;
While in roofing, Graves and Johnnie Cose would have things all their way,
If they'd leave everything to me.

I would get a band of children sound of body, soul and limb
If they'd leave everything to me.
And I'd tell them to be careful all the time to keep in trim,
If they'd leave everything to me.
And I'd say, "Now little children, if you really do your best,
You may live to be a hundred, and survive the day all blest,
When that auto engine meets the 700 gallon test."
If they'd leave everything to me.
I would like to take the 5:15 and go to Syracuse
If they'd leave everything to me.
And I'd say to Barnes and Roosevelt,
"Look here fellers, what's the use?"
If they'd leave everything to me.
"Man's a sucker if he loses; he's a hero if he wins;
And the things you hug as virtues, in the other gent are sins.
'Stop your fighting! You're as much alike as Siamesian twins'"
If they'd leave everything to me

SUDDEN DEATH OF OFFICER

always resided here. He was the son of Edward A. Vanderweg, who lives on Elm place. After various employments he entered the fire department at the age of twenty-two, serving as a driver for two years. In 1893 former Mayor Alexander Gilbert appointed him a special policeman, serving for three years, at the end of which time he was made a regular patrolman. His record is one of the best in the annals of the department. The conscientious performance of his duty was always his steadfast purpose, and in obeying his natural impulses the city was the beneficiary. From one end of Plainfield to the other everybody knew "Mat," as he was familiarly called, and although not of a talkative disposition, he responded with cheery reply to every salute given. He was never reprimanded for any serious offense, and a large number of important captures are marked to his credit. He would have been entitled to retirement on half pay within a few months.

In speaking of Patrolman Vanderweg this morning, Chief of Police Kiely said: "I can say nothing too good for Vanderweg as a policeman. He served the city in a faithful and conscientious manner, and was one of the men I could always depend upon."

Besides his father, Patrolman Vanderweg leaves his wife and three children, Martin J., Robert E., and Charles W. Vanderweg; also, two brothers, William, of New York, and John, of Hartford, Conn. He was a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias. The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church Monday morning at 9 o'clock, and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

WHO STOLE HAND'S WEEK'S WASHING?

Jury Thinks He Has Plenty More Clothes and Refuses to Give Verdict.

Scotch Plains last night added another chapter to its list of notable municipal events. Not since the time of the controversy over Rev. T. Moore Smith and his kennels has there been such an interesting bit of comedy enacted in the little hamlet as was brought out in the "Mock Trial," presented in Excelsior Hall last night. The villagers today have more to say about the event than the gossips passed over the back fence when a pretty schoolmistress attempted to teach the "A B C's" to a classroom of kiddies while garbed in a slit skirt.

The fact that the jury, composed of eleven men and one woman, decided to remain non-commital concerning a verdict, has left much room for discussion. Right here it may be said that the solitary feminine juror was plenty big enough to take her part with the big balance of votes remaining in the hands of the male sex. She was Miss Gertrude Smalley, Scotch Plains' 450-pound champion. The other jurors, all anti-suffrage rooters, were: Albert Ayers, Bert MacCauley, Harry Jesperson, Frank Moffett, Rev. J. Madison Hare, foreman; William Guest, Robert Anson, Donald Saunders, William Meyer, Clarence Slocum and Benjamin Elliott.

Food for jury thought arose over John Hatfield's charge that Edward Hand and William Ward had stolen certain articles of wearing apparel from his clothesline. "Prosecuting Attorney" L. D. H. Gilmour introduced witnesses to show that certain "unmentionables" had been sentenced to be hung on the Hand clothesline, and that in the morning it was found that the articles had been been kidnapped. Expert "toe-print" evidence, the discovery of germs similar to those bred by the defendants, the influence of a wife over her husband, the honesty of Yokel Horowitz, a Jewish pawnbroker; diagnosis of an ailment known as "tangoitis," and the condition of the atmosphere on the night in question were used as arguments by the prosecution. Mrs. George Reiner, one of the witnesses, testified as to the nature of the missing apparel, and told how long it had been in the Hand household, where she was employed as a maid. She also identified Ward and Hand as the culprits, although she maintained that the thieves had a stature that exceeded the prisoners' by two feet.

"Thammy" Swackhammer, of this city, was counsel for the complainants, and used Harry Paff, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Edward Hand, Willard Marston and Dr. Munger to show that the defendants were innocent, inasmuch as they never wore the articles of clothing described in the missing list. Miss Ann Smith acted as court stenographer, and Chris Lewis was the copper on duty.

SEVEN NEW JERSEY LAWYERS ARE DISBARRED

Trenton, April 30.—Four New Jersey lawyers were disbarred and three suspended yesterday by the Court of Chancery. Those disbarred were J. Edward Smith and Alfred B. Cosey, of Newark; Robert L. Eaton, of Elizabeth, and Arthur L. Collier, of Perth Amboy. Jacob Lubetkin, of Newark, was suspended for three years, and Joseph; B. Breidt, of Newark, and Addison P. Rosencrans, of Paterson, for two. The option of the court was unanimous in each case.

Smith was charged with attempting to exact money from a client for filing and amending petitions of a divorce action without intention to do so. Cosey, Eaton and Collier were accused of extorting money from clients without justification.

Lubetkin was charged with filing a bill of complaint, with affidavits falsely purporting to have been sworn to before Breidt, and Rosencrans was charged with obtaining money from a client upon the promise of professional services without rendering such service.

WAR HORRORS.

Reversion to savage methods having been so frequently reported from the war in Europe, it is no surprise to hear of what is virtually a resort to the old Chinese "stink-pot" expedient for embarrassing and scattering the enemy, the more elegant term of axphyxiating bombs being now employed. The French charge that such shells thrown among them by the Germans near Ypres caused disorder for more than a mile behind their firing line and forced them to fall back, overwhelmed by the intolerable fumes.

In his dispatch discussing the matter, Sir John French says the throwing of these bombs explains the previous "false charge" of the Germans that the Allies were employing such gases, their object being to diminish neutral criticism in advance. "The quantity produced," says the English commander, "indicates long and deliberate preparation for the employment of devices contrary to the terms of The Hague convention, to which the enemy subscribed."

It would seem to be a waste of breath to cite the rulings adopted at The Hague, for in almost every case, it has been possible to show that all the beligerents did not sign. It is positively asserted, however that The Hague agreement to abstain from the use of projectiles diffusing asphyxiating or deleterious gases was actually ratified by all the beligerents, including even Japan, Servia and Turkey.

Another war horror, presumably not included in The Hague prescriptions, is boasted of instead of denied by the Germans, according to Ernest Poole, who write from Berlin to the Saturday Evening Post. The Masurian swamp snares may be altogether legitimate from the military point of view, but the story of success is a hideous one. "You are told (at Berlin)," writes Mr. Poole, "of great false boulevards with rows of trees on either side leading out into the marshes. Over these fled the Russians from the German artillery behind. And the boulevards suddenly came to an end, and into the swamps by thousands plunged men and horses headlong. Other thousands piled on top. The night was filled with their frenzied cries. Even now, two months later, the stench in the swamps is so sickening that the local government is offering the peasants twenty marks for each body pulled out."

The death-traps in the Masurian Lake region, and other schemes such as the bases for enormously heavy artillery said to have been constructed by the Germans at points in France under the pretense of commercial undertakings, would seem to be pretty convincing proof of farseeing, long-continued and skilfully executed preparations for a war of aggression which is now alleged to have been forced upon an innocent and peace-loving Germany.

Dr. Osler's theory that a man is of little use after he is forty has received a great setback in England since the war broke out. So many of the young men have enlisted in the army that the clerical staffs of all the larger industrial concerns are turning their records upside down in an effort to find the addresses of the "old men of 40" who were removed when the Workmen's Compensation Bill was passed in that country. There's plenty of demand for these "old men of 40," now. It's a case of plain necessity, and perhaps they will never be placed in the discard again. The manufacturers have learned their lesson.

Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, head of the National Association for the Study of Atypical Children, with headquarters in North Plainfield, is the contributing editor for tomorrow. Dr. Groszmann has not written any articles for local publication about his work since he contributed an editorial on "Efficiency" to the Fress in 1912, and what he will say tomorrow will be well worth reading.

Jacob Tepper will carry with him to Fort Wayne, where he will open the fifth of a chain of stores run by that progressive firm, the good wishes of the many friends he has made in the short time he has been in this city. He has played an important part in the upbuilding of the company's local store.

It's a fine thing to live to be seventy-five years old, but when one reaches that age and doesn't look or act over fifty it's better yet. The honor done to Adjutant Smith of the local G. A. R. post on Tuesday, was well deserved.

Another evidence that Plainfield's know how, comes with the report that the International Motor Company was the low bidder on some $50,000 worth of fire apparatus for New York city.

REPORTING FROM MEMORY.

When Note Taking Was Forbidden In the House of Commons.

Holcroft's feat in memorizing the whole play of "Figaro" after hearing it ten times could probably have been easily outdone by "Memory" Woodfall, who in the days when note taking was forbidden in the house of commons acquired fame by the extraordinary power of reporting from memory the speeches he heard in that august assembly.

His usual attitude during a debate, says the London Chronicle, was to close his eyes and lean forward with both hands upon his stick, being so well acquainted with the tone and manner of the several speakers that he seldom changed his attitude save to catch the name of a new member.

The speeches thus memorized he printed in his journal, and so wonderful was his memory that he could retain full recollection of a debate a fortnight after, though having listened to many long nights of speaking in the interval. He used to say he could put any speech away on a corner shelf of his mind for future reference.

The Fastest Colors.

It is said that the fastest colors on the market are what are known among dyers as hydrosulphite—colors that are dyed with hydrosulphite in a caustic bath. These colors are as nearly fast as any can be made and have been adopted by our government to be used in army uniforms.

The dyeing of these colors on cotton yarn is simple, especially when the Scotch tub system is employed. The proper way to dye these colors is to use the vacuum type of dye machine, as the dyestuff experts hold that all air should be eliminated from the cotton before the dyestuff is applied, and this type of machine is best suited for that purpose, because in this system the cotton is stationary and the dye liquor is forced through the cotton by means of pumps.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

EXPERTS DISCUSS WELFARE OF CHILD

Mass Meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Closes Baby Saving Show.

EXHIBIT WAS A SUCCESS

Dr. Charles Kerley, of New York, and Dr. Samuel Hamill, of Philadelphia, Make Interesting Addresses —Praises for Mr. and Mrs. Stewart

The mass meeting held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, under the auspices of Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, closed the "Baby Saving Show," which has been open to the public during the month of April. The two speakers, Dr. Samuel Hamill, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Charles Kerley, of New York, were introduced by Mr. Stewart after a short speech in which he thanked the physicians and women of Plainfield for their interest and personal labors in behalf of the baby show. The attendance during the month had aggregated between seven and eight thousand.

Dr. Hamill, in referring to this, congratulated Plainfield, its physicians and laymen, and for its well sustained interest in all things pertaining to social betterment. His subsequent speech was particularly concerned with the "Health Centre" established in Philadelphia. This "Health Centre," situated in a central district, reaches out to the surrounding community in a rather unique fashion. One block at a time is taken and a thorough canvass made by trained workers, paying particular attention to the sanitary conditions, the health of the babies, and inspecting and urging the mothers to go to the "Health Centre" for guidance in how to live, how to be clean and how to care for and feed the children. After sufficient interest had been aroused, and competition stimulated between the neighbors, the workers go on to another block. Dr. Hamill believes that in this intensive work, the greater good to the greater number of people will ultimately justify, nf not prove the growing demand and efficiency of the "Health Center."

Dr. Kerley chose for the subject of his paper what might be termed "Our Duty to the Dependent Young." Dr. Kerley was careful to preface his remarks with the explanation that all he said was based on his personal observation during the twenty-seven years of actual practice. Starting from here, with the wind behind him, he said that the normal baby is more strongly influenced by environment and heredity, because there are sixteen plastic years in which the child is fashioned and molded by associations, by the atmosphere of the home, and by the men and women either real or foster parents, with whom he comes in contact. The responsibility of child raising is therefore very great, Dr. Kerley went on, every child to develop normally and symetrically needs proper food, right clothing, plenty of fresh air, kindness sympathy, rest and play. No child, he said, ever needs sugar (the cause of many colds, bilious attacks, bronchitis and eczema), and every child up to the age of seven, requires a daily nap. After the age of seven, the child attends school, and comes under the supervision of the school nurse and the school doctor.

The speaker very frankly disapproved of some of the useless superfluous artistic and scientific knowledge taught the child in lieu of industrial education and health education. Under the present system of education the art of clean, wholesome, efficient, economic living is neglected, if not rather criminally slighted for the more dazzling and competitive art of being learned and great, at any cost. Dr. Kerley almost decried the emulous effect of some of our so-called famous men on the lives of the children of school age.

He believes that aside from industrial education, every child should be instructed in the functions and care of all parts of the body, and the prevention of disease. He also spoke very feelingly on the essential element of play in a child's life. That every child might have harmeless, simple, and even instructive play to fill his idle moments, he suggested a non-sectarian amusement centre, under State rule, in which the adult as well as the child should find adequate recreation.

In closing, Dr Kerley again summed up the chief essentials necessary to make good, honest citizens of our children—good food, proper clothing, fresh air, kindness, sympathy, rest and play, with religious and secular education. Indeed, going a step beyound individual or municipal regulation and care, he said that the only adequate solution to the problem of "Child Welfare" was a "Federal Board for Child Control," which should see that every child had a square deal. Until we do this, until we see that the present youth of our country have a fair, unhampered start in life, we are falling short in a very grave responsibility. For, Dr. Kerley reiterated, the grown man is the product of his early environment and training, a problem in himself which can best be solved by the efficient nature of that first part of his life. He said that the public owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Stewart who brought the "Baby Saving Show" to Plainfield.

A LIVING TORPEDO.

That Odd Fish, the Electric Ray, Is a Terror In His Own Way.

There is a queer fish, bearing the name torpedo, that in its own peculiar way is a good deal of a terror. This is the torpedo, or electric ray, a dweller in the southern seas, which grows to a large size, sometimes weighing seventy or eighty pounds. This peculiar fish has a nearly circular body, a short tail and a very small mouth.

The back is brownish in color, and the underneath parts are white.

The torpedo obtains its name from its power of giving a violent shock, similar to an electric shock, to anything with which it comes in contact. Whenever an enemy approaches the fish emits from its body a kind of electricity, which incapacitates the attacker immediately.

In capturing its food the torpedo finds this power of use. Being very inactive, it cannot pursue the small fish which form its diet, so it lies in wait until they swim close by and then throws out its powerful shock, which instantly renders them helpless.

If a person touches this strange fish he is attacked by cramp, which affects the stomach, producing a kind of convulsion. For this reason the torpedo is sometimes known as the "cramp fish."—London Answers.

THE YELLOW FLAG.

A Ruse That Once Saved a British Ship From Capture.

An effective ruse de guerre in the way of flag flying was that practiced in the Mediterranean at the beginning of the last century by Lord Dundonald while cruising in the British ship Speedy. This little brig had captured so many of the enemy's merchantmen that a Spanish frigate was specially fitted out, disguised as a merchantman, to bring her to book.

Dundonald, in order to deceive the merchant craft of the enemy, adopted similar tactics and disguised the Speedy as a Danish merchant brig. The two disguised boats soon sighted each other. Dundonald at once gave chase and discovered his mistake when the Spaniard suddenly revealed her true nature and started lowering a boat to examine the Speedy's papers.

But Dundonald was equal to the occasion. He hoisted the yellow flag—signal of sickness. And when the Spanish boat was within hail an English officer in Danish uniform shouted that they were only two days out of Algiers. As the plague was raging in Algiers, the ruse was completely successful.—London Chronicle.

Oldest Chess Problem.

The oldest chess problem on record is thought to be that contained in an ancient Persian manuscript attributed to Caliph Kalifen Mutasin Billah, who reigned in Bagdad A. D. 833 to 842. But the reader would have to learn the old rules before it was intelligible. For example, the queen could make a move of only one square at a time and that on a diagonal, but a queen promoted from a pawn was allowed to make a move of two squares diagonally. The bishop had no power over any square except the third from which it stood on its own diagonal line, but it was allowed to vault over any piece that happened to be between. In short, it was a totally different game. Chess in the precise form in which we know it and play it today is a comparatively modern game.—London Strand Magazine.

Misnomers of Chemistry.

One of the strangest features of chemistry is the fact that many of the chemical names are misleading and do not describe the articles. Here are a few examples: Oil of vitriol is no oil, neither are oils of turpentine and kerosene. Copperas is an iron compound and contains no copper.

Salts of lemon is the exceedingly poisonous oxalic acid. Carbolic acid is not an acid, but an alcohol. Cobalt contains none of that metal, but arsenic. Soda water has no trace of soda, nor has sulphuric acid of sulphur. Sugar of lead has no sugar, cream of tartar has nothing of cream, nor milk of lime any milk. German silver has no silver and black lead no lead. Mosaic gold is only a sulphide of tin.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Stopping the Idle Talk.

"Pardon my interrupting you, old chap, but really you're wasting your time."

"What's the matter? Aren't you interested in what I'm saying?"

"Not particularly. Besides, it won't accomplish anything."

"I don't understand you."

"It's no use telling me how your boss ought to run his business. Tell it to him or keep still about it."—Detroit Free Press.

What He Wished to Know.

"Here's an article in this magazine entitled 'How to Meet Trouble,'" said Mrs. Wedderly. "Shall I read it to you?"

"No, thank you," replied his wife's husband. "How to dodge trouble is the brand of information I'm looking for."—Chicago News.

RETAILERS IN WAR ON TRADE COUPONS

Dry Goods Profit Sharing System to Be Fought In Courts.

STAMPS MAY BE DRAWN IN

National Association, Organizing Stores Throughout Country For Battle, Says $100,000,000 Worth of Tokens Are Sold Annually and Many Are Never Presented For Redemption.

The fight against coupons which has just been opened by some retail men is the biggest ever waged in the history of the drygoods trade in this country. It is to be fought out to the bitter end in the courts, the combatants say.

So far trading stamps have not become an issue. It is thought they may be drawn in.

The battle now raging is between the profit sharing coupon companies and those retail merchants who take their services, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, the National Retail Drygoods association, which is the mouthpiece of the retail merchants who do not believe that the coupons are consistent with good business methods.

The American Newspaper Publishers' association at its recent meeting in New York passed resolutions opposing the "alleged profit distributing coupon plans and similar schemes," asserting that they had attained a growth which made them "a menace to legitimate business and had inspired legislation prohibiting them in various states."

The resolutions also stated that it is the opinion of close students of economics these plans are "fundamentally opposed to the growth of trade and the expansion of legitimate business' and concluded with the remark that "the best interests, not only of the newspapers of the country, but of all business enterprises, are not served by such methods of exploitation."

Laws Have Failed So Far.

The National Retail Dry Goods association is carrying on a campaign all over the country against profit sharing coupons and has even secured the enactment of laws restricting the use of coupons in several states. Up to this time none of these laws has withstood the test of constitutionality in state and federal courts.

The Washington law, levying an annual license tax of $5,000 on merchants who use coupons or trading stamps was declared unconstitutional by the federal circuit court of appeals on the Pacific coast and confirmed as constitutional by the Washington state supreme court. The state of Washington has therefore appealed from the ruling of the federal circuit court of appeals to the supreme court at Washington, which will hear the arguments in the case early next month.

The National Retail Dry Goods association has not been discouraged. Its campaign is not yet four years old, but numbers among its members most of the great department stores of the country, representing an annual business of more than $500,000,000, and has already borne fruit in the public announcement of a big department store of Chicago that it has decided to abandon the use of profit sharing coupons, coupled with a statement recommending every retail merchant in the country to do likewise.

Enormous Profits Alleged.

Almost simultaneously two of the principal trading stamp and coupon companies published a statement which they called "an open letter to the public," assailing the National Retail Dry Goods association for its campaign.

F. Colburn Pinkham, secretary-treasurer of the National Retail Dry Goods association, said, in an interview:

"We are not fighting the trading stamp. We don't want to, if we can help it. The trading stamp is a matter between the merchant and his customers. He buys the stamps himself and knows what he is doing. They know what they are getting. But, estimating offhand, I should say between 85 and 90 per cent of the retail merchants of the country don't believe in this system and don't use it.

"I have seen figures which estimate that $100,000,000 worth of stamps and coupons are sold every year, while of these only some $10,000,000 or $12,000,000 are presented for redemption. The great majority of people do not make use of the stamps or coupons that are forced upon them. The difference between the $12,000,000 of stamps and coupons redeemed and the $100,000,000 represents the clear profit of the companies which issue them, and it is that profit which makes the business so lucrative." Many of these allegations are denied by the coupon and samp companies.

CHURCHES GET $410,000,000.

America Spends $73,000,000 on Missions and Leads World.

Statistics just issued by the missionary societies show that the American people through their churches contribute $55,000,000 a year to home missions and $18,000,000 for foreign missions.

It cost last year to maintain all churches in this country, including these mission funds, $410,000,000, and in this amount America leads all other countries. The figures of the Presbyterian home board show a slump of $258,000.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

Scattered Sport Gleanings

North Plainfield High School ball-tossers evidently know when they're well off. This fact is signified by their successful attempts to induce Tommy Mullin to retain the coaching job for the remainder of the season.

From all apearances this is decidedly an off-season for the local and borough High School nines and it's a case of which is the best of two poor teams in deciding the league title.

Suggestion made in this column some few months ago that the participants in the Interscholastic Basketball League get together at a social session has borne fruit. Tomorrow night the three league contenders will meet in the Plainfield High School Auditorium to dance and feed. That's the spirit, only there ought to be more of it.

Proof that there are still a few nuts loitering around outside of Nutley comes in the announcement that a squad of social marathoners tripped it to South Plainfield and back a few mornings ago, finishing their cantor at 2 p. x.

Those there are hereabouts today who scorn the Greeks for appearing on the public highways in running regalia resembling little more than a smile, but these twentieth century censors would have done well had they given the runners of their own generation the once-over. 'Tis said they were not hampered by clothing.

Says the Brunswick Times: "VanMater's appearance in Rutgers baseball and basketball circles next year should prove a valuable asset to college athletic activities." VanMater is the borough High School gent who will pursue a further course of study at the college by the Raritan. Still, we entertain doubts concerning the possibilities of him developing into an Eddie Collins in baseball or Frankie Hough, in basketball.

Secretary John Foster, of the Giants, denies that he will let Jim Thorpe go to Jersey City, and Manager Robinson, of the Brooklyns, denies that Zack Wheat will become a Giant. All of which builds up the opinion that the big league clubs have been forced to resort to this style of advertising by the "Feds."

"FED" PRESIDENT FLINGS BOUQUETS AT "O. B." OFFICERS

Chicago, April 30—President Gilmore refused yesterday afternoon to comment on Bennie Kauff's jump from the Brooklyn Federal League Club to the Giants, further than to say he felt like complimenting President Tener, of the National League, and President Gaffney, of the Boston National League Club, on their stand in declining to permit Kauff to play. The Federal League would protect its interests, he declared, but before taking action, would await further information on the subject.

Kauff, who was with Indianpaolis last season, this season signed with the Brooklyn Federals, accepting $1,500 advance money for signing a three-year contract, according to Gilmore. There was no ten-day clause in his contract.

TWO T. A. B. GAMES.

Two hard contests have been signed up by Manager Monahan, of the T. A. B. baseball team. Tomorrow afternoon the players go to Bound Brook for an engagement with Y. M. A. combination, of that place. One week from tomorrow the Tiger A. C., a speedy Newark aggregation, will line up against the locals at Avon Park.

ST. JOSEPH'S GAME.

The St. Joseph's baseball team will go to Manville tomorrow afternoon and meet the Johns-Manville aggregation of that place. Louis Ulmer, a former local Y. M. C. A., player, and also of the Somerville Klinkers, will pitch for the home team. Dan Denny will probably do the mound work for the boroughites.

SAURER PLAINFEDS WILL MEET ELIZABETH TEAM

The Saurer baseball team will play its first home game tomorrow afternoon on Parker Field, when the Elizabeth A. A. combination will appear here. Brit Martin will have the majority of his old players on the job, and Warry McLaughlin will be on the mound.

The Elizabeth team appeared in this city last year and took defeat from the Pets, but the manager has greatly strengthened his team and expects to give the Plainfielders a good run for the verdict. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

THORPE RELEASED.

"Jim" Thorpe, hero of the Stockholm Olympic games, and for two years a pupil under John McGraw, yesterday was released to Jersey City, of the International League, contrary to denials made by Secretary John B. Foster, of the Giants. Thorpe, while being one of the greatest all-around athletes that ever lived, could not fathom the intricacies of major league baseball while sitting on the bench as a Giant, but thinks that by playing every day in a minor league he will acquire the experience that will bring him back to the big show.

BURMAN LANDS $5,000.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 30.—Bob Burman, in a Peugeot, yesterday afternoon won the 200-mile Southwest sweepstakes automobile road race for a purse of $5,000. His time was 2:56 3-5. Dave Lewis, in a Stutz, was second, and John Raimey, in a Case, third.

PITCHER HAD INDIAN SIGN ON PLAINFIELD

Trenton Slab Artist Looked Like An Eddie Plank to Red and Blue.

A short hit bounding out of reach of Kyle, the Plainfield High School's outfielder, proved to be enough to hand a 2 to 0 victory to Trenton High School representatives, yesterday afternoon, at Parker Field.

Both pitchers, Denny and Bodenivem, pitched airtight ball and each annexed a healthy collection of strikeouts. Only five hits were made off Denny, but two of these came in the unlucky fifth inning, losing the game for the local squad. Bodenivem, the Trenton twirler, got Plainfield's "goat" in the first inning when he struck all three batters out. This seemed to give him great confidence, for he gave only four safe bingles to the locals.

In the fifth inning, with one down, Denny hit a man. The next batter went out at first and the runner took second. Then Diles, a little right fielder, leaned on one of Denny's slow balls. It looked like a single, but bounded past the fielder, and the man on second base came in home while the batter reached third. Another hit by the pitcher brought this man in, scoring the second and last run.

The work of Plainfield's infield was of high standard. Only three errors were made, none of them proving costly.

WESTFIELD MAY GET "PRO" BASEBALL TEAM

Stock Company Forming to Promote National Pastime —to Build New Park.

It has been reported this week that a stock company is in process of formation to give to Westfield a real live baseball team this summer. It is proposed to issue stock at $1 a share, the proceeds to be used to build a new ball field with up-to-date grandstand and bleachers.

The story goes that the new company will be known as the Westfield Amusement Company and it is probable that F. W. MacDonald, former manager of the Westfield Cubs, will be chosen as manager of the baseball team.

A number of prominent men of the town have already signified their willingness to subscribe for a number of shares of the stock and a meeting has been called for the evening of May 15, at which time the company will be formed and officers elected.

It will not be difficult to secure teams to oppose the Westfield team and if the project carries Westfield will be sure of first-class games this season.

Two sites for the proposed field have been offered by real estate men of the town and this question will also be taken up at the meeting on the fifteenth.

LAST BOWLING MATCH.

The final match of the Park Club Handicap Ten-pin Tourney will be played tonight. This will mark the end of the bowling season of the Washington avenue club.

OVERTON A WINNER IN BOWLING EVENT

With a Twenty-three Point Handicap He Gets Highest Mark.

With a handicap of 23 points, T. C. Overton won last night's play of handicap five-back at the Park Club. His total mark was 191, and he just nosed out H. M. Fisher, who scored 190. Fisher had a handicap of only 15, so he made a beter net score than the winner. The sixth point went to H. K. Dumont, with a 181 mark, he having advantage of a 14 handicap.

A. M. Abbott was placed at 1 above scratch and Dr. H. V. Hubbard received no handicap at all, his score being 144. This was the last of the five-back tournaments, and the prizes were awarded last night. The prizes and the winners follow: High points for year, first, Dr. H. V. Hubbard, 19½, pool cue; second, C. A. Rice, 18½, pool cue; third, A. M. Abbott, 16½, silver cigarette humidor; high average for year, C. A. Rice, 54 15-54, silver loving cup; monthly prize, C. A. Rice, 57 11-15, box of Havana cigars. N. P. H. S. VS. LEAL IN OPENING GAME

Interscholastic Hostilities to Be Resumed Tomorrow at Hyde Oval.

Interscholastic baseball fans will wend their way to Hyde Oval, tomorrow afternoon, to see the first battle of the season for the city school title and the Collier trophy between the North Plainfield High School and Leal School teams, which will undoubtedly give the game in the borough a larger crowd than usual. Much interest is being shown in this first game as in comparing the two teams that will play, Leal seems to stand a better show of breaking through and beating the "Canadians" than in any other year.

However, Captain Smalley's men are the favorites in all respects, being on their home grounds and having had a good rest since last Monday. On the other hand Leal played a hard game yesterday and cannot help but feel the strain of two games in succession.

Ernest "Germany" Stahl and Roy "Stretch" Voorhees will be the opposing pitchers and the borough twirler has had a complete rest for nearly a week while Voorhees has not fared so well. If the Leal players come up to the expectation of their supporters the game should be a regular pitchers' duel. All of the regulars of both teams are ready for the "go," North Plainfield having worked in two good practices yesterday and today. The batting order of the champions has been revised with the hope of getting better results. The game will start at 3:30. The probable lineups of the teams follow:

N. P. H. S.	LEAL

WINS BILLIARD TITLE.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 30—Charles Ellis, of Cleveland, won the championship of the Interstate Three-Cushion Billiard League and a prize of $600 here last night from the former titleholder, August Kieckhefer, of Milwaukee, in the final block of fifty points in a tie play-off. Ellis made a high run of nine to Kieckhefer's seven. The first block, played in Cleveland, was won by Kieckhefer.

P. H. S. VS. PINGRY.

After playing Battin High on Parker Field this week, the Plainfield High School baseball team will take a trip to Elizabeth tomorrow afternoon and meet the Pingry High School warriors. The locals disposed of the Elizabeth school team on Tuesday, 4 to 0, and are going hard after the scalp of another. After tomorrow's game the local players will rest up until next Wednesday afternoon when they play Leal on Crescent Oval. Denny will probably be used in the box tomorrow.

DRAW FOR KILBANE.

Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, holder of the world's featherweight title, did not enhance his reputation, last night at the Federal A. C., on the Bowery, when he stepped out of his class to box Benny Leonard, of the Bronx, ten rounds. It was an unsatisfactory contest, in which the pair wrestled and clinched throughout the greater part of it, and at the end the ambitious young Bronx lightweight had earned a draw.

PARK CLUB COURTS READY.

All four tennis courts of the Park Club, on Washington avenue, are in excellent condition, and are ready for use. Some of the members have already taken advantage of the warm days and played. A large number are expected out tomorrow if the weather is good.

TABS AT BOUND BROOK.

The Plainfield T. A. B. baseball team will meet the Y. M. A. aggregation of Bound Brook, on the South Bound Brook lot tomorrow afternoon.

Arthur Bowlby, the former Somerville High School athlete, is a candidate for assistant manager of the Rutgers College basketball team for next season. The election will take place this afternoon. Bowlby was a member of the Rutgers football squad last fall.

Chicago, April 30.—President Gilmore, of the Federal League, it was learned last night, is considering the advisability of offering a cash prize each month to the members of the team which makes the best record in reducing the time of playing scheduled games.

PICKING MEN FOR WILLARD

Scarcely Any of the Challengers Look Dangerous.

COFFEY IS ABOUT THE BEST

Irish Giant May Come on to a Contest Over Marathon Route—Carl Morris Out of It—Smith May Be Given a Chance.

In view of the fact that the new heavyweight champion, Jess Willard, has drawn the color line, thus barring out Sam Langford and Sam McVey, it becomes of interest to look over the field of white heavyweights and size up their chances against the tall Kansan.

At the outset it may as well be announced that not one of them would have a chance with Willard in a long fight. A man who can take the pummeling that Johnson dealt out to the cowboy for twenty rounds and then muster sufficient strength to put over a sleep wallop on a man as hard to drop as the former title holder would be too much for any of the present day crop of challengers in a long contest.

On the other hand, there are several heavies who would make it interesting for Willard in a twenty round bout. Gunboat Smith, who outpointed the big fellow once, might repeat the dose, and Jim Coffey and Al Reich would make it interesting for the champion in twenty rounds.

Weinert and Levinsky do not carry enough beef to warrant them in mixing it with the big fellow. Carl Morris is out of it. He recently received a fine trouncing from the hands of Jim Coffey.

Of all the contenders, Coffey at present looks best, for his work for the last few months has been remarkably good. A three cornered elimination series between Coffey, Smith and Reich, the winner to meet the champion (when Tom Jones says the word), would be a rather interesting tourney. Coffey may possibly be as good in a Marathon contest as Willard, but the Roscommon Giant has yet to prove it.

It usually follows that a man who has shown enough grit to beat a champion of superior skill will develop enough aggressiveness and confidence thereafter to make him dangerous to all competitors. There is a certain amount of prestige attached to holding the title of a class, and this has its effect on a challenger. The other white heavies will not be able to forget that twenty-sixth round, in which Willard beat the negro to the canvas, after having received a trouncing that would have settled half a dozen other white hopes. Therefore, while Willard may win a long or short bout (and experts will not assert he cannot), yet if he is animated by safety first for his title he will prescribe long bouts for challengers.

Texas Has One Armed Ball Player.

There is a one armed ball player on the University of Texas team who is one of the wonders of the diamond. His name is Dick Hooper. Hooper plays in the outfield, and when occasion requires a throw following a catch he tosses the ball in the air, throws his glove on the ground, catches the ball again and shoots it home.

Last year he batted .310 with his one hand. It is estimated that with two hands he would bat .620.

SOME SPICY SPORT CHAT

Cobb Not Going After Base Running This Season.

WON'T ENDANGER HIS LIMBS

Detroit's Great Outfielder Will Only Steal Sacks When Absolutely Necessary—Stage Affected Joe Jackson. Other Notes.

Ty Cobb has announced that he will not try to steal enough bases this year to attain a record or to compete with Maisel and Milan. Though Cobb was the boss sack snatcher of the American league for several years, he appears to have no ambitions in that direction just now. But Ty does not take this stand because he has slowed up. He contends that he is just as fast as he ever was.

Cobb argues that he can be of more value to his team by not depending too much on stealing bases, which endangers his limbs and might put him on the hospital list. He says that of course any time it is essential to win a game he will steal and take chances in doing daring running and sliding, but that he is not out to make a record.

Charley Herzog of the Cincinnati Reds is really too independent to be a successful major league manager. The wolves would not do any howling around Charley's doors even if Garry Herrmann should chase him. Herzog is very well fixed financially, and it is this which makes him independent.

He has a Maryland farm that is far above the ordinary, and he could retire to it and make a good living.

Eight years ago Herzog is reported to have had the grand sum of $187 in the bank and a minor league baseball job. He took a plunge into the matrimonial sea. Right away, like most bridegrooms, he began to spend the $187. When he returned to the old town he was broke.

But he had learned his lesson and from that time on began to save until he is now one of the wealthiest ball players in the game. But it is not for the best that such is the case, for Herzog, it is charged in Cincinnati, does just as he pleases. He does not fear his dethroning, because he is well fixed.

Billy McCarney, manager of Carl Morris, comes across with the surprising information that Jack Johnson will meet Morris in a twenty round bout before the National Sporting club of London in June or July.

According to McCarney, Johnson has agreed to meet any of the heavyweights the London promoters may select for him.

Morris has dates with Frank Moran and Bombardier Wells in London inside the next two months, and if he wins from both of them Johnson will be his next opponent.

"Shoemaker, stick to your last." If some ball players would live up to this proverb they might be better off and be of more value to their teams.

The stage lured Joe Jackson of Cleveland last winter, and now that the season has opened he is suffering from a nervous breakdown and may not be able to get in the game for some time. Ball players considered it a great hardship when organized baseball talked of passing a rule which would give the club owners absolute control of the players during the off season, and yet such a measure should be enforced in order to protect the clubs.

The value of a player depends entirely on his physical condition during the playing season, and this is often impaired by the player going into something harmful during the off season.

A Regiment of Wrestlers.

Captain Holmes, a famous athlete in the Indian army, raised one of the finest regiments in the British service by the sporting method of challenging all and sundry to wrestle. Those worsted were to enlist, and in a short time the gallant captain was able to show a collection of wrestling prizes that were a credit alike to himself and the army.—London Opinion.

Durability of Radium.

Radium once extracted from the ores becomes available for continued use without appreciable loss and becomes a permanent addition to the needed supply. The same radium that is placed at humanity's service today may be used by our children for many generations.

One.

"There never was a woman who did not gab about her neighbors," growled Mr. Gabb.

"Oh, yes, there was!" replied Mrs. Gabb.

"That's right," commented Mr. Gabb. "I forgot about Eve."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Tangible Asset.

"I believe I'll promote a transportation company."

"Land or water?"

"The latter, I think. For the former I'd need rails and right of way, but in a water proposition I'll have an ocean to start with."—Exchange.

Foresightedness

There would not be a May White Sale at GIMBELS if we had not had exceptional foresight.

But our foresight has brought about a greater White Sale than we have ever had before. Moreover,

A White Sale That Is Phenomenal In a Year When All the World Needs Cotton

Our foresightedness not only made us anticipate the increase in the price of cotton, but it caused us to "corner" Imported Laces and Embroideries. For, as you undoubtedly know, many of the mills that made them have been destroyed.

Our foresightedness made us realize that the scarcity of trimmings would cause Paris to change styles in lingerie. And it did. Our Paris Bureau sent us these new models, which express the greatest simplicity, and we have had them copied for this Sale.

Our foresightedness told us that the prices of French Lingerie would increase, because of the scarcity of materials and the depression among the workers. Prices did increase, but we had placed our orders beforehand. The result is that we are enable to present—

EVANGELIST LAUDS MECHANICS ORDER

Juniors Present a Flag of Paterson Silk to "Billy" Sunday.

Stepping to the rhythm of a fife, drum and bugle corps and every member brandishing a small American flag, four thousand men of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics marched last night into the Paterson Tabernacle to hear Billy" Sunday preach. With a third of the space in the building reserved for them, a thousand or more ordinary residents of Paterson were turned away by closed doors.

Patriotic songs were sund, and then "Rodey," in behalf of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, presented to "Billy" a handsome flag five feet long made from Paterson silk. "Billy" said in acknowledgment:

"I am proud of this gift, and that you think me worthy to receive it. I hope I may live long enough to see that flag waving not only over every American schoolhouse, but over the places which are now saloons, but are destined to become something better. Any crowd that carries the American flag over its head and the cross on its breast is a good enough bunch for me. I understand that every one of your members is a native born American, and that in New Jersey alone you have sixty-five thousand men enrolled. That is a truly splendid organization."

GERMAN SUPPLIES ARE PLENTIFUL

Reginald Rowland Says People Seem to Be Well Provided For.

IN BERLIN THREE WEEKS

Plainfielder Just Returned from German Capital, Says that Poor People Are Better Off Than Before the War Started.

Reginald Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. David N. Rowland, of West Seventh street, has just returned from his second trip to Germany since January, both being taken on account of business. He tells in an interesting way of the experiences which he has had in Berlin and other parts of Germany, removed from the actual scenes of fighting, and is much impressed with the thoroughness with which the Kaiser's people have made plans to withstand a long siege without aid. Mr. Rowland first left this country on January 17, on the Holland-American liner New Amsterdam. He went to Berlin, and after being there a few days returned to this country on the Rotterdam. He was here but a week and then went back aboard on the Rhyndam, again returning to this country last week on the final lap of his trip on the Rotterdam.

So far as Mr. Rowland can see the German people have plenty of food. "Aside from carefully conserving the bread supply, by the use of tickets which are issued to every person daily, there is no evidence of any shortage," said Mr. Rowland to a Press reporter. "In the hotels of Berlin one can get just as good a meal as at any first-class hotel anywhere. The poor people are really better off now than they were before the war broke out, for they are given their allotment of bread in the same way as everyone else, and in addition the families of the soldiers are given their wages, so that they have a fixed income at all times.

"That Germany is preparing to stand a long siege is evident from the fact that every bit of available ground is being cultivated, and has already been sown for this year's crops. Of course the are few men, aside from soldiers, seen working the farms, but the old men and the women seem to have the spring planting well under way, and from what I saw I believe that the land will produce an immense amount of food this year, much greater than is normally the case in Germany.

"In Berlin, where I spent three weeks, there are few Americans. There are a number of newspaper men there and they are a fine lot of fellows.

"Berlin is exactly the same as it was before the war, except that about half of the automobiles have been stopped running, and there is talk of discontinuing the rest, not because of a lack of gasolene, as is generally supposed in this country, but because of the shortage of tires. Street cars are in full swing as usual, and there are comparatively few of them manned by women. The amusements are in full swing, all of the theatres being packed at every performance. It was impossible to get a seat at the opera on the night of the performance. There has been no increase in prices for anything.

"There are many Zeppelins to be seen flying about the city, and a great many soldiers home on furlough, or starting for the front, are on the streets, but aside from this and the conversation on the streets, it is hard to believe that a war is in progress. I was in the city on April 5, the day of the Bismarck celebration, and the people literally buried his statue with flowers and wreaths.

"In our travels from Rotterdam to The Hague and from there to Berlin we found the railroad service normal. We were only called upon to show our passports a few times and were subjected to no inconveniences that one would not encounter in this country while traveling. We saw a few hospital trains, and thousands of men drilling, and I have no doubt that the staement made officially from Berlin that Germany has 1,000,000 men in reserve is true."

While the Plainfielder did not see any submarines on any of his trips, except English ones, he did see a three-masted schooner sinking at a point some distance from the vessel upon which he was returning the last time. There were a number of torpedo boats standing by, so the Rotterdam did not go to her aid. It was afterward learned that the boat had struck a mine.

Mr. Rowland does not expect to return to Germany again, at least until the war is over.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Charlie Chaplin, who has become the by-word of the moving picture world and the "fandom" thereof, is today heading the "screenette" bill at Proctor's Theatre, in one of those side-splitting screams for which the hero is now famed the country over. In "His Pre-historic Past," Charlie Chaplin is to be seen at his best, and those who visit the motion picture house for no other reason than to be relieved of the dull cares of a lifetime should, by all means, drop in and pay Charlie a visit at his old haunts at the Proctor Theatre. Coupled with this picture comedy, is still another episode in "The Exploits of Elaine," a serial film which has won many friends in this city, being shown this afternoon and tonight. The picture program at this theatre tomorrow includes a number of up-to-the-minute pictures, both of the comedy and drama type, with more than sufficient variation to meet the likes of all those who may spend a portion of Saturday afternoon or evening in securing a share of honest and Simon-pure enjoyment from life. Daniels, Stewart and Company, with a cast of five people, in a comedy sketch entitled "Home from the Holidays," heads the change in the bill of vaudeville for the latter half of the present week. Laughs, and laughs, and still more laughs, are presented to those who witness the skit which presents life as it is found in a Scotch home in a very clever manner, the parts being taken in a most excellent way. Martin & Maxmillan, in a burlesque magic act is also well taken, and the audiences of yesterday were carried away by the "clever stunts" as presented by this team. The present vaudeville program is completed by Eugene & Roberts, presenting an instrumental act of unusual merit; the three Conway sisters, in character songs and dances, and Dorothy Menther, in that type of singing which appeals to those of the most critical tastes.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

It was a daring undertaking—this idea of placing a motion picture camera within a few feet of the biggest guns of our super-dreadnaughts as a "salvo" or broadside of ponderous shells were to be hurled for miles and miles. In order to make his camera "rock steady," as he thought against the shock and air suction of this battle practice, the photographer braced his camera very carefully. But he forgot to take the same precaution as to himself until the gun crew told him a thing or two. At the outset he did not fully understand why. He did after the first salvo was fired. Furthermore they tested his courage by telling him that it was in just such a place where a whole gun crew of the "Georgia" and 29 men of the "Missouri" were annihilated in an instant and no one ever knew how or why. No one ever would know. But they were heralded as heroes and their families received pensions. "However," continued the captain of the crew, "why take the chance just to take pictures?" "But 'where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise,'" and so regardless of all such warnings, the camera man stood ready to risk his life in filming the scene just as a surgeon stands ready to risk his life on some experiment. It proved to be a harrowing experience for him as the concussion threw him off his feet with such force as to render him unconscious for a long time. He was confined in the hospital for two weeks—a nervous wreck. He is still hard of hearing and may never recover fully; but the pictures he secured are a triumph. Naturally they are spectacular. The scenes will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon and tonight also tomorrow by Lyman H. Howe, by authority of the Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels.

CLEAN MOTOR FUEL

CLEAN Motor Fuel means more miles per gallon, freedom from frequent carburetor adjustments and greater motoring pleasure. You cannot be too careful about what goes into your tank. Carbon in cylinders is often due to the use of inferior gasoline—"blends" and "mixtures."

Standard Motor Gasoline is a clean, straight-distilled product, not a mixture. It is absolutely homogeneous—every drop like every other drop. You get the same steady power-impulses whether you are running on the top or on the bottom of your tank.

Saying "Standard Motor Gasoline" to the garage man is like asking to see the pure food label on the provisions you buy for yourself. It is an easy way to make sure of getting the best motor fuel, wherever you fill your tank.

To end your friction troubles and all excessive wear, use Polarine Oil and Greases, obtainable wherever you see the "Standard Motor Gasoline Service Station" sign.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! How good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.—Adv.

HOW MOVIES ARE OFTEN DUPLICATED

An Interesting Explanation of the Manner in Which Photoplays Are Rented.

Why is the same motion picture production seen in several theatres in the same town on the same days, is a question not infrequently raised by the movie patron.

The manufacture of motion pictures today has reached a large scale. Big corporations are engaged in the production of large and small pictures. These are sold to renting or distributing corporations, equally as large, with sometimes several branches in the same community. As for example, the General Film Company with two or three branches in New York and Newark, etc. These rental corporations in turn rent their pictures to the theatres. Frequently the same pictures will be rented to theatres in the same city on the same day in different branches of the same rental corporation.

As for example the Vitagraph Company makes a popular picture. It sells it to the General Film Company. The General Film Company through its branches may rent it to a theatre in a city without knowing that another branch has done the same thing to another theatre in the same city on the same day. In other words the same picture may be handled by three or more different rental agencies.

Therefore there is no positive property in any motion picture and the claim frequently set forth that a certain theatre has "exclusive rights" to a picture is a fallacy and not founded on fact. All motion picture theatres stand on the same footing in this respect.

A favorite expression with many managers is that their productions are "first run"—as for example, first run Keystones, first run Paramount, etc. Do you know what first run means? It is an experiment. What is commonly called in reference to the drama, a "try out." The motion picture of real merit is the picture that has been thoroughly tried out and tested, and it is the wise manager who selects the film that has been proven to be popular with the public. For the public is uncertain and difficult to please.

The intense harshness sometimes noticed in the projection of a picture, where the intensely black figures are silhouetted against intensely white backgrounds is the result of the so-called mirror screens. True projection aims to get color, atmosphere and prospective in motion pictures—a clear and proper blending of lights and shadows. In other words, to get "color" even though the picture may be in monotone.

Projection is one of the features that the Proctor Theatre prides itself on. The pictures are always clear and sharp, full of color and prespective without that harshness that so frequently hurts the eye by its glaring contrasts.

HOGS AFFECTED BY RAW SKIMMED MILK

Spread of Foot and Mouth Disease Attributed to This Cause.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—A feature of the present outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease to which the Federal authorities attach much importance is the unprecedentedly large number of hogs which have been affected. Both actually and in proportion to the total number of animals stricken, this has been much larger than in any of the previous outbreaks in this country. The chief reason, the authorities say, is the spread of the infection through uncooked skimmed milk and other creamery by-products returned to the farms to be fed hogs. Infected garbage, it is thought, is also to be held responsible for a portion of the loss.

In the epidemic of 1902, in which 4,461 animals were lost, only 360 of the total were hogs. The loss in cattle amounted to nearly 87 per cent. of the total, that in hogs to only 8 per cent., and in other animals to only 5 per cent. In the present epidemic, however, the loss in hogs has been almost equal to that of cattle, each being within a fraction of 47 per cent. Of 146,138 animals lost since the outbreak of the disease in Michigan last fall, 68,776 were cattle, 68,275 hogs, and the remainder, 9,087, sheep and goats. The epidemic of 1908 stands in this respect, as well as in time, midway between those of 1902 and 1914. In 1908, 56 per cent. of the loss was in cattle, 37 per cent. in hogs, and approximately 7 per cent. in other animals.

In the oipnion of specialists these figures demonstrate the necessity for more rigid regulations in regard to the feeding of skimmed milk, similar dairy products and garbage. Since 1902 creameries have become much more common, and the danger to the country of their returning unpasteurized milk to the farms has become correspondingly greater. In Michigan it has been definitely established that in the early days of the outbreak the infection was spread through skimmed milk fed to hogs, and there is every reason to believe that the same thing occurred in a number of other localities. It is easy to pasteurize the skimmed milk and the extra expense is not sufficient to warrant the neglect of this precaution. Pasteurization has been shown to be complete safeguard against the spread of foot-and-mouth disease milk, either to human beings or to animals.

The question of infected garbage is more difficult to handle, for by no means all of the meat in this country is subject to Federal inspection. In many sections meat animals are slaughterer locally. Cooking will destroy the foot-and-mouth germ so that this meat can be eaten without bad results, but the trimmings—the skin, the fat, and particularly the marrow—which are thrown away or fed to hogs, may be at the same time highly infectious.

In Philadelphia the disease has recently appeared in several herds of garbage-fed hogs, and although it is not absolutely certain that the contagion was conveyed through this means, it seems quite possible that it was. The sterilization of garbage intended for hogs, is, therefore, like the pasteurization of skimmed milk and similar products, a very desirable precaution. In fact, the Federal authorities do not hesitate to say that experience in this outbreak demonstrates the need of State legislation on this subject. In the absence of legislation the farmer who wishes to be sure of his skimmed milk should boil it after its return from the creamery.

Wanamaker Summer Sale of White

(Original)

Opens Tomorrow, May First

Radical changes in the 1915 silhouette make doubly important the economies in this Sale of underclothes, blouses, house dresses, aprons, negligees, petticoats, corsets, handkerchiefs and babies' clothes.

Underclothes Must Follow the Fashions of the New Gowns

The picture indicates the difference between last year's timid, transparent, clinging dessous, and the frilly, fussy, flaring yards-and-yards wide-at-the-foot, fitted-at-the-waist underclothes required by the silhouette of 1915. As usual, all fashion changes are shown in the Summer Sale of White.

New petticoats, circular, flaring, short; two, three and four times as wide as last year's styles.

Drawers, wide, circular, twice as full as last year's styles.

Chemises and combinations with plain or square cut bodices and skirts that flare instead of hanging in straight lines.

"All-in-one" combinations with flaring skirts, square shoulder-strapped underbodices.

Nightgowns "sans garniture" or lacy, with large armholes or no sleeves. Skirts full and flaring, some cut shorter to imitate the dresses.

Blouses, originally plain, smart to a degree.

The Wanamaker Representative was in Paris When Callot Decided for the 12-yard Dress Skirt

Immediately the model makers of lingerie and blouses were commissioned to duplicate for us the styles prepared by command of the French dressmakers. With trunks full of new ideas, the White Sale chief arrived in New York on March 27th. Since then this entire White Sale of nearly a hundred thousand pieces had been ordered and made. Every garment is cut on the new lines. Numbers of careful reproductions of the Paris models have been made and prices for them start at $1.

Underclothes Originalities

Petticoats, swirling, circular folds of lace edge tulle, $5.75.

Nightgowns with Van Dyke jackets at $2.

Nightgowns, babyish with their plain tops, sans garniture, at $1 to $3.

"Rosalind" nightgowns in rose colored batiste with shirrings and ribbon, at $1.

"Frou-Frou" petticoats of tulle, foamy masses of many rippling ruffles each edged with pink or blue satin ribbon, $5. Underbodices to match, $3.

Corset covers combining a brassiere, $1.

Twin shadowless petticoats—the original design created for Wanamaker's and now shown in the newer styles, $1.50 to $3.75.

Suspender nightgowns with bib at $4.50.

"Robespierre," the new ruffled collared nightgowns, $5.

Top petticoats of organdie lawn, lace-trimmed, $2.75; "top" petticoats because several may be necessary to extend properly the full skirt of thin summer dresses.

Library Notes.

Furnished by the Directors of Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room.

Published Every Friday.

During the month of February the five books most called for at booksellers throughout the country were the following in the order named:

1. "The Turmoil."
2. "The Lone Star Ranger."
3. "Eyes of the World."
4. "Mr. Grex of Monte Carlo."
5. "Patrol of the Sun Dance Trail."

As usual, downtown New York had its own ideas about reading, and booksellers in that location reported that the greatest demand was for "The Ragged Messenger."

Of non-action books, the following were those most in demand:

"What Men Live By," Cabet.
"With the Allies," Davis.
"Abroad at Home," Street.

At the New York Public Library in February, of the books most called for week by week, only two retained their places for more than a week a a time. These were "Abroad at Home," Street, and "The Promised Land," Antin.

It may not be recalled by many that the first public library in America was established by Benjamin Franklin. His own account of how he came to found it is so interesting that we have ventured to give it in his own words, even though it is somewhat lengthy:

"About this time, our club meeting, not at a tavern, but in a little room of Mr. Grace's set apart for that purpose, a proposition was made by me, that, since our books were often referred to in our disquisitions upon the queries, it might be convenient to us to have them altogether where we met, that upon occasion they might be consulted; and by thus clubbing our books to a common library, we should, while we lik'd to keep them together, have each of us the advantage of using the books of all the other members, which would be nearly as beneficial as if each owned the whole. It was lik'd and agreed to, and we filled one end of the room with such books as we could best spare. The number was not so great as we expected, and though they had been of great use, yet some inconveniences occurring for want of due care of them, the collection, after about a year, was separated, and each took his books home again.

"And now (A. D. 1731) I set on foot my first project of a public nature, that for a subscription library. * * * * I drew a sketch of the plan and rules that would be necessary, and got a skillful conveyancer, Mr. Charles Brockden, to put the whole in form of articles of agreement to be subscribed, by which each subscriber, engaged to pay a certain sum down for the first purchase of books and an annual contribution for increasing them. So few were the readers at that time in Philadelphia, and the majority of us so poor, that I was not able, with great industry, to find more than fifty persons, mostly young tradesmen, willing to pay down for this purpose forty shillings each and ten shillings per annum. On this little fund we began. The books were imported; the library was opened one day in the week for lending to the subscribers, on their promissory notes to pay double the value if not duly returned. The institution soon manifested its utility, was imitated by other towns and in other provinces.

"The libraries were augmented by donations; reading became fashionable; and our people, having no publick amusements to divert their attention from study, became better acquainted with books, and in a few years were observed by strangers to be better instructed and more intelligent than people of the same rank generally are in other countries.

* * * * We afterwards obtain'd a charter, the company being increased to one hundred; this was the mother of all the North American subscription libraries, now so numerous. It is become a great thing in itself, and continually increasing.

"These libraries have improved the general conversation of the Americans, made the common tradesmen and farmers as intelligent as most gentlemen from other countries, and perhaps have contributed in some degree to the stand so generally made throughout the colonies in defense of their privileges."

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

The 125th performance of "Sinners" has been passed, and the play proceeds upon its way into the summer season, which it promises to survive. The advance reservations are very materially in excess of the playhouse record.

De Wolf Hopper and the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company will continue for a second week in "The Yeomen of the Guard," at William A. Brady's Forty-eighth Street Theatre. The production has been received with manifest approval on the part of large audiences. Following this piece there will be a double bill consisting of "Trial by Jury" and "The Sorrerer," for which Digby Bell has been engaged as Mr. Hopper's comic male assistant, playing the role he originated in this country. These two operettas will be continued for a week, and at the end of that time "The Mikado" will be presented for a similar period.

"The White Feather" maintains general popularity at the Comedy Theatre, where the audiences are large and obviously well pleased.

Clifton Crawford, who is playing with Emma Trentini in "The Peasant Girl" at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, has accepted an offer from one of the leading monthly magazines to write a series of articles relating his experiences in touring the Orient, a trip which he and his wife accomplished two years ago, making money enough to pay their expenses by conducting an entertainment in the leading cities of Japan and China. They met with many unique experiences which Mr. Crawford describes with inimitable droll humor.

One of the most ingenious novelties in stage mechanics introduced this season is to be seen in "Taking Chances," in which Lou Tellegen is at present appearing at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre. It is the reflection of the moon shining through a window on the rear wall of Madame Blondeau's bedroom in the second act. The reflection is so arranged that the light apparently comes through a window, which in reality would be on the side of the room where the footlights are. Benrimo, who staged the play, is the inventor of the effect. Even the performers and stage hands are in ignorance of how it is produced.

Bound Brook.

The Y. M. A. will open the ball season on Saturday, when they will meet the St. Mary's team, of Plainfield, on Y. M. A. Oval, South Bound Brook; game called at 3:15 o'clock.

William Hamilton has purchased the new house on Hamilton street recently built by Runyon Field.

—It pays to use the advertising columns of The Press.

Westfield.

Westfield will probably have a ball team this year. A stock company is being formed to finance the proposition. A meeting will be held May 15 to complete the organization and to select grounds.

The Towin Plan and Art Commission will hold an adjourned meeting at the Town Hall this evening.

The Board of Health decided last evening to have a clean-up day. The date was not set.

THE MASTER MIND

Novelized by Marvin Dana, author of "Within the Law," from the successful play by Daniel D. Carter

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fly company.

CHAPTER II.

By Devious Ways.

IN the weeks immediately following the conviction of Henry Allen the brother of the condemned set himself with fanatic zeal to preparations that should lead to the consummation of the vengeance on Cortland Wainwright. To the achievement of this purpose the Master Mind put in operation the myriad methods of the underworld with which he was familiar for the gathering of information in detailed completeness concerning the private life of the man whom he regarded as his enemy. Through various subterranean channels at his command, knowledge flowed in. He learned essentially all there was to know of Wainwright's family, of his boyhood, of his life in school, in college, and afterward in the world of affairs, where, though still a young man, he had won distinction from the respectful liking of his fellows.

But the Master Mind found no solace in sifting the mass of material thus placed at his command concerning the foe. From all the evidence the truth appeared incontestable that Cortland Wainwright had lived a clean life; that there was no stigma of scandal hidden within his experience to be fearfully guarded from the public eye. Finally, when all other methods of search had availed naught, the departure of his intended victim for a vacation trip to Europe inspired him with a plan of action characteristically audacious.

His resolution once taken, Andrew Allen lost no time in the accomplishment of his scheme. He was possessed of money a-plenty, and bribery will accomplish modern miracles, especially when accompanied by a guaranty of immunity from any ill consequences of discovery. As a messenger for himself he held an interview with the janitor of the building in which was Wainwright's apartment. The result was that within a week of the district attorney's sailing the Master Mind was snugly at home in his enemy's house, there to live and there to study at his leisure the owner of the place, there to learn the vulnerable point toward which to drive attack, for, now, the plotter had come to believe that he must seek to trap his quarry by some device against the strength of the man's nature, since he could discover no vital weakness anywhere; against the good qualities, since the evil were of a kind too trifling to serve.

Other dwellers in the building never guessed that a stealthy guest lurked in the apartment which the district attorney had left untenanted for the period of his trip abroad. By day as well as by night the shades remained drawn. Over the whole inner surface of the windows, Andrew had arranged light proof coverings, through which no least ray from the electric lamps could penetrate to give a hint of his occupancy. A very slight opening of the windows gave him sufficient fresh air, and throughout the hours of day as of darkness the artificial illumination sufficed him.

Indeed, the Master Mind found himself strangely content in this curious sort of intimate association with the man against whom he maneuvered so craftily. He experienced a subtle, sinister joy in feeling this nearness to his prey which was the product of the surroundings. Here were the books Wainwright read, the letters he received, the pictures he esteemed, the various souvenirs he most cherished. In the assembling of the varied articles within this home, there must be a massing of testimony from which to judge the inner, vital nature of the owner. It might easily be that some record would suggest the precise course to bring down on him shame and despair.

Having thus molded circumstances to his will, the Master Mind spent two weeks in exhaustive research into the mind and heart of Wainwright as they were respectively indicated by his personal accumulations. His painstaking investigations convinced Andrew of two facts that were beyond question—the first, that the young lawyer had a heart capable of tenderest affections, as was witnessed by the letters from mother and sister, which were to one manifestly fond; the second, that he ruled his life according to the dictates of a lofty ambition.

Convinced of the twain truths, the Master Mind determined broadly the manner of his attack. It must be the contriving of some situation that would strike its agony into the deeps of the man's being, something to wound beyond remedy both brain and heart. The exact plan could be left for future arrangement, depending on facts yet to be marshaled. And then, within twenty-four hours, the Master Mind came on the thing he sought.

This was a journal, with entries covering a number of years, in which Wainwright had jotted down rough notes of many things. Andrew had early found it in one of the locked drawers of the desk in the district attorney's study. The searcher had glanced through the volume hastily. He had given it no more than a cursory attention after the outset of his reading. The items were uniformly of a barren kind—notes concerning cases, financial statements and estimates, brief itineraries of trips, some mention of a few trifling illnesses, reference to particular events of purely personal interest. There was, for example, a rather lengthy account of an automobile accident in which Wainwright had been injured nearly a year ago in Chicago. Already Andrew had received a circumstantial history of this happening from one of his agents. So, on his first scanning of the diary, he had merely read enough of the entry to learn the nature of the event described therein and had omitted the remainder of the narrative.

Now, at last, he returned to the journal and read it slowly and attentively without missing a word. When finally he was come to a full scrutiny of the Chicago episode in the life of Wainwright he was suddenly filled with joy, unholy in its exultation. Wainwright himself had put the weapon in his hand!

The text of the entry as well as the date showed that the account had been written after the district attorney's return to New York. The narrative ran in this form:

New York, April 20, 1907.

I ran into a heap of trouble on my Chicago trip. Rather, Billy Clarke's chauffeur did the running into something. Steering gear went wrong, car skidded into curb and over we went. The chauffeur got a broken leg, and my ribs were mussed up a lot. But the serious part was a cut in my wrist where the broken wind shield sliced open the artery. The chauffeur was pinned under the machine, and there was nobody else to do anything. As the doctor told me in the hospital, a severed artery can get in its work mighty quick. It was just a fluke that saved me. No, I don't mean that. I suppose it was Providence. The fact is, it was just a girl—and such a girl! The other women on the scene gabbled and had hysterics and were worse than good for nothing. And the men ably seconded them. But there was one girl. I'll underline that, I guess. I'll write it: The One Girl. Well, when she saw the blood spurting out in jets that were sending me to kingdom come in a hurry, she didn't scream or faint or even run. Anyhow, she didn't run away, for I have a memory of seeing her darting toward me. I heard a little cry from her, a pitiful kind of cry. I wondered why she cried out like that. For my part I didn't seem to care much about what might happen to me. But she did. She moved like lightning, with not a wasted movement. In a second she had ready a long strip of white cloth torn from her petticoat, which she bound around my arm above the wound. The half of my walking stick, which was lying broken beside me, was seized by her and thrust through the bandage to serve as lever in the tourniquet. It seemed to me two seconds from the time I first saw her until the jumping blood flow ceased. It may possibly have been as much as six seconds, I suppose. Not one more, I swear! And she stayed by me till I was safe in the ambulance. She saved my life.

"The One Girl."

But there's more than that to it. Oh, infinitely more! Nobody will ever see this book, so I may as well get what relief I can by putting my confession in writing. For the matter of that I've made the confession already—when I wrote it in capitals and underlined: The One Girl. That's the truth of the matter. Seems funny—that little girl I never said a word to in my life and only saw for a few seconds. Just the same, she plumped right into my heart as no woman ever did before or will again. She stays by me in memory. When I shut my eyes I see her, every line of her face, the light in her eyes. Yes, she's the one woman for me, that girl. Anybody might think it foolish of me to love a girl of whom I know nothing. But the fact is I know all about her. Her face has taught me all I need to know—her eyes tell me things, wonderful things, beautiful things, things I had never dreamed.

Just the beauty of her would be enough to excuse any man for adoring her. Why, her face was like a flower, only a thousand times lovelier, so dainty in its lines, so delicate in its coloring, so pure in its expression. And those glorious eyes, deep blue, like the sky when it's bluest! But, after all, beautiful as her face was, it was a deeper beauty that went to my heart in the first glance at her, that has burned in my heart ever since, will burn there while my heart beats, I know. It was the soul of her that called to my soul. Did she know that her soul called to mine there in those few moments of our meeting? Did she know? Oh, she must have known.

There, I've rhapsodized enough on paper, though I'll keep it up in my thoughts whenever I think of her, which is pretty close to all the time. And to think that I don't even know her name. All my own seeking and that of the sleuths I employed, fruitless. But somewhere, somehow, I'll find her. I must. That's destiny.

That was the end of the passage. The Master Mind sat erect and cast the book from him with a hoarse cry of triumph. His eyes glittered in savage delight; his lips bent to a mocking smile in which was remorseless cruelty. After a moment he lifted his gaze to the pencil sketch of a girl, which set within an oval frame of gold, hung on the wall above the desk. The picture was in truth rather crudely done. Nevertheless there showed in it, despite the clumsiness of the craftsmanship, a definite suggestion of feminine loveliness which was inexpressibly alluring. Even Andrew recognized the tender potence of the spell exercised by this unknown girl, but he resisted its softening sway; flouted it with his hate for the man that loved her. He nodded toward the picture with a malevolent grin.

(To be continued.)

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Do come down this path and see the sunset, Mrs. Scott. I just came from a seat behind these pines, and I was charmed with the view," said Mrs. Ellson as she met Mrs. Scott with her baby daughter on the afternoon of the lawn party.

"I was taking Dorothy to Mrs. Morton; she wanted so much to see her," answered Mrs. Scott, hesitating.

"The sunset won't wait, you know," urged the doctor's wife.

"What a bright little creature Mrs. Morton is; such an addition to your society." Mrs. Scott had turned and was walking by Mrs. Ellson's side.

"So your husband seems to think; he was showering her with flowers as I passed just now."

Mrs. Scott looked up. Mrs. Ellson's tone was mocking, an angry red burned in the dark cheeks, and a baleful fire was in her eyes.

"I do not understand your allusion," Mrs. Scott answered coldly, and turned toward the house.

"Pardon my intruding my personal feelings," continued Mrs. Ellson, "but really, the woman wears out my patience. She is never happy unless some man is doing the 'devoted' at her feet. Actually, the doctor cannot pass that house but she will call to him from the door. If that baby puckers his face she must tell the doctor about it. It's childish, but it is very annoying."

"I suppose it is not in nature to object when one is paid for calling," said Mrs. Scott quietly.

"I told the doctor that I wished he would tell her that his time is too valuable to spend so much of it with one baby, but he says that would never do. A physician could not take such a stand.

"I can see no reason why he should." Mrs. Scott had turned and was slowly walking away from the promised view, Mrs. Ellson following her.

"If your husband were a physician perhaps you would." Mrs. Ellson was fast losing control of herself. "I pitied the woman when the whole town was abuzz because her husband was philandering after his stenographer. Why, they actually reported that he had eloped with her."

"Poor little thing," breathed the hostess, stopping in the path.

"But I have ceased to pity her; she is of the same sort. She must have the attention of all the men she knows. What a pity the men can't see through her."

"This woman must have some real grievance or she could not be so vindictive," thought the hostess.

"I must go, Mrs. Ellson; Dorothy is getting uneasy. Won't you join us on the porch?"

"No, thank you; I will watch the tennis game, I think."

Mrs. Scott crossed the lawn to the porch. Nell's delight in the pretty child prevented any noticeable pause in the conversation, but that Mrs. Scott was greatly disturbed her husband soon realized.

Mrs. Parsons and the elder Mrs. Scott soon joined the group and the young mother excused herself to take the baby to its nurse. She telegraphed with her eyes to her husband to follow her.

"Jack, what kind of a woman is that Mrs. Ellson?" she asked.

"She doesn't impress me as being very amiable, to say the least. Why?"

"She asked me to go with her to see a sunset and I couldn't decently refuse; she deluged me with a vulgar story about Mr. Morton and his stenographer. Do you think there can be any truth in it?"

"Laura, men don't go around with a tar brush blackening one another's good names. I wish women didn't. Mrs. Morton seems a lady and I like what I have seen of him. They will help make our stay here pleasant. Let's not mix in their neighborhood affairs; we are far enough from town to shake the dust of its scandal off our feet."

THE SUMMER EVENING DRESS OF SILK OR COTTON.

The many flounced dress is one of the popular summer novelties. Cut either straight or circular, these youthful frocks appeal to many feminine hearts, though it must be confessed the crisp circular flounces are the smartest in appearance. The dress illustrated on this page, Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 8831, has a skirt in three gores, with three three-piece circular flounce sections in round or pointed outline. The waist is in surplice style. The pattern cuts in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure, requiring in sizes 36, 6⅝ yards 36-inch material with 1⅝ yards 36-inch net and 1⅞ yards 36-inch lining for foundation skirt. The surplice and flounces are very daintily and charmingly bordered by Ladies' Home Journal Transfer Pattern No. 14465, containing 6 yards and 4 corners of 1 inch border.

Patterns can be secured at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

"RAISIN DAY" ON THE LEHIGH VALLEY TODAY

Today will be California "Raisin Day" on Lehigh Valley dining cars. Raisins in every style will be featured in a special menu which has been prepared for the occasion. Steamed rice and raisins with cream, raisin and walnut salad, raisin buns, raisin pancakes, raisin pie, raisin brown bread, raisin griddle cakes, raisin cake and raisin rice pudding are some of the features on the card.

California raisin men are responsible for the day, and a number of railroads over the country, are cooperating in showing the advantages of the raisin as an article of food on this day.

They Set the Mill to Grind Salt.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Why the Sea Is So Salt.

"KIDDIES, have you never wondered why the sea is salt?" asked daddy, his eyes all twinkly.

"Yes, daddy; we have!" cried the two kiddies. "Tell us about it."

"Very well," said daddy, still with his eyes all twinkly. "The Danish King Frodi while on a visit to the king of Sweden bought two very large and strong women slaves named Fenia and Menia.

"He took them back to Denmark with him, and because they were so large and strong he set them at work grinding upon a magic millstone which was so large that none of King Frodi's men slaves could move it.

"He ordered them to grind out much gold and peace and prosperity to him. At first Fenia and Menia obeyed him and ground out gold and then more gold, and peace and plenty reigned in the land of King Frodi.

"But you see, kiddies, the old king was so grasping that he worked these two maids too hard. He wouldn't give them any holiday or pretty clothes or nice things to eat at all. But day after day, dressed in coarse, heavy sack cloth smocks, these poor slaves ground and ground at their task.

"One day two courtiers were standing near the mill talking. One of them said very low so he thought the maids wouldn't hear:

"'If those slaves were smart they would know that this is a magic mill and will grind out anything they wish it too. Poor things; they have no minds, only muscles!'

"But the slaves heard and were not so dull as they might have been, because they set right to work and ground out a great army to help them fight King Frodi.

"A sea king came and took command of the army. There was a great fight, and Frodi was killed. Then the sea king took all the golden treasure of King Frodi, the magic mill and the slaves.

"While they were on board ship the sea king wanted salt, so Fenia and Menia ground him some out of the magic mill. Then he set them to work to grind salt all day long, and they became so angry at him for trying to enslave them again that they set the mill to grinding salt, and the ship sank, and they all went to the bottom of the sea. And the mill is still grinding salt."

"Did Menia and Fenia get drowned, daddy?"

"I think they must have," said daddy.

"Those slaves had a pretty hard time of it in those old days, didn't they, daddy?"

Household Hints

CHEESE RECIPES

Cottage cheese salad makes a wholesome and seasonable dish.

Take one pound of cottage cheese, mix with cream, salt and pepper, arrange on lettuce leaves.

Cut up small about six stalks of green onions and one small stalk of celery if you have any, scatter over the top of the cheese, dash with paprika.

Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Here is a recipe for mixed cheese, which is very tasty, keeps well in a cool place and is splendid for sandwiches:

One-quarter pound grated cheese, yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, creamed with one dessertspoon butter, one-half teaspoon each of salt, mustard and pepper; then add sufficient vinegar to make a creamy mixture. Mix well.

WORTH KNOWING

Self-Adjusting Drawers—Cut back 1¼ inches longer than pattern, to allow for a hem. Take three-fourths yard elastic ribbon, fasten safety pin in one end and draw through hem; fasten in front to desired belt size. Does not need to be unfastened until garment is laundered. Advantages: Easy to make, easy to iron, no buttons or buttonholes, easy for young child to manage, and always enclosed. This method will commend itself to many of maturer years if once tried. The elastic may be run into buttonholes or bands of drawers already made.

Easy Way to Clean Hair, rid it of housecleaning dust and make it soft and fluffy—Take white of an egg, beat it very stiff, rub well into scalp and let remain there while you go about your work. In a short time it will dry. Take a good brush and give your hair a thorough brushing. The white dust will fly and your brush will need cleaning often. You will be surprised how fresh, fluffy and clean your hair will appear, and how easily and nicely you can arrange it.

TO MAKE A SMALL GIRL HAPPY

This never fails in making a small girl happy:

First collect old fashion books and hats (which you can get from any dressmaker or store), then ask the little one which girl or lady she likes best—one that is in pretty colors is best. Then with this as the doll, cut out dresses from magazine that will suit it, leaving laps on each side for fastening. In this way the doll can havt many dresses put on her. Hats can also be cut so as to slip on head.

UP-TO-DATE RECIPES

Deviled Fish—Two pounds haddock, one cup cream sauce, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoons grated onion, two tablespoons chopped parsley, teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon bacon drippings, one-half cup bread crumbs. Scale fish, boil twenty minutes, drain; when cold, remove all skin and bone. Put fish in bowl, add cream sauce, onion, parsley, salt, paprika and Worcestershire sauce. Mix very lightly so as not to break fish. Brush small bowl with drippings, fill with fish and cover with bread crumbs. Bake in moderate oven thirty minutes. Remove to center of platter or chop plate; put savory rice around and garnish with sprigs of parsley. Savory rice: One cup rice, two cups tomatoes, one-half cup finely cut onions, two tablespoons chopped parsley, one teaspoon drippings, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Put onion and drippings into pan, fry until onion is tender; add strained tomatoes, salt, paprika, Worcestershire sauce and rice, which has been washed, boiled and drained. Stir until rice is hot. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. This savory sauce must be served with the deviled fish.

Mock Chicken Pie—Brown piece of butter size of egg in kettle. Pour in three quarts boiling water, then add about six cups diced potatoes and a large onion thinly sliced; also a handful of rice washed clean. Season with salt and pepper. After it has cooked fifteen minutes, put mixture into pan for chicken pie and on top of the whole put biscuits made of one heaping tablespoon shortening, one quart flour, one pint sweet milk, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, salt to taste. Bake in hot oven forty-five minutes. Delicious substitute for real chicken pie.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — BOOK DOPE HAS ITS LIMITATIONS — BY "HOP"

THE COIFFURE HELPS GIVE THE HAT ITS STYLE.

New millinery for evening wear with theatre and restaurant gowns makes no pretense of hiding the hair. These hats usually depend on an elaborately waved coiffure for part of their charm. The black and gold hat pictured shows almost half of the coiffure and the well placed cluster of feathers gives the much-tilted hat balance.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The members of the dressmaking class enjoyed a delightful piazza supper at the association last night. An informal social time followed, during which plans for next year's work were discussed.

The educational exhibit will be held at the association all day tomorrow, and any one interested in the dressmaking, millinery or basketry departments is invited to view the work of the various classes.

A gymnasium vesper service will be held in the gymnasium Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Charlotte Verschuur will render selections on the violin and will be accompanied by her sister, Miss Emma Verschuur, on the piano. Miss Harriet Smith, of the National Training School of the Y. W. C. A., in New York, will address the meeting. Miss Smith is a speaker of unusual ability, and members of the association and their friends should not miss this opportunity to hear her.
